Melinda Marx Makes Mark Without Help of Father

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—To the burgeoning list of second-generation performers add the name of Melinda Marx, 18, lovely daughter of Groucho.

Like Peter Ford, son of Glenn Ford and Eleanor Powell, and Gary Lewis, Jerry's offspring, Melinda is making her own bid to mark in the pop music field. Dloc jockeys are lending a helping hand by playing her record, The East Side of Town.

Melinda is a brunette with the Italian beauty of a petite Sophia Loren. She also can sing, a fact that might prove a liability in today's world of non-music.

She says she won her record contract without the use of her father's famous name.

"I was dating a man who was under contract to Penthouse Records, and of which Pat Boone is president," she said. "My friend suggested I try out for a contract, too. Norman Ratner, who auditioned me and later produced my records, never even know who my father was until after he offered to sign me."

WILL GO ON TV

Melinda conferred with her father before accepting Ratner's for signing, and he will be making an appearance with her on television April 17. Otherwise, Groucho has maintained a hands-off policy concerning her career.

"He's pretty sneaky about it," said Melinda. "He has always said he doesn't like to lend it and it would be a waste if I didn't do something with it. But he has never wanted to put himself in the position of pushing me into show business. He has no bigger fan than father."

Like the first generation of performing Marxes, Melinda was committed to performing at an early age. She made her first appearance at five on her father's television show.

Half Canadian Adult Group Free of Smoking

OTTAWA (CP)—More than half the Canadian adult population is free of any regular cigarette smoking.

A health department report released Monday said this was the most significant finding in a national survey into Canadians' smoking habits conducted for the department by the bureau of statistics.

Regular cigarette smoking is defined as "one or more smoking cigarettes every day."

The survey was suggested by a research committee of experts following the November, 1963, conference on smoking called by Health Minister Judy LaMarsh.

It was based on a sampling of almost 75,000 persons in about 30,000 households and found that 44 per cent of persons 20 years of age and over smoke cigarettes every day. About three to four per cent of all persons who use cigarettes once in a while.

More than half—56 per cent—of the adult males in the country use cigarettes daily while only 32 per cent of adult females have acquired the habit.

About half the population in the 20-44 age bracket are regular cigarette smokers—60 per cent of the males and 40 per cent of females.

Among regular users, one-quarter smoke between one and 10 cigarettes each day, about two-thirds smoke between 11 and a pack and 10 per cent smoke more than 25 a day.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For February 24

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Tendency is to be expansive — and extravagant. Try, instead, to combine imagination with practical approach. Be careful where written word is concerned. Stress accuracy.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Appeals, gifts collect, pay debts. Also good for special attention to hobbies. Fine for being creative — for leading rather than following. Key is confidence.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): Communicate thoughts, ideas, plans. One on "opposite side of fence" could become ally. Opportunities due to widen horizons. Keep mind open. Key is co-operation.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22): You will gain through calm approach. Attend to basic tasks. Be aware of relations with fellow workers. Don't say or do anything which creates envy. Be very diplomatic!

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22): Avoid carelessness. Day when you could "lose" things. Stress creativity. Make changes. Fine to have frank talk with younger individual. Highlight sincerity. Set wonderful example.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Concentrate on security. Don't be deceived by one who advocates careless manner. There could be "trap" involved. Be serious, sincere and dedicated. Thou you gain true objective.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Finish one task at a time. Don't scatter forces. Be versatile. But don't spread yourself too thin. Not particularly good for journeys. Best to get files in order.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Original methods result in profit. If you are reluctant, you could lose. Highlight quiet confidence. Do what must be done . . . then you experience feeling of inner satisfaction.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Obtain valid hint from today's Cancer message. Cycle remains high. But this is no time to try anyone's patience. Instead, consult with higher-ups.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 19): Be considerate of individua l temporarily handicapped. Slow your pace. Allow one close to you to bask in spotlight. Most can be gained by observing, analyzing, planning ahead.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Highlight friends, hopes — ways of turning dreams to realities. This is time to make valuable contacts. Find out reasons why. Then apply knowledge.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): If you stick to principles you succeed. Higher-ups observe, may be providing test. Know this — act accordingly. Evening favors dining out with one you respect.

If today is your birthday . . . you appreciate the arts, would make fine instructor or critic.

THE MOON IS AN OLD SMOOTHIE — Pictures sent from the space craft Ranger 8 to the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at Pasadena, Calif., Saturday indicate that the surface of the moon on the Sea of Tranquility is relatively smooth. However, they are still not sure the surface is solid enough to support the landing of an astronauts' landing craft. Smallest crater in lower right photo is 5 feet across. Top of the pictures look to the lunar north. (AP Wirephoto)

Aussie-born Red Reporter Tells How War in Viet Nam Looks on Viet Cong Side

How does the war in Viet Nam look from the Communist side? Wilfred B. Burchett is an Australian-born reporter based in Moscow who has gone behind the Communist lines in Korea and elsewhere, and has been visiting the Viet Cong this winter. The following story gives some indication of how the Viet Cong say they operate. The story was excerpted by The Associated Press from Burchett's articles in The National Guardian, a U.S. weekly, and the Mainichi Daily News of Tokyo.

By WILFRED G. BURCHETT

WITH THE VIET CONG — A tough, slightly - built peasant who calls himself Huynh Minh says he led the surprise mortar attack on Bien Hoa airfield 18 miles northeast of Saigon last Oct. 31.

The Viet Cong call it the greatest victory over U.S. airpower of the war with $25,000,000 worth of planes destroyed on the ground.

(U.S. officials reported 26 aircraft including 20 B-57 light jet bombers, were destroyed or damaged. Four U.S. Army men were killed and 31 other Americans wounded.)

How did the Viet Cong manage to penetrate the base's outer defences with what must have been a sizable unit carrying heavy weapons?

"I can't go into details," said Huynh Minh—obviously not his real name. "But he had great help from the local people—without that the whole thing would have been impossible." He says there were difficult obstacles to overcome to get close to the planes.

They included three outer defence lines, with the first formed by 100 "strategic hamlets" that surround the base and the 70 military posts that control them.

The second line comprised 16 blockhouses and 18 fortified observation towers and the third an inner line made up of five rows of barbed wire entanglements covering 20 yards in depth with minefields in between the rows and triggering devices on the wire to set off flares it touched.

HAD PLANES COUNTED

He says all of the men in his unit were from the area of the base, and that the Viet Cong knew precisely how many planes were there.

To get into position to ensure accurate mortar fire "we had to carry out very complicated infiltration movements with the greatest care in order not to alert the enemy. But we did this and at 11:26 p.m. as we had planned all our teams were in position and opened fire simultaneously."

"Within split seconds there were thunderous explosions and flames shot high into the air. Our first priority was for the B-57s."

He added that within minutes part of the mortar fire was switched to the "U.S. only" barracks and the main observation post was knocked out with the first salvo.

He said that the action at Bien Hoa was over in 15 minutes "and we started the complicated task of withdrawal—the whole area was lit up then by flares. There was no resistance to our attack at all and we managed to get away."

A diversionary attack on a South Viet Nam artillery battery at Tan Uyen, about eight miles to the north, aided in the successful withdrawal, he said.

This correspondent was briefed also by a Viet Cong officer on the fighting in December around Binh Gia, 40 miles east-of Saigon, in which the South Vietnamese took heavy losses. (U.S. estimates were 200 South Vietnamese killed. Four Americans were killed, eight Americans wounded and two reported taken prisoner).

He credited Viet Cong successes to the poor morale among the South Vietnamese troops and the flexibility of Viet Cong tactics.

I asked a regimental chief of staff how it was possible for his forces, recruited from village youths, to learn to use such weapons as mortars, heavy machine-guns and bazookas.

He said the Americans rely entirely on local troops which means they must train local military technicians in the use of modern arms — "something the French were far too shrewd to do. They rightly feared the arms would be used against them some day."

"A proportion of these highly trained military technicians deserted to our side all the time. But in addition the Americans were forced to produce training manuals in Vietnamese and these also started falling in our hands. They have become our standard manuals in handling (captured) U.S. weapons."

SLOW PASSAGE — Ice surrounding the 553-ton British freighter Nelson B illustrates how thoroughly sudden shifts in wind and ice can confound shipping on the east coast during winter. It is the job of the Department of Transport's ice forecasting service to spot ice packs and forecast their future position and extent. HELP SHIPPING — Icebreakers of the Canadian Coast Guard play an important role in combatting the menace of ice to shipping in Canada's coastal waters during winter. Ice Warnings a Life-death Matter

By ERROL WEAVER

HALIFAX (CP)— . . . Open pack new ice becoming close pack further west, some medium winter ice. . . ."

Ice forecasts such as these are meaningless to the average landlubber but to mariners navigating Canada's coastal waters in winter, they can be a matter of life or death.

Ice has been a major hazard to ships in northern latitudes since the first Norsemen sailed these waters before 1000 AD.

The job of spotting this menace and forecasting its future position and extent has become a science at the transport department's Sea Ice Forecast Central in Halifax.

This bureau, headed by William E. Markham, 43-year-old veteran of 23 years in meteorology, is responsible for forecasting ice conditions in all navigable waters around Canada's vast coastline and in the Great Lakes.

"Sea ice forecasting is a relatively new field in Canada," says Mr. Markham. "The first official work in this field was done by the navy starting in 1957."

AMONG FIRST IN FIELD

Mr. Markham is one of a handful of weather experts and scientists who pioneered in the field in Canada. He joined the navy after being based at Edmonton as a specialist in forecasting arctic weather, starting with the establishment of an arctic weather centre in 1951.

Ice forecasting was taken over by the transport department in December, 1959, and he was chosen as officer-in-charge.

"The winter's work usually starts about mid - December when the first ice begins to form along the south shore of the St. Lawrence River. This begins to affect commercial shipping in and out of ports like Rimouski, and our services are called upon," says Mr. Markham.

"The tools of the trade are aerial observations from specially equipped aircraft with trained ice observers aboard and reports from our icebreakers. We also need to know the direction of the water currents and the latest reports and winds and temperature in the forecast area.

"Ice forecasting is sort of a cross between meteorology and oceanography, and an ice forecaster has to have more than a working knowledge of both."

REPORT TO HALIFAX

Aircraft, the eyes of the forecasters, fly out of bases at Moncton, Quebec, Greenwood and Gander, Nfld., during the December-to-April ice season in the St. Lawrence River and Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Reports from observers aboard the aircraft and in helicopters flying off the five icebreakers that normally work in the river and gulf, along with observations from commercial vessels, are radioed to the Halifax bureau.

These, combined with the latest weather reports, a bit of mathematics and a lot of experience, are used to make up the complicated charts showing the location and extent of the ice.

Ice forecasts issued by the bureau are broadcast by marine radio stations along the coast of the Atlantic provinces.

The navy aids by transmitting charts showing ice conditions to icebreakers and other vessels equipped with special receivers for copying radio facsimile signals.

"We issue one forecast a day for each of the areas affected," says Mr. Markham. "During the height of the season in early March these would include forecasts of conditions in the gulf, the Strait of Belle Isle, Cabot Strait and the coastal areas of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland."

Planes used by transport department observers are twin-engine chartered aircraft equipped with advanced navigation equipment, capable of fixing the planes' exact positions.

USE SATELLITES NEXT

However, Mr. Markham predicts that aircraft may soon play a secondary role. He says new satellites to be put into operation on polar orbits by the United States later this year are expected to be "more than useful to us in 1966."

"They will be equipped with sophisticated gear capable of taking pictures of the icefields and immediately transmitting them. We have great expectations as to the usefulness of these pictures."

Another major step forward which Mr. Markham and his colleagues are watching is developing of infra-red photography from high-flying aircraft. The infra-red equipment is capable of seeing through clouds and fog which can wash out pictures from satellites.

Gazing from his office window on the seventh floor of the Federal building overlooking Halifax harbor, Mr. Markham said: "Although we have not been involved in sea ice forecasting for too many years, I think we are probably second only to the Russians in this field."

Mr. Markham, one of 10 members of an international commission on marine meteorology, says the science has a great future and is constantly advancing.

The Halifax ice forecasting bureau works closely with the International Ice Patrol, an internationally supported organization run by the U.S. Coast Guard. The patrol was set up in 1913 after the liner Titanic struck an iceberg and sank. It is concerned strictly with spotting and forecasting the movements of icebergs in the main transatlantic ship lanes.

The bureau also works with the Bedford Institute of Oceanography at Dartmouth, N.S., which carries out extensive research of help to ice forecasters.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Dainard, Mr. Bruce Dainard and other relatives in the sudden passing of daughter and son-in-law and brother and brother-in-law in a car accident at Rivers, Manitoba. Four young children are bereft of their parents. Mrs. Bruce Dainard, his sister, Mrs. Harry Algar and brother-in-law, Mr. Bernard Algar left at once for Manitoba to attend the funeral services and hope to bring the children back with them.

Mrs. Harry Foster spent a few days this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huff while they were in Toronto.

Lawyer Will Try to Free Rudolf Hess

MUNICH (Reuters) — Rudolf Hess' lawyer says he will attempt to obtain the release of Hitler's former deputy from Spandau prison, West Berlin.

Hess, 70, is serving the 19th year of his life sentence for war crimes.

Lawyer Alfred Seidl said he will base his application on a report published last October by American psychiatrist Professor Maurice Walsh that in an examination in Spandau in 1946 he found Hess to be suffering from hidden schizophrenia.

Seidl said he will take up the matter with the four powers responsible for Spandau — the U.S., Russia, Britain and France.

Seidl defended Hess at the Nuernberg war crimes trial.

Hess piloted a bomber to Scotland during the war to try to negotiate a peace settlement with the British.

ROYAL BANK

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO BORROWERS & SAVERS

The Royal Commission on Banking and Finance recommended the removal of the 6% ceiling on the rate of interest a chartered bank may charge for loans. We hope that the Bank Act, due for revision by Parliament soon, will in fact remove this ceiling and also enable the chartered banks to take mortgage security—now prohibited by law but recommended in the Royal Commission report.

To Our Borrowing Customers

To remove any uncertainty in the minds of our borrowing customers, the Royal Bank wishes to assure them that removal of the ceiling will not of itself affect our prevailing loan rates. The general level of these rates is determined by monetary policy as formulated by the Government and implemented through the Bank of Canada. However, the changes proposed by the Royal Commission will, if enacted in law, enable the chartered banks to enter lending fields hitherto closed to them. Thus the banks will be in a position to make, at reasonable rates, loans of a term and risk which, under present regulations are available only at higher rates outside the banking system.

We look forward to the removal of the ceiling as a means by which we can serve a wider public, not as a means by which we can charge higher interest rates on our present types of loans.

To Our Savings Customers

Removal of the ceiling, by permitting us to make new types of loans, will enable us to introduce a new type of savings account on which a higher rate of interest will be paid.

Thus, removal of the 6% ceiling—

1. Will benefit the owners of 12,000,000 savings accounts with the chartered banks.
2. Will not hurt existing borrowers.
3. Will help those now forced to borrow outside the chartered banking system, by providing them with loans at more reasonable rates.

Black Muslim Leader's Life Is Threatened

Sect Convention Will Be Closely Guarded

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH

CHICAGO (AP) — Police alarmed by two telephoned threats on the life of Black Muslim leader Elijah Muhammad, stepped up security plans today for the sect's convention this weekend in Chicago.

The first threat Tuesday warned: "We have arrived. Muhammad will have a lively convention."

The second caller, who identified himself as John Henderson, said 100 men were coming to Chicago from New York to kill Muhammad. The caller also told police a bomb had been planted in the Coliseum, site of the convention which is expected to attract 6,000 Black Muslims.

Police said the caller contacted the bomb was timed to explode Friday or Saturday when Muhammad is scheduled to address the convention.

Telephoned bomb threats also harassed New York police and reinforcements were ordered into Harlem in an attempt to prevent further violence. Early Tuesday, an explosion and fire, believed to have been set by "avengers of Malcolm X," wrecked a four-storey Muslim mosque. A fireman was critically hurt.

TENSION MOUNTS

Tension mounted later when the funeral parlor housing the body of Malcolm X, the former Black Muslim leader assassinated Sunday in New York, received a false bomb threat. The body went on display a few hours later.

Police reported little progress in their investigation of Malcolm's murder. Officials complained there was a barrier of silence among Malcolm's followers, members of the Afro-American Union. Malcolm was suspended from the Black Muslims by Elijah Muhammad shortly afterward began his movement.

Meanwhile in Detroit, Talmadge Hayer, 22, has been arrested so far in connection with the slaying.

Hayer refused to say whether he has any affiliation with the Black Muslims.

3 Counts Against Dupuis

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—Yvon Dupuis, 38, former federal minister without portfolio, remained in seclusion today with a summons calling on him to appear in court on three charges in connection with a racetrack project and the sum of $10,000.

Mr. Dupuis, who resigned from the federal cabinet Jan. 30, is charged on three counts: That between Jan. 1 and June 30, 1961, he allegedly conspired with Roch Deslauriers and others to "commit a criminal act;" that he allegedly conspired with Mr. Deslauriers to offer, agree to offer or give to a minister or civil servant of the Quebec government the sum of $10,000; and that, between May 1 and June 30, 1961, he allegedly solicited, or accepted for himself or another, the sum of $10,000.

Mr. Dupuis was not in magistrate's court Tuesday when the charges were read out before Judge Andre Ferland. Judge Regnier issued a summons ordering him to appear March 4 on the charges, mentioned in the charges, was head of a group that tried in 1961 to get the Quebec government of Mr. Jean Iberville-Duplessis, which Mr. Dupuis represented in the House of Commons.

The provincial government never granted the charter.

Prime Minister Pearson recently told the Commons he had asked for Mr. Dupuis' resignation after seeing a preliminary report from the RCMP on allegations in connection with the racetrack affair.

Mr. Dupuis rose on a question of privileges and denied that he had ever received $10,000 to help in getting the racetrack charter.

In Quebec City Tuesday, Premier Lesage tabled letters in the Legislative Assembly from himself and Mr. Dupuis, as well as from the men in the matter.

Mr. Lesage wrote that experience has shown that the well-being of the people is greatly affected and the advancement of the sport of racing is best served when racetrack parimutuels are too wide-spread.

Mr. Dupuis replied that the chambers of commerce, the municipal councils, the country councils and hundreds of provincial legislators and even the parish priest in St. Luc were in favor of the project.

Robarts Names Committee On Relations With Ottawa

TORONTO (CP)—An 18-man advisory committee was named in Ontario Tuesday to examine the relationships between Ontario and other provinces with the federal government.

Premier Robarts appointed Ontario's chief economist, Ian Macdonald, to head the advisory committee on Confederation. Mr. Macdonald will call constitutional law experts as members.

The committee will try to improve consultation between the provinces and Ottawa, advise the provincial government on Ontario's constitutional requirements and give opinions on specific subjects referred to it, the premier announced in the legislature.

Committee members represent the fields of education, law, economics and political science.

The legislature's private bills committee approved a Hamilton plan to compensate persons injured while aiding policemen.

Under the city's private bill expected to be passed by the legislature, the local police commission could recommend compensation for those who suffered personal injury, death or property damage while voluntarily assisting police.

Several committee members proposed that such legislation be province-wide. Donald MacDonald, leader of the New Democratic Party, said the city of Hamilton should be permitted to try the experiment.

Plan In For Hard Debate

By RONALD LEREL

OTTAWA (CP)—A long, hard debate over the Canada Pension Plan is shaping up in the Commons even though the bill received approval in principle three months ago by a vote of 134 to 6.

Today the House enters its third day of debate on the measure's second clause, which merely defines terms.

Still to come are 123 clauses of limitation administrative and legal jargon.

Opposition MPs have prepared a long series of amendments and it may be weeks before the pension plan reaches the final stage of third reading.

The first opposition amendment aimed at reducing the contributions of commercial fishermen—was knocked down Tuesday in the House.

ASKED CLASSIFICATION

The NDP amendment sought to classify fishermen as employees, by analogy with fish-processing and marketing industries to pay half the fishermen's contributions.

Revenue Minister Benson argued that such a provision would be too difficult to administer. Extensive records would be required of the earnings, savings and expenses of every fisherman.

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said indications are the plan will cover a high percentage of the labor force when it goes into operation next Jan. 1.

She said employees and self-employed persons obtained 6,930,000 last year and her department estimated that 6,972,000 of them—more than 95 per cent — would have been covered.

Not covered under the bill are employees earning less than $800 a year and the self - employed making less than $800. They receive the $75 flat - rate monthly pension at 65 but they will not get contributory pension benefits.

NOT UNIVERSAL

Conservative MPs stressed the theme that the contributory plan is not universal. Low - income people who needed pensions the most would not get any while those in middle-income brackets would be paid to wealthy persons.

The Conservatives and New Democrats repeated their demand for a $25 monthly boost in the flat pension, payable to all those aged 65 and over.

Miss LaMarsh said this is a matter of government investment policy. She noted the government plans to raise the $75 flat pension at age 65 by 1970.

SAIGON (CP) — American jets went into action today against Communist guerrillas in the Viet Cong's "thin red line" dividing South Viet Nam.

The jets struck at Viet Cong targets in a guerrilla - infested Binh Dinh province, where the battle of Highway 19 was in its fourth day.

A U.S. mission statement issued said F-100 and B-57 jets as well as Vietnamese Air Force propeller - driven Skyraiders have been used "on a number of missions during the last week."

It was the first time that the United States has admitted using American jets in action against the Communists inside South Viet Nam.

The U.S. military spokesman said the Viet Cong are massing heavily in the central lowlands and try to cut South Viet Nam in two.

The "thin red line" dividing the country already exists—a line running from Bong Son on the sea to the Laotian border, in which no Communist control exists.

U.S. and South Vietnamese spokesmen had refused to say just how thin the "thin red line" is. The military authorities said today that it can be crossed "at any time of our choosing, with sufficient force." They refused to say how many men "sufficient forces" meant.

The 24 fighter-bombers joined with Vietnamese Skyraiders near an Khe, about 360 miles north of Saigon at noon.

They attacked "large Viet Cong forces" in the mountain pass between An Khe and Pleiku, 45 miles away, the statement said.

On the political front, Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, South Viet Nam's ousted strongman, returned to Saigon today for the first time since a series of coups against him began Jan. 30. He had been staying in Dalat, a mountain resort 140 miles northeast of Saigon.

The ousted armed forces commander-in-chief and Vietnamese observer at the United Nations and is expected to present his country's case to the UN General Assembly.

Reliable sources said Khanh would formally hand over his command to the new armed forces chief, Maj.-Gen. Tran Van Minh, Tuesday morning.

The sources added that Khanh was expected to leave Saigon by plane late Thursday for the United States.

The Viet Cong struck early today only five miles from Saigon. Two companies of guerrillas overran the hamlet of Phoc Hiep in the swamps west of Saigon, then withdrew 10 hours later.

A call for unity and peace was issued Tuesday night at a meeting of about 10,000 Buddhists in Saigon.

Thich Tam Chau, chairman of the Buddhist Institute, said anyone who likes Communism should go to North Viet Nam and those who are anti-Communist stay in South Viet Nam and help build the country.

Reception Good At Embassies

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP) — Voice of Women delegates who visited six embassies have Tuesday asking diplomats to have their countries negotiate an immediate cease - fire in Viet Nam say they got their most cordial reception at the Polish and Russian embassies.

Soviet Ambassador Ivan F. Shpedko met the 25 women, mostly from the Montreal branch of the women's organization, and heard their statement asking him to use the strength of his government to obtain a cease - fire immediately as a preliminary step to peace negotiations.

He told them he was completely in favor of what they were asking, and that he knew many Americans felt the same way.

Then he sat down to an afternoon lunch of tea and biscuits with the women.

At the Polish embassy, Ambassador Zygfryd L. Wolniak promised to send the VoW request to his government immediately, and told them private negotiations now were in progress in many countries in an effort to solve the situation.

Then he insisted that the women have honey wine and chocolate cakes with him.

"Our reception at the British high commission was certainly much cooler," said Mrs. Marjorie Reid of Montreal.

There, the women were met by the deputy high commissioner, A. J. Wakely.

Mr. Wakely said Britain was in sympathy with their stand, but he felt the "diversity of our negotiations" now going on were the best answer at this stage.

At the American embassy, U.S. minister Joseph W. Scott repeated the statements made by the other diplomats and added that no more bombing raids in Viet Nam more than the Americans.

The VoW delegation, led by Quebec president Therese Casgrain, also called at the French embassy where they talked in charge d'affaire Charles de Pampelonne, and at the Indian embassy where they were met by High Commissioner Bejoy Krishna Chakrya.

"We got the impression from all the diplomats we talked to that everybody wants peace in Viet Nam but they all want to achieve it in their own way," Mrs. Casgrain later told a press conference.

Film Comic Stan Laurel Dies At 74

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) Stan Laurel, the little, rubber-faced partner of the late, 300-pound Oliver Hardy in the movies' most successful comedy team, is dead of a heart attack at 74.

Victim of a stroke in 1955, and of diabetes in later years, he suffered the fatal seizure Tuesday. His fourth wife, Ida, was at his side.

Laurel and Hardy starred in 300 films, mostly two- and three-reelers, and their films still are shown regularly on television and in theatres around the world.

Fans remember Laurel as the crop-haired, bungling yes-yes-a-scamp, who, wearing a blank, stupid expression, inevitably brought disaster to his fat, exasperated partner.

U.S. Negro Extremists Split Into Dozen Small Groups

NEW YORK (AP)—The violence that flared in rival Negro Muslim groups during the last three days involved just two of more than a dozen organizations active in the secretive world of Negro extremism.

With the exception of Elijah Muhammad's Chicago - based Black Muslims, whose New York quarters was destroyed by an explosion and fire Tuesday, most groups of any strength have headquarters in New York.

Police in New York and major U.S. cities indicate that extremist groups command allegiance from only a comparative handful of Negroes.

Because the groups often refuse to say much about themselves, it is almost impossible to get accurate membership figures. Four years ago the New York Times estimated that perhaps only 2,000 of New York City's 1,400,000 Negroes were members of extremist groups. The proportion is believed to be considerably less in all other cities.

Yet officials agree that the influence of extremists can, in times of crisis like last summer's riots, be out of proportion to the number of persons involved.

At a press conference Tuesday, James Farmer, National Director of the Congress of Racial Equality, urged President Johnson to order a federal investigation of the slaying of nationalist Negro leader Malcolm X. He also asserted that the Black Muslims were 'not involved.'

He added:

"It is graver. It has international implications. I believe his killing was a political killing with international implications. I am calling for a federal inquiry."

Farmer did not elaborate.

In New York City last summer, at least 17 black nationalist groups were members of a co-ordinating body called the African Nationalist Federated Council.

Most of these organizations were anti-white, and believed the American Negro could gain freedom only by linking his fate with that of rising African and Asian nations.

"The white man has never given us anything without outside pressure," said a Nationalist speaker at a summer rally. "We can never get anywhere in this country by ourselves, because we are a minority. But what the white man doesn't understand is that black people are a majority in the world. We must look to people who are our color."

The groups are organized along varying lines. Some, like the various Muslim groups, are oriented toward religion. Others are primarily political. An example is Harlem's Progressive Labor Movement, headed by self-proclaimed Communist William Epton.

A few tiny groups appear to be little more than individual attempts to gain personal power. Some, like the Cultural Association for Women of African Heritage, are primarily social.

He was convicted of mail fraud in 1923, deported, and died in 1940. Today he is annually celebrates Marcus Garvey Day.

About half of the Negro extremists are believed to belong to the Black Muslims, properly known as the Lost-Found Nation of Islam. Formed in 1930, it preaches complete separation of blacks and whites.

Wiry, 67-year-old Elijah Muhammad, who has been leader since 1933, says the United States should turn over "several states" for an all-black nation.

The Muslims have claimed as many as 250,000 members. Other estimates put active membership as low as 5,000. Rallies open to the non-Muslim public have drawn 3,000 in Detroit, 2,500 in St. Louis, 7,000 in Chicago and 9,000 in Philadelphia.

Although they claim to oppose violence, members occasionally have been involved in serious clashes with police. And, a number of former members have charged that a strong internal police force—the Fruit of Islam—is used to keep wayward members in line.

Chicago's police, however, say they have "no problem with them whatsoever," adding, "as a matter of fact . . . they seem to go out of their way to avoid trouble."

The Black Muslim doctrine teaches that whites are "devils" created 6,000 years ago by genetic manipulation to sow discord in an all-black world.

Muslim members profess an ascetic life. Smoking, drinking, gambling, violence except in self-defence, and all forms of vice are forbidden.

Their most famous defector was Malcolm X, an urbane light-skinned Negro who was shot to death as he stood on the stage of the Audubon Ballroom in Manhattan Sunday.

Malcolm, who formed the rival Muslim Mosque Incorporated, said he was expelled from Muhammad's group a year ago because some of its leaders felt he was getting too powerful.

The "thin red line" dividing the country already exists—a line running from Bong Son on the sea to the Laotian border, in which no government control exists.

U.S. and South Vietnamese spokesmen had refused to say just how thin the "thin red line" is. The military spokesman said today that it can be crossed "at any time of our choosing, with sufficient forces." He refused to say how many men "sufficient forces" meant.

The fighter-bombers joined with Vietnamese Skyraiders near Bong Son, 260 miles northeast of Saigon today.

They attacked "large Viet Cong forces" in the mountain pass between an Khe and Pleiky, 40 miles away, the spokesman said.

On the political front, Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, South Viet Nam's ousted strongman, returned to Saigon today for the first time since a series of coups against him began Friday. He had been staying in Dalat, a mountain resort 140 miles northeast of Saigon.

The ousted armed forces commander-in-chief met Stephen Mesmer observer at the United Nations and is expected to present his country's case to the UN General Assembly.

Reliable sources said Khanh would travel to Saigon after his command to the new armed forces chief, Maj.-Gen. Tran Van Minh, Wednesday morning.

The sources added that Khanh was expected to leave Saigon by plane late Thursday for the United States.

Khanh Tuesday was appointed a roving ambassador, a position formerly held by chief of state Phan Khac Suu.

The Viet Cong struck early today only five miles from Saigon. Two companies of guerrillas overran the hamlet of Phuoc Hiep in the swamps west of Saigon, then withdrew 10 hours later.

A call for unity and peace was issued Tuesday night at a meeting of about 10,000 Buddhists in Saigon.

Thich Tam Chau, chairman of the Buddhist Institute, said anyone who likes Communism should go to North Viet Nam and those who are anti-Communist stay in South Viet Nam and help build the country.

The North Vietnese said today that Khanh's appointment as roving ambassador was a trick by U.S. ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor to remove Khanh from South Viet Nam.

Film Comic Stan Laurel Dies At 74

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) Stan Laurel, the little, rubber-faced partner of the late, 300-pound Oliver Hardy in the movies' most successful comedy team, is dead of a heart attack at 74.

Victim of a stroke in 1955 and of diabetes in later years, he suffered the fatal seizure Tuesday. His fourth wife, Ida, was at his side.

Laurel and Hardy starred in 300 films, mostly two- and three-reelers, and made audiences of three generations laugh.

They were the slapstick kings of the talkies. Their films still are shown regularly on television and in theatres around the world.

Fans remember Laurel as the soup-thinned, bungling yet lovable scamp, who, wearing a blank, stupid expression, inevitably brought disaster to his fat, exasperated partner.

U.S. Negro Extremists Split Into Dozen Small Groups

NEW YORK (AP)—The violence that flared in rival Negro Muslim groups during the last three days involved just two of more than a dozen organizations active in the secretive world of Negro extremism.

With the exception of Elijah Muhammad's Chicago - based Black Muslims, whose New York mosque was destroyed by an explosion and fire Tuesday, most groups of any strength have headquarters in New York.

Police in a number of other U.S. cities indicate that extremist groups command allegiance from only a comparative handful of Negroes.

Because the groups often refuse to say much about themselves, it is almost impossible to get accurate membership figures. Four years ago the New York Times estimated that perhaps only 2,000 of New York City's 1,000,000 Negroes were members of extremist groups. The proportion is believed to be considerably less in all other cities.

Yet officials agree that the influence of extremists can, in times of crisis like last summer's riots, be out of proportion to the number of persons involved.

At a press conference Tuesday, James Farmer, National Director of the Congress of Racial Equality, urged President Johnson to order a federal investigation of the slaying of nationalist Negro leader Malcolm X. He also asserted that the Black Muslims were not involved.

He added:

"It is graver. It has international implications. I believe his killing was a political killing with international implications. I am calling for a federal inquiry."

Farmer did not elaborate.

In New York City last summer, at least 17 black nationalist groups were members of a co-ordinating body called the African Nationalist Federated Council.

Most of these organizations were anti-white, and believed the American Negro could gain freedom only by linking his fate with that of rising African and Asian nations.

"The white man has never given us anything without outside pressure," said a Nationalist speaker at a summer rally. "We can never get anywhere in this country by ourselves, because we are a minority. But what the white man doesn't understand is that black people are a majority in the world. We must look to people who are our color."

The groups are organized along varying lines. Some, like the various Muslim groups, are oriented toward religion. Others are primarily political. An example is Harlem's Progressive Labor Movement, headed by self-proclaimed Communist William Epton.

A few tiny groups appear to be little more than individual attempts to gain personal power. Some, like the Cultural Association for Women of African Heritage, are primarily social.

He was convicted of mail fraud in 1923, deported, and died in 1940. Harlem still annually celebrates Marcus Garvey Day.

About half of the Negro extremists are believed to belong to the Black Muslims, properly known as the Temple of Islam. Formed in 1930, it preaches complete separation of blacks and whites.

Wiry, 67-year-old Elijah Muhammad, who has led the group since 1933, says the United States should turn over "several states" for an all-black nation.

The Muslims have claimed as many as 200,000 members. Other estimates put active membership as low as 5,500. Rallies open to the non-Muslim public have drawn 3,000 in Detroit, 2,500 in St. Louis, 7,000 in Chicago and 9,000 in Philadelphia.

Although they claim to oppose violence, members occasionally have been involved in serious clashes with police. And, a number of former members have charged that a strong internal police force—the Fruit of Islam—is used to keep wayward members in line.

Chicago's police, however, say they have "no problem with them whatsoever," adding, "as a matter of fact, they seem to go out of their way to avoid trouble."

The Black Muslim doctrine teaches that whites are "devils" created 6,000 years ago by genetic manipulation to sow discord in an all-black world.

Muslim members produce an ascetic life. Smoking, drinking, gambling, violence except in self-defence, and all forms of vice are forbidden.

Their most famous defector was Malcolm X, an urbane light-skinned Negro who was shot to death as he stood on the stage of the Audubon Ballroom in Manhattan Sunday.

Malcolm, who formed the rival Muslim Mosque Incorporated, said he was expelled from Muhammad's group a year ago because some of its leaders felt he was getting too powerful.

Funeral of Sir Winston Is Graphically Described

A graphic description of the Lying-in-State and funeral processions for Sir Winston Churchill struck a sombre note at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville.

Frank Murray, alderman of the city of Belleville, and president of the Kiwanis Clubs Masters' Association, who is the general manager of Radio Station CJBQ, addressed the local service club yesterday. He termed his experience "tremendous and amazing".

Mr. Murray was on the scene in London, England, after a trans-Atlantic flight following arrangements to cover this important story. He first sensed the atmosphere of the historic event standing in the shadow of Big Ben with Westminster Hall where the catafalque was to be viewed by more than 300,000 people, looming up behind him. It was a cold, damp, thoroughly miserable day, he recalled and he wished to add to the gloom of the occasion, he explained.

Mr. Murray was in London on hand, when the final movement for the coffin carrying the great man to be moved from the hall to St. Paul's Cathedral and then to Waterloo Station, and finally to the little cemetery near Churchill's house at Bladon where he is buried. From a vantage point he observed Lady Churchill walking along on the arm of her son, Randolph. "I could only feel sorry for her knowing she faced many more hours of ordeal," he said.

AWED BY SCENE

Mr. Murray said he was awed by the scene inside Westminster Hall. Continuing he added: "People from Great Britain, the Commonwealth and many parts of the world gathered to pay their respects. People in long lines waited for hours and passed on both sides of the catafalque in what seemed an endless procession. There was no sound, not even a whisper. Only the sound of shuffling feet could be heard. As stolid British fishers appeared to be particularly moved. Young people had a look of reverence on their faces, older people stopped and looked back as if they dreaded leaving their wartime leader behind. "It is an experience I personally will never forget," Mr. Murray asserted.

One morning Mr. Murray went to St. Paul's cathedral where the great cathedral choir rehearsed hymns Sir Winston had chosen to be sung at his funeral 10 years earlier. While on viewed proceedings at Waterloo station he felt this part of the ceremony would be better remembered by reminding silent since it was supposed to be kept private for the Churchill family.

Club member John Deaton moved a vote of thanks. The guest speaker was introduced by club member Dr. Bob Brain.

TV Installer Injured in 18-Foot Fall

William Bowler, R. R. 2, Belleville, 23-year-old TV antenna installer and father of two children, is in Belleville General Hospital with an injured back and bruised heels, suffered yesterday in a fall.

Mr. Bowler was installing a TV tower at the home of John Hagerman, Dundas street, when his foot slipped from the tower and he fell 18 feet to the ground. He was erecting the antenna head in his hand when the mishap occurred.

Bowler says in a local downtown promotion, Mr. Bowler was flagpole sitter atop an 80-foot tower over Rohl's store.

Aim Campaign At Reducing "Lost Time"

In a campaign aimed at reducing "lost time" injuries at least 10 per cent the Construction Safety Association hopes to make a saving of $1,500,000 in compensation payments this year, an association spokesman said today.

A team comprising 10 members of the management committee selling staff of the Associa tion arrived in Belleville yesterday. All cities concerned in Hastings County will be covered during the drive.

The drive here is among the first in the campaign. Counselling staff members will cover 4,000 construction jobs in the next few weeks. Authorities became aware after contractors reported a higher than average "lost time" accident rate during recent years.

A recent amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Act provides that contractors would be liable for higher assessments to the board each year if safe working conditions are not up to standard.

The Association's management counselling staff in the city are headed by Jim McQueen with headquarters at the Top's Motel.

Y' Activities

PRINCE CHARLES EXTENDED PROGRAM

The west hill extension program at Prince Charles School continues this year to be effective in keeping some of the boys and girls in the area. A program of minor games and games of low organization as well as soccer, volleyball, floor hockey and basketball has kept the children busy since the second week of October.

The program this year should have more effect since the "Y" moved to the new building on the east hill. Many more boys and girls could be served than those who are at present attending the classes. Here is an opportunity for the west hill residents to have some of the same privileges as those on the east hill for a much lower fee.

CLASS SCHEDULE

The boys' classes are held on Tuesdays at 4.15 and 5.00 p.m. and the girls meet on Thursdays at the same times. The age range for the first class is from 7 to 10 and from 11 to 16 for the second class. Both classes of boys and girls from 7 to 14 years meet at the new Y building on Saturday at 1.15 p.m. for one hour of instructional and recreational swimming. Many boys and girls have passed tests to qualify them for swimming certificates and cards.

The program for the next few months of activity will include basketball, the annual Hi-Lo contest, gymnastics, softball, track and field events and a continuation of the swimming program.

Anyone who is interested in joining need only come to the Prince Charles playroom on the appropriate day and time to sign up. Registrations will be accepted at any time during the year.

Police Dept. Ends Year With Surplus of $5,900

TRENTON — The Trenton Police Department ended 1964 with a $5,900 surplus on operations, according to a report released yesterday by Acting Police Chief A. W. Rutherford.

Budget appropriation for 1964 was $140,099. When the master budget figure of $5,900 is subtracted from this, the budgeted figure for the expenditures is $134,719. Actual expenditures was $130,763, leaving a credit balance of $5,900.

During the year, 36 break-ins or attempts were reported, (36 in 1963). These included 10 sheds, boathouses and schools. Some were of a minor nature and no merchandise or money stolen.

Major cases handled by the department included the investigation of an assault upon an elderly man in which a small amount of money was stolen. Four local youths were apprehended by the OPP at Port Hope and they were charged with robbery with violence by the Trenton police force and sentenced to penitentiary.

A major theft of silver paste and silver solution from the Eric Technological Products of Canada, amounting to $6,000 was investigated. Two local youth charged with theft and subsequently placed on probation. Another theft with one sentenced to two months in the county jail for the theft of a large amount of silver from the Morton Parker Company.

The department is still investigating the theft of $6,000 worth of cigarettes from Thompson Wholesale but two youths were apprehended and charged with theft from a Toronto court for the theft of $600 from McClung Hardware.

ACCIDENTS SHOW INCREASE

The accident rate for the year showed an increase over that for 1963. The acting chief attributes part of the increase as due to the annexation of the east and west of Trenton last year. In 1964, there were 470 motor vehicle accidents reported, (in 1963, 413).

There was one fatality (Martin James Cottasanto) resulting from a collision with a parked and one school child was injured when he ran into the path of a motor vehicle.

One fatality, not connected with a motor vehicle occurred when William Villier drowned at the government dock.

Probation Officer Dennis Attkins dealt with 18 cases involving juveniles; 12 males and four females.

One youth was charged with discharging a firearm inside the borders of the corporation and two girls were fount after having left home.

In 1964, 1903 cases were presented in magistrate's court. In 1963, there were 2,146 cases. One case of arson was tried in the court; 11 cases of assault (two, indecent assault on a female, one, assault against a police officer); two persons were before the court in the 1964 session of burglar's tools; two were charged with carrying a weapon dangerous; two were charged with attempting suicide. No one was charged with bigamy (as in 1962 and 1963), and no one tried to escape police custody. In all, 242 criminal cases were tried in court last year, 163 in 1963.

691 PERSONS CHARGED

Under the highways traffic act, 691 persons were charged with speeding, (934 in 1963); three were charged with driving and failing to dim lights when approaching another vehicle, one with failing to dim lights when following another vehicle; 18 persons were charged with having improper lights, 14 with having defective mufflers; nine were charged with driving an auto while their driving licence was under suspension.

In all, the department handled 994 offence cases under the highways traffic act. In 1963, 1,356 cases were handled.

Liquor offences have gone down to 236 from 272 in 1963; breaches of such acts as the game and fishery act, public health act, public health act, income tax, masters and servants act, sales tax and others, numbered 60 last year as compared to 24 in 1963.

Last year, 241 persons were charged with breaking the terms of various town by-laws; in 1963, 311.

During the year, 87 persons were committed to the county gaol; six to the Ontario Reformatory; three to the Ontario Hospital and none to penitentiary.

Fewer truancients took advantage of the accommodation offered by the cells at the police station in 1964, 254 being kept overnight as compared with 300 in 1963. Regular truancients have been discouraged since the cell accommodation is often crowded. In 1964, 320 persons were arrested and detained overnight; 60 detained overnight for other police departments.

MANY DUTIES

The acting chief and the 18 men under his command are kept busy during the year handling such things as missing persons' reports, arranging for escorts for large payrolls, funerals, parades and wide loads; attempting to recover stolen property; impounding vehicles; attempting to locate stolen automobiles; investigating accidents other than motor vehicle accidents; investigating fires; finding cause of fires where necessary; checking doors, windows, etc. of business places; taking fingerprints for police use or passports; registering firearms; checking taxi drivers during holiday season at the request of the owners; finding parents for lost children; returning lost property; and returning them to their parents and patrolling the streets with cruisers in all weather. Police officers also assist in the enforcement of the meter-by-law. Members of the force are Staff Sgt. Walter Youmans, Patrol Sgt. Stanley Craig, Sgt. Gordon Steenburg and Bruce Westfall, Constables D. C. Bradshaw, R. J. Bradshaw, Gordon D. Camp, G. J. French, H. Chatson, S. Vickers, F. Nokes, G. Smith, R. Schwegar, M. Hoddinott, H. Kastner, R. Camp and N. Malbray.

Mrs. Rosamund Smith acts as clerk-stenographer; Mrs. Nellis Bain is Justice of the Peace; Mrs. Margaret E. Kenny, court reporter.

Sgt. Steenburg, safety officer, conducts the traffic safety school, which 191 persons attended last year. He also is at the helm of the Police and Safety Elephant program in the public schools and assists in conducting junior safety councils.

Another police duty, not highly publicized, is the supervision of school guards and the replacement of the guard, if he is ill, by a police officer.

FINE CO-OPERATION

In his report, Acting Chief Rutherford commended favourably on the co-operation shown the department by the mayor and the members of his council, the civic officials, police officers from out-of-town departments, the press and radio, Crown Attorney John A. Price, town solicitor Roderick Campbell, the RCAF and others in the town who from time to time do business with the department.

"I would also like to express the sincere thanks of the department to the citizens of Trenton for their interest and support," the acting chief ends his report.

Remains of Irish Patriot Returned to Native Soil

DUBLIN (Reuters)—The remains of Sir Roger Casement, Irish patriot executed by the British during the First World War, arrived in Ireland Tuesday night for re-burial.

British Prime Minister Wilson disclosed in the House of Commons in London earlier the arrangements with the Irish government for transfer of the remains.

They were exhumed Monday night by prison authorities at Pentonville prison near London where Casement was buried after being hanged in 1916 for trying to free Ireland from 800 years of British domination.

The British decision brought to end nearly 50 years of Irish agitation, legal action and appeals for the return of the patriot's remains.

Casement was executed after being captured near here where he landed from a German submarine during the war on a secret mission to bring German military aid to push Britain out of Ireland.

Just before his execution, Casement said:

"When they have done with me, don't let my bones lie in this dreadful place — take me back to Ireland and let me lie there."

FLOWN TO DUBLIN

The coffin was flown to Dublin by a special Irish Airlines plane which landed at nearby Baldonnel military airport.

A 21-gun salute, guard of honor saluted the coffin, which was met by government ministers and Irish ambassador Sir Geofroy Tory.

The coffin was taken to the military graveyard at Arbour hill where the executed leaders of the 1916 "easter uprising" were buried.

The Casement remains will lie in state at the little church until Saturday when the coffin will be taken into the Roman Catholic Cathedral in the centre of the city.

After requiem mass Monday morning, there will be a ceremonial state funeral through the city and interment at Glasnevin Cemetery, resting place of the great Irish national heroes Daniel O'Connell and Charles Stuart Parnell.

Premier Sean Lemass told Parliament he welcomed the British action as another move towards friendliest and closest relations between the two former enemies.

Author Jailed, Fined $3,000 For His Book

QUEBEC (CP) — Montreal author Jacques Hebert was sentenced Tuesday to 30 days in jail and fined $3,000 after he was found guilty of contempt of court for various statements in his book I Accuse the Assassins of Coffin.

Hebert's book, published in December, 1963, charged there had been a miscarriage of justice in Wilbert Coffin's 1956 trial for the murder of one of three U.S. bear hunters found dead in the Gaspe bush.

Coffin, a Gaspe prospector, was convicted and hanged two years later.

The book led to the appointment of a one-man provincial government commission "last year to investigate its allegations. The commission reported last December it had found no evidence to justify Hebert's charges.

Hebert's lawyers announced immediately afterward that they will appeal the judgment.

The contempt action was brought against the Montreal author-publisher by the Quebec attorney-general's department. It charged that parts of the book were contemptuous of courts, juries and Crown officials involved in Coffin's prosecution.

Bandits Take Life Savings Of Chinese

MONTREAL (CP) — The old man nursed a great dream that bandits apparently shattered it when they made off with his life savings.

Long Wong, 74, had saved $3,450 over the years to pay for a trip that would have reunited him with his wife and family after 38 years.

They live in the British colony of Hong Kong on the coast of his native China where Mr. Wong last saw them six years after he first left for Canada in 1923.

Last summer, Mr. Wong began to save and he decided to keep at home the travel money he had been accumulating in a local bank.

Monday, two men turned up at the house he shares with another man, identifying themselves as employees of a public utility.

Once inside, they struck him and took his savings, his television set and a watch.

Maritimes In Deep Freeze After Storm

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winds and cold temperatures kept the Maritimes in a deep freeze today in the wake of a storm Tuesday which created the worst driving conditions of the winter.

And residents could hope for little respite from heavy snowfalls and bitter winds which have piled record snowfalls since late last week.

Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia were the hardest hit Tuesday. Roads in both provinces were closed and school classes were cancelled in many areas.

Sixteen of the 30 members of the P.E.I. legislature were unable to attend Tuesday after-noon's session because of the plugged highway conditions.

Snow continued to evade Quebec Tuesday but 10- to 15-degree temperatures and gusting winds forced the cold factor to below zero.

Northwestern and Central Ontario, like the tail end of a ... on Monday, received light snowfalls Tuesday night and early today. Northern sections of the province were clear and cold, with temperatures at Armstrong, 125 miles north of Port Arthur, dropping to 42 degrees below zero.

Light snow was predicted for Northern Ontario Thursday.

HEROINE REMEMBERED — A group of citizens is trying to get the city of Montreal to erect a separate monument to a dog credited with sounding the alarm which helped Maisonneuve save the settlement of Ville Marie from the Iroquois in 1644. The dog's name was Pilotte and she has been mentioned by historians in accounts of the early days of Montreal. She appears at the base of a monument with Major Lambert Closse, himself a victim of the Iroquois. Here Pierre Pilotte, defenceman with Chicago Black Hawks, gives Pilotte an affectionate pat. Dr. Hunnisett Dies Suddenly In Toronto

RAWDON — Rawdon friends have received word of the death of Rev. Dr. Wesley Arthur Hunnisett, of 97 Hunnewell Drive, Toronto, at the age of 71. He was head of the United Church, and Victor Mission for 46 years before his retirement in June, 1964.

He had been in ill health for the past three months and died suddenly Tuesday, February 16, 1965 in Riverdale Hospital, following a heart seizure.

The body rested at the Joseph A. Thompson Funeral Home, 132 Carleton Street, Toronto, until Friday, February 19 when it was taken to the chapel of the Fred Victor Mission, 147 Queen Street East. The casket remained open until 2 p.m. when the funeral was held. Interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto.

Dr. Hunnisett walked to the Queen Jarvis Mission following his graduation in 1918 in old Elm Street Methodist Church, and he made mission work his life work. Dr. Hunnisett loved humanity and he had given fresh courage and assistance to many thousands of down-and-out downcast men who passed through the mission.

CONDUCTED CAMP

He also conducted a church camp at Sparrow Lake for a number of years. When he laid the cornerstone in 1960 of the new Mission Building he chose a special message and for his final sermon last June he felt this same Christian message was best expressed in the text "Be Ye Kind One to Another," and this was the life he had always lived.

Dr. Hunnisett was born in Toronto and his father was the Sunday school superintendent at the old Wesley Methodist Church, at the age of 14 he chose Mission work as his career.

He received his education at Givens' Public School, Parkdale Collegiate, Victoria University and Yale.

CONFERENCE PRESIDENT

He served as president of the Toronto Conference of the United Church, Chairman of Toronto Presbytery and secretary of the Toronto Ministerial Association.

He was a member of Zetland Masonic Lodge.

Dr. Hunnisett leaves to mourn his widow, the former Margaret Patterson whom he met at the Mission when she taught a Sunday school class; a son, Paul Hume; a daughter, Mrs. Lindsay Child (Margaret Victoria) and an infant grandchild, Alison Child.

Several Rawdon groups of United Church Women have visited the Fred Victor Mission during the past two years and many individuals have sent parcels of good used clothing for use at that institution.

Dr. Hunnisett was a special friend of the late Rev. A. E. Baker, a former pastor of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling. During their Centennial Year Dr. Hunnisett had charge of one of the special Sunday services. His memory will linger on in the hearts of many people in this area.

Montreal Being Urged To Build Statue to Dog

MONTREAL (CP)—The city is being urged to build a monument to the dog who more than 300 years ago helped save Ville Marie, a settlement on the site of what now is Montreal, from the Indians.

Pilotte has already been made the subject of a book and is depicted anonymously on a downtown Montreal monument to the city's founder, Maisonneuve.

But a group of citizens feel Pilotte should be honored with her own monument and have asked Mayor Jean Drapeau to take action. No decision has been made.

Early records of New France show that Pilotte had a habit of taking her numerous offspring on a daily expedition into the woods surrounding the settlement in search of squirrels.

She'd run on one such excursion March 30, 1644, when she picked up the scent of Iroquois Indians moving to attack. Her warning howls were heard in the settlement and the inhabitants, led by Maisonneuve, ventured out to meet the attackers. Victory was assured when Maisonneuve killed the Iroquois chieftain.

Pilotte was one of several dogs sent out from France at the request of Maisonneuve, who thought they would prove the best sentinels for the fort.

The author of a book about Pilotte entitled The Watch-Dog of Ville Marie, Toronto historian W. Stewart Wallace, wrote:

"Pilotte seems to have been endowed with almost human intelligence. She must have realized that it was her duty to warn the garrison at Ville Marie of the presence of the Iroquois and she performed that duty with courage and fidelity which entitles her to be regarded as one of the heroines of Canadian history."

WILL RAISE PAY

TORONTO (CP) — Women night cleaners at provincial government buildings who have protested a pay cut will receive unspecified increases, Civil Service Commissioner D. J. Collins said Monday. About 115 women workers demonstrated outside Queen's Park Friday to protest a ruling that cut their take-home pay $5 less than $30 a week.

Rising Demand For Good Roads Delegates Told

TORONTO (CP) — Communities must "plan or perish" in the face of rising demand for better roads, Ontario Good Roads Association was told Tuesday at its annual convention.

Speakers emphasized that the swelling tide of automobiles is creating new problems and demanding more comprehensive, continuous long - range planning processes.

The association is meeting in a three-day session to promote road improvement. It consists of municipal authorities and others concerned.

Highways Minister Macnaughton told delegates Tuesday there never has been a time when there was so urgent a need for the municipalities and the department to work together "to cope intelligently and effectively with the ever-growing demands for more and better roads."

Walter G. Mcanee, head of the highways department's traffic and planning studies section, advised the delegates that without planning the transportation arteries of a community would harden and the community itself would slowly dry up and die.

Planning must be integrated and continuous. All projects must be planned in stages and in concert with other projects. The plans must be dynamic—not static—because they were looking into the future, and they must be continually brought up to date.

Attacker Not Recognized Says Witness

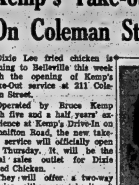
NORTH BAY (CP) — Jeannette Renaud, 35, says she was stabbed 54 times Nov. 29, said Tuesday she did not recognize the person who attacked her in a Cache Bay apartment where she was spending the night.

She was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Maurice Devost, 16, a Cache Bay delivery boy charged with the fatal murder of Mrs. Alderic Lavergne, 42, and the attempted murder of Miss Renaud.

On the night of the attack, Miss Renaud testified, she saw a light in the hall of the apartment. When she investigated Mrs. Lavergne's bedroom, she saw a man beside the bed but did not see his face clearly.

The man attacked Miss Renaud and she fell to the floor. "I thought I would die and prayed. I made my act of contrition," she said.

Monday, Miss Renaud testified that she had seen the man who attacked her three times before the incident. She said she saw the side of his face once, the day before the slaying, when he entered the Lavergne kitchen in Cache Bay, about 25 miles west of here.



The hearing was to resume today in Sturgeon Falls.

Kemp's Take-out Service On Coleman St. to Open

BRUCE KEMP

Dixie Lee fried chicken is coming to Belleville this week with the opening of Kemp's Take-Out service at 211 Coleman Street.

Operated by Bruce Kemp with five and a half years' experience at Kemp's Drive-In on Cannifton Road, the new take-out service will officially open on Thursday. It will be the local sales outlet for Dixie Fried Chicken.

They will offer a two-way service—either you take it out, or they'll take it to your home or party with their Dixie Lee car.

Kemp's will be open seven days a week offering service until 1:00 a.m. Monday through Thursday and until 2:00 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

Mr. Kemp is well known in the city through his former drive-in restaurant on Cannifton Road and previously as bread delivery salesman. He will welcome both old and new customers.

Although a comparatively new organization Dixie Lee Company Ltd., already has 34 outlets across Ontario from Sarnia to the Quebec border.

And what is possibly not generally known is that the company is locally-owned by a three-way partnership, Douglas and Raymond Baxter and Bill Aitchison with Curwood Butcher as promotion manager. Belleville is the company headquarters.

Normally Dixie Lee outlets are arranged with existing restaurants, but in Belleville a different procedure has been followed.

The attractive one-storey Coleman Street structure with its southern exposure is headquarters for the young firm, which in turn rents space to Kemp's Take-Out. The Canadian Restaurant Equipment Ltd. collaborated in construction of the building.

The name Dixie Lee was locally coined and evidence of its quick success is attested by the 34 outlets across Ontario.

Picture of the Future

As our nation grows older, our population is becoming younger—the average Canadian in our centennial year will be 24, almost three years younger than the average age a decade earlier. More of us will live in cities. There will be "an increasingly sophisticated business complex" which will "reward very handsomely those whose talents it prizes—and leave the undereducated very much out in the cold."

"Political power in this country," says the Post, "belongs increasingly to the fast-growing group that is educated, affluent, young and urban."

Taken singular, these attributes may produce the following judgments:

Urban—a shift in political power from rural areas is long overdue, but care needs to be taken that the shift does not carry too far. Food is still any nation's prime requisite. And food comes from the farm.

Young—this change may not have much significance; there is plenty of evidence that sagacity is not a monopoly of the aged, nor energy of the young.

Educated—this ought to improve the quality of our legislators and, therefore, the quality of the legislation they approve.

Affluent—there is no logical reason why the rich should not govern well, but in practice, as a class, they have rarely done so.

What the Post envisages, though, is not a political structure in which the urban dweller, the young, the educated and the rich share power, but one in which the powerful have all four of these attributes.

It does not take a prophet to foresee a reaction in which the "undereducated (left) very much out in the cold" will endeavor to wrest political power from the "haves" in an effort to remedy their condition.

Bright Ones Are a Problem

Doug Small of the special services branch of the National Employment Service at Toronto says a new boy is jostling the high school drop-out in the line of job-hunters. He is the high school push-out.

The push-out is the bright but unmanageable youth who does not quit school of his own accord but who is kicked out.

He is no new-comer to the scene. We remember many of this kind. Mr. Small, though, says the number of push-outs is increasing. Perhaps, the explanation is that it is becoming more difficult for them to find jobs. In the past, many of them may have discovered the holes in which they were the right-shaped pegs, without assistance from the National Employment Service. But the increasing use by industry of personnel officers, the insistence on the meeting of a set standard of qualifications before the applicant is given a chance to show his abilities on the job, and, perhaps, to a lesser degree, the growth of automation which makes available jobs routine by nature and thus boring to the bright push-out, may be increasing its dependence on the National Employment Service in finding work.

Ontario has just assumed its proper responsibility to meet the cost of educating the retarded. Could the province not expend at least an equal amount on meeting the needs of the bright misfits, the boys, and girls, who refuse to conform to the pattern which society considers desirable? Once they managed to educate themselves, largely at work. Mr. Small says that the bright push-outs are now harder to place in jobs than the drop-outs. The need for some alternative to the job, and to the orthodox formula offered by our regular schools, is thus painfully apparent. We ought to be able to spend at least as much on the bright as on the dull. And the dividends for society are likely to be larger.

The pride of Vienna's clock museum is a mammoth grandfather clock, some nine feet high, which was completed by a monk of the Augustine order in 1769. It runs for three months without winding, tells the date, phases of the moon, hours of sunrise and sunset, the position of the planets in relation to the earth, predicts eclipses, and effortlessly reminds you of leap years. It even tells you the time!—BBC correspondent Ian Mc-Dougall.

Surgery Is Suggested For Diverticulitis

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What can be done about chronic diverticulitis? Is there surgery for it? Would hemorrhoids have anything to do with it, or with it turning into cancer? Or would a pain in the right hip have anything to do with the condition? — MRS. W. R.

P.S. My doctor says this won't turn into cancer, but in that right?

I get rather frustrated at times because some people associate every disease with cancer.

Maybe I shouldn't be upset by this, but I am. Cancer scares me, too, but I also think that it's my job to explain to people what to do about ailments that aren't cancer.

Yes, there is surgery for diverticulitis — if the case is severe enough to warrant it. Most cases aren't. It's something like a "sore toe." If it's a blister or ingrown toenail, you don't operate — at least, you don't amputate. But if, on occasion, it is gangrene, then you do. That sort of analogy.

I'm not going into the details of this now, because I've explained it, at far more length than is possible in a newspaper column, in a booklet. (Readers may have the booklet by sending 25 cents in coin, and an unstamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill. Ask for "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You.")

Please don't measure every health problem in terms of "is it cancer?" With all due respect to cancer, it does not cause as many deaths as some other categories of disease, and even if it caused more, the lesser diseases still deserve their rightful share of attention. My view is that we ought to do our best to correct any disease, whatever it is.

An equally frequent, and human, inclination is to try to find some sort of connection between whatever multiple ailments we may have.

This is a harder question to answer, because many times one ailment does have a relationship to another. Other times not. If somebody has bunions and dandruff, he knows they aren't related and doesn't ask me. But if he (or she) has varicose veins and also has some sores on the ankle that just won't heal, too often I am not asked if there is a relationship. Because in this case there is.

Hemorrhoids have a distinct relation to constipation; constipation indirectly might have a faint relation to diverticulosis; a pain in the hip would probably be a pain in the hip and that's all.

The best way, in this case, is to take each one separately. The connection with something else is remote.

Why there is, or is not, a connection between two problems cannot be answered by any general rule. Over the last several years I've discussed a lot of such problems. In the future, I'll continue to do so. So just come in, once a day, for our regular brief chat in this space, and we'll see if we can't answer a lot of such questions.

Dear Dr. Molner: What would cause numbness of arms and hands? It occurs only in bed, but almost every night. I am 30. — Mrs. R. R.

This is a not-uncommon complaint, and very often it can be traced to pressure on a nerve farther up, usually in the shoulder or neck. Using a higher or lower pillow, or none; or using a firmer mattress, or a bedboard (a sheet of plywood or such under the mattress) or learning to sleep in some other position so the pressure doesn't pinch the nerve, are common remedies. Sleeping with the arms down or under the head can interfere with the circulation in the arm and cause this discomfort.

But at 30, you may be well-advised to have your doctor examine you, possibly with the help of X-rays, to see whether precautions are advisable to prevent the trouble from gradually becoming more severe.

How to Spend $150,000

Meaford Express

The other day we heard an interesting story about a newspaper editor who decided to ask three different people what they would do if they won $150,000 as a sweepstakes prize.

The editor first asked the town's leading industrialist what he would do. He replied that he would buy a yacht that he had always wanted.

A merchant was queried next, and he said that he would build himself a home and buy a new car.

The editor then visited one of his farmer readers and asked him what he would do if he won $150,000.

The farmer thought for a few minutes and then said, "I guess I would just keep on farming until it was all gone."

Should Deal With Facts

Edmonton Journal

The provincial analyst, Mr. Emerson Nichols, is quoted as saying that a single liquor or liquor causes impairment for a motor vehicle driver.

Mr. Gordon Taylor, Alberta's minister of highways, has said that the time may come when evidence of a single drink may be sufficient for an impaired driving conviction.

Because these conclusions are at variance with the great weight of scientific evidence, it may be wondered whether apparent exaggeration serves any useful purpose in combatting the serious problem of the drinking driver.

For example, a research team of Indiana University recently reported on The Role of the Drinking Driver in Traffic Accidents. Some of its conclusions have been published by the British ministry of transport in a new booklet on driving after drinking.

The Indiana University team, in extensive research covering 37,000 case histories, found that drivers who have had two bottles of beer or two normal drinks of hard liquor usually cause fewer accidents than those who do not drink at all before driving.

After two drinks, the accident involvement level increases very sharply. The driver who has taken six bottles of beer or six normal drinks of hard liquor is six times as accident-prone as the non-drinking driver.

None of this is intended to excuse the drinking before driving. For many drivers, personal characteristics should inhibit any drinking at all before driving. But the authorities must deal with facts and refrain from passing unenforceable laws based on doctored claims such as those advanced by Mr. Nichols.

One Ontario Supreme Court justice says that the time will come when far heavier sentences will be imposed on impaired or drunken drivers, and they will be dealt with in far greater social disfavor. Certainly society generally does not yet regard the man or woman who drives while drunk as a menace criminal.

Meanwhile the offence grows in frequency, and the cost is written in blood or treasure. In Edmonton, the police arrested 41 drunken drivers in one recent week. How many drunken drivers "got away with it?"

Poverty Is Not Good For Soul

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What is the difference between "conservation" and "reaction"? I suspect that many persons who call themselves "conservatives" are really reactionaries and don't know it.

I was reminded of this by a letter from a suburban lady who wrote that she wondered "if Abe Lincoln had been able as a youngster to lean on such words as 'disadvantaged' and 'underprivileged,' would he have done as well?"

She imagines she is expressing a "conservative" position, but it is really a reaction of a very one. In the first place, the poverty of Abe Lincoln was nothing like the poverty in the modern urban slum. He was underprivileged economically, but not culturally and socially as well.

In the second place, we don't know what anguish Lincoln might have avoided in his life if his early years had not been so bleak and hard, or how much more he might have accomplished in his personal life, which was not successful.

In the third place, the assumption that being "disadvantaged" and "underprivileged" somehow builds character and enables us to triumph over adversity is not borne out by the very people who utter this cliche. For they give their own children the best advantages; send them to the finest schools, and use their connections to the utmost.

Now a genuine conservative is one who wants to conserve the best that we have, that is he does not want to squander our resources. But the most precious resources of any country are the brains and talents of the younger generation. It is shocking and criminal that they be utilized to the fullest.

True conservatism would demand that every child be given the kind of education and environment that would summon up his best capacities. It would be shocked at the thought that millions of youngsters have practically no chance to demonstrate what they could do under optimum conditions, and that millions of others fritter away their advantages.

The conservative position — which is often confused with conservatism — is indifferent to this squandering of natural resources. It confuses an economic and social elite — which is one mainly by chance and accident — with an elite of character and intelligence. It wants only to keep what it has, and to get more, rather than to spread the opportunities on the widest possible base.

If underprivileges were such a blessing, Canada would not be only one Lincoln for a million semi-literates and unemployables; if it were good for the soul, the suburban lady would sell her house and rear her children in the slums. But of course she won't: disadvantages are "good" only for the great, the dead, and the very remote.

The current water shortage in the Bay of Quinte district has caused much worry to farmers regarding the difficulty farmers have had obtaining sufficient water for their stock, but the one emanating from the Foxboro area easily tops all in downright hardship.

With 25 head of cattle on the farm, the lone well at the home of Mrs. Nell Davis, 6th concession of Sidney, gave out and highly drifted snow made it impossible to drive the stock to drink at a creek at the north end of the farm. There were no men folks to hitch up horses and break a road to the creek, and for a period of two weeks Mrs. Davis and her daughter melted snow on the kitchen stove to supply the 25 head of stock with water. An average of two pails of water per day for each of the 25 animals was obtained through melting snow, it was stated.

New York Times

The American position in the strike against North Vietnam has been stated clearly by President Johnson, Secretary McNamara and Under Secretary Ball. It is that the Vietcong attack on Pleiku, with bloody toll in American dead and wounded, represented a test of American political will and purpose, to which "we could not fail to respond." Washington emphasizes that United States "does not strive to expand the war."

The difficulty is that Hanoi may not now adopt exactly the same logic and treat the American strike as a challenge to its will and purpose. Peking and Moscow, whose Premier Kosygin was in North Vietnam's capital at the time, may also take it as a provocation directed at them. Perhaps the very fact of Mr. Kosygin's presence was why Hanoi chose to make its raid. Yet, the retaliation that raid has brought makes it a matter of prestige for the Russians to help Hanoi. To that extent it tends to bring Russia and China into tactical partnership.

In Vietnam the United States is engaged in a war. In any war, attacks are made and men are killed and wounded. The other side is impelled to strike back even harder, and so try to discourage further attacks. The process, inescapably, is one of escalation. As such a war continues it tends to bigger, costlier, more dangerous. Vietnam is proving no exception.

The average American will not question that if the Vietcong hits the Americans, our forces must hit back. But many will feel that we are fighting a war on the other side of the globe for a people who permit our soldiers to be killed without lifting a warning voice. As in the attack at Bien Hoa air base two months ago when 5 American planes were destroyed, the Vietnamese villagers either collaborated with the Vietcong or refused to help the Americans and the Saigon government.

Each incident like Pleiku, each political crisis, each month that passes, increases the pressure to us, to Southeast Asia and to the world. The strike at North Vietnam must be understandable and justifiable as a tactical response in a war situation. It was not a substitute for a policy. There was an exchange of blows which left the Vietnamese situation at a status quo. What the Johnson Administration now has to explain is where we go from here.

TODAY IN HISTORY
By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Feb. 24, 1865 . . .

The German Workers' Party, then an insignificant political group, was founded in Munich, Germany 45 years ago today—in 1920. But it quickly gained attention and support. Exactly one year of its founding, an ex-corporal of the First World War, Adolf Hitler, took over leadership of the group and changed its name to the National Socialist German Workers' Party. It became the foundation of the infamous Nazi Party.

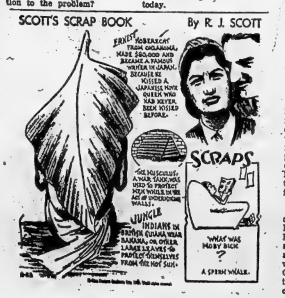
1949 — Egypt and Israel signed an armistice agreement in their dispute over Palestine.

First World War



Fifty years ago today—in 1915—the first week of Germany's intensified attacks of the British Isles ended with 10 Allied and neutral merchantmen sunk or torpedoed; German troops captured Libau in Russia; the first British Territorial Division left England for France.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—British Prime Minister Chamberlain said Britain expected to spend about $100,000,000 in Canada in the first year of the war; Adolf Hitler declared Germany would fight "until the terror of the plutocracies had been broken."

Canada Lax in Experimenting With New Drugs States Canadian Club Speaker

"Mental patients should be treated in the normal flow of medical practice," was one of the views stressed by Dr. J. D. Griffin, general director, Canadian Mental Health Association as he spoke to the Belleville Canadian Club at their regular meeting held last evening in the Queen Elizabeth School.

Dr. Griffin, whose chief interest and concern is to improve the treatment facilities for the mentally and emotionally disabled and to develop peventive mental health programs throughout Canada, was introduced by club president Mrs. J. G. Demera. The president also welcomed members and several students to the first meeting of the new year.

Using the topic "So They Passed By On the Other Side," the speaker was first in his belief that Canada was missing the boat so to speak with little being done in the experimentation of new drugs. He noted that all sorts of new discoveries along this line are being made in the European countries but very little if any in Canada or the United States. Although once these new ideas have been initiated both countries will go ahead and exploit them. He dealt in particular with insulin which was discovered in Canada for the treatment of diabetes, but nothing further was done here, but in great use in the treatment of the mentally disturbed was discovered in Europe.

PUBLIC ATTITUDES

The speaker dealt primarily with public attitudes in general and felt that the urgent and serious problem of the mentally ill should be kept before the public. He further discussed the history of the development of treatment, going as far back at 500 B.C. to the time of Hippocrates who was able to understand the significance of mental illness. He also dealt directly with the patient and felt that there was nothing mysterious about this type of illness. He encouraged the same sort of treatment as is used today in urging the patient to keep busy to stimulate the mind.

After this period and through the years the attitude concerning the mentally ill was that of discrimination and isolation, which continued through to the Middle Ages.

During this era a Belgian doctor pointed out the great and grievous mistake of having one afflicted yet to death for witchcraft. At the beginning of the 1800's the plight of the mentally ill was deplorable with patients kept in dark dungeons, chained to their cells, but with the help of a French doctor they were almost literally led up to light and were encouraged to keep active and visit as much as possible.

IMPROVES CONDITIONS

A layman by the name of Mr. Luke of England also contributed much to improve conditions for the mentally ill, having similar views to that of the French doctor. Treatment of this kind spread to many European countries and finally to American when first home was established on the location of the old Parliament Buildings in Toronto in 1840 and later on Queen Street. This institution, the speaker stated, has not changed a great deal in the past 120 years.

Dr. Griffin referred to the first kind of treatment as undertaken by the government which with great cost was still the old type of treatment with all the same kind of restraints being used and extensive care by doctors and nurses greatly reduced. The speaker dealt in particular with the great contribution of Dr. Richard Morris Buck in a London, Ontario hospital. He treated his patients as normal human beings which resulted in great response and through special therapy were able to eventually cure.

ESTABLISH CLINIC

Coming up to modern times the speaker was loud in his praise for the efforts of three Toronto doctors, Dr. C. K. Clarke, Dr. Winthrop (father-in-law of the speaker) and Dr. Clarence Hincks who established the first psychiatric clinic or as it was known the first social service clinic, in 1914. Dr. Hincks was strongly interested in the school health program was also instrumental in introducing the intelligence tests for school children which was taboo, at first, but is used in schools of today.

Dr. Griffin went on further to explain the new advances which have been made in the treatment of mental illness. He felt also that the attitude of the public towards this sickness is something yet to be improved.

The basic need for patients is to talk out their problems. The real motivation is often hidden but with the help of a well-known convulsive drug, the electro convulsion therapy treatment and in some cases brain surgery where the emotional fibres are severed, problems are revealed.

In conclusion the speaker read an appropriate poem written by Daniel Webster, after which there was a most enlightening question and answer period.

Thanks on behalf of the members were expressed by Mr. H. B. Simpson.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge at the close of the meeting.

Mr. Alec Gordon peddled at the piano for the opening and closing numbers.

One Charged, Warrant Issued For 2 Others

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A Toronto man was arrested Tuesday and a warrant has been issued for the arrest of two London men on a joint charge of obtaining nearly $2,000,000 by misrepresentation.

RCMP arrested John William Brackett in Toronto and were to bring him to London today for arraignment in magistrate's court. Still sought were M. Petar Robinson, a London developer, and Richard Ross Bird who were both believed to be in California.

The three are charged with obtaining the money in two stages during construction of the development project — $920,000 between June 2, 1960 and Dec. 13, 1961, and $964,400 between Dec. 22, 1960 and Dec. 13, 1961.

Police said they also are charged with conspiring to raise funds with Kipp's Lane Gardens Limited and four other firms in connection with each of the two loans obtained on behalf of Kipp's Lane Gardens.

The other companies named are Ocean Developments Limited, London, and Hudson's Bay Sales Limited, Granite Builders' Supplies Limited and Island Building Supplies Limited, all of Toronto.

The Experts Say
Always Make Certain Car You Are Driving Is Safe

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP)—About one-third of Canada's drivers are women. There are no statistics to indicate how many of them leave it to a man to decide if the car is in safe running order on the grounds that women don't understand cars.

Technical knowledge helps, but even if you don't know a cam shaft from a cookie cutter, there are some things you can do to help make certain the car you are driving is safe.

They begin before you get into the car. They don't take any longer than that last-minute check in the mirror to be sure your slip isn't showing, and they are a lot more important.

First, a quick walk around the car to be certain your tires are firm, front and back windshields and front and back lights clean. When you're in the car, a flick of two switches will tell you whether lights and windshield wipers are working, a push on the brake pedal tells you whether the pressure is there.

CHECK HAND BRAKE

Phillip Randell, director of driver education for the Ontario Motor League, says: "A pilot doesn't just get into the plane and take off. He tests his controls. And yet drivers won't do it. They get into their cars and drive away."

Mr. Randell has been teaching people about cars for 25 years. One of the OML courses he organized and teaches is a car care and maintenance course. About 70 per cent of his students are women.

A bit of advice he says is often ignored is to be sure your hand brake is in working order. "People boast that they never use the hand brake, but that brake works on a mechanical linkage which will seize up if it's never used. Then when you need it it won't work."

He adds, incidentally, that if you leave a hand brake on when your car is standing a long time in cold weather it might freeze in the on position.

"People also boast they've never used a spare. They should. When you rotate tires, you should rotate five, not just four. Whenever you have air put in your tires, check your spare as well."

TIRE PRESSURE RISES

Mr. Randell says you should not check tire pressure after you have driven any distance. Friction makes the tires hot, the air in them expands, and they will register a high pressure. Check them when they are cool.

Another tip is to keep a box of tire valve caps in your glove compartment to replace one that has been lost.

You can't always see tire damage; it may be inside. "If you lose more than three pounds pressure in a week, you have a problem."

Mr. Randell says you can loosen the wheel nuts to change a tire without great strain if you make a lever do the work. Keep a length of pipe in your car to slip over the end of a jack handle to make it longer or, if you use a spinner wrench, use the pipe as a lever by bracing it against one arm and under the right-angled arm to start it turning.

Carry a flat piece of wood to put under the jack to give it a solid base, and wedges of wood to put under the front wheels so they won't roll.

Mr. Randell says the standard bumper jack supplied with most cars can be dangerous because it doesn't give wall-ball-anced support. "If you are changing a tire on the side of a highway and a big transport goes by, the rush of air can lift your car clean off the jack and drop it on your legs. Buy a good, strong, reliable jack."

Preventive maintenance can save both your money and your life, but Mr. Randell says sadly, "people don't want to spend money on safety."

If your province offers a safety check he recommends making use of it to have your car given a thorough going-over. Mr. Randell suggests having a new car safety-checked while the warranty is still in effect.

In our changeable climate he says winter and summer checks and changes are especially important. In Ontario, the safety programs included in some manufacturers' maintenance manuals will tell you when to get particular work done. "There are jobs in that manual any motorist would never think of."

Becoming a regular customer at a reliable garage can pay off. "Don't shop around to save a few cents on gas. If you bear of a garage that's reliable, go there. Most garage men are fairly conscientious if you are a regular customer; they'll tell you if there is something wrong."

"But if you have to have a big mechanical job done, go to the company that made the car. Small garages aren't usually equipped to do major mechanical repairs."

U.C.W. Meetings

MT. PLEASANT - RAWDON

The postponed meeting of United Church Women was held at the church hall with an attendance of 21. Mrs. Harry McAdam presided and Mrs. Garth Collis was pianist. Reports were given by Mrs. Robert Hoard and Mrs. William Mason.

The World Day of Prayer for Rawdon circuit will be held at Wellman's Hill United Church on March 5th. A committee was appointed to purchase a special explosive for the choir gowns and some necessities for the church hall.

The delegates who attended the recent Presbyterial meeting at Trenton, Mrs. Harry McAdam, Mrs. James Hoard, and Mrs. Robert Hoard each reported on a section of the proceedings.—Mrs. Burton Sharpe recently attended the workshop in Belleville and she gave the highlight of that meeting.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Stanley Williams and Mrs. Grant Hubble. Lunch convenors were Mrs. William McAdam and Mrs. Robert Merrick.

The two conveners conducted the devotional based on "Anger." They were assisted by Mrs. Harvey Cooch, who read the meditations.

Mrs. Burton Sharpe read a selection and Mrs. Robert H. Hoard gave a vocal solo, followed by a brief singsong in charge of Mrs. Kenneth Weseer. The conveners each conducted a contest, after which refreshments were served.

Ladies Club Marks 22nd Anniversary

The monthly meeting of the Prince Edward-Belleville Ladies' Club was held at the Recreation Centre last Wednesday evening with an attendance of 30 members and two visitors. This meeting had been postponed from the previous Wednesday due to the weather and icy conditions of the streets.

The president, Mrs. F. Baird welcomed all, and opened the meeting.

Visitors were introduced, also those who had birthdays in February, Mrs. Baird read a poem on "The Flag" composed by a high school boy.

Minutes of the January meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. A. Mitchell.The treasurer, Mrs. L. Fox gave the treasurer's report $180.83 in bank and $6.64 on hand. The corresponding secretary Mrs. Pierson read thank-you cards from several members.

FINE PROGRAM

Mrs. Weese took charge of the program and welcomed all. As this was the 22nd birthday of the club, it meant much to Mrs. Weese as at its beginning she had friends meet at her place to talk it over and soon after the group was organized at Mrs. Lent's home.

Some of the ladies at a club meeting, taken 20 years ago was passed around.

Mrs. Weese paid fitting tribute to the members who had passed on. The aim of the club was never been to make money — but to make others happy. A paper on "Hospitals" was given by Mrs. A. Mitchell. Mrs. Insley sang a suitable selection.

INTERESTING TRIP

Mrs. L. Wannamaker told of a pleasant trip, she and her husband had taken recently to U.S. passing through Hancock, where the west branch of the Delaware River begins. The scenary through these parts is beautiful.

They visited the old cemetery and church at Tappan. Many of the names on the stones were of great interest to them, as they were searching for history of their ancestors. Cecile was soloist. Reports were given by Mrs. Robert Hoard and Mrs. William Mason.

'Big Daddy' Should Look For Hidden Assets

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Five months ago I fell for a girl who works in an all-night cafe. She is better looking than Elizabeth Taylor. I was never allowed to see her to the door of her apartment because she said she lived with her brother and he didn't want her to go out with men at work.

ANN LANDERS

Two weeks ago I found out she has no brother. She has a light housekeeping arrangement with an unemployed ball player.

I've given this girl $600 to pay back bills. I sent her to a chiropodist to get her feet put in shape. I sent her to my dentist to get her teeth fixed. I even offered to pay for her French lessons when she told me she was nuts over the language.

I've asked her to marry me but she says she cannot marry out of her faith. I have never known her to go to church so I asked about her religion. She said "I am a Seven-Day Adventurist."

I know she is a little phony but I love her anyway. I think with love and a few of the nicer things in life I could make something out of her. How about it? — BIG DADDY.

DEAR DAD — Dozens of girls would give a left hang for a man who is as kind and generous (and as solvent) as you.

Set your sights higher, Buddy Boy, and quit measuring a girl's worth by her looks. Those hidden assets are what count.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am 15 and a freshman in high school.

Last night Tony (not his real name) called me for the first time. I had been hoping Tony would call me because I'd been admiring him for a long time.

We weren't on the phone more than two minutes when my two younger brothers got into an argument. My mother came running out of the kitchen into the hall (where the phone is) and she screamed right into the phone, using some very vulgar language.

Tony heard every word and asked me who was screaming like that. I lied and said it was the cleaning woman.

After I rang off I went into the kitchen and asked my mother if she would please not shout such foul language into the phone again. She called me "Princess Margaret" and said she will do it any way she wants to. What do you suggest? — SHAMED OUT.

DEAR SHAMED — I know of no way to protect yourself against a mother who doesn't care what she says, when she says it, or to whom.

I don't believe children should apologize for parents nor do I think it was fair to blame the cleaning lady. If you have another similar experience, simply say, "I'm sorry, my mother lost her temper and I can't do anything about it."

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I've just received an invitation to a money shower and I am really burned. Isn't this bad taste, even though the person who invited me is my aunt and says only relatives and close friends are being asked?

I am enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for an immediate personal reply, but I hope you will print my letter in the paper for the benefit of other readers who may be similarly afflicted. — THE CAMELS BACK.

DEAR BACK — Money showers are an ancient custom which originated in Europe. In my view the custom should have been left in Europe.

High School Holds Annual 'At Home'

STIRLING — Last Friday evening the annual "At Home" of the Stirling - Rawdon District High School was held under the sponsorship of the Students' Council. The school gymnasium was decorated in a three dimensional idea to represent the Heavens. The side walls depicted a variety of angels, with constellations featuring the big dipper and other golden and silver stars.

Miss Audrey Stapley was the convenor of the decoration committee and her assistants were: Janet Murray, Glenn Stapley, Brian Crossman, Frank Sagar and Gerald Stapley. A unique castle was built by Donnie Armstrong. The staff adviser to the committee was Mrs. Kay Bailey. A bevy of assistants were on hand to help prepare the room for this gala occasion.

The Music Makers Orchestra from the Trenton RCAF furnished music for dancing.

Mrs. Francis Evans, teacher of home economics, and her group, prepared the refreshments and as usual they were splendidly arranged and served. The convener of the committees was Carol Sharpe and a large number of the female students assisted with the serving.

FASHIONS DENOUNCED

JAKARTA (AP)—More than 100 girls have been arrested in the West Java town of Tjirebon for wearing tight skirts and bushy hairdos. Police said the arrests were made previously after President Sukarno denounced such fashions in the interests of protecting "our own national identity."

Susanna's Family Fare

GOING STRAIGHT

Dear Susanna: I have found that if you enjoy writing letters, like I do, you should set aside one sheet of your favorite note paper as a liner and rule it up in letter form. Three shorter lines for the address and date, then the heading, etc. Rule the other side of the liner to correspond with the extra pages you use.

A paper clip is handy, to hold the two sheets in place. This way, when you sit down to write there is no problem about setting up a nicely balanced page each time. — Linda Conner

We go together like Jack Sprait and his wife. You love to write letters, and you-know-who adores receiving them! — SUSANNA

DENTAL DAZZLE

Dear Susanna: Quite a discussion developed at the school I attend as to whether it is better to use a hard, medium or soft toothbrush. I heard arguments on all sides, so a few months ago I started cleaning my teeth first with a hard bristle brought them I applied more paste to a soft one and finished the polishing job with it.

Now whether it is the combination of these two types of bristles, or just the double brushing my teeth got each time, I don't know, but they sure are gleaming like never before. — Jim Shelly.

Fashion Editors Pick Choices for Cotton Wear

MONTREAL (CP)—Winners in six fashion categories were chosen by fashion editors here at the Canadian Cotton Council's press preview Tuesday.

The entries, submitted by 79 of Canada's top fashion houses for presentation in the second annual cotton fashion awards show, ranged from beach coverup to evening wear and included children's clothing.

The editor's over - all choice was a golden brown corduroy coat, double - breasted and loosely fitted. The rib was used horizontally over the yoke, vertically over the midriff and horizontally over a skirt which was gently gathered from a lowered waist.

The sleepwear favorite was a pale pink puckered pelgnoir with matching negligee. The pelgnoir was set off by a large deep pink rose at the neck and matching valenciennes straps.

A yes-yes coat in navy with bright green striped dickie and black belt was the editor's choice in the rainwear category.

The evening, the winner was a sleek gown in a large black-and - white floral print with black velvet V straps and a loose back panel.

A white cotton lace coat with elbow - length sleeves, worn over a white piqua dress with shoestring straps, was another group choice. The coat-topmained open from the waist down in an inverted V line.

Editors selected a little girl's dress of white ribbed piqua with matching coat in the children's wear category. The dress had a lowered waist marked with the Swiss embroidered ribbon that provided a colorful trim for the coat.

A black - and - white striped swimsuit and jacket with an oriental influence was chosen from the beach - wear entries. The matching beach bag resembled a golf bag.

BREAKFAST IS SERVED

Nutritionists consider that breakfast is the most important and most neglected meal of the day, and that too many children go to school and too many adults go to work inadequately nourished for the day ahead.

In a survey taken of school children the question of "what did you have for breakfast this morning" was sometimes answered with "a piece of Chocolate cake and a coke;" or "potato chips" or even "nothing."

Health authorities tell us that after eight to ten hours of fasting the body needs the nutrients that a good breakfast can provide. If you've experienced that "mid-morning slump" after skipping breakfast your body is just protesting that it can't go on without proper nourishment. Studies have shown that children do better at school and adults at work when they have eaten an adequate breakfast.

The most undernourished member of the average family is probably the teen-aged girl. She's usually a notorious breakfast skipper . . . too busy taking her hair out of curlers or too timid to eat in case she puts on unwanted pounds.

Skipping breakfast to lose weight is poor practice . . . it may actually lead to overweight because the dieter usually overeats at the next meal.

The Consumer section of the Department of Agriculture has some suggestions for improving breakfast habits:

1. Get the whole family up at least half an hour earlier; that way everyone can enjoy a leisurely breakfast together. (I can hear a loud guffaw here from most mothers. Unless young sisters have changed since my family were teenagers, I was lucky to get them up at all, stuff a hurried breakfast into them, and send them on their way buttoning coats on the run.)

2. Set the table attractively. Start every morning off in gay spirits. (This is getting positively hilarious. If your family belongs to the slow starter group they will be as gay as Dracula, and will probably fire three rounds of grapefruit juice in your eye. In fact, your attractively set table would be lucky not to end up a gory mess if someone spikes your gay spirits with a dull knife.)

3. Serve a variety of foods. Try breaking away from the traditional breakfast foods. Occasionally serve your family's favorites, even if it's hamburgers or grilled cheese sandwiches. (To one brought up on a steady breakfast diet of oatmeal porridge this is definitely heresy. But if you are the hardy type who can face a breakfast of hamburg with onions, relish and mustard . . . lots of luck.)

4. If appetites are poor or resistant to breakfast . . . coax them with small servings, then gradually increase serving size.

5. Plan your menus for a week in advance. (All my mother would have had to do would be to write "porridge" across the calender and she's have been set with breakfast menus for the month.)

The parentheses are mine, of course, and have nothing to do with the Department of Agriculture. In spite of being facetious about it, I approve their ideas heartily, and enjoy breakfast as much as any meal of the day.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The father of three small boys, 8-5 and 3, offered too look after them while the mother did her shopping in a city a few miles from here. Father and sons went into a department store and began to look at the turtles swimming in a tank of water. The father lifted the two-year-old up so he could see better. This was a mistake as the three-year-old wanted to be lifted too. So he reached up and grasped the top of the tank and drew water, turtles, rocks and seaweed in a tidal wave. The child was drenched, turtles scuttled in the aisles, and the father was still picking turtles out of the hood of the boy's parka when the mother came back.

"I see Mr. Whittle's wife is still away."

Church Groups

VOTA VITA MISSION CIRCLE

VICTORIA AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH

Mrs. R. L. Orr was guest speaker at the February meeting of the Vota Vita Mission Circle, and, from her recent reading, told the stories of three men, of widely different religious backgrounds, who all obeyed the "marching orders" of God. Father Lacombe, "the man of good heart", a Roman Catholic priest, served the Cree and Blackfoot Indians of the Canadian west for sixty years, sharing their poverty, hunger and dangers. He nursed them through violent plagues, was peacemaker between tribes and between the white men and the Indians. He saw the end of the buffalo age, the transfer of the Territories to Canada, the building of the railway, the Riel Rebellion, and the swift growth of white settlements in the west. The accounts of his heroic undertakings and his spiritual influence on the lives of both settlers and Indians are well recorded in the book entitled, "The Bold Heart" by Phelan.

GRENFELL IN LABRADOR

The story of Wilfred Grenfell, an Anglican layman, reveals the same sense of call to minister to a needy area. Born near Liverpool, England, son of an Anglican minister, Wilfred Grenfell studied medicine and worked in the slum areas where he learned to appreciate the good qualities in all types of people. As he heard of the people in Labrador living without any medical aid, he joined the fishing fleets and sailed to the rugged coasts of the new continent, making his boat a floating hospital. In time he had two fine hospitals, an orphanage and co-operative stores. He made his winter rounds by dog team, and cached stores of food for his dogs along the route, and men and women would starve rather than deprive the doctor's team of food. He died in 1940, satisfied at having obeyed the "deep call" to spend his life in this way.

TRUST AND TRY

John Williams, the apostle to the Polynesians, was sent to Tahiti by the Wesleyan church in England when he felt the call to work amongst the people on the South Sea Islands. For twenty years he ventured to islands known to be dangerous, and with his wife, helped meet the spiritual and material needs of the people. Struggling against terrific heat, inadequate diet, and all the difficulties of ocean travel among the islands, they worked with absolute abandonment, until one day in 1838 on a visit to a savage tribe he was murdered. His motto, "Trust and Try," was the keynote to his life.

Study of such lives as these remind us that though men's Christian background and doctrine varied widely, the practical results should be that of love and service to one's fellow men.

Mrs. G. Greake, whose group was in charge of the program, thanked Mrs. Orr for her splendid presentation of these "Heroes of the Faith." Miss Marjorie Hales was soloist, and Mrs. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Dennerst gave a devotional on the theme of "Love."

NEW READING COURSE

During the business session, led by President Mrs. W. Sobie the new reading course books were highly recommended by Mrs. T. Stovell. Request was made for more nylon-knit slippers for the New Canadian work in Toronto.

During a period for World News, Mrs. A. Wynne reported on the Ecumenical gathering in Toronto; the securing of a new professor of New Testament at McMaster Divinity College; the effects of Dr. Paul Carlson's funeral service as reported in Decision Magazine, and the still-serious condition of Norman Dabbs, son of the martyred missionary Norman Dabbs who died in 1949 in Bolivia, who was injured in a recent hockey game with fellow-students from McMaster University.

A social time brought the evening to a close.

U.C.W. Meetings

NORA U.C.W.

Mrs. Gilbert Thompson was hostess to Mohs U. C. Women on Thursday when everyone enjoyed a potluck dinner served at noon with a quilting in the afternoon.

President Mrs. Dan McInroy opened the meeting with prayer with Mrs. Martha Keller reading the Scripture and meditation by Mrs. G. Thompson.

Mrs. D. McInroy gave a report on the workshop meeting at Tweed in the morning, also one given by Mrs. Milton Vanderwater for the afternoon session. Readings were given by Mrs. Gordon Foster and Pauline Thompson.

Mrs. Angus Mumby presented the retiring secretary with a thank-you token.

The family of Mrs. Peter Green Sr. of Point Anne held a party recently in her honor. An evening was spent playing euchre and then the guest of honor was presented with a beautiful black diamond ring. The girls served a dainty lunch with a birthday cake. Those taking part in the celebration were: Murney Green Sr., Mrs. Green's son and his family Murney Jr. and Clara; Audrey and Gordon Chisolm; Jack and Marguerite Peter and Marion Green; Gordon and Jean Green; and Doris and Arthur Colden. Friends called to wish Mrs. Green many happy returns and present her with flowers.

Mrs. Green is spending a few days in Belleville the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Luffman.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

THINKING DAY

February 22 was Thinking Day for Girl Guides and Brownies. It was also the birthday of both Lord and Lady Baden Powell, the founders of the Boy Scout and Girl Guide movement. For that reason all this week whenever a company or pack meet they will observe a special Thinking Day ceremony.

On Sunday several groups combined with Scouts to attend a church service while others will do so next Sunday.

An international theme is chosen by each leader as she conducts the meeting; with the girls bringing their age in pennies for the World Friendship fund.

This is Canada's own particular fund which is used to make special gifts to other countries in times of emergency, to assist in the interchange of visits between Canadian Guides and those of other lands and from which is also paid Canada's contribution to the World Thinking Day fund.

Of the 964 Girl Guide personnel in the city of Belleville, last summer, Guide Lynn Neill and Guider Dorothy Cameron were chosen for the trip to Great Britain. Guide Ann Gordon qualified to attend camp in the United States.

Reporter Allowed to View Initiation Into Ku Klux Klan

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The initiation of eleven men into the Ku Klux Klan was described Monday by a reporter for The Atlanta Constitution.

In a copyrighted story, Bill Shipp said he and a photographer were invited to witness the ceremony.

Calvin Craig, Grand Dragon of the United Klans of America Incorporated, said the invitation was extended so they could see that the Klan "is not un-American."

Representative Charles Weltner of Atlanta, a Georgia Democrat and member of the House committee on un-American activities, has proposed the Klan be investigated by the committee.

Shipp and the photographer were picked up in downtown Atlanta last Thursday, blindfolded and taken to the ritual by Craig and a man who identified himself only by a code name—"Blue Nose Leader."

Shipp was told it was the first time a member of the "alien" press had been allowed to witness any part of the Klan's "naturalization" rites.

"CALL ME MR. X"

The initiation rites were conducted by the Kleavern's (local chapter's) red - robed, cigar-chewing Exalted Cyclops, who told Shipp to address him as "Mr. X."

The walls of the meeting hall were decorated with Klan pictures and domestic sibeling to "blood and darkness."

The Grand Dragon told Shipp that one of the masked men was an FBI informer.

The room was dimly lit by red lights on a wooden cross before an altar. The altar held a U.S. flag, a Bible opened to the 12th chapter of Romans and a rusted iron sword. The biblical passage was St. Paul's admonition to live righteously.

The initiates were marched around the room about six times. They were halted in front of four Klan officers and given instructions in "klankrek."

PROTECT CHASTITY

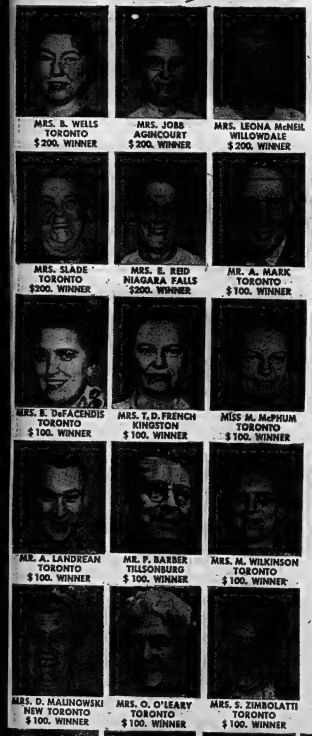
They were ordered to defend the United States with their lives, to protect "the chastity of our white womanhood" and to "strike faithfully to maintain white supremacy."

"Mr. X" told the gathering: "The Klan has been pushed around for 25 years. But the Klan is not going to be pushed around anymore.

"We've been accused of being black shirts. We defy anybody to call us black shirts. We believe in white.

"We've been called a whipping organization. Well, we're going to do our whipping at the polls. We're going to register every native-born white gentile in America."

One of the newly initiated members was asked to stand and give his impression of the initiation ceremony.



"I don't talk very good," he said. "I thought you'd whip a couple of niggers."

Police were aided in their security watch by Black Muslim guards in cars parked in front of the Muhammad mansion.

Muhammad, 67, has denied any Black Muslim complicity in the slaying, but he surrounded himself with guards from the Fruit of Islam, the sect's karate-trained elite corps.

Shortly after Malcolm's death, police confirmed a report that six of Malcolm's followers had traveled to Chicago to avenge their former leader's death.

Among Muhammad's visitors Tuesday night was heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay, a Black Muslim.

"Elijah isn't concerned about the threats," Clay said. "In fact, we didn't even discuss it."

Earlier Clay said he was not worried about reports that he was a target of Malcolm's avengers. Clay is scheduled to give two five-round boxing exhibitions at the Black Muslim convention Saturday.

"Elijah Muhammad will be there to watch me fight," he said. "We are not afraid."

Clay had been one of Malcolm's supporters before Malcolm left the Black Muslim ranks, but he remained loyal to Muhammad.

The uneasiness that filtered throughout New York and Chicago spread to San Francisco Tuesday where kerosene was thrown and ignited on the floor of a Black Muslim meeting place. Damage was slight.

A civil rights leader called for a federal investigation of Malcolm's slaying. James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said people were too quick to blame the Black Muslims for the assassination. Farmer said he thought the killing had international implications but he did not elaborate.

Gourmet Cooking for Men Self Defence for Women

Gourmet cooking for men? That's what the lady said — the lady in this case being Mrs. D. MacKinnon who is director of a new series of programs, and is currently making arrangements to have instructors at the local YMCA for the classes.

These are adult edutation groups for members and non members, and some interesting subjects will be taught, including dressmaking, how to invest wisely, a golf school, law for the layman, conversational French and many others.

Perhaps the gourmet cooking class for men does not belong on the women's page, but the course on basic knowledge of self defence does. In this class the women will be taught how to defend themselves from attackers with umbrellas, heels, purses, hand blows and finger locks. With this kind of knowledge the molester on the street could expect a rough time from the fair sex.

Considerable interest has been shown in the course on comparative religions for those interested in learning about the beliefs and practices of some of the world's major religions.

Getting back to the gourmet cookery which starts on March 30th. Mrs. MacKinnon says a definition of a gourmet is "the cook indispensible, but all too rare collaborator". A gourmet dish does not have to be elaborate — it may be a matter of making a good omelet. The distinction lies in using seasonings, herbs and unusual foods.

There will be a two-hour session once a week over a period of four weeks, but not necessarily consecutive evenings. Visiting lecturers will be brought in for the course.

Registrations for any of the courses may be made at the Y, and most of the classes will start on March 1st.

Hopes to Erect Glass Fibre Bungalows in 6 to 8 Hours

By ALLEN SACKMANN

EDMONTON (CP)—In a few years, it could take the house wife longer to pick her color scheme than it will take the builder to erect the house.

That's what an Edmonton manufacturer visualizes for the house building industry with the advent of glass fibre construction. An average sized bungalow could be erected in six to eight hours, ready for occupancy.

The first glass fibre model is expected to be built this year, says Vienna-born Fred Wagner, president of a firm that's pioneering glass fibre construction on the Prairies.

The idea for glass fibre house originated with Mr. Wagner's present projects—building specialized structures for the oil industry. His company—A P I Equipment Ltd.—is manufacturing equipment shelters and bunkhouses designed for the Arctic.

Glass fibre buildings have been a hit with the oil companies because of their durability and non - corrosive qualities. They replaced steel structures which had a life expectancy of five years.

Glass fibre, although costing 30 per cent more, "has almost an unlimited life expectancy," he says.

LIST ADVANTAGES

In the house-building field, the advantages range from durability to superior insulation qualities to negligible maintenance costs.

Basic disadvantage—initially—is high cost but Mr. Wagner says no comparative pricing has been established.

Higher costs of materials, he says, may be offset by reduced erection time since everything, including the bathroom sink, would be pre-fabricated from glass fibre and be ready for erection when placed on the job site.

Mr. Wagner says he now is negotiating for a contract to supply glass fibre houses for the European market.

The houses would be made of foundation of polyurethane foam. Electrical wiring and plumbing would be molded into the panels.

Mr. Wagner says glass fibre housing has not been approved by the Canadian Standards Association nor by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. The reason, he says, is because no one has applied for approval.

SEES NO DIFFICULTY

"Now, I'm just interested in getting CSA and CMHC ideas and suggestions on the blue prints but I don't anticipate any difficulty in obtaining approval."

He says there are no restrictions in the national building code to prevent the use of glass fibre materials.

The 39-year-old mechanical engineer started his Edmonton firm four years ago, building a variety of structures out of all types of materials. Now, however, 90 per cent of his production is glass fibre.

Church Groups

CHRIST CHURCH CONTACT CLUB

On Monday evening, Christ Church Contact Club met for an interesting work meeting. A short business meeting opened the program at which time the members were reminded of the rummage sale on March 1st.

A good deal of work is in progress for this year's doll bazaar and there were few idle hands as patterns were cut out and some knitting and sewing commenced.

Delicious pies were prepared and served by hostesses June Fisher, Shirlye Harris and Rose Owen.

Canon Scott Addresses Diocesan WA

Canon E. W. Scott, Director of the Department of Christian Social Service, Church House, Toronto, was the special speaker when the Ontario Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary held their February meeting at St. George's Cathedral in Kingston.

The speaker pointed out that many parts of the social service programs of the church could never have been fulfilled without the Department of the Woman's Auxiliary. Canon Scott used two questions as the basis of his talk "Why should the church be concerned about Social Service?" and "What do we mean by Christian social service?"

"The church is a fellowship of men and women united by faith with Jesus Christ. We cannot be members of the Christian church unless we take seriously our task to love God with all our heart, and will and strength and our neighbour as ourselves. These two things cannot be separated; we cannot love God without loving our neighbor and we cannot be Christians unless we take seriously our responsibility for our neighbor. .

PEOPLE IN NEED

The speaker went on to say we cannot be Christian without being concerned about people and what we try to be we are fooling ourselves. Christian social service is the responsibility of a human being to the real needs of people and this always has to be worked out in given situations without apologies. He suggested we stop and look — there are people with real needs around us and if we show human concern and interest this is a real expression of love.

NO HIGHER CALLING

Canon Scott asked if someone who did not know anything about the Christian Church watched our congregations or our W.A. groups what kind of picture would they get of the love and concern of God? This is the place they are going to learn. Many people want to listen but first of all they must feel there is something to learn not by the spoken word but in the way of living. He told the members they were called to work together with God in showing His love and concern for all men and there is no higher calling anywhere in the world.

President Mrs. S. G. Jackson of Brockville, presided at the meeting and introduced Canon Scott. The Rt. Rev. R. G. Fleming, Dean of the Cathedral conducted the opening devotions and Miss Laura Kilborn, president of the W.A. branch, extended a warm welcome to the members.

FAVORITE CODFISH DISHES

When I eat Lobster Newburg I enjoy it very much but I mentally demour at the extravagant treatment of such a luxurious fish. Lobster is so good it stands alone.

But codfish is another kettle of fish, as it were. It needs help. And budgeters need it. Almost anywhere in Canada we can buy fresh frozen cod fillets economically. Those that I used for my Codfish au Gratin (see below) cost me 39c per lb. and were packed in Lunenburg, N.S.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Moore Mary

Broiled Baby Beef Liver; Chili Sauce; Buttered Noodles; Spinach with Mushroom Sauce; Finger Salad: Radish Roses, Green Pepper Rings and Dill Spears; Perfect Custard Pie (see Tuesday); Coffee.

CODFISH AU GRATIN
(serves 4)

2 lb. fresh frozen cod fillets,
2 tablespoons butter
1½ tablespoons flour,
1 cup hot water,
1½ cups shredded old Cheddar cheese (quite well packed),
½ teaspoon salt,
⅛ teaspoon accent,
paprika.

Thaw the cod fillets and carefully separate to give you 4 portions. Place these in one layer on shallow buttered baking dish. Make a sauce by melting the butter, then stirring in the flour until blended, then stirring in the hot water until thick. Add 1 cup of the shredded cheese and the salt and accent. Pour evenly over the fillets, and sprinkle remaining ½ cup cheese over and sprinkle delicately with paprika. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes or until bubbly and flecked with gold.

SAVORY BAKED CODFISH ROLLS (serves 6 or 7)

2 lbs. fresh frozen cod fillets,
6 tablespoons melted butter,
3 tablespoons lemon juice,
1 teaspoon grated onion,
½ teaspoon salt,
flour,
parsley.

Thaw and cut cod fillets as uniformly as possible into oblongs about 2 x 6". Combine melted butter, lemon juice, onion and salt and mix. Dip each strip of fish into this savory lemon-butter mixture and roll up and then roll in flour. Fasten with toothpick. Place rolls standing upright in large shallow buttered baking dish and pour remaining lemon-butter mixture evenly over all, letting some drizzle into centres of rolls. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for ½ hour. If desired, tops may be browned under hot broiler at the last moment. When you take this to the table garnish with parsley.

Bacon Must Be Better Packaged

OTTAWA (CP)—Bacon manufacturers have been given a year to eliminate any deception from their packaging methods by the federal Food and Drug Directorate.

Dr. C. A. Morrell, head of the directorate, has written a letter to the manufacturers telling them that certain packaging methods are a violation of the Food and Drug Act which says food must not be labelled or advertised in a misleading manner.

Dr. Morrell told meat packers the current method of packing bacon, in particular the shingle type pack, shows only a small portion of each slice, and much of the visible portion is lean.

He said the directorate would take "appropriate action" if deceptive packages of bacon continued to be sold after January 1, 1966.

Nursing Conditions in Ontario Create State of Unrest

The Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario held its monthly meeting in Trenton Memorial Hospital last Wednesday. President Mrs. Shirley Ackerman announced that Mrs. M. McQueen will be the new chairman of the finance committee for District No. 6. Mrs. June Howe will replace Mrs. McQueen as chairman of the finance committee for the Quinte Chapter. Mrs. Joan Skinkle is now co-chairman of the committee for education and service for District No. 6.

Mrs. Ackerman asked for volunteers from Quinte Chapter to serve on the following provincial committees: Nursing Service, Nursing Education, Socio-Economic Welfare, Public Relations, Legislation and By-laws and Finance. The membership chose delegates from Quinte Chapter to attend the annual convention which will be held in Toronto, April 29th, 30th and May 1st. Mrs. Joan Skinkle will be the voting delegate and Mrs. Carol Mason will be the non-voting delegate at this convention.

A new Socio-economic committee, established to educate members of Quinte Chapter in collective bargaining procedures, will be chaired by Miss Lesley Anderson.

GUEST SPEAKER

Guest speaker was Miss Marion Gomme, president of District No. 6 and member of the Board of Directors of the RNAO. At the 1963 annual convention, the members passed a resolution asking the board to consider making some changes in the way the RNAO is organized. The well known management consultants, Stevenson and Kellogg Ltd., were asked to recommend changes which would give membership a more responsible voice in solving nursing problems. Miss Gomme said that their recommendations covered membership, elections, committee structure and Provincial office organization and procedures. These recommendations will be voted on by membership at the April annual meeting.

IMPROVE COMMUNICATION

It was recommended that the RNAO rescind the requirement of current registration as a condition of membership. Once a nurse is registered with the College of Nurses of Ontario she should be permanently eligible for membership in the RNAO. In order to improve communication between all nurses, Regional offices should be established dividing the province into six areas instead of the present twelve districts. Each Regional office would be staffed by an executive secretary who would co-ordinate the Chapter activities in the Region.

It was also proposed that committee structure from Chapter up to Provincial level be recast to more closely identify with the interests of members. To facilitate vertical communication it was recommended that the chairmen of the respective chapter committees in a region form regional committees. Similarly, it was recommended that the chairmen of the six regional committees form Provincial committees and that the Chapter presidents be members of the Board of Directors of the RNAO.

RECOMMEND ELECTIONS

Miss Gomme said that in this structure study, Stevenson and Kellogg Ltd. has shown the RNAO how certain functions can be combined and re-aligned. They also recommend that the Chapter and Provincial elections be held every two years rather than every year as at present, and that committee members and chairmen by elected rather than appointed, as is currently the practice under the existing by-laws of the RNAO.

After a break for coffee and doughnuts, Mrs. Ackerman explained "The Nurses' Collective Bargaining Act, 1965." This proposed legislation will provide collective bargaining rights, not only for RNAO members but for all Registered Nurses in Ontario. It will give collective bargaining rights to staff nurses and nurses employed in a management capacity as well. The proposed Act is free of compulsion. Membership in a bargaining unit will be purely voluntary.

STATE OF UNREST

Nurses in Ontario are in a state of unrest because at present salaries and conditions of work are decided by the employer alone. This act will provide a grievance procedure whereby both employer and employees can apply for the assistance of a government conciliation officer or independent mediator. If an independent mediator cannot resolve their differences, both parties will be legally bound by the results of final arbitration.

Collective bargaining will improve conditions in the work situation and thus encourage nurses to remain in, or return to, active nursing. Also it will encourage more young people to select nursing as a career. Mrs. Ackerman quoted the following statistics to uphold this statement: In 1950, 2,151 students entered Schools of Nursing as compared to 1,703 entering Teachers' Colleges. In 1964, 3,178 students entered Schools of Nursing as compared to 5,276 entering Teachers' Colleges.

Mrs. Ackerman suggested that the nurses educate the citizens of this community and encourage those who are interested in the improvement of nursing to support "The Nurses' Collective Bargaining Act, 1965." This can be done by lobbying their member of the Ontario Legislature with letters and telegrams between now and March 10th, 1965.

The next meeting will be held in Education Hall, Belleville, on Wednesday, March 24th. Mrs. Elizabeth Murray, public relations secretary of the RNAO, will be the guest speaker.

Reader Offers Money Saving Menus for Hungry Husbands

DEAR DORIS — About that poor man whose wife didn't think $30 a week for groceries was sufficient.

We can all feed our husbands "an ulcer diet" — (T-bone steak and caviar and nagging) with little or no effort on our part; but for about half an hour a day's work, we can make plain old hamburg taste like a king's dinner.

DORIS CLARK

My husband has never, in the two years we have been married, given me more than $15 per week for groceries. We eat very well. He said, only the other day how he always wants to hurry home to me after school and some of the reasons he gave were that I always had a "smile and a kiss" and a "delicious dinner waiting for him."

I have about 25 recipes that I have either thought up or modified since I have been married that cost very little money — but — take a little time to prepare. If there would be any demand for them I would gladly take the time to write them out for you.

If that woman wants to hang on to her husband (and a generous one at that) she could stick a couple of this type of budget suppers into her weekly menu and in a year she would have enough saved to buy a mink coat as mink seems to be the type of thing she expects from her husband. — HAPPY WITH HAMBURG.

DEAR HAPPY — Who wouldn't want your recipes for a happy marriage? I'll be writing you for more details if any readers start asking.

DEAR DORIS —

1. Do you ask for a reply to a wedding invitation by a certain date?

2. The church organist is a good friend. He will be playing for me. Should I still pay him, or would this be improper? — BRIDEY.

DEAR BRIDEY —

1. Never. The invitation goes out three or four weeks ahead, and "invitees" are supposed to know their manners well enough to answer right back, with an acceptance couched in the same formal style as the invitation.

2. Far better to give him a gift, as you do with the good friends who are your bridal attendants.

Mr. R. McKinnon of St. Mary's School Board presided for the oratorical contest. Six speakers participated on a variety of subjects.

James O'Halloran clearly outlined the life and accomplishments of Winston Churchill. Shane McKinnon chose as his subject "The Automobile" and described the origin of the vehicle in Europe and the development in North America. Irene Korin gave a witty history of "Travel and Transportation." Marlene Mahoney spoke on "Education". She outlined the Canadian method of education, explained the Robarts plan, mentioned nearby universities and the courses offered. She also mentioned educational potentials of retarded children. Stephen Guerin chose "The Earth," and traced the history of the planet from the beginning, including the history of plants and animals many now extinct. Bary Lee spoke on "The Laser Beam" (light amplification by stimulated radiation) this is a new concept in scientific research, restoring atom to its original state.

During intermission and at conclusion of addresses St. Mary's junior choir under the direction of Rev. Sister Macrina with Miss M. Anderson as pianist gave three selections. Miss Margo Morris also entertained with accordion music.

Judges for the event were Mrs. L. Breen, Mr. S. Reitch, C.D.H.S. staff and Mr. Tom Connell C.D.H.S. staff.

Winners were first, James O'Halloran who received St. Mary's School Board cup presented by Education Chairman of the Board; second place went to Irene Korin who received cup presented by Mrs. A. Casipp of C.W.L.; third prize, the town of Campbellford cup was presented to Shane McKinnon by Mayor M. Tanner.

Mrs. Korin, president of the P.T.A. presented dictionaries to all contestants on behalf of the P.T.A.

TARGET FOR CARS

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba government has decided to relocate litter cans on the Henderson highway because of the damage done to them by passing motorists. Public works officials report that since their installation several months ago the cans have needed repairs twice a week.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN HERBER, MOTHER OF 5

At the sit-up stage you'll find your baby will delight in a change of scene from playpen or nursery. After all, there's a lot of new sightseeing to do from a sitting position. Why not trade your sweet to a special seating arrangement occasionally? In the living room, say, while you're tidying up. A car seat, attached to the davenport or big chair is great for getting from "on high". If you don't have a car seat a stroller or swing seat will do nicely.

serving of Gerber Strained Egg Yolks. There's a dish to tune up a taste bud or two. Creamy, custard-like texture, coupled with a delicate fresh-egg flavour, makes every spoonful call for a second. They are an excellent source of iron and vitamin A, and also a good source of protein.

Gerber Egg Yolks are delightful served plain, extra appealing when used as a topping for cereal or vegetables. For older tots and toddlers Gerber Egg Yolks make a fine base for a cooling eggnog drink.

Playpen palette. Sit up babies use their hands more and more. Good way to help baby improve manual dexterity and keep him quietly amused: attach a shoe bag to the inside of his playpen. Stuff pockets with small toys and let him play put-in and take-out to his heart's content and his hands' delight.

Mother saver. Alternating standing and sitting chores and changing shoes once a day will reduce fatigue considerably.

Four savoury ways to give your baby body-building protein and significant amounts of iron and B-vitamins. I'm talking about Gerber Strained Meats . . . wonderfully smooth and moist and brimming with true-meat flavour. Made from selected, government-inspected cuts, they're low in fat and ever so easy to digest. The tasty-treat choices: Beef, Veal, Chicken and the new Chicken-Veal combination . . . all designed to delight your baby. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Gambling Room For Teen-agers Is Uncovered

HAWORTH, N.J. (AP) — A gambling casino operated by teenagers for a teen-age clientele has been uncovered in this community. It operated about two months.

The gambling room was in the basement of a $40,000 private home, police said Tuesday. The youthful host wore a white dinner jacket and black tie to receive patrons and two 18-year-olds and a 17-year-old provided limousine service.

As many as 30 teen-agers, from 15 to 17 years old, would play at one time, said police. "One 17-year-old boy was in debt $1,200," said police chief Gaston Michel. "There was a big winner too—a college boy who was $300 ahead."

The operators were charged as juvenile delinquents and released in custody of their parents.

The owners of the house, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Olsen, were charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors, as was their maid, Mrs. Minnie Chatham. The Olsens were released on $1,000 bail each and Mrs. Chatham on $500.

U.S. Trying to Ease Squeeze Play by Israel, U.A.R. On West Germany

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States is doing what it can to ease the squeeze play by Israel and the United Arab Republic on West Germany.

W. Averell Harriman, recently named American ambassador - at - large by President Johnson, left Tuesday on his first assignment, a global tour starting with Israel.

Since U.S. relations with President Nasser of the U.A.R. are at such a low ebb, a Harriman visit to Cairo may be regarded as useless.

Israel is the only port of call mentioned so far, although the trip will cover other Middle East places and the Far East, scene of the Viet Nam crisis.

But the Israeli visit has immediate significance, with West Germany trapped by a policy of attempting to make friends and, at the same time, guarding her long-term objective of eventual reunification with Communist East Germany.

This is her dilemma.

As something of a restitution to the Jewish people, and with some U.S. pressure applied West Germany in early 1961 began delivering secretly some $30,000,000 worth of arms to Israel.

About 80 per cent had been delivered and a shipment of tanks was on the list when President Nasser angrily referred to German arms for his arch enemy and announced an official state visit invitation for Communist boss Walter Ulbricht of East Germany.

The West Germans have been anxious to maintain on good terms with the Arab states, helping through low - interest loans and other aid. West Germany also has had a thriving export trade, running annually at more than $10,000,000.

West Germany saw the Nasser invitation to Ulbricht as a forecast of official recognition and a clear threat to West German policy of 10 years standing by which West Germany is pledged to break relations with any non-Communist country recognizing East Germany.

West Germany said it would cancel the tank shipment to Israel. Israel reacted as angrily as Nasser had done. Some prominent American businessmen announced a boycott of West German goods.

Nasser conceded with the Ulbricht invitation anyway and his only concession has been to delete some ceremonial for the visit beginning today. Ambassador-recall also arrives in Israel today.

But it does appear that the Ulbricht visit line has hardened, after being squeezed so badly between the two Middle East powers. In the case of Nasser faces some retaliation.

He has asked West Germany for another $250,000,000 for a new five-year program.

Bonn has not yet any or all of it, presumably the Soviet Union and other Communist bloc source will have to make it up.

A larger question for West Germany is how many other Arab countries may be sidling up to East Germany, strengthening that nation's international position.

At this stage, East Germany seems to be a clear winner among the four countries immediately involved.

Heavy Water Plant to Be Built in West

REGINA (CP) — The announcement that a plant to produce heavy water, will be built at Estevan in southeastern Saskatchewan will have far-reaching economic advantages for that area and the province as a whole, Premier Ross Thatcher said Tuesday.

The location of the $46,000,000 plant, Canada's second, was announced jointly by Mr. Thatcher and federal Industry Minister C. M. Drury.

They said the federal government had accepted the recommendation of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited to accept the bid of Western Deuterium Limited of Victoria for the sale of heavy water to be produced at the plant 130 miles southwest of here.

Mr. Thatcher said in addition to employing 500 men during the construction expected to begin this fall, the plant will employ 200 men when completed.

"In addition the plant will utilize more than 1,000 tons of lignite coal from the Estevan area daily," he said.

OTHER INDUSTRY TOO

The premier also said it is expected the plant will attract subsidiary manufacturing, such as chemical plants, to Saskatchewan.

The plant, to be in production by July 1, 1967, will have a capacity of 300 tons of heavy water annually. It will be larger than Canada's first plant, now under construction at Glace Bay, N.S., which has an annual capacity of 200 tons.

Heavy water, used in the production of nuclear power, will be produced under a firm contract with AECL at a purchase price of $141.67 a pound.

This price compares with a contract awarded Deuterium of Canada Limited by AECL in 1963 at a price of $20.50 a pound.

Executive Officer of P.M. Suspected by Denis of Having Leaked Information

OTTAWA (CP) — Raymond Denis says he suspects Hal Dornan, executive officer and speech writer to Prime Minister Pearson, of having leaked information from a confidential immigration department file to Vancouver publicist Al Williamson.

Denis testified to the Dorion inquiry Tuesday that it was "quite normal" for him as executive assistant to the immigration minister last year to supply the information, based on a police report on American millionaire Harry Stonehill, to Dornan and to Senator Louis P. Gelinas, Liberal party treasurer in Quebec.

Dornan had agreed at his request to keep the contents of the file to himself. At a meeting with Williamson, arranged by Dornan and in Pearson's presence, the Vancouver public relations man had been "very, very well aware" of the contents of the confidential file.

Stonehill, now facing fraud charges in the United States, has been ordered out of the country after a bid for permanent residence was denied.

Denis said that last summer when Stonehill's application for residence here Dornan asked him to look at the file. They had gone over it together.

He said Dornan later arranged a hotel meeting among Denis, Dornan, Stonehill and Williamson. He had arranged another among Denis, Dornan and Williamson about daily.

Mr. Pearson has said Dornan acted with "perfect propriety" in the Stonehill case.

HADN'T SEEN SENATOR

Denis said Williamson had told him he hadn't seen Senator Gelinas, the only other person to whom Denis divulged the report.

Denis said he asked at one of the meetings set up by Dornan whether Stonehill had seen Senator Gelinas but denied that he asked whether Stonehill made any arrangement with the senator.

He said that at one point, when Stonehill's investments were being discussed, he had made a "joking" reference to Stonehill "operating in us" as he considered the jobs stupid now.

Later, he said the "us" meant Liberals, Dornan had Williamson.

His first impression had been that the others took the reference as a joke, Dornan had later remarked that "the joke is not such a joke."

Denis was being questioned about the Stonehill case by Montreal Quebec Chief Justice Frederic Dorion described as a test of the credibility of Denis' earlier testimony to the commission.

The commission is investigating allegations that Denis offered a $20,000 bribe last summer to bring about the release by RCMP of Lucien Rivard, wanted in the United States on charges of heading a narcotics smuggling conspiracy. Denis denied the allegation.

Denis had testified that he never discussed Liberal party campaign funds. He also denied under oath having referred Liberal organizer Guy Masson to Senator Gelinas. He testified Masson that he would have nothing to do with a deportation case.

He also said he had heard vaguely about Denis but had had no conversation with him.

The inquiry, under way since last Dec. 15, will hear another 21 witnesses.

Commission counsel André Desjardins said the new list includes Erik Nielsen, Conservative MP for the Yukon who first raised public the bribery allegations against Denis in the Commons Nov. 23.

Justice Minister Favreau, Postmaster - General Tremblay, former Immigration minister, RCMP Commissioner G. B. McClellan and former RCMP commissioners C. W. Harrison and L. H. Nicholson will be others.

Chief Justice Dorion ruled that the inquiry will not investigate whether RCMP reports on the bribery investigation were leaked to MPs or the press.

His ruling blocked an attempt by Rene Dronin, Conservative party counsel, to call T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader who asked early Commons questions about the bribery charges.

Would Prohibit Beer Salesmen Visiting Schools

TORONTO (CP)—A coroner's jury recommended Tuesday that brewery and distillery salesmen be prohibited from canvassing and promoting sales of alcoholic beverages at any educational institution or student residence.

The ruling followed an all-day inquest into the death of Death of Thomas Dasovich, 26, of Elliot Lake, Ont., in a three-car collision following a beer-drinking contest at a Ryerson Polytechnic Institute fraternity house in Toronto.

The jury also recommended the abolition of beer-vending machines in student residences.

Coun Harris, an O'Keefe brewing company salesman who sold beer to a fraternity and supplied a trophy for the winner of an endurance contest, told the inquest the contest had been duly approved by his two immediate superiors at a company banquet.

Steve W. E. W. Harley, O'Keefe Toronto district sales manager, said he first heard of the contest two days after it had taken place.

ASKED TO RESIGN

Mr. Harley, who was temporarily suspended from his job after being asked to resign, said he did not feel the contest was in good taste and that he would not approve of it.

Mr. Harris said he did not suggest a beer-drinking contest among the students but had filled out the form - promotion form.

"This was my first attempt at this," he said. "I disagree the entire thing, with no holds barred that it was a beer-drinking competition, with Ralph Jakes (an assistant Toronto district sales manager for the company). He suggested the wording for the trophy and the sports night."

Mr. Harris said he also discussed the competition with Mr. Harley and left it entirely on the beer-drinking contest on Mr. Harley's desk.

On the sales promotion report, the event was described as an annual sports night and dance, the jury was told.

Ross Downey, executive assistant to the Ontario fire president, said Mr. Harley's resignation was requested because he expected to be more familiar with salesmen's activities. He said Mr. Harris was fired for participating in activities contrary to company policy.

There was no reference to O'Keefes in the police findings and the drivers of the two other cars involved in the fatal collision were absolved of any blame in the accident.

Ross Thomson, a second-year Ryerson student and president of one of the six fraternities involved in the contest, told the inquest Mr. Harris brought a trophy, shaped like a beer keg with the words "O'Keefe Award" and "Ryerson Interfraternity Endurance Champions," to the fraternity house and assisted in judging the drinking contest which followed.

Joslyn Rogers of the stereo-operator's department testified Dasovich, who weighed 225 pounds, had a blood - alcohol count of two parts per 1,000 and had about 12 bottles of beer in his body when killed. He said he would have had to consume much more to have that amount of unabsorbed liquid left.

Parliament At a Glance

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Commons continued study of the Canada Pension Plan, voting down a proposed amendment 69 to 20.

Frank Howard (NDP — Skeena) proposed that fishermen under contract to processors be considered as employees, not self - employed persons.

Some NDP members complained to the Speaker about Liberal MPs rushing into the House after the vote had been called.

Revenue Minister Benson said the amendment would have proved impossible to enforce.

Heward Grafftey (PC — Brome - Missisquoi) said the contributory pension plan ignores the poor.

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said all earning $600 a year or $800 if self-employed would be covered.

Out of the 1964 labor force of 6,820,000 her department estimated 6,373,000, more than 92 per cent, would be eligible for such a plan.

Gene Rheaume (PC—Northwest Territories) said the vast majority of Indians and Eskimos would not be covered.

WEDNESDAY: Feb. 24

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. for continued study of the pension plan. The Senate stands adjourned until March 2.

Range of New Milk Products In Offing

WINNIPEG (CP)—A United States dairy expert said Tuesday a wide range of new milk products are in the offing, including milk that will keep for months without refrigeration.

Dr. S. T. Coulter, head of the University of Minnesota's dairy industry department, predicted significant developments for room temperature.

The milk is sterilized by fast heating, killing all the bacteria that would ordinarily make it go bad without refrigeration.

He told the annual meeting of the Manitoba Dairy Association. Another innovation now being test - marketed are plastic nursing bottles equipped with nipples. Containing sterile milk, the mother just unwraps it and it's ready to use.

APPROVE DEFENCE FUNDS

BONN (AP)—The West German Bundestag (lower house) approved a defence budget Wednesday totalling $4,500,000,000 some $250,000,000 less than last year. The vote was 227-6, with 165 socialists abstaining.

Ulbricht's Visit to Egypt Is Triumph for Persistency

BERLIN (AP)—On his trip to Egypt, Walter Ulbricht is making his first state visit to a non-Communist country.

The fact that these and other nations have refused to grant full recognition to his regime has been irking Ulbricht, especially since he must constantly find ways by which he can improve his own position within the Communist community.

He has constantly schemed and pushed toward being recognized, seeming to disregard the obstacles placed in his path by the West, chiefly the West German government which maintains it has the only legal right to speak for the entire German nation.

Shrewdness and perseverance are among Ulbricht's main personal assets.

FOLLOWS KREMLIN LINE

Since then, his uncanny ability to follow and survive every nuance in the Kremlin line has made him one of Moscow's most valuable Soviet bloc allies.

Although East Germany has developed into the strongest economic unit in the Soviet Europe next to Russia, it has never reached its projected goals.

Heavy industry has shot up and agriculture has been forcibly collectivized, but neither has produced enough to satisfy the wants of Ulbricht's 18,000,000 subjects.

Ulbricht need not worry as long as he has the backing of Soviet arms. As added insurance, he has systematically destroyed all opposition within his own forces.

Born in Leipzig, he joined the Socialdemocratic party and became a union organizer.

Later, in Berlin, he joined Rosa Luxemburg and Karl Liebknecht in forming the Spartacus Society that became the German Communist party in 1920.

With the passage of time and the cutting down of numerous comrades, he became the Kremlin's man.

He is married for the second time and has a daughter.

Canadian TV Reporter Makes Hit in U. S.

NEW YORK (CP) — Peter Jennings, a young Canadian television reporter who "didn't know a rating from a shemata" a few months ago, is up to his well-cut chin in the big popularity game among American network newscasters.

It's a sort of David-and-Goliath scenario with Jennings cast as ABC's David, taking on Walter Cronkite of CBS and the popular NBC combination of Chet Huntley and David Brinkley.

Jennings joined ABC from the CTV, Canada's independent TV network, last September and on Feb. 1 vaulted to anchorman on the network's flagging dinner-hour newscast.

YOUNGER THAN RIVALS

John Horn of The Herald Tribune noted that Jennings is almost a generation younger than his rivals, and "also is handsome, but he appears to overcome this handicap . . . by pleasing delivery, maturity, modesty and professionalism."

Variety's review said Jennings was a "smooth, prepossessing young Canadian" with "the handsome countenance the web (network) has been looking for."

Variety withheld a final verdict on the show, but said "it should be noted that initially the new hope did not impress on the key count of individuality."

"A deftable style, a wit and elegance of phrase, may yet emerge, but among other things he will need sharper copy than he had for the openers."

ABC says the ratings don't show a definite effect from the change yet, but that the first week's results from the Nielsen service indicate Jennings "held quite well the audience he inherited."

Jennings himself indicated he has no illusions about the big popularity gap but said he's younger and therefore can "run faster, farther and faster" than the NBC and CBS veterans.

Maritimes Defended by Magistrate

FREDERICTON (CP)—Magistrate Lloyd B. Smith of Fredericton has taken issue with an Ontario magistrate who contends that persons from the Maritimes, Newfoundland and Quebec are more likely to be involved in stolen - property charges.

Magistrate Kenneth Langdon of Burlington, Ont., said recently there is a branch of family more likely to commit these offences "and the courts find persons from Quebec, Newfoundland and the Maritimes are more likely to be involved."

Magistrate Smith said in an interview that Ontario residents are frequently behind the bars on the same kind of charge.

He said the Maritimes have a much lower crime rate than Ontario. Minor theft charges were "peculiar to all provinces" and many offences are committed by transients "who are always passing through or hanging around."

"These people are dealt with by my court frequently and people from Ontario and Quebec are not an exception," he said.

Peterborough Alderman Committed

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Ald. Geoffrey Feeley was committed Tuesday for trial on April 5 on a charge of counselling to arson.

Bail was set at $3,000 cash and $3,000 property.

Thomas Meredith, a credit company official, told the court earlier that on Jan. 10 Feeley offered him $300 to burn down Feeley's summer cottage just south of the city.

The cottage was destroyed by fire Jan. 24 while Feeley was in Florida. Firemen estimated the loss at about $4,000.

SPORTS SLICES

The Yankees are going to win the 1965 American League pennant. I have it on the unimpeachable authority of our man from Miami. Recently he called the St. Louis Cardinals to repeat their world series victory of 1964.

"They'll win it," he predicts, "because they've given up the idea of waiting and let their home-run kings win games—and earn their victories the harder way."

Such as, he was asked.

"The hit-and-run; stealing bases and running like hell when a baseball lands somewhere in the outfield. They've never been base-stealers and wouldn't normally to second when they knew a homer-hitter was coming to bat."

"Don't forget," he sifted through a curly beard, "the Yankees have a manager who spent 25 years in the National League. Through Johnny Keane they'll learn how the other half plays baseball."

Keane knows, the man said, that it wasn't entirely the baseball ability of the Cardinals that won the pennant. It was something inside the Yankee club—and he intends to stimulate it.

Such as?, he was asked.

"Discipline," he snorted. "Yogi Berra, the great Yankee catcher, was done in, in his one-year stint by his own high-life buddies of his playing days."

"You read in the papers where the Yankee Night Riders got out of control and the Day People resented it."

Keane is a strict disciplinarian. He doesn't drink himself, but soon no objection to a beer, or a cocktail before dinner for his players. "But," the man said, "he may have trouble with some of his primadonnas."

Does he plan any changes , he was asked.

"Not many—if any," said the man. "Pitching-wise he likes this new boy Stottlemyre. He'll go with Ford, Jim Boston, Al Downing as starters. Then he's got Pedro Ramos."

Keane thinks the rest of the Yankees lineup leaves little to be desired. He'll get another catcher—as if he needs one—to bolster Howard and Blanchard.

"Keane's a smart operator," the man said. "He knows that the firing of Yogi Berra left a bad taste in the mouths of a lot of fans. To placate them he's hired Andy Robustelli, popular ex-New York Giant of the NFL. Andy has a big following for he is a buddy of Berra's and they know the same people."

"I see by a New York paper," the man said, "where there are other changes in the Yankees' set-up. The CBS is the new owner. They dropped Mel (How About That) Allen from the broadcasting team and hired Joe Garagiola, a former Cardinal catcher.

"And," the man continued, "I see where Keane is going to handle the club his own way, not follow the procedures of Houk or Berra. Some of the players may find out things they can do that they've not done before—and not do some of the things they've done before."

"Heck," the man muttered as he rose to leave, "is taking a leaf out of Casey Stengel's book. He has invited the fans to bring banners—always banned at the stadium—like the Mets do."

"Says he wants the Yankees to look human. Mebbe that was the trouble with them last year."

Time will tell.

Varsity Hoopster Top Scorer

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

With only a week remaining in the Senior Intercollegiate Basketball League schedule there appears little doubt Dave West will walk away with scoring honors.

The all-star guard for University of Toronto Blues is averaging 23.6 points a game, almost five points ahead of second - place Ed Petryshyn of University of Waterloo Warriors.

West, the league's all-time scoring king, boasts a lifetime total of 823 points. He has two games in which to reach the 1,000 mark.

Petryshyn leads in field-goal shooting with a 54.6 percentage. Nolan Kane of Toronto tops the free-throw department with 85.0 and Ed Bordas of McMaster University Marauders leads in rebounds with 15.5.

Asks Pro Help For Canada

SUDBURY (CP) — Max Silverman, a hockey coach in Northern Ontario for nearly 30 years, made a plea Tuesday for the National Hockey League to assist the Canadian entry in the world hockey tournament, beginning March 6 at Tampere, Finland.

Silverman coached Sudbury teams to one Memorial Cup championship and two cup finals in the early 1930s and a win in the world championship in 1938 at Prague, Czechoslovakia.

He said in an interview there is no reason Canada cannot win the world title three out of every four years using professionals reinstated as amateurs. Such players cannot be used in an Olympic year.

He suggested that each NHL team supply one player to the national team, but not necessarily from its own roster.

"If they loaned one of their good American Hockey League farmhands to the national team for just the two weeks the tournament takes, that would be enough," he said.

He added that the loans would not seriously affect the AHL league standings and the players could become professionals again, once the tournament was over.

Stratton Tops AHL Scorers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (CP) — Nine teams make up the American Hockey League. But when the weekly scoring statistics appear, six of them are nowhere in sight.

In the list released today, the top 10 was an exclusive fraternity consisting of members of Rochester Americans and Quebec Aces, the two divisional leaders, and Buffalo Bisons, runners-up in the Western race. Of the leading 20, 14 belonged to the same three clubs.

Art Stratton and Len Lunde of Buffalo were one-two in scoring points, Stratton having 79 points to Lunde's 77. They were followed by two Rochester snipers, Bronco Horvath with 72 points and Eddie Litzenberger with 71. Wayne Hicks, the early season leader, led the Quebec contingent with 63, good for seventh place behind Pat Hannigan of Buffalo and Stan Smrke of Rochester, tied at 6.

Lunde was the goal-scoring leader at 38 and Stratton led in assists with 63. Fred Glover of Cleveland Barons had the most penalty minutes, 175, and Gerry Cheevers of Rochester was the leading goaltender with a 2.83 average and five shutouts.

Mothers beware. It's hockey night in Canada.

With just a turn of a dial a child often can see real fights, watch grown men try to take each other's heads off with hockey sticks and sometimes watch real blood flow.

Concerned about the possibility of rough stuff getting out of hand, president Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League has announced he is considering increasing $100 fines imposed on Boston Bruins' Orland Kurtenbach and Doug Mohns of Chicago Black Hawks for their stick-swinging duel during Sunday night's game in Chicago.

"This has no place in our business," Campbell said Tuesday. "We're on television so often now that we can't have stock fights witnessed by impressionable youngsters."

Both Kurtenbach and Mohns received automatic $100 fines after they were handed match penalties for deliberately trying to injure.

"This is the second incident of this nature in recent weeks," the NHL president said. "I hope we're not getting an epidemic."

In the previous case, similar fines were raised to $200 by Campbell against Boston's Reg Fleming and Bill Gadsby of Detroit Red Wings after the president studied a report from game officials.

SIX PLAY TONIGHT

League play continues tonight when New York visits Montreal, Boston goes to Toronto and Detroit takes on the league-leading Chicago club.

Montreal coach Toe Blake expressed concern over his club's game against the Bluenins.

"Games against Chicago, Toronto and Detroit are the big ones in the close title race," he said. "But we still have to beat New York and Boston and you can't take them for granted."

"Naturally the loss of a scoring ace like Camille Henry immediately hurts," Blake said about the trading of Henry to Chicago by New York. "But the new kids are working hard and the Rangers may have made a good deal for the future."

Another deal may be in the wind.

Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League have offered $30,000 to New York for either of their goalies, Jacques Plante or Marcel Paille.

The Aces announced they must find a goaltender before Sunday and would be willing to take either netminder.

Management of both clubs are scheduled to meet in Montreal today.

The Aces have been handicapped since losing Lorne (Gump) Worsley to the parent Montreal club.

Nationals Win In Sweden

ALFREDSHEM, Sweden (CP-Reuters)—A young Canadian hockey team defeated a Swedish B division team 8-4 Tuesday after two earlier defeats by the Swedish national team.

The Canadian team, made up mostly of players from Winnipeg Maroons, last year's Canadian senior champions, lost 4-1 and 8-6 in earlier contests with the Swedes.

Questions Release Signature

Japanese Hints Skullduggery

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The international controversy over baseball pitcher Masanori Murakami became more heated Tuesday as a representative of the Nankai Hawks said a signature on a release document was not that of the Japanese team's managing director, Tsuguhiro Iwase.

Vice-president Charles Feeney of the San Francisco Giants said the release was sent to Japan for signatures and was returned with them. He said he knows one was that of Murakami and assumed the other was that of Iwase.

Negotiations, said Feeney, were handled through Cappy Harada, who acted as an agent for the Hawks.

Joe Stanka, a former major league pitcher now playing with the Hawks, said at a press conference that Iwase had not signed the release and the signature on the document had his first name misspelled.

Both the Hawks and Giants claim the services of Murakami, who became the first Japanese citizen to pitch in the U.S. major leagues when he appeared with the Giants late in 1964 as a relief pitcher.

Stanka said: "We don't know who signed the release, but we know it was not Mr. Iwase."

Feeney said basic contracts with the Hawks gave the Giants the right to sign Murakami. The Japanese team said it thought the money it received was a bonus and maintained Murakami was only on loan.

Ontario Women Top Curling Field

Unbeaten In Four

By DON ANGUS

HALIFAX (CP) — New personnel may be responsible for much of Fern Irwin's success this season, but the Toronto skip also relied on lady luck to remain undefeated after four rounds of the Canada Women's curling championship here Tuesday.

Mrs. Irwin, who finished fifth last season, got her big break in the final end of her fourth round match against Prince Edward Island when Sybil MacMillan of Charlottetown missed with her last rock to give Ontario a 13-9 win.

The victory enabled the Ontario foursome, which also includes Erva Law, lead, Fern McDonald, second and Regina Thompson, third, to take sole possession of top spot in the 10-rink, round-robin bonspiel.

Alberta skipped by Dorothy Thompson of Edmonton, Manitoba skipped by Peggy Cassidman of Winnipeg and Nova Scotia's Audrey Thorbourne of Liverpool were all tied for second place with 3-1 win-loss records.

Prince Edward Island and Quebec's Solange Larouche of Dolbeau were tied for fifth place with 2-2 records.

N.B. WINLESS

Rinks skipped by Lesley Cmolik of Kelowna, B.C., Bobbie Fortune of Goose Bay, Labrador, representing Newfoundland, and Barbara MacNevrin of Delisle, Sask., followed with one in four starts, while New Brunswick skipped by Joan Callaghan of Bathurst were still without a victory.

Ontario, P.E.I. and Quebec had gone into Tuesday's third round tied for first place, but the luck of the draw matched Mrs. Irwin and Mrs. Larouche and the Ontario rink registered a 13-11, extra-end victory.

The game shaped up as one of the day's top matches with both rinks deadlocked at 7-7 after four ends. Mrs. Larouche took an 11-10 lead with three in the 10th end, but Mrs. Irwin forced the game to an extra end by collecting one in the 10th and final end.

Then without last rock, Mrs. Irwin stole two points when Mrs. Larouche's attempted takeout struck a guard.

At the same time Manitoba disposed of P.E.I. 12-7, counting a five-under enroute.

ONTARIO SLOW

Ontario got off to a slow start against Mrs. MacMillan and trailed 8-2 after four ends. A three ender in the fifth and two each in the sixth and seventh end gave Mrs. Irwin an 9-8 edge before P.E.I. tied the score in the eighth.

Mrs. Irwin held a 12-9 edge going into the final end without last stone, and Mrs. MacMillan could have tied the score with her final rock. But the P.E.I.-stone was off the broom and heavy, nudging an Ontario stone in for No. 1.

In other third-round games, Alberta walloped British Columbia 14-3, Newfoundland defeated New Brunswick 12-8, and Nova Scotia edged Saskatchewan 8-5 in one of the best played games of the day.

There was one blank end as both rinks battled to a 5-5 tie in nine ends. Nova Scotia came through with three in the final end, however, To remain a top contender.

In other fourth-round matches, British Columbia beat Newfoundland 14-10, Manitoba had little difficulty disposing of New Brunswick 12-8, Alberta walloped Saskatchewan 12-4 and Nova Scotia edged Quebec 8-6.

BCI Trims Quinte 62-40

By ROBERT SNELJELLA

The statement "the better team wins" is generally true. Well, that's exactly what happened in the first game of the Bay of Quinte OSSA playoffs between Belleville Collegiate and Quinte Secondary school.

BCI, showing superb teamwork and shooting, trounced Quinte 62-40.

The winners, who haven't lost a contest all year and do not look like they will, carry a big 23-point lead into the second and final game of the total-points series.

Quinte's effort was not as poor as the score indicated, for through the first half and third quarter the losers nearly matched BCI in scoring. It was the disastrous third quarter, in which the Saints were outscored 19-4, that really decided the game.

Collegians Ron Walsh and Murray Swan shared top honors with 18 points each. Alan Mott and Nick Gulis contributed eight points each, while Doug Perk and Don McCormack netted seven and three, respectively.

Tony Meddings led all Quinte scorers with 16 points, while Max Valyear hooped 10 points, and Bill Leslie, Steve Bylsma and Jack Reppard had six, four and four points.

CFL President

Wants Legal Opinion On Player Rule

CALGARY (CP) — Pat Mahoney, newly elected president of the Canadian Football League, said Tuesday he has instructed CFL commissioner Sydney Halter of Winnipeg to obtain a legal opinion on the league's amendment limiting a team to three naturalized Canadians.

"Until such opinion is obtained, no action can be taken or any comment be made by the league," Mahoney said in a press release.

Mahoney said the opinion would be available to the regular meeting of CFL general managers in April, possibly in Winnipeg.

"If it then appears that any action by the league executive is indicated, such action will be taken without delay," Mahoney said.

Mahoney said the question of naturalized Canadians has already been placed on the agenda for the league's semi-annual meeting in June.

He said Halter was instructed in Ottawa and was supported by six of the nine CFL clubs.

Drops Triple-Header

Trenton Bows To Moira

By DAVE BRAMMER and BARRY CAMPBELL

Moira closed out the basketball season last night with a triple win over Trenton at Moira. The seniors defeated Trenton 52-40, the juniors won 52-39 and the bantams came out on top, 58-39.

The senior game started very slowly as neither team could mount any substantial offensive. However, Moira's smooth passing attack gave them a 25-20 lead at half time.

In the third quarter Moira's ball handling paid off as they added valuable points to their slim lead. The last quarter was a stand-off as both teams scored the same number of points. This made the final score 52-40 for Moira.

Moira (52)—George Pugh 16 points, Rick Graham 12, Bob Dunsmore 9, Bob Leckie 6, Fraser Ritchie 5, Carmen Milli. gan 3, and Bob Farrow 1.

Trenton (40)—Blain 15, Chambers 11, Harley 8 and Charters 6.

The Moira juniors rapped an undefeated season by trouncing Trenton 52-39. The smooth, sharp passing of the junior Trojans had the visitors confused. This resulted in rising tempers which almost started a fight in the fourth quarter.

Scoring for Moira were Dave Beresford and Bob Watson with 20 points, Fred Banting 12, Don Sauby 8 points. High scored for Trenton was Nick with 20 points.

The bantam game was a very fast, action-packed game with Moira playing one of their best games of the season.

Scoring for Moira were Ted Beresford, 16 points, Bill Probert 12, Bruce LaRue 9, and Paul Bishop 8 points. High Trenton scorers were Schaufele 19 points, and Munn 12 points.

Networks Defend CBS Buy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top officials of two rival television networks defended Tuesday the purchase of New York Yankees by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Thomas W. Moore, president of the American Broadcasting Company, and Julian Goodman, a vice-president of the National Broadcasting Company, gave much the same answers at a meeting of the Senate anti - trust and monopoly subcommittee.

Neither man felt CBS would gain any unfair advantage in bidding for future television rights.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Phillip A. Heart (Dem. Mich.), is studying the CBS-Yankee deal as a part of its consideration of a bill which would strip baseball of its blanket anti-trust exemption. The legislation would spell out limited, uniform exemption for all professional sports.

Minor Hockey

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association's midgets, juveniles and novices saw action at Memorial Arena last night.

Tonight, Belleville Riteways play host to Trenton in the second game of their OMHA novice playdown series. Riteways lead the two-game, goals-to-count set 3-3. Game time is seven o'clock.

NOVICE

Bruins downed the Rangers 4-1. John Schwager scored twice while Wayne Genereaux and Ricky Burnett one each for the winners. Paul Ackerman got the Ranger goal.

Toepees, edged the Barons 4-3. Wally Dalnard, John Ventnutti, Billy Coughlan and Doug Cole had Toepee markers. John Edwards, Mike Watt and Ken Hodgson scored for the losers.

MIDGET

Elks defeated the Leafs 7-3. J. Cole starred for the winners with a four-goal eruption. J. McKenzie, T. Herrington and T. Wellesley also scored while J. Moore and Wellesley had assists. R. Rosebush scored three Leaf goals and M. Coughlin bagged the other pair. R. Geen and R. Ellis drew two assists apiece.

Red Wings and Canadiens played a 6-6 deadlock. S. Lee scored three, P. Goyer, C. McFarland and A. Rea one each for Canadiens. D. MacCormick and Rea got two helpers apiece. W. Muir had three goals and an assist for the Wings. D. Kellar, R. Fuller and Ed Emmett also scored. H. Selles, K. Lang, Hancock and M. Wardbaugh got assists.

JUVENILES

O.S.D. Wolves and the Tigers split points in a 3-3 deadlock. Olsen, Dorn and Muir fired the Tiger markers. Smith, Muir and Dorn had assists. O.S.D. goals went to MacDonald, Mooney and Cripps and Phillips got an assist. The Wolves drew seven of the game's ten penalties.

Agrees To Non-Sign Policy

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—James J. Corbett, chairman of the U.S. NCAA college-professional relations committee, said Tuesday the Canadian Football League has advised it will wait for players to complete their U.S. college eligibility before signing them.

Sydney Halter of the CFL wrote to Corbett, Louisiana state university athletic director, saying the league will not permit a college player to be signed until "the completion of all his football games, including bowl games, in which the team of the player's school is to participate."

The National and American football leagues of the United States have given similar assurances to the NCAA after a rash of criticism over the premature signings of college players.

Lightfoots Stopped By Cobourg

Cobourg Kiwanis put a damper on Belleville Lightfoots' hopes for a first-place finish in a Bay of Quinte men's basketball league game at Cobourg last night.

The Kiwanis crew stopped Lightfoots 64-59, leaving the losers one point behind the league-leading RCAF Flyers. Lightfoots and Flyers clash at the Air Port tonight while Trenton Wilson and Cobourg, tied in the loop cellar, also play in Trenton.

Cobourg never trailed last night, moving ahead 16-7 in the game's early minutes and 33-23 at half time.

Lightfoots picked away at the lead and had it whittled down to a slim three points late in the contest. Then the losers lost their shooting eye from the free-throw line and Cobourg cashed in to clinch the win.

Belleville got 19-for-37 from the foul line overall but had only 6-for-12 in the dying minutes as Kiwanis saw four of their players foul out of the game.

Big Jeff Ravensdale, star of the COSSA High School tournament here last year, paced Cobourg with 16 points. He got 14 of his 18 in the first half and fouled out right after half-time. Teammates Dennis Clarke, Jim Coughlin and Brian Sayers followed him to sidelines.

Sayers hooped 14 points and Gord Anderson 12 to back Ravensdale.

Don Smith had a big night for the Lightfoots, hitting for 27 points. Most of his assistance came from Ian Houchin with 16, but behind them the scoring points were scare.

Belleville Lightfoots (59) — J. Clapp 2, B. Langabeer 4, G. Reynolds 2, D. Smith 27, I. Houchin 16, G. Coughlin 2, B. Smith 6.

Cobourg Kiwanis (64) — D. Clarke 3, F. Gallagher 4, J. Coughlin 8, J. Ravensdale 16, B. Sayers 14, G. Anderson 12, B. Stuart 3, G. Coughlin 4.

Quebec Peewee Tourney

QUEBEC (CP) — Toronto's Mine Safety team, spoken of as possible champions by fans at the sixth International Peewee hockey tournament, looked powerful in an 11-1 win over Toronto Bruins Tuesday night. But they are still awaiting their chance at the 1964 champions Toronto Torrids.

Peterborough's Tom Forestell scored three goals to spearhead a 5-0 shutout of Quebec City's playgrounds team. Other scorers from the Ontario city were Mike Condon and Jim Griffin.

Flyers Defeat Marlies

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A tactical error cost Toronto Marlboros what may have been their best opportunity to catch Brampton Flyers in the waning Ontario Hockey Association Junior A season.

The Marlboros, noted in past years for their jolting style of hockey, tried to out-muscle the Flyers, but bowed 4-2 Tuesday night in Niagara Falls.

They fell five points behind with only six games left. With 66 points, they are still 11 ahead of Peterborough Petes.

A total of 70 minutes in penalties was handed out in the rugged game, including majors and misconducts to Niagara Falls' Bud Dobrody and Toronto's Brian Glennie for a second period fight.

The Petes edged Kitchener Rangers 3-2 and St. Catharines Black Hawks and Oshawa Generals battled to a 3-3 tie in the other games.

Defencemen Gilles Marotte paced the Flyers' attack with two goals while Andre Lajeunesse and Jim Lorentz had one each. Britt Selby and Mike Corrigan scored for Toronto.

Peterborough, playing without high - scoring Andre Lacroix, got goals from Leo Thiffault, Danny Grant and Gary Monahan. Ken Stratton and Bill Hway were the Kitchener marksmen.

Demands Disgust Manager

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Luman Harris is pleased with Houston Astros' catching situation, but general manager George Selkirk is disgusted with Washington's.

More specifically, Selkirk said Tuesday, he is disgusted with the attitude and demands of catcher Mike Brumley, preparing for his second season in the majors.

Selkirk broke off negotiations with Brumley, walking out of the meeting with the Senators' only unsigned regular. Brumley said he still has some differences with Selkirk.

Brumley, who appears to be Washington's starting catcher for 1965, batted .244 last year. He has been working out with the team's other catchers and pitchers at Pompano Beach, Fla., after going to camp at his own expense.

Harris, on the other hand, said the Astros' top catching assignment is narrowing to three men — John Bateman, Jerry Grote and Ron Brand. He said all three impress him.

HITTING LONG

Bateman has been hitting the long ball during workouts at Cocoa, Fla., and Harris said winter ball must have helped Grote. Houston's new manager also said he liked Brand's hitting and hustling.

The Astros were rained out of their workout Tuesday as were Minnesota Twins at Orlando.

The twins also were troubled by hangnails. They belong to infielder Bernie Allen, who has been hobbling around and is unlikely to be ready to work out until Thursday or Friday. Allen has been plagued by hangnails on his left foot.

Among players signing Tuesday were pitcher Jim Maloney and second baseman Pete Rose of Cincinnati Reds. Maloney, who previously said he wanted $20,000 following a 15-10 season, commented that he was satisfied with his contract.

Boucher Lost All Trophies

REGINA (CP)—"You know, you just take them for granted until you lose them. Then you're sorry it ever happened."

Frank Boucher, former star in the National Hockey League and now commissioner of the Saskatchewan Junior League, was commenting Tuesday on a fire which swept through his summer farm home in Kemptville, Ont., destroying most of his personal hockey memories and the original Lady Byng Trophy.

"I am particularly sorry about losing the Lady Byng Trophy because I had promised I would leave it in my will to the Hockey Hall of Fame," he said.

Boucher's son Earl, his wife and family were living in the farm home. Boucher said it was burned to the ground.

Boucher said he lost all his hockey mementoes in the blaze. They included a number of trophies that were up for competition between New York Americans and New York Rangers in the 1930s.

HYGIENE UNPOPULAR

ABERDEEN, Scotland (CP) A college course here in food hygiene has failed through lack of support. The head of the college in this city which was struck by a typhoid epidemic last summer said "nothing whatsoever is being done on the part of retailers to improve food hygiene" as far as he knows.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

By GORDIE HOWE

Being a good skater is so important to becoming a good hockey player that whenever we're coaching youngsters, we try to combine skating with it. There's no such thing as too much ice time.

And having a stick in your hand, even without any puck to handle, is equally important while practising skating.

If you enjoy something, I think you're going to put so much more effort into it. Having a stick in your hand, even without a puck, you take a wheack at a little piece of snow or dirt on the outdoor rinks.

Your imagination goes to work and you're flying the puck just inside the post for a game-deciding goal. It makes it fun, takes the drudgery out of it.

This helps promote balance. It is very, very good for developing balance. And you practise shooting from all kinds of positions.

As a matter of fact when I'm skating in practise and I break my stick, I feel naked without that stick in my hand. It seems unnatural to do those wind sprints without the stick.

It is a matter of becoming so accustomed to it that you're actually uncomfortable without it.

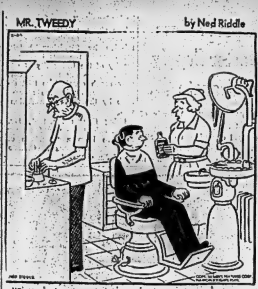
When the youngsters are on the ice, it's not the time for conversation with their fellow players. It is the time to learn and skate.

In all honesty when somebody says what's the most important thing you can tell youngsters about hockey, I'd say it's listen to your elders. They're going to save you a lot of trouble and a lot of hardships.

If you listen to them, you can benefit by their experience. They'll give you a lot of shortcuts. The same thing goes not only in hockey but in every day living. If you've got a coach, listen to him, obey him. You'll benefit.

Blues Star Leads Puck Score Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS



Steve Monteith of University of Toronto Blues has one game left in which to protect his lead in the scoring race of the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League.

Winger Monteith has 54 points, four more than his brother and teammate Hank, and 10 more than Bob Pond of Queen's University. Golden Gaels, Blues and Gaels each have one game left in the schedule.

The only important contest still to be decided is goal scoring. Steve Monteith, who has led this department all year, now shares the lead with Pond. Each has 23.

Monteith and Pond have broken the former record for one season of 21, set by Reggie Sinclair of McGill University Redmen in 1948-49 and matches this year by Hank Monteith.

Garry Bonney of University of Western Ontario Mustangs tops the goalies with a 3.27 average in 14 games. Grant Moore of Toronto ran his record penalty total for the season to 84 minutes.

Grid Loop To Talk Expansion

NEW YORK (AP)—The Continental Football League has scheduled a meeting in New York for this weekend, probably to name a commissioner and decide whether to enlarge on its present 10 teams.

The league, formed from teams of the Atlantic Coast League and the United League, hopes to develop into a third major circuit, competing with the National and American leagues.

The league was formed two weeks ago with the following members: Providence, Springfield, Hartford, Newark, Philadelphia, Toronto, Fort Wayne, Charleston, Wheeling and Richmond.

Philadelphia took over the Canton franchise and Toronto the Montreal franchise of the United League, joining Charleston, Wheeling and Fort Wayne, formerly Indianapolis, of the same circuit.

Buffalo Golden Gloves

Canadians Win 8 Bouts

Limpert won a decision over Jim Howard of Batavia, N.Y. to qualify for the U.S. Golden Gloves finals at Kansas City, Mo.

The Canadians walked away with five victories, including Limpert's, in the tournament's open division and picked up three more in the novice class.

Assembly Blackjacked Into Vote by Red China's Ally

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The long opening battle of the United Nations "article 19 war" has subsided into armistice, and the question arises: Who won?

Washington, Moscow and Peking might all claim a small slice of victory out of the power struggle. All of them suffered setbacks as well, but the big loser seems to be the paralyzed UN itself.

Washington has backed up step by step ever since last Dec. 1 in its declared resolve to bring the Soviets to heel under Article 19.

Repeatedly the U.S. insisted it would challenge the Soviets' right to vote in the General Assembly at the first opportunity because of their refusal to pay peace force assessments.

But last Thursday the assembly was blackjacked into a vote by Communist China's ally, Albania. The Americans, in a display of intricate legal contortion, explained that it was only a procedural matter as the Russians could vote.

The Albanians said that meant the American bluff had been called.

To some extent they were right, since Article 19 says clearly that countries whose arrears total more than two years' assessments "shall have no vote" in the assembly. It makes no distinction between procedural and substantive matters.

But the result was far from a clear victory for the 13 debtor countries — who include France, Belgium, South Africa and Albania itself besides the Soviet bloc.

The 13 were stymied when the assembly refused to free them from the threat of Article 19, even though the Russians had promised an indirect payment if the body would do so.

To Western eyes, that indicated support for the assembly's right to levy peace-keeping assessments. And it also meant that the Russians, while continuing to insist on exclusive peace-keeping control by the Security Council, were seriously looking for a way out of the tangle.

Peking's role in the battle — and its motives — are much less clear.

Most Western delegates assume that the Chinese regime, barred from the UN itself, directed Albania's manoeuvres in trying to force a showdown vote. They believe the aim was to embarrass both the Russians and Americans and to damage the UN.

If that assessment is true, the Chinese had some success. The Americans and Russians were indeed embarrassed and the assembly had to stumble through the most dismal meeting of a dismal session before managing to block Albania.

But the outcome was just what the Russians and Americans had agreed on — a summer - long adjournment to allow examination of the whole peace-keeping setup.

If the Chinese aim was to disrupt these negotiations, it failed. Conceivably, it could even backfire and prod the big two into their first meaningful talks on the problem.

ARTIFICIAL INCREASE

REGINA (CP) — Artificial breeding of beef cattle in Saskatchewan now exceeds the same method of breeding in dairy cattle. Figures for 1963 released by the provincial agriculture department show that of 42,622 artificial breedings, 22,188 were to beef cattle. It was the first year that beef cattle breedings exceeded those of dairy cattle.

Report Shows Doctor Supply Inadequate

OTTAWA (CP)—A study of medical manpower prepared for the royal commission on health services found that the supply of doctors in Canada "seems to be inadequate."

The study, released Monday, was prepared for the royal commission by Stanislaw Judek, professor in the social sciences faculty of the University of Ottawa. The study notes that it may reach conclusions that do not necessarily involve acceptance by the royal commission.

Using figures for 1961, Mr. Judek said there would appear to have been a "shortage of about 1,400 doctors in Canada as of June, 1961."

WAS ONE FOR 86

In 1961 in Canada, there was one doctor for every 986 Canadians, his report showed. This compared with one for every 736 Americans in 1962, one for every 606 Italians in 1960, one for every 715 West Germans in 1960, one for every 1,003 Frenchmen in 1959 and one for every 932 Britons in 1960.

Another study questions whether it is necessary for a high school graduate to spend up to seven years before becoming a doctor.

The six doctors who made the study suggested that perhaps two years could be shaved off the education of a doctor at the high school level.

The study said if there was to be an acceleration in Canada "it must take place in either the primary or secondary school programs."

"It is unlikely that the basic studies of medicine, with an ever - increasing body of knowledge in medicine, can be accomplished in less than four calendar years."

ABC Lowers the Boom On the Les Crane Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC gently but definitely, has lowered the boom on its 14-week-old, late evening Les Crane show.

Starting next Monday, the 75-minute program will be renamed ABC's Nightlife and host Crane will be relegated to master of ceremonies by a series of guest stars.

The Crane show, patterned after NBC's successful Tonight Show, caused considerable comment, mostly because of Crane's determination to be provocative. The program, however, failed to attract enough audience to warrant its continuation.

On the show Tuesday night, Crane merely read ABC's formal announcement concerning the program.

Earlier in the evening, there was one of those rare but always dismaying conflicts, this time a collision between programs constructed on historical ideas.

NBC had a program based on the journals of Lewis and Clark, who in 1804 were sent on an expedition to chart the Northwest Passage.

ABC, at the same time was broadcasting a program based on the notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci, the 15th - century Italian who also pursued science, physics, mathematics and painting.

The Lewis and Clark program was a photographic reconstruction of the expedition. It was a story of hard hardships and lots of beautiful scenery.

Da Vinci's story, another in The Saga of Western Man series, was more elaborate. Much of it was filmed in Italy. Some great scenes were reconstructed.

The program was lavishly illustrated with films of his great paintings, including the Mona Lisa and Last Supper.

CBS news president Fred W. Friendly, in a memorandum to his staff, has urged "discretion" in the use of news bulletins which interrupt programs, cautioning that their "indiscriminate use for competitive reasons or for promoting one's own image as a news organization" is disservice to viewers and listeners.

SIDNEY TOWNSHIP NEWS

SIDNEY TWP. — White's Church at Bayside received the Guide and Scout Troops and Brownies and Cub Packs from the district in their annual Thinking Day parade on Sunday. Mrs. William Langley, Mrs. Ross Jones, Mrs. Jean Miller and Mrs. Sylvia Nowe were in charge of the many Guides and Brownies who attended, and Mr. Myra and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison were in charge of the Cubs and Scouts. They were welcomed by the church's student minister, Mr. Roy McGrath, who spoke of some of his humorous experiences as a Cub and Scout in his home town of Smiths Falls. He related the familiar B'nhs parade, the meeting and the seeds with the seeds sown by Cub leaders in the organizations.

Paul Lidditer of the Bayside Cubs repeated the Cub promise and Mr. Grath noted that there were three main areas covered: duty to God, duty to his Queen and helpfulness to others. Duty to God should take precedence over all other activities in the busy round of community life. Duty to the Queen makes us good Canadians who are eager to be law-abiding citizens. Helpfulness to others means not only people in our own immediate families, but all others.

BEHAVE ON BUS

"Good Scouts, Cubs, Brownies and Guides will behave on the school bus so that the driver can concentrate on his driving. They will be known throughout the community as people who can be counted on to do the right thing. The words which are repeated as promises will be: In unison, mumbled, half-understood phrases like the seed which fell on stony ground, but should be thoughtfully considered so it can take root and grow and develop characters in the individual," said the speaker.

The newly-formed Junior choir rendered an anthem assisted by Mrs. Muriel Bilham and Mrs. Garnet Dean. Mrs. Carter acted as choir mother.

Stirling

STIRLING — Several members of Stirling Lodge 239 of the I.O.O.F. journeyed to Madoc Lodge 179 I.O.O.F. and conferred the second degree on a group of candidates on Wednesday evening.

Twenty-two members of Stirling Encampment No. 80 I.O.O. F. journeyed to Madoc and conferred the Golden Rule degree on seven candidates.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hicks spent a few days at Sackville, New Brunswick, and attended the funeral of their brother.

Over $300. was raised in the street March of Dimes. Good results attended the Jones-Burton wedding in Rideau Park United Church, Ottawa. They spent two weeks with relatives at Lenark and Ottawa.

AT THE PARK — Steve McQueen and Les Remick, as husband and wife in the Fakula-Mulligan production of "Baby the Rain Must Fall", opening Thursday at the Park for a 7 day engagement, discuss their reconciliation with Don Murray. The three are starred in the new Columbia Pictures release, which was written by Horton Foote, based on his own Broadway stage play. Alan J. Pakula produced and Robert Mulligan directed the drama. On the same program for your added enjoyment "Two Tickets To Paris". Both hits are first showings. Complete shows 7.00 and 9.00 p.m.

AT THE BELLE — Teamed as husband and wife in Universal's zany comedy in Technicolor, "Send Me No Flowers" are Doris Day and Rock Hudson. Their co-stars in the merry proceedings are directed by Norman Jewison. Tony Randall and Clint Walker. A special Featurette, "Tribute To Churchill", is also continuing Today to Saturday, at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Mary Poppins, Disney's Fantasy, Gets Nomination

My Fair Lady, which was favored to lead, got 12 and Richard, Audrey Hepburn, was expected to win a best - actress nomination, but failed.

This made it a triumph all around for Julie Andrews. She not only won a best - actress nod for her first film role, but now is favored to win.

Miss Andrews was chosen to star in Poppins after being passed over for the lead in My Fair Lady, a role she created on Broadway. Miss Hepburn won critical praise, but academy voters apparently decided to ignore her, siding sentimentally with Miss Andrews.

Others nominated for best actress were:

Debbie Reynolds for The Unsinkable Molly Brown; Anne Bancroft for The Pumpkin Eater; Sophia Loren for Marriage, Italian Style; and Kim Stanley for Seance on a Wet Afternoon.

BRITONS TOP ACTORS

Best - actor nominations had only one non - Briton in the lineup, Tony Quinn for Zorba the Greek. The others were like a who's who of British theatre: Richard Burton and Peter O'Toole for Becket; Peter Sellers for Dr. Strangelove and, Rex Harrison for My Fair Lady.

Tied at 12 nominations with My Fair Lady was Becket. These and Mary Poppins won best-picture nominations, along with Dr. Strangelove and Zorba the Greek.

In the supporting categories, Britannia ruled strong, with John Gielgud in Becket; Stanley Holloway in My Fair Lady; and Peter Ustinov in Topkapi, all British subjects. Two local boys made good: Lee Tracy for The Best Man, and Edmond O'Brien for Seven Days in May.

Two of the great ladies of English theatre were in top contention for best supporting actress: Gladys Cooper for My Fair Lady and Dame Edith Evans for The Chalk Garden.

Howard Hawks Makes Film Without Big Name Stars

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Howard Hawks is an old-style movie-maker, a director who handles his product with precision and care.

But in today's quick - buck movie world, he is anything but old-fashioned.

When I dropped by the set of the latest film, Red Line 7000, it was alive with young people reacting to the raucous music of a discotheque, the dancing tangled misery in which patrons writhe to records played by a disgusted nymph in a glass cage.

None of the principal performers was recognizable, and that is how Hawks has planned it.

At 68 he remains an earnest man, a tall, spare figure who reams the set infecting his workers with enthusiasm. He paused to explain why he is making the auto-racing film with newcomers.

CLEARED $2,000,000

"Once I asked a studio boss why he was hiring 'old' he remarked. "I was told: 'Well, we made a picture with John Wayne that did two years ago. I cleared $2,000,000 yourself.'

"That proved to me that names don't guarantee success. They help—if you have a good picture. But if you don't have a good picture all the names in Hollywood won't help you."

So Hawks decided to return to a style he has used in the past: Making a film without names. He did it before with Scarface, which launched stars of Paul Muni and George Raft; with Air Force, — "John Garfield wanted to be in it, and I made him play a featured role"; and The Thing (unknown James Arness played the title role).

Hawks, who has long favored the angular, fashion-model type (notable discoveries: Lauren Bacall, Angie Dickinson) repeated that for Red Line 7000. His choices for the new picture: Model Gail Hire, TV actress Laura Devon, singer - trained Marianna Hill. The men behind the wheels are James Ward, James Caan and John Robert Crawford.

"I must have seen a thousand young people before I picked them," said Hawks. "Already other producers are asking to use them. I think that's good business. Hollywood desperately needs new names and somebody had to start finding some."

The others were Grayson Hall in Night of the Iguana; Lila Kedrova in Zorba and Agnes Moorehead in Hush . . . Hush, Sweet Charlotte.

The Oscars will be handed out April 5 in Santa Monica Civic Auditorium, with Bob Hope as the master of ceremonies for ABC-TV telecast.

BIG OPERATOR

AT THE PARK — Joey Dee and Jet Lynne Fraser find romance, and romantic complications in Columbia Pictures' "Two Tickets to Paris", opening at the Park Theatre Thursday, new Barry Noman production also starring Cory Crosby and Kay Medford. On the same program Steve McQueen, Lee Remick and Don Murray in "Baby The Rain Must Fall". Both hits are first showings. Complete shows at 7.00 and 9.00 p.m.

Sadness in a Miracle

Five Brothers Can Now See--Must Adjust to New World

By EDOARDO MAGRI

CAMPOBELLO DI LICATA, Italy (AP)--Five brothers born blind have learned the world they now can see a world amazingly different from the world they once knew.

But there is some sadness in this miracle of sight the five boys gained after operations three months ago.

They had hesitantly through books of fascinating stories. But they had learned to read braille. The printed letters mean nothing to them.

The country home where they lived with their unemployed father and work-worn mother seemed huge and wonderful to them when they groped in darkness.

Now they can see that it is only one room with two little annexes, with no flooring, smoke-stained walls and rickety furnishings.

"I knew every corner and every piece of furniture when I was blind," said 15-year-old Paolo, the oldest. "I could only feel my way around, but the house was large and good. Now I know that my house is poor, so very poor."

SEES GOOD

"I think it is the only bad thing I have found since I began to see," said Carmelo, 13.

"We live in a world that is completely different from the one we imagined," said Giuseppe, 8. "The commonest things are still new and surprising to us."

Each of the boys has developed a different hobby now that he can see.

Paolo pores ceaselessly over pictures and story books the boys have been given. "I like books on animals since I saw the zoo in Rome," Paolo said, recalling the trip the brothers made to Rome to see the Pope.

They went there shortly after the bandages were taken off their eyes. Doctors had operated to remove cataracts with which the boys were born.

"But," Paolo added, "it is too bad I cannot read the books. I learned reading the way blind children read and it is of no use to me now."

Carmelo spends his time riding a bicycle. "I like to go fast and see the road and trees rushing past me," he said.

Calogero, 4, youngest of the brothers, rides a tricycle and manages to keep his pockets stuffed with caramels and candies.

LOVES DOGS

Giuseppe has developed a love of dogs and says he hopes to have many of them. He liked cats at first, too, but gave them up when he saw they didn't get along with his dogs.

He has another ambition. "I will study and become an eye doctor," he said. "I want to help other boys like those who were at the institution with us when we were blind."

Gioacchino, 11, likes lights. He climbs the hill to look down at the light patterns in the windows of the village below when evening darkness falls at night.

The boys agree on one thing that most all boys agree on. They say their mother, Grazia Rotolo, is the most beautiful woman they ever knew.

Hard work has aged her beyong her years. But she has a young-looking smile and soft eyes.

"Ma e bella, bella"--but she is beautiful, beautiful -- said Paolo. "I like to see mama; it makes me feel good," said little Calogero. "Mama is different from other women," said Giuseppe. "She has very big eyes and her red hair is beautiful."

Creator of 'Boy Friend' Tries to Do It Again

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)--Sandy Wilson is a young man who has spent a small fortune out of middle-aged memories. In the process he has infected people even younger than he with nostalgia for an era they never knew.

In 1953, as a struggling actor-writer of 29, he wrote, "more or less as a private joke," an affectionate spoof of a 1920s musical comedy called The Boy Friend. It was put on with a shoestring budget at London's tiny Players' Theatre Club and overnight transformed to fame.

Produced in the West End in January, 1954, it won rave reviews, ran for five years and launched a tidal wave of Roaring Twenties fashions, songs, dances and revivals. It became the first British musical since the war to win acclaim on Broadway and later successfully toured Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Mexico, Sweden, Finland and southern Africa. This fall it gets its first production in French.

In Wilson's phrase the show made the 1920s "chic" after years of being thought merely ridiculous. It has enabled him to live in comfort over the last decade -- the show is played somewhere almost every day--and to move successively from his "rather peculiar basement in Swiss Cottage" where he wrote it to the much more fashionable neighboring district of Hampstead and later to a high-ceilinged, panelled first - floor apartment in a Victorian house in smart south Kensington.

TRIES THE '30s

Now, 11 year after that first astounding success, he has tried to repeat the magic formula with Divorce Me, Darling, a pastiche of a 1930s musical complete with tap-dancing in the Astaire and Rogers manner, echoes of Cole Porter, Noel Coward and Marlene Dietrich and a feathery story of terribly, terribly English types disporting themselves on the naughty French Riviera.

Wimpish acclaim from an enthusiastic first-night audience was Vancouver-born Philip Gilbert, a handsome actor who is playing a stiff-upper-lipped romantic lead in the style made famous by Noel Coward. Gilbert won several awards in Canada for Shakespearean acting before coming to Britain 12 years ago.

But if the audience liked the show, some of the critics were harsh. The idea doesn't come off as neatly as its predecessor. For one thing the characters are all the same as in The Boy Friend, 10 years older, and consequently the glitter very much of an in-joke for theatregoers who remember the gags and complicated relationships of the earlier show.

HAS NEW MUSICAL—Sandy Wilson, a London playwright who in 1953 made an international success of The Boy Friend, an affectionate spoof of a 1920s musical comedy, hopes for new success with Divorce Me, Darling, a pastiche of a 1930s musical. So far audiences have liked the show, although professional critics have been cool. (CP Photo)

Also, as several critics noted, the 1930s were such a bizarre mixture of memories that it's hard for any show to distil the essence -- there were hunger marches and Hitler as well as the flying feat of Amelia, the Spanish civil war and breadlines in New York as well as the terrors of rich nakedness, the wisecracking movies, the elegant chiffon evening gowns and the sophisticated lyrics of You're the Top.

BORN IN 1924

Wilson himself confesses that he doesn't feel the same affection for the 1930s as he does for the era he was born in.

"Admittedly I don't remember all that much about the 1920s since I was born in 1924, but I had two older sisters who were always going to parties and playing records on the gramophone. I grew up to those wonderful tunes from No, No, Nanette, Hit the Deck, The Girl Friend and the rest. It was a time of great nostalgia for me.

"It was different in the thirties. There were all kinds of depressing things going on in the background, fascism and the rise of Hitler."

Wilson, a slight, dark man with a thin moustache, balcony in his face and a springy dancer's walk, doesn't mind being tagged a specialist of nostalgia. He says it's simply what he enjoys doing most. Between The Boy Friend and Divorce Me, Darling, he wrote two musicals of a different type. Neither hit the jackpot.

He prepares for his "period" musicals by soaking himself in atmosphere--combing the British Museum's newspaper library at Colindale in north London, studying original libretti and theatre magazines, listening to old recordings. Inspiration for dresses and some dance routines comes from old copies of Vogue magazine, whose models were often photographed in characteristic poses of the period.

Drugs Cannot Help Person Stop Smoking

TORONTO (CP)--There are no conclusive results showing that a drug can help a person stop smoking, says Dr. W. Harding is Riche, head of the department of epidemiology and biometrics at the University of Toronto.

He spoke Monday to 100 volunteers of the Ontario Heart Foundation's medical research programs.

Dr. Is Riche said that of 126 people who volunteered to stop smoking for an experiment started 10 months ago, only 46 persons finished the course.

He said his view is that smoking is not an addiction but a habit, although this is not known for certain.

PETS FIND HOMES

MONTREAL (CP) — Some 2,900 homeless dogs and cats found new owners here in 1964 through efforts by the local branch of the S.P.C.A. In 1963, homes were found for slightly more than 2,000 pets.

Frankford

FRANKFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Day of Sudbury spent a few days with Mrs. Frank Cleveland this past week.

Mr. Walter Morrow is a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Fred Charlesworth and Miss Henrietta Wood spent the weekend in Toronto.

A number from Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle attended the annual Sunday School banquet and C.A. Rally in Campbellford on Saturday evening.

Dr. Is Riche said that of 126 Rev. and Mrs. Fred Spring and Sunday School superintendent and members of the staff attended the Sunday School Teachers' Training Course in Bethel Temple, Trenton last week. Rev. Don Rogers of Napanee was the lecturer on the theme "Helping The Teacher".

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Watson were weekend guests with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Smith and family in Brampton.

Mr. Robert Grant of Brampton spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Grant.

Record Tonnage Produced by Steel Mills

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel production in the United States soared to a record tonnage last week, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported Tuesday.

U.S. mills poured 2,737,000 tons, up three per cent over the previous week.

The old record was set in the week ended Dec. 12, 1959 -- 2,732,000 tons.

The institute said production for the year through last Saturday was 19,571,000 tons, more than 20 per cent higher than in the 1964 period.

HAPPY PREDICTION

LONDON (CP) — Astrologer Maurice Woodruff has predicted that 1965 will see Canadian-born singer Edmund Hockridge with a song on the Top Ten. Says Hockridge: "This prediction came as a surprise as I have no idea what my next record will be."

Britain's Defence Policy Centred on Chinese Threat

LONDON (Reuters) — British defence policy must be aimed at reasserting Britain's role as a world power in face of the threat of China's nuclear bomb, a pro-Labor statement said Tuesday.

Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government is likely to blueprint on defence strategy since coming to power four months ago, when it plans to switch of emphasis from East of Suez to the Middle East and Europe.

But the defence white paper stressed importance of Britain's role as an Atlantic nuclear force, grouping Britain, France, British and perhaps French units.

The government paper presented justification for the £2,130,000,000 ($6,280,000,000) it has requested it needs for defence in fiscal 1965.

CAST SHADOW

"It is by far that the Chinese nuclear explosion casts a new shadow over the future, making it more difficult to forecast the trend of political development in an area where we have Commonwealth and treaty responsibilities to assist our friends," the paper said.

It said China's bomb served as a reminder that East-West stability "might at any time be jeopardized by the spread of nuclear weapons to countries which do not now possess them."

The government said the current deployment of NATO forces in Europe required revision in the light of the overwhelming nuclear strike force developed by the United States.

It said it is "pointless to tie up resources against the risk of a prolonged war in Europe following the nuclear exchange."

CAN'T DROP BASES

Britain's white paper said the British contribution east of Suez is paramount. It declared it would be "politically irresponsible and economically unsound" to abandon British military bases in Aden and Singapore.

The government called on Britain's allies to help share the defence burden outside Europe.

"We have a duty to our fellow allies since we serve interests which are theirs as well as ours," the statement said.

In Europe, the paper said, a direct nuclear clash between East and West "can be almost entirely excluded as a result of the present state of mutual deterrence."

The government said until there is "a comprehensive disarmament under the United Nations," British security will depend on alliances throughout the world.

The white paper spelled out the government's plan for an Atlantic nuclear force in underlining the importance and strength and unity of the NATO alliance.

It said the force should include:

1. Britain's nuclear bombers, which the government has already required for commitments outside the NATO area;

2. Britain's fleet-mates of four Polaris nuclear submarines now under construction;

3. At least an equal number of U.S. Polaris nuclear submarines;

4. "Some kind of mixed - manned and jointly armed element or elements to which the existing non - nuclear powers could take part," and

5. "Any force which France may decide to subscribe."

The financial part of the defence policy outlined in the white paper was announced by Treasury Chief James Callaghan Tuesday in the House of Commons.

Says Interest Disclosure Not Heavy Burden

OTTAWA (CP)—Full disclosure of dollar and percentage rates of interest on all credit transactions would not be a heavy administrative burden to stores and credit firms, the joint parliamentary committee on consumer credit was told today.

Douglas D. Irwin of Toronto, a chartered accountant who is the committee's financial consultant, said that if universal interest tables were developed it would be comparatively easy for stores to tell customers both the dollar amount and the percentage interest rates they were paying for credit.

"Use of tables would not appear to add a significant administrative burden insofar as tables are presently used," tentatively, to determine finance charges.

A bill sponsored by Senator David Croll of Toronto which would make full disclosure of credit charges mandatory is under study in the House of Commons.

Sports Director of R.M.C. Supports Hockey Board In Speaking to Rotarians

PICTON (Staff) — Rotarians of Picton heard an interesting address by their guest speaker, Major "Danny" McLeod, RMC Sports Director. Major McLeod presented a very interesting talk on the History of Hockey up to the present time. Introduced by H. Colliver who provided a resume of Major McLeod's colorful background in both sports and the military.

Major McLeod has a long and distinguished army record. He was decorated with the Military Cross by General Montgomery. He served in Indo China, Germany and twice with the American army. Major McLeod brought to RMC a vast amount of athletic experience in 1950 as the first Athletic Director of the college. He has always had some association with sports whether as a player, coach or official. He has wide experience in both hockey and boxing.

In his opening remarks Major McLeod said that Canadian hockey originated right in this district. In Kingston and also in the Halifax area. Two men of McGill University named Robertson and Smith collaborated on the first set of rules in the year 1879. "Businessmen and politicians," he said, "provided the greatest interest and support at that time and nurtured the game almost until the beginning of World War Two. The first recorded game was between Queen's University and RMC, the score was 1-0 and RMC won the first game."

Lord Stanley, continued Danny McLeod, has contributed more to the game of hockey than anyone else before or since. The Stanley Cup and forming of the OHA. The Stanley Cup was originally put up for amateur teams.

When the National Hockey League came into being he said they went on a campaign to get the best players from across Canada all in one league. Then after taking the best they challenged the rest of the country to beat that league. There are now 106 National Hockey League players and there are 183,000 registered amateurs. This means that the chances a boy has of making the big league are about 1 to 15 or 20,000. We do not have the leadership needed for these youngsters. The fallout age for young players is about 15, added Major McLeod with no other place to go when they reach this stage, where they used to continue to the 19 and 20's. Players, especially more junior players, are passing up offers in order to complete their education. There are two types of hockey today continued the major, hockey for pay and hockey for play. We must have an amateur hockey commission in Canada, one who can negotiate with the pros and keep an eye on the amateurs. The game needs, he said, really requires a complete overhaul. It needs a commission to study overall plans. It needs professional men who have organizational abilities and leadership qualities who can put the game back in its proper perspective.

Reeve Moore of Wellington thanked the guest speaker and said that both Picton and Wellington were hockey towns who got behind their teams. The president of the Rotary Club presented Major McLeod with a Quinte cheese and thanked him for the interesting talk which was so timely.

Letter Carrier Service Not Granted Town

PICTON (Staff) — The post office department is unable at this time to accede to requests to inaugurate letter carrier service in Picton. The principal requirements to establish letter carrier service is the availability of at least 2,500 points of call in a well built up area. Latest statistics show that there are approximately 1,619 points of call in well built up areas in Picton. Since Picton falls short of the required number of points of call no action can be taken to institute a carrier service here. Word was received by Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce this week by letter from the Post Office Department at Ottawa. The letter also pointed out that Gananoque also has general delivery and lock box service as does Picton.

Slippery Roads Said Cause Of Accident

PICTON (Staff) — Picton Police reported one accident today at the intersection of Main and Maple Streets when two cars collided causing an estimated damage to both at $600. A car driven by 17-year-old Donald Drew attempted to make a right turn from main St. on to Maple when it was struck from behind by an auto driven by 21-year old Carl Kleinsteiber of R. R. 3 Picton. Icy street conditions were said responsible for the accident and police are not pressing charges. There were no injuries.

SAIGON ASKS PEACE 'WITH HONOR'

Violence Flares At Kingston Du Pont Plant

2,200 Workers Went On Strike at Midnight

KINGSTON (CP)—One man was injured late Wednesday as violence flared before some 2,200 employees went on strike at midnight at the Du Pont of Canada Limited plant here.

Strikers smashed three windows, forced the main gate open and laughed with news paper men and plant officials.

About 400 members of Local 13160 of the United Mine Workers of America (Ind.) gathered at the plant as workers came off the final shift. The local earlier had met to consider a strike and union officials said 75 per cent of the meeting were in favor.

Several of the pickets became unruly, windows in the guard house were smashed and the plant's main gate forced open. About 50 men rushed through the gate, apparently in pursuit of a company photographer taking pictures of the milling crowd.

Jack French, a photographer with the Kingston Whig - Standard, said a flash unit on his camera was damaged and that he was forced to hand over a roll of exposed film to strikers.

BLOCKED BY STRIKER

Maureen Bailey, another press photographer, said a striker had taken her lens, preventing her from taking pictures. It was not known immediately what happened to the company's photographer.

There were scuffles between plant personnel and strikers and one man was injured as a gate was shut, hitting him on the head.

Garbage cans and their contents were strewn around the plant area.

Company officials began calling in supervisory personnel early Wednesday as the strike became imminent. Taxis were sent to pick many of them up and 50 car loads had arrived at the plant before the midnight strike deadline.

Some of the supervisory personnel brought suitcases with them in preparation for an indefinite stay in the plant. They will try to keep production of nylon products going.

INSTAL WASHERS

The company installed automatic washers and dryers for the use of men who will be living in the plant.

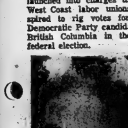
Strikers barricaded entrances to the plant with cars and shouted at anyone approaching the company parking lot.

Snow was falling throughout the night and many pickets stayed inside their cars, getting out only if someone approached.

In a contract offer Tuesday night, the company said it would give wage increases ranging from 21 to 34 cents an hour over three years.

A union official said Wednesday night the union was demanding up to 50 cents an hour in wage increases and greater fringe benefits.

Average hourly wage at the plant is $2.20 an hour.



Negotiations on the proposed contract have been going on since last August. The present contract expired in October.

WANTS AMENDMENT

TORONTO (CP)—Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker said Wednesday night he will move an amendment to the Canadian Bill of Rights to make it part of Canada's constitution. He told 300 persons at a Brotherhood Week dinner he will try to bring about the amendment once Parliament has approved legislation providing for Canadian amendments to the British North America Act without reference to Britain.

Charges Will Be Probed

OTTAWA (CP) — An investigation independent of party politics in the Commons is to be launched into charges that six West Coast Labor unions conspired to rig votes for New Democratic Party candidates in British Columbia in the 1963 federal election.

The NDP's request for the investigation to be carried out by Nelson Castonguay, representation commissioner and acting chief electoral officer, raised a stormy 4-minute session between government and opposition benches in the Commons Wednesday.

Prime Minister Pearson and Transport Minister Pickersgill, the government's acknowledged authority on election law, said the investigation should be undertaken by the Commons committee on privileges and elections.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) declared: "What the committee has referred to it a matter which has political overtones, it seems

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: An intense storm which developed in the lower Mississippi Valley is now just to the south of Lake Erie. This storm has already dumped over a foot of snow in the Windsor area and at least six inches in many other localities. This storm is expected to continue northeast and weaken as a new storm develops over Virginia and moves northward. As a result another three to six inches of snow can be expected in southern and central Ontario before the snow tapers off this evening and today. Strong northerly winds will develop over southern and central areas by late today resulting in heavy drifting snow. These northerly winds will bring colder air into the province and snow squalls will develop in the snowbelt southeast of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay. Extreme northern and northwestern portions of the province will escape the major effects of this storm.

Members Can Use Service

TORONTO (CP) — All members of the Ontario legislature will be able to use facilities of a controversial radio and television taping service at Queen's Park, the Conservative government said Wednesday.

The facilities come under the department of tourism and information and charges had been made in the legislature that the government was distributing political propaganda at the taxpayers' expense.

A. B. K. (Bert) Lawrence (PC—Russell) asked the tourism and information minister whether he could use the facilities to make tapes for his hometown radio station—CFRA in Ottawa.

James Auld replied that he could, and added that so could members of opposition parties.

Mr. Auld said the Central Canada Association of Broadcasters is suggesting to its members that individual radio stations arrange with their local legislature members to make two five - minute broadcasts a month.

WILL MAKE GRANTS

Education Minister William Davis told the legislature the government will make grants available to universities to help build residences.

He said the province will pay $1,400 for each student who would be accommodated. This would pay about 20 per cent of the total cost of residences, he said.

Universities which take advantage of the grants are expected to borrow more than 60 per cent of the cost - all construction loans and obtain the balance of about 20 per cent through public subscription.

This means they will not have to charge students for room and board above the 80-per-cent level, Mr. Davis said. The annual payment on the 60-per - cent mortgage would be provided through student fees.

Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree introduced a non-modified bill that had been hotly opposed by the province's stationary engineers, a year ago and that therefore was allowed to lapse.

RECEIVES 15 BRIEFS

The committee said since he first produced the bill to change the Operating Engineers Act, he has received 15 briefs pertaining to it and now

Want All Traffic to Stop When School Bus Standing

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP)—A coroner's jury recommended Wednesday that the Highway Traffic Act be amended to make it compulsory for all traffic to stop while flashing lights are operating on school buses.

The jury was inquiring into the death Oct. 7 of Richard Gordon Tait, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Tait of Westlake, struck by a car outside his home after crossing the road from a school bus.

The jury absolved driver Eric Russell Ward of Claremont of blame.

Motorists now are required to stop behind school buses when travelling in the same direction and to slow down when passing stopped buses in the opposite direction.

The jury also recommended that school students who live on main highways and travel to and from school by bus be picked up and discharged in front of their homes, and that buses remain stopped with lights flashing until students are clear of traffic.

Storm Imprisons Much of Province In Strait-Jacket of Wet Snow, Ice

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A blanket of wet snow and ice covered southern Ontario today after a storm moved north into the province overnight bearing snow and freezing rain.

Worst hit so far is the Windsor-Sarnia area where at midmorning 13 inches of snow had fallen and it was still snowing very hard. Winds gusting up to 40 miles an hour piled drifts as high as five feet. The weather office said it would probably snow most of the day, letting up in the late afternoon.

Toronto had six inches by midmorning. Police prohibited parking on the downtown area and warned that cars parked on main arteries might be towed away. The snow was expected to let up in Toronto late in the evening.

Freezing rain and heavy snow were reported as far east as the Ottawa Valley.

Northwards, the storm appeared to have missed Sault Ste. Marie at mid-morning but heavy snow was reported in North Bay and some snow in Timmins.

The weather office said the storm would be out of Ontario Friday, but most of western Ontario will still be digging itself out.

In Sarnia streets were filling in almost as fast as they were ploughed. All available snow-clearing equipment was pressed into service but schools were closed for the first time in more than 25 years and the fire department warned that they would be unable to answer calls. Ambulance service was also stalled.

Windsor reported a city-wide traffic jam as vehicles were left abandoned. Some city schools remained open but students reporting in were mostly those who lived within walking distance. Rural schools were closed and some mail deliveries were cancelled.

Main highways, especially in eastern Ontario, were impassable as heavy winds piled up drifts.

London reported at least five schools closed.

The Queen Elizabeth Way between Toronto and Fort Erie was passable although there was heavy slush.

In Hamilton, traffic conditions were chaotic and city crews could only keep main arteries cleared. Three to four-foot drifts were reported in the mountain area. Busses were running behind schedule.

The only injury reported so far was in Toronto where Mrs. Agatha Schmidt, 52, was taken to hospital with severe head injuries after a 20-foot branch, caked heavily with ice, broke off a tree and fell on her.

The branch pinned her to the ground but passers-by lifted the branch.

All vehicular traffic in the city was banned north of Steeles, including public transportation, was heavily delayed.

Side roads remained choked with snow and newly cleared main routes became slick with freezing rain.

William Allen, Metropolitan Toronto council chairman, said emergency conditions might last all day or all weekend.

"By keeping all unnecessary traffic out of the downtown area we hope to regain control of the situation as quickly as possible," he said.

In Toronto, police issued early-morning warnings to drivers to use extreme care in driving. City streets were coated with thick layers of ice and more than six to seven inches of snow had fallen.

Quinte District Gets Off Easier Than Was Predicted

Although freezing rain made the going a bit slippery this morning, last night's snowfall in the Bay of Quinte district fell considerably short of the six to eight inches predicted by the weatherman.

Pump house officials stated that about three and a half inches of snow fell during the night, later turning to freezing rain. Up to eight o'clock a quarter of an inch of rain had fallen and continued intermittently throughout the morning.

City snowplows were out early and had the main arteries plowed and sanded in time for the morning rush by factory and business workers.

Some of the rural roads were heavy, however, and some of the high school busses were up to ten and fifteen minutes late arriving in the city.

Thant Declares More Bloodshed Not Necessary

White House Is Cool To Pressure for Talks

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP)—Premier Phan Huy Quat said today South Viet Nam was suffering too much in its battle against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas and wanted to "end the war with honor."

But he added the guerrillas wanted to sell the country to communism. He said having failed in their pretence that the war was a nationalist and internal insurrection, the Viet Cong now were resorting to open aggression while at the same time calling for negotiations.

Quat's speech followed an announcement in Paris Wednesday that France would co-operate with Russia in trying to arrange an international conference to bring peace to South-east Asia.

The premier was speaking at a farewell ceremony for Gen. Nguyen Khanh, former armed forces chief who was recalled from power and appointed roving ambassador to explain the situation in South Viet Nam abroad.

Khanh flew to Hong Kong where he, his wife, four children and his mother - in - law planned to spend a week. Khanh planned another stop in Paris en route to New York.

CALLS FOR UNITY

During today's ceremony, Khanh called on the army for unity in the fight against the Communists.

Speaking after Khanh had finished, Quat said the situation in South Viet Nam "is not very good."

"The government is sending Gen. Khanh abroad to explain to the world the truth about Viet Nam," the premier said.

"Viet Nam is suffering too much. We want to end the war with honor."

On his arrival in Hong Kong, Khanh told reporters South Viet Nam's war efforts must be supported in the diplomatic field.

Military sources in Saigon today reported the Viet Cong had badly mauled a company of 100 government troops in an attack on a town about 75 miles east of Saigon.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says it is not engaged in any negotiations for a South Viet Nam settlement and that no one has been authorized to negotiate on behalf of the United States.

Presidential press secretary George Reedy made these points Wednesday after UN Secretary-General U Thant said in New York that he had made concrete proposals aimed at a negotiated settlement of the South Vietnamese war. France and Russia also are seeking such an agreement.

But Reedy said: "I know of no specific proposal for negotiation that has been made to this government."

Thant suggested that the United States pull out of South Viet Nam although he acknowledged the American face-saving reasons, this could be done only after some kind of settlement.

Said Thant: "I am sure that the great American people, if only they have the facts . . . will agree with me that further bloodshed is unnecessary, and that political and diplomatic negotiations alone can create conditions that will enable the United States to withdraw gracefully from that part of the world."

Sources close to the secretary-general said he was trying to press his view that the ability of the military operation is not being emphasized and the American people are not being given the full background of why the U.S. is in Viet Nam.

The French-Russian effort to bring about talks on Viet Nam was at the initiative of the Russians. Diplomatic informants in Moscow said that any formula should include neutralization of South Viet Nam.

President Johnson is known to feel that at this stage, there is no evidence that the Chinese and North Vietnamese Communists have shown any serious talks on Viet Nam. Chinese Premier Chou En-lai said Wednesday that complete, immediate and unconditional U.S. withdrawal is Peking's price for negotiations.

U.S. officials give two conditions for end to South Viet Nam: (1) An end to attacks by the Communist Viet Cong and (2) a cessation of subversion, infiltration and supply of the guerrillas from outside South Viet Nam.

In Congress, where there have been sharp differences during the last two weeks on the feasibility of negotiations, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield admitted that "Congress is deeply divided about the proper course for us to pursue in Viet Nam." For himself, the Montana Democrat said he favored giving Johnson "as much flexibility as possible."

Mansfield said his letters from his Montana constituents are running 25 to 1 against carrying the war to North Viet Nam and in favor of negotiations.

Also in Congress, Representative Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said that 80 per cent of Congress will back his position in support of administration volley and opposing any move by the Republican leader in the House of Representatives.

HAVE FEWER CLAIMANTS

OTTAWA (CP)—There were 478,200 claimants for unemployment insurance on Dec. 31, 1964, about 54,000 less than one year earlier, the bureau of statistics said today. Number of regular and season claimants were both down, the bureau said, with 407,100 regular and 71,100 - seasonal claimants at the end of 1964, compared with 431,600 and 80,900 respectively, a year earlier.

Two Men Killed In Car Mishap Near Kingston

KINGSTON (CP)—Two men are dead and three others injured, one seriously, after a head-on automobile crash late Wednesday at Code's Corners, about five miles north of here.

Dead are Maurice Chabiague, 20, of Ottawa, and another man whose name has not been released. They were in a small European car which hit a standard-sized car on Highway 15.

Also in the small car were Gaetan J. Lalonguerasa, 18, the driver, who is in serious condition at Hotel Dieu Hospital here, and Gerald White, 18, who is in fair condition at Kingston General Hospital. Both are from Ottawa.

Gordon R. Currie, 48, of Napanee, the driver of the other car, is in Hotel Dieu Hospital where his condition is described as "not serious."

The four men in the small car were all employees of Du Pont of Canada Limited plant here and apparently were returning home to Ottawa after a union meeting at which a strike vote was passed.

Former RCMP Sergeant Says Trap Could Have Been Laid and an Arrest Made

OTTAWA (CP) — Former RCMP sergeant Ronald Crevier testified today that the force could have laid a trap which would have netted sufficient material evidence for an arrest in the Lucien Rivard affair.

Mr. Crevier was the second witness before the Dorion inquiry to criticize RCMP methods in the investigations into allegations of attempted bribery and coercion by federal ministerial aides to obtain release on bail of Rivard, wanted in the U.S. on narcotics conspiracy charges.

Mr. Crevier, who worked under Inspector J. P. Drapeau during the investigation, said that if he had been in charge he would have set a trap for Raymond Denis, then executive assistant to the immigration minister.

He said he would have asked Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne, who has accused Denis of offering him a $30,000 bribe, to pretend that he was willing to accept a bribe.

This trap would have gained enough initial evidence for an arrest.

FELT HANDS TIED

In reply to questions by Rosa Drouin, Conservative party counsel, Mr. Crevier said he felt his hands were tied in the investigation and that he could not take the initiative without instructions from headquarters.

The tall, balding former head of the RCMP Montreal narcotics squad said that he would have questioned some persons who were never approached by the RCMP during the investigation. These included Rivard and his wife, Jo Ann, and Gerry Cernne and Eddy Lechasseur, associates of Rivard.

Mr. Crevier said he had suggested to Inspector Drapeau that Mrs. Rivard and others be questioned.

Insp. Drapeau has said he was over-ruled by Deputy Commissioner J. R. Lemieux when he tried to broaden the investigation by questioning persons not referred to in instructions from headquarters.

Mr. Crevier said that when dealing with underworld persons like Rivard police should interview all the principals at the same time. In this case, they had been interviewed one after the other.

Mr. Crevier said he didn't know the reason for the delay in the questioning of Liberal MP Guy Rouleau, the parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson.

The RCMP first heard Mr. Lamontagne's allegations Aug. 11, but Mr. Rouleau was not questioned until Sept. 17. Two aides to Justice Minister Favreau have testified that Mr. Rouleau asked them to see what could be done about obtaining bail for Rivard.

KNEW POLITICAL ANGLE

Steve Lachapelle, counsel for the New Democratic Party, asked whether Mr. Crevier knew that political persons were involved.

He said yes.

"You knew you were handling a very powder keg?" Mr. Lachapelle asked.

Mr. Crevier said it was a "tricky" investigation.

Mr. Lachapelle suggested that the RCMP was "not trying to get an actual result."

Mr. Crevier said the force was trying to get evidence.

Chief Justice Dorion ended the witness several times Wednesday whether it was normal for a witness to testify on their own direction in pursuing an investigation.

Boredom Seen As Threat To Democracy

Democracy may well be bored to death in the coming age of vast spare time, according to social scientists and philosophers quoted in an article in the current Saturday Night.

"Though it's difficult, at first, to share their horror of anything so passive as 'tedium,' managing editor Harry Bruce writes, Saturday Night, in deadly earnest, as though the survival of all civilization now depends on the outcome of a new War on the People's Boredom."

Bruce suggests that by about the year 2000 automation will have brought Canadians something like the seventy billion more spare-time hours than they enjoy now.

He quotes A. R. C. Duncan, a philosopher at Queen's University on the dangers of mass boredom: "The danger is that they, (the' people) may turn simply to play and the watching of play, and then deep-rooted boredom may set it, and with boredom a really dangerous kind of discontentment may develop which might well spell the end of democracy as we know and value it."

659 Phones Added in City In Past Year

Commenting on the Bell Telephone annual report issued today, D. C. Gordon, the company's local manager said that 17,981 telephones were in service in Belleville as of December 31, an increase of 659 during the year. At the end of last year, Bell employed 298 men and women here, and the 1964 payroll totalled $1.4 million. Capital expenditures during the year to extend and improve services in Belleville were $230,000. Municipal taxes paid by Bell amounted to $31,391. here in 1964.

HUGE INVESTMENT PLANNED

To provide for replacement, expansion, and modernization of telephone facilities, The Bell Telephone Company of Canada is investing almost a quarter of a billion dollars a year in new construction, according to the company's 85th annual report.

In 1963, the Bell spent $223.5 million on new construction, just $2 million more than the 1962 record of $234 million. During the year, 222,000 new telephones were added to those in service, a total exceeded only in two other years (1962 and 56) of the company's history.

Net income of $43 for the year ended December 31, 1964, was $77.7 million, equivalent to a return of 6.3 percent on total capital, or $7.71 per share. This compares with a rate of return of 6.1 percent and earnings per share of $2.58 in 1963.

The report says: "Net income was 13.8 percent higher than in 1963. The main factors in this achievement were that revenues rose by 7.9 percent while the increase in expenses was held to 5.8 percent."

After payment of $2.20 per share in dividends to the company's 407,040 shareholders, the balance of 51 cents per share was added to earnings retained and invested in the business. Of Bell's shareholders, 97.4 percent live in Canada and own 93.6 per cent of the stock.

Diversion of Water Into Lakes Might Be Dangerous Is Warning

MONTREAL — While there is considerable concern about the current low water levels in the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence system, it might be dangerous to adopt suggestions to divert substantial amounts of water from other parts of Canada.

This view is expressed in the Bank of Montreal's Business Review for February, which discusses in detail the recurring problems of too little or too much water in the system.

"Short-term water complexity and the interplay of natural and man-made influences would make more complete regulation and control (of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence system) difficult even if a greater degree of harmony among the various interests involved about the objectives of control," the bank states.

"However, the latter poses problems of comparable magnitude to the former. Not only are there many governmental and international boundaries, states on the United States side of the border and two provinces and the Canadian Government to two Federal Governments - but within each there are competing interests."

SUGGESTED SOLUTIONS

The B of M notes that suggestions have been made to use water from the Hudson Bay watershed and from the Yukon and Mackenzie Rivers in order to ease the present problems of too little water. But it points out that the cure can be as often been the problem in the past.

"There is a considerable body of opinion that in the longer run increased demands for water in southern Canada probably would suggest the desirability of bringing water into the Great Lakes-Saint Lawrence basin sheds.

"However, in view of the extensive time lags in the system, there is also widespread recognition of the considerable merit of introducing substantial quantities of water into the upper Great Lakes in order to take up leeway in the system as soon as possible at the present time.

"As more cautious approach, and one favored by many, would involve as a first step the establishment of the co-ordinated regulation and control of the waters available from existing facilities during the next decade, leaving on a major project to introduce new water into the system.

"Facilities for control are available at present on only two of the Great Lakes, Superior and Lake Ontario, and many of the problems arising from alternating periods of too much and too little water might be solved if facilities existed elsewhere throughout the whole system," the B of M states.

CN Pensioners Discuss Pension Plan

The February luncheon and meeting of the CN Pensioners' Association was held on Wednesday at the Club Canara with 70 members present from the Belleville and Associated Clubs present. President Joseph Hunter of the city presided.

After a very fine luncheon prepared and served by the Ladies' Auxiliary, the president, Canara, several items of business of particular interest to pensioners were discussed. The Canada Pension Act now being debated in the Commons, particularly as it affects senior citizens or ages 65 to 70 was in the opinion of the meeting unrealistic.

It was the unanimous opinion that the Canada Pension Act should provide at age 65 the basic sum of $75, when the employee, through no fault of his own, is compulsorily retired and his income drastically reduced. The income tax as currently applied is in the opinion of the pensioners unfair because of the fact that it is now living on a pension, which does not allow anything more than the bare necessities of life.

It was agreed that all members write to their member in Ottawa and give him all details and information that he may be fully informed of the situation and that he may act accordingly.

Pope Paul Confers Insignia Of Office on 26 Cardinals

From Reuters-AP

VATICAN CITY (CP)—Pope Paul conferred insignia of office on 26 new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church today and told them they would be his collaborators, advisers and friends.

The Pope declared that the weight of the papal keys was heavy, "you will help us to carry it," he told the cardinals.

Roman Catholics regard the Pope as the successor of St. Peter, ecclesiastical leader of the keys of the kingdom of heaven.

The Pope conferred the red biretta, a flanged cap, on each cardinal as a symbol of their office signifying, he said, that you must show yourself intrepid, even unto shedding your blood, for the exaltation of the holy faith."

Toward the end of a three-hour mass which he celebrated with the new cardinals, the Pope slipped a ring on the right hand of each of them.

INCLUDE CANADIAN

The cardinals included one Canadian, Archbishop Maurice Roy of Quebec, Primate of Canada. The 27th prelate elevated by the Pope this week, Fernando Angel Herrera y Oria of Malaga, remained in Spain to receive his insignia from the papal chief of state, Generalissimo Franco, in accordance with tradition in that Catholic country.

The glittering public consistory in St. Peter's Basilica was attended by thousands.

OPENS WITH MASS

Today's ceremony took the place of three separate consistories previously held for new cardinals. For the first time, it opened with a mass celebrated by the Pope himself and the 26 new cardinals. This was to emphasize the spiritual aspects of the ritual, in accord with decrees of the Vatican ecumenical council.

Archbishop Roy was eighth to pledge obedience to the Pope. His investiture gave Canada three cardinals.

Noting that today's ceremony was simplified and more religious in character, the Pope hinted that the dress and titles of cardinals may be changed in the future.

He said the subject constituted mind—but not one of the most serious — considerations waiting to be dealt with in the aggiornamento or bringing the church up to date following the Vatican ecumenical council.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 24, 1965

The Commons continued study of the Canada Pension Plan after defeat of a Speaker's ruling on a matter of privilege.

New Democrat Leader Hazen Argue said the ruling on privilege because of a newspaper story that some NDP members got Canadian medals in 1963.

Speaker Macnaughton ruled there was no proper basis for a motion to have the government investigate the matter.

Mayor Issues Public Appeal

TRENTON — Mayor James MacDonald has issued a public appeal to Trenton industries to supply sub-contracts to Operation Recovery, the workshop for the disabled at Smithfield.

If work is not forthcoming speedily, the Ontario March of Dimes may be forced to close down the small factory.

James Paterson and Mrs. Margery Alexander, have worked in the shop ever since it opened four years ago. From time to time, jobs for other disabled persons has been provided in the plant.

The main work has been the assembly of costume jewelry from native Canadian stones, but the demand for this has slackened in the past few months.

WILL VIEW PAINTING

Trenton art lovers will get a good chance to view some very fine paintings by well-known Canadian artists at tonight's Art Exhibition in the CPR clubhouse on Campbell Street in East Trenton.

Paul Bennett of the Art Institute of Ontario will be at the exhibition to lecture on the collection, which includes the works of Arthur Lismer and J. E. H. MacDonald of the Group of Seven.

Local artists have been asked to bring along their own paintings to have them criticized by Mr. Bennett.

The Trenton showing of the paintings has been arranged by Peter Kolinsky's Art Class.

Lee Kursewicz Company Mgr. Of Bata Shoe

TRENTON — Mr. C. K. Herz wishes to announce that the Board of Directors has, with effect from 24th February, appointed Mr. Lee Kursewicz as Company Manager of the Footwear Division of the Bata Shoe Company of Canada Limited.

L. Kursewicz joined the Bata Organization in 1936 and has served in various capacities in production and sales with the Bata Shoe Company Inc., Belcamp—initially with its Chicago branch, later in Belcamp—and was sales manager from 1943 to 1961.

During his tenure as sales manager, he built up a successful sales organization which is responsible for marketing the company's products and which has attained one of the largest volumes in its field in the U.S.A.

To accommodate the growing demand for the company's products, in 1962, the Bata Shoe Company Inc., Belcamp, opened a new modern manufacturing plant in Salem, Indiana, and L. Kursewicz was appointed manager and it is from Salem that he comes to join the Bata Shoe Company of Canada Limited.

Mr. Kursewicz brings to Batawa his many years of experience in marketing in the U.S.A. and his understanding of the importance of Product Development.

He was born in Chicago, U.S.A., and his family consists of his wife, Ruth, a native of Maryland, U.S.A., and one son, Dennis, who is married.

Mr. K. R. Vytopil, whom he succeeds, will take over the management of the Salem, Indiana, plant where production is continually on the rise. It is an important source of supply to the large family of customers of Bata Shoe Company Inc., Belcamp.

Honor Couple Before Leaving For New Home

TRENTON — Monday evening, at a gathering in the community centre at Batawa, Mr. and Mrs. Vytopil were presented with a "typical Canadian gift," a black bear rug. Mr. Vytopil told those present the "surprise gift" would serve to constantly remind him and Mrs. Vytopil of their friends in the Trent Valley.

At the meeting, more than 60 Bata workers, representing each department in the plant, were honored for their ten years' service with the Bata organization.

Making the presentations were F. Vozobule, James Paton and Mr. Vytopil.

Also at the meeting were Dr. C. K. Herz, president of the Bata Shoe Company of Canada Ltd., Philip Cowell from the Bata International head office in Toronto, W. W. Parry of the company board of directors and Lee Kursewicz, the new manager of the Canadian company.

Mr. Parry addressed the meeting on the value of loyalty to industry and Dr. Herz outlined future programs in the field of sales and production and spoke of recent advancement in equipment.

Mentally-ill Persons in Future To Be Treated in Homes, More Intimate Atmosphere

Future treatment of mentally-ill persons will be transferred from large institutions to the more intimate atmosphere of family and community.

At the same time, the community of Belleville still is having difficulty locating a psychiatrist to direct a local clinic for such treatment.

These twin statements were highlights of speeches made last night to the annual meeting of the city's Canadian Mental Health Association branch.

Keynote speaker of the evening was Dr. Colin Smith, associate professor of psychiatry, University of Saskatchewan.

Dr. Smith said the contemporary trend in treating mental illness is de-emphasizing the role of the traditional large institution.

Current thinking now focuses on small units in local hospitals home treatment of the mentally-ill.

"The period of hospitalization should be considered only one phase in the patient's illness," said Dr. Smith.

HOME TREATMENT NEEDED

He envisioned the use of community medical and social resources as playing a key role in rehabilitation.

This would call on home treatment through a complexity of services provided by physicians, social workers, public and VON nurses and homemakers, working under the guidance of a community psychiatrist.

Improved after-care services were necessary to ensure against any relapse which might require hospitalization, said Dr. Smith.

He acknowledged such a program would create problems.

The question would always arise whether the release of a patient into home-care might cause undue stress to family and community.

However, he added, experience in such practices already had revealed the benefits of proper psychiatric counselling and interpretation of the situation.

Dr. John Stock, outgoing president of the local association, said meeting difficulties were still being experienced in locating a psychiatric clinic in the city — attached to Belleville General Hospital.

The major problem, he said, was that of acquiring personnel.

Dr. Stock also congratulated the association's White Cross workers — a voluntary group which each September visits mentally-ill patients to aid their rehabilitation.

600 GIFTS

Its efforts last year also included distribution of 600 gifts to the Ontario Hospital at Cobourg.

Executive: Mrs. Clark, Mrs. E. Jourard, Leslie Reid, Michael Locas, Diana Woolley, Verla Dafoe, Rupert Rourke, Dr. John Stock, Dr. Evelyn Williamson, Mrs. Olga Newell, Miss Kay Abbott, Mrs. Jo Reddick, Police Chief J. B. McLachlan, Crown Attorney John Pringle, Tom Dafoe, J. M. Cousins, Stanley Johnston, Mrs. Helen Kelly, and county MacKay, Mrs. Wanda Sine, Mac Smith.

Mrs. Thompson, in her inaugural address, noted a main objective of the association's work this year would be acquainting the public with crucial problems and trends in mental-health treatment.

The Belleville association is embarking on a series of public lectures on the theme of stresses in modern life. The lectures, to open March 15 will be held on four successive Mondays at Belleville General Hospital's Education Hall.

The Violent Breed

The other day, on this page, in discussing violence on television, Sydney J. Harris referred to "our violent record as a people."

"Our violent record" refers to the record of the United States, where the column is syndicated.

Many people, including, we feel sure, many Americans, would be startled if they were referred to as a violent breed.

Yet Harris is right. Their record is one of violence. When he suggests television shows may be a factor, he forgets that the record goes back many generations. Shortly after the pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock, they were burning witches at Salem. A revolution and a civil war were but incidents in a history of violence. The Indians were routed by cavalry charges, so that the peace of the six-gun could settle over the West. When the Americans were supposed to stop drinking some hooligans started the practice of taking people for "rides" which ended in a concrete slab dumped in a river. The Mafia, one of the world's few criminal cults, was transplanted from sunny Sicily to the shadow of the Statue of Liberty.

It is a violent record. Yet, perhaps, no more so than the record of most other lands where the white man found a backward civilization. South Africa had its Zulu wars, New Zealanders fought the Maoris before settling down into one of the most encouraging examples of racial harmony. If Australia's troubles mostly featured escaped Botany Bay convicts, perhaps it was only because the aborigines were few and, as the world's most primitive race, no match for the intruders.

Strangely enough Canada, so like the U.S. in most ways, has a different record. Many people would like to ascribe this to our sense of British justice. But British justice went to the U.S., to South Africa, to New Zealand and Australia. It did not stop violence. Truth to tell, we British are a violent breed. What happened to Wat Tyler and the tender ways of Judge Jeffries with the Tolpuddle Martyrs of the West Country, are of a kind with the copper and steel strikes in the U.S. and the days, early in this century, when it was as much as a man's life was worth to suggest that an overworked Kentucky miner might better his lot by refusing to dig coal.

What made Canada's history different is more likely to be the gift of the French than the British. The courier du bois went west and fathered children. We had our little brush with the Metis, but a half-breed could not be killed with as scant compunction as a man who is all Indian. So, while Custer made his last stand, we sent one lone Mountie to lead a disgruntled war party of Sioux to the new promised land. Oh, yes, we robbed the Indians, but politely. Instead of Fitzpatrick and the Kentucky mining wars with their Pinkertons, we had our Winnipeg strike of 1919, which started out violently enough, but ended on a unique note—a preacher mounting the witness stand, Bible in hand, to prove that not he but a Hebrew prophet named Isaiah was the author of the seditious words whose utterance had brought him to trial before his peers. That man, it is worth noting, was the founder Canada's first real socialist party, the CCF, a decade and a half later and Canadian Socialists have been nice and quiet and typically Canadian ever since.

No violent breed we. But our cousins to the South can be when aroused. And we could do worse than remember it when people say there is no difference between us.

I believe that laughter is an important thing and that serious people tend to be superficial. They are superficial and a little ridiculous because they get fixed ideas and mental habits, whereas, from time to time, one should burst out laughing, and so burst the crust, the screen which gets between oneself and the virgin vision of things and the world.—Playwright Eugene Ionesco.

It seems to be the accepted doctrine that no man is indispensable. Perhaps this is true if the objective is . . . mere survival; but, clearly, the doctrine has no basis in truth if the objective is something more . . . All of the great breakthroughs, to what we call progress, have been made by men who were, indeed, indispensable.—Henry Allen Moe.

Milk Production Lessened By Birth Control Pills

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Should birth control pills be taken by a nursing mother? If not, what would be her best protection against becoming pregnant even though she is nursing? — G.R.

For a time after pregnancy ovulation does not resume. So, of course, there can be no pregnancy or menstruation.

Usually this is at least for six or eight weeks. But in any case, it is best to abstain from sex relations for that length of time.

My suggestion would be to wait until then, have a checkup by your doctor, and have him advise you as to when to resume the pills.

The pills will lessen or stop milk production. Hence if your milk supply is adequate for the baby's needs, the pills should not be taken.

If the milk supply is diminishing, or the prospect of weaning is near, then I would wait a little longer — that is, wait until you have stopped nursing before resuming the pills.

Your menstrual rhythm by then should be well established again, which is important in knowing the proper time to take the pills — that is, from the fifth day through the 20th day after the onset of each period.

If my suggestion still leaves you with an interval when pregnancy is possible, you are not ready to resume the pills. Use of the older methods of birth control would suffice. Your doctor can advise which would be best for you.

Incidentally, nursing does not prevent pregnancy.

Dear Dr.: Is it advisable to continue birth control pills after menopause?

No. The purpose of the pills is to prevent ovulation, or release of an ovum or egg. When menopause has occurred, Nature has already halted ovulation.

As to the "gray zone," the time just preceding actual menopause, when a woman may still be having occasional periods, use of the pills is favored by a good many doctors to give the patient a sense of security and of relief of mind, even though pregnancy while possible, is very much less probable.

Dear Dr. Molner: I can't have any salt as I have high blood pressure, but the rest of my family like it in their food. Since I can't afford to cook things for myself alone, what do you suggest? — Mrs. M. A.

First, let the family salt their food to suit themselves at the table. Second, if occasionally, you can't help having some particular food salted before it reaches the table, you can substitute something else for yourself just for that meal — scramble some eggs, or eat leftovers from the day before. Third, avoid foods which are salted when they are processed. Most preserved meats, whether bacon, sausage, or others, are salted. Use fresh meats, fish and poultry instead. Fourth, you can get salt substitutes at the grocery or drug store.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible to have a nose lengthened? Is it necessary to wear make-up afterward? — Jr. L.

Yes, it's perfectly possible to enlarge as well as reduce such features as noses and chins. No, you don't have to use make-up afterward.

Monarchy

Of all the great, vital issues which should be debated in this country, the monarchy should be the last. It gives much and takes nothing. But the monarchy can be made an issue if silly, irresponsible people insist on it, especially at this uneasy juncture in our history when we are all too prone to leap at the slightest provocation.

Our Images Of Nations Are Faulty

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Nations' images of one another are almost always faulty — for instance, we think of the French as "romantic" when in truth they are the most realistic about sex of any people; while the French think of us as "materialistic," when in truth we are much more idealistic than they, or than most peoples.

Speaking of the French, also out of the Parisian dramas critics blasted Arthur Miller's play "After the Fall," produced there last month; which may not vindicate the Chicago critics who attacked it, but at least absolves them of the charge of provincialism.

Few sights are more pitiful and embarrassing than that of a once-beautiful woman who has remained vain long past her prime, and has never learned how to move from fleeting charms to abiding grace.

Whoever can be induced to tell a lie in your behalf can also be induced to tell a lie against you; the only person to be trusted is the one who will not violate his honor even to help you.

Meeting a leading literary figure for the first time recently, I was reminded of Bulwer Lytton's amusing comment: "The worst part of an eminent man's conversation is, nine times out of ten, to be found in that part which he values as his cleverest."

Chess is not a popular game with most people, because of its complexity or profundity, as is alleged, but because it is the only game without an element of luck — which means that nothing and no one can be blamed if one plays poorly.

Puritans are so sour because in their heart of hearts they really really forgive God for having been so crude as to make men and women with generative organs, instead of permitting us to reproduce "spiritually."

The whole trap of parenthood consists in the melancholy truism that by the time the third child comes along, the parents have only just learned how the first one should have been handled.

Take away grievances from some people and you remove their reasons for living; most of us are nourished by hope, but a considerable minority get psychic nutrition from their resentments, and would waste away purposelessly without them.

I'm fond of the little boy's definition of "chivalry," after studying knighthood in school: "Chivalry," he said, "is going around releasing beautiful maidens from other men's castles, and taking them to your own castle."

Can Lesage Erase Memories Of the 'Quiet Revolution'?

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — To hear the political professionals, the MPs — including Liberals — tell it, Quebec Premier Jean Lesage, as they phrase it, "should live so long."

Like so long, that he will never realize what obviously has become his ambition to succeed Prime Minister Pearson as national Liberal leader.

Ask the MP from the West Coast, the Prairies, a large part of Ontario and a big section of the Maritimes — in fact, ask any Parliamentarian except one from Quebec — and the answer is an unqualified "no, he can't make it."

The reason? Simple. People's memories just aren't that short.

Despite all he and his supporters so far have done — and perhaps yet can do — to change his image outside Quebec, Premier Lesage remains the leader or who often made it so plain that he put French Canada ahead of Canada.

Oddly, it has been Premier Lesage himself who started all the talk that, in a change of direction, he now was headed for a return to Ottawa.

He had been under "pressure from many sources," he reported, to switch back to the Federal field where his career has been a member of the St. Laurent Cabinet.

ENOUGH SAID

He didn't have to say any more than that to start all the Liberals and most of Parliament Hill buzzing with talk that the party was grooming a successor to take over from Lesage because as he had taken over from Louis St. Laurent who in turn took over from Mackenzie King.

Then suddenly everybody realized that Lesage had been going on for a year that hardly anybody had noticed — perhaps because it had been so quiet.

That quiet was the silence that had fallen on Quebec City.

Where once the Quebec capital had rung with French-Canadian nationalist cries, looked for a special status as a "state apart" and even talked of separation, all, for nearly a year, has been peace.

Premier Lesage had succeeded — almost — in what even had seemed the impossible: the silencing of nationalist hot-head, Quebec Cabinet Minister Rene Levesque.

And now Premier Lesage, having been to Queen's Park to meet, in araity, with Ontario Premier John Robarts, was planning a Western Canadian tour to greet the other provincial leaders, and sheer provincial distance from Ottawa, the further west of the lakes that he wasn't at all for as long as once, so recently, had sounded. Then, all likelihood, on through the Maritimes.

And Premier Lesage has been speaking almost as much English in public as French, a real switch from days when a minister would have been laughed out of office.

Confederation was living through a crisis, but only for nearly 100 years, and Premier Lesage was taking tough of declaring that Quebec need fire nearly 100 years, and Premier Lesage was taking tough of declaring that Quebec need fire nearly 100 years, and Premier Lesage was taking tough of declaring that Quebec need fire imposing double taxation on the people of Quebec.

Quebec was going it grandly alone on everything from its own pension plan to the Arctic's Eskimos.

The cracks in the wall of national unity were widening to crisis size, and the very Quebec relations of Confederation seemed crumbling.

Premier Lesage was even going to go to court over the students loan plan, to prevent the rest of Canada influencing, and presumably blunting the sharp edges of Quebec nationalism in French-Canadian students.

Then, so quietly — and as it has turned out, so smoothly — suddenly there were no more threats, no more demands, Quebec was for Canada again.

Premier Lesage, with Prime Minister Pearson at 68 and no rivals to the succession in sight among French-Canadian Liberals, was making his opening bid.

Going for him was the old tradition of the Liberal Party and its leadership, alternating it between French and English Canada: Laurier to King to St. Laurent, St. Laurent to Pearson, and Pearson? To Lesage, perhaps?

But the memory of the "Quiet Revolution," as Quebec likes to call it, lingers hurtfully on. And Lesage was Premier when the "revolutionaries" so noisily put French Canada ahead of Canada. So Liberals, looking supervingly on the new Premier Lesage, wonder, worried, how short is memory. That short? Not likely, they fear. Not with the new flag flying to remind everybody!

Reaps Coins In Furrows

Chatham Daily News

Money may not grow on trees, ready to be plucked; but in Britain there are times and places where it literally sprouts from the ground.

Such, quite recently, was the experience of one Britisher, Robert Arnold.

Arnold's home is in the Cotswold Hills. Merely by walking in the vicinity, he amassed one of the most extensive and varied collections of Roman coins in the United Kingdom.

The coins had varying dates over a range of 450 years, the period of the Roman occupation.

According to Arnold, he found all first coin by merely walking till one of the village fields was plowed and then saunter-ing over the newly turned soil. In one afternoon he found as many as 15 coins turned up by the plow.

An interesting item in the collection was a coin of Julius Caesar, in which he was "emperator"—to have his portrait on a coin during his lifetime.

The collection also included coins of the Emperor Claudius, who, following the somewhat abortive invasion of Caesar in 55 B.C., in 43 A.D. started the real conquest of Britain. There are seven coins of Emperor Nero, and no fewer than 236 specimens from the reign of Hadrian, who built the still surviving wall between England and Scotland.

There are several specimens of the "tribute penny," the standard silver coin of the Emperor Tiberius, identified with the coin of the Pharisees handed to Jesus with their trick question, "Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar or not?" To which Jesus gave the famous answer, "Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's and unto God the things which are God's."

What Morality?

Financial Times

The furore over Mr. Berton's perceptive, if unoriginal, critique of the churches has a direct relation to our current political mess. The question which cries for study is why the newspapers and the public get so excited about certain kinds of moral dereliction and cheerfully tolerate many more damaging forms of public and private wickedness.

New Dental Filling Material Shows Promise in Tests

VANCOUVER (CP) — A breakthrough in the practice of dentistry is predicted by the discovery of a new filling material soon to be marketed in North America.

Dr. Richard Roydhouse, a dental scientist at the University of British Columbia, said the material seems to be almost ideal for restoring decayed teeth.

The New Zealand-born scientist said it becomes almost invisible by taking on the tooth's color and strengthens the tooth by forming a chemical bond with it.

The material is being tested by six dentists in Vancouver and by others in St. Paul, Minn. and Rochester, N.Y. It will be marketed in Canada under the trade name Addent in about a year.

MAJOR DISCOVERY

Dr. Roydhouse described the filling as "the first major discovery in dental fillings in 30 years." He said it seems destined to replace material in use for 50 years.

Dr. Roydhouse said he uncovered the cement 10 months after he was employed in 1961 by a Rochester dispensary specifically to find a new type of filling. He was the 11th person hired for the task since 1938.

Instead of trying to make a new substance in his own laboratory, he toured more than a score of companies engaged in chemical and miscellaneous research. He found what he wanted at the 3M Company, a division of the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. in Minneapolis, Minn.

The substance, described as a polymer or synthetic resin mixed with a variety of mineral and glass fibers, was first produced in 1955. The white cement hardens in three minutes and is impervious to water.

"Existing fillings of silver-tin-mercury amalgams or silicate cements do not stick to the tooth so the dentist must enlarge the existing cavity and undercut it to lock the filling in place. This tends to weaken the tooth.

STRENGTHENS TEETH

The new cement strengthens the tooth, and can be used to fill small surface cavities before the tooth is badly damaged.

Vancouver dentists have filled more than 1,000 teeth with it in the last year.

"All the Vancouver work has been highly successful. One dentist told me he replaced 10 fillings within an hour and a half with Addent and it was impossible to distinguish that the patient had any fillings at all," said Dr. Roydhouse.

Suggested French-Soviet Move of Dubious Value

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

French - Soviet agreement to co-operate in seeking an international conference on the Viet Nam crisis would seem at first to be a step in the right direction. Many countries are pressing for such a conference hoping it will halt the bloodshed in Viet Nam and end the threat of war that could engulf all of Southeast Asia.

But British authorities suggest the French-Soviet move may be of dubious value since it lays down no preconditions for a Vietnamese cease-fire and withdrawal of the antagonists.

France's President de Gaulle is well aware, as is Soviet Premier Kosygin, U.S. President Johnson is in a difficult political position. Johnson would be unable to allow United States participation in a public international conference, where prospects for a settlement acceptable to the U.S. would be uncertain, while the Communist - led Viet Cong guerrillas continued to slaughter the South Vietnamese.

The U.S. is reported to feel there must be a military disengagement before any talks, and any negotiations must be based on the assumption any settlement will cover the future of North Viet Nam as well as South Viet Nam. The Soviet Union is reported to feel neutralization, if it comes, should cover only South Viet Nam, a restriction which the U.S. is unlikely to accept.

British and French spokesmen have been exploring with their opposite numbers in Moscow just how far Kosygin would be prepared to go in agreeing to preconditions before any conference similar to the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina is convened. The different approaches Britain and France have been making demonstrate the differences in their sympathy for and support of the American position.

British Prime Minister Wilson has been under heavy pressure from his Labor party's left wing to obtain an international conference and he has had to assure his followers he is doing all he can under the cover of "discreet diplomacy."

Britain has, in fact, been pressing the Soviet Union to make a forthright, positive decision, using its influence to call off North Vietnamese pressure on Saigon. And there have been signs Britain has been making slow but somewhat encouraging headway.

The French approach has been bolder but in the British view more in line with Moscow's wishes than with Washington's. Soviet Ambassador Sergei Vinogradov called on de Gaulle Tuesday and on Wednesday the French government announced the joint Soviet - French approach.

There was no indication de Gaulle consulted with London before the French decision was taken.

Economic Union Proposed by Gen. Graham

LOS ANGELES (CP) — The United States should take the initiative in proposing establishment of a North American economic commonwealth, says Howard Graham, president of the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Graham made his suggestion in a speech delivered for him Wednesday to the Canadian Society of Los Angeles by W. L. Somerville Jr., executive vice-president of the exchange. Graham was absent through illness.

In his paper, Graham said the U.S. and Canada would definitely be members of the commonwealth, with Mexico joining "at once or in time."

"The North American commonwealth agreement or declaration would mean that the involved countries would retain their political entity," he said.

"But they would become closer and more cohesive and more understanding of each others' problems and requirements."

times gets lost among the overtones."

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said: "No matter what subterfuge the prime minister uses, he and his associates have been trying to cover something up here."

GIVES REASONS

Chief reasons given by the government for wanting the investigation done by a parliamentary committee were that the House of Commons should be the judge of its own privileges, and that Mr. Castonguay is already fully engaged in working with provincial commissions drawing up new electoral maps.

But the government position crumbled and the NDP demand for an investigation carried by a voice vote. Earlier the House upset, 116 to 108, a ruling by Speaker Alan Macnaughton that the whole matter wasn't really a case involving parliamentary privilege. The upset didn't involve confidence in the government.

The heated cross-fire started when NDP Leader Douglas read part of article in the Feb. 22 issue of the Vancouver Province which said six unidentified voters had personated voters lists and otherwise had fraudulent votes cast for NDP candidates.

A later dispatch said the New Democratic Party itself had not contributed to the fraud and evidence incriminating the six unless had been sent to Mr. Castonguay.

SHOULD BE NAMED

"If there are persons who voted illegally," Mr. Douglas said, "if there are persons who conspired to commit fraud in the last general election, we say such persons should be named and punished to the full extent of the law.

"On the other hand, if these allegations are not true, they should be proven untrue in order that the good names of the unions and of the elected members of this party from British Columbia may be cleared."

Nine of the NDP's 18 MPs represent British Columbia ridings.

The storm raised by the election fraud charge and how to investigate it cut deep into the Commons' Wednesday half-day sitting, and later debate on the proposed Canada Pension Plan droned through its third day with another string of Conservative speakers.

WINNIPEG (CP)—The president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada said Wednesday a national minimum price of $2.50 a hundred pounds on all milk is needed to better the economic position of dairy producers. Income Tax Explained

A column designed for the average taxpayer who is not in the position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax office.

By C. A. MILLER,
Retired Supervising Assessor,
Income Tax Department

CHILD'S EMPLOYED DURING YEAR

Since 1961 when this column was first written, I have received more acquiries about allowances for working children than on any other subject. The taxpayers are of the opinion that the Income Tax Act is quite unfair in this respect, as they have worked hard to pay for the education of their children and when the child's income in the year of graduation exceeds the statutory limit, the parent has no claim at all for them in that year.

The Income Tax Act and Regulations are quite definite in this respect. If a dependant has become child income of $550 in the taxation year, the taxpayer has no claim whatsoever for them, regardless of the fact the payments may have supported them up to the time of their graduation. Many taxpayers will take a pro-rata portion of the exemption for the time they supported the child, but there is no provision in the Income Tax Act or Regulations that permits this procedure.

Some taxpayers want to know who they can see in Ottawa about the unfairness of this section of the Tax Act. I can only advise them it is only a waste of time and effort as no one has the power to contravene any provision or regulation of the Income Tax laws of Canada.

If the child's income is only slightly in excess of $550, then if it is to the taxpayer's advantage he can claim $550 for the child, if he adds the excess of their income over $350 to his own tax payable on the line on the return indicated as "Tax Adjustments." Many taxpayers who attempt to apply this section will add the excess to their own income. This is in error, the excess over $350 must be added to their Tax Payable.

For a personal reply, enclose a self - addressed five cent stamped envelope, plus 25 cents for each question.

Question 1: My daughter earned $960 after graduation. Can I still claim her?

ANSWER: Yes. If you add $10 to your tax. This reduces her income to the statutory limit of $950.

QUESTION 2: My daughter age 18 was injured in a car accident. She was awarded damages of $1000. Will this prevent me claiming her as a dependent?

ANSWER: No. The $1000 is not considered income for tax purposes.

Khanh Has Gloomy Views About War in S. Viet Nam

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh is headed for the United States with some gloomy views about the prospects for the war in South Viet Nam.

Those who know the deposed strongman regard that he feels the war will be lost—this year —unless the Americans decide to extend it directly to the Communist north, even at the risk of hostilities with China.

Khanh, now designated as ambassador - at - large, is expected to lay Saigon's case against the north before the UN Security Council. He is known to believe that the only chance to save South Viet Nam from a Communist takeover is to convert the limited war in Indo-China to a general war between China and the West.

Khanh has clashed sharply with U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor. Those who know the former strongman say he resents Taylor for opposing his assessment of the prospects. He is said to want to see President Johnson in person and lay his case on the line, confident that his views would be supported by many American military officers with whom he has had contact in South Viet Nam.

DOPPOSED ON PRINCIPLE

Khanh is represented by those who know him well as arguing that the Americans bungle and blunder into internal political situations which are none of their business. Such intervention, he is said to feel, only arouses South Vietnamese leaders to oppose the Americans as a matter of principle, on the basis of sovereignty, whether or not their opposition represents wisdom.

Khanh is known to have complained that the Americans in Saigon insist upon thinking of Viet Nam as a case apart to itself, without taking into consideration what the Chinese may be planning. He is represented as believing there is little time left, that this is the year of decision in Southeast Asia.

North Viet Nam's propaganda calls Khanh's assignment abroad a "trick" by Ambassador Taylor to clear the decks of Khanh supporters. More likely, Hanoi fears that Khanh in the United States will find a sympathetic audience for his views.

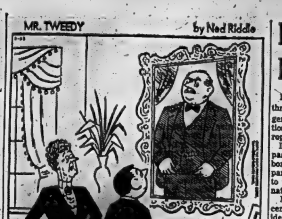
Doctor Gives Time of Death Of Woman

STURGEON FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Dr. J. V. Menard of Verner, Ont., testified at a preliminary hearing Wednesday that Marie Lavergne, 60, of Cache Bay died before 1 a.m. Nov. 20.

Dr. Menard, a coroner, was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Maurice Devost, 16, of Cache Bay, charged with capital murder in Mrs. Lavergne's death. He is also charged with the attempted murder of Mrs. Lavergne's companion, Jeannette Renaud, 35, also of Cache Bay.

Dr. Menard said he examined the body of Mrs. Lavergne between 2:45 and 3 a.m. Nov. 20.



"She must have been dead a couple of hours anyway," he said. "It was not much more, because she was not stiff yet."

At the Feb. 12 session of the hearing, Ernest Demontigny of Cache Bay, a community about 28 miles west of North Bay, testified he was with Devost until 1:35 a.m. the morning of the murder.

He said he and Devost watched television, went out for something to eat and later played cards.

PC Resigns As Member Of Authority

TORONTO (CP)—Darcy McKeough (PC—Kent West) has resigned his provincial government appointment as a member of the Lower Thames Valley Conservation Authority less than one year after the cabinet gave him the job.

His resignation comes on the heels of that of Gordon Pittock (PC — Oxford), who quit as chairman of the Upper Thames River Conservation Authority following opposition charges in the legislature of conflict of interest.

Mr. McKeough on Wednesday that he resigned effective Jan. 28. The cabinet appointed him by order-in-council Feb. 20, 1964.

The Chatham Conservative denied that there was any conflict involved in his membership on the authority while holding a seat in the legislature.

He said he quit because he did not have the time to do the job required of him. As a director at large on the authority executive, he was missing too many meetings because of his government obligations.

Mr. McKeough said he had discussed his resignation with Premier Robarts, nor had anyone in the government asked him to quit the authority. "It was entirely my own decision."

Destiny Lies With Common Market Belief of Politicians

LONDON (AP) — Britain's three political parties appear in general agreement that the nation's destiny lies with the European Common Market.

In varying degrees during the past week, leaders of the Labor, Conservative and Liberal parties urged redoubled efforts to tighten relations with the six nation economic community.

None had any illusion that recent friendly gestures by President Charles de Gaulle of France meant any easing of his opposition to "letting a potential competitor on the European gravy train" in the foreseeable future," as The Economist, the influential weekly, put it.

Relations have been cool between the two governments since de Gaulle blocked Britain's entry into the Common Market in January, 1963. However, since Prime Minister Wilson's Labor party took power last October, there have been signs pointing toward closer relations.

"We are prepared to take any measures that are open to us to end this costly economic division of Europe," Wilson told a political meeting Saturday.

However, Wilson is lodged with Labor's usual reservations about ties with the Commonwealth and the European Free Trade Association must be preserved.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home, former Conservative prime minister, told a party rally that, while awaiting a change of heart by de Gaulle, "we should exploit every chance of co-operation with the countries of Europe."

Lord Gladwyn, a member of the Liberal party, introduced a motion in the House of Lords appealing to the government to take the lead in building "a new and reflected this idea.

western European political and defence community."

The Economist commented:

"There is beginning to be a purposeful continuity in the reluctant British crawl toward Europe, which should not be underestimated, especially on the European continent. It is becoming, as indeed it ought to be, the major fact of British politics."

There is a growing realization that the British market is too small to support British industry, while also is running into increasingly strong competition in the world market.

LONDON (CP)—Donald Baverstock, the tough - talking Welshman at one time widely tipped as the eventual head of BBC television, has been ousted from his job in a sensational shakeup at the corporation's headquarters.

Baverstock, 41, has been replaced as head of TV's No. 1 channel by Michael Peacock, 35, who has directed the BBC's highly unsuccessful second channel since it was opened in May, 1964.

Baverstock is reported to have been offered several lesser jobs, such as head of documentary production, or chief of the BBC's Paris office, but turned them all down.

Chief Justice Does Not Have Much Luck Checking Investigations of Mounties

By ALEX MORIN

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Justice Frederic Dorion didn't have much luck Wednesday in finding out just how independently RCMP investigators are allowed to investigate.

As his inquiry into allegations of bribery and coercion appeared for the day, he was able only to glean only that it "varies."

The question followed testimony by former RCMP Sgt. Ronald Crevier that a chief RCMP investigator was not allowed to use his own discretion in holding interviews with three Montreal persons.

Sgt. Crevier assisted Inspector J. P. Drapeau last August and September during the RCMP investigation of allegations by Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne that he was offered a $30,000 bribe by Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to then Immigration Minister Rene Tremblay.

Insp. Drapeau has testified he received orders to interview only Denis and two aides to Justice Minister Favreau, Jean Letendre and Guy Lord.

After he reported on those interviews, Insp. Drapeau was told to question five other persons including Guy Rouleau, former parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson.

Sgt. Crevier, who assisted in questioning several Montreal witnesses, said he suggested three other people to Insp. Drapeau but the inspector said "he couldn't make a move in this affair without talking to Ottawa."

Drapeau checked with his superiors but was told to return to Ottawa immediately. Justice Minister Favreau later ruled there was insufficient evidence to prosecute.

Part of Chief Justice Dorion's assignment is to look into the RCMP handling of the allegations.

He asked several times whether it was normal for investigators to use their own discretion in pursuing an investigation.

Sgt. Crevier, who was an RCMP investigator 13 years before leaving to work for Mr. Lamontagne's law firm, said it varies.

There were times, for "the good of an investigation," when there were restrictions placed on an investigator. This was often a case of restrictions aimed to keep information from a witness who might spread it to other witnesses.

There has been testimony at the inquiry that several persons knew they were going to be interviewed by the RCMP. Justice Minister Favreau told Mr. Letendre—with permission from RCMP Commissioner McClellan—that he could expect a call from the RCMP.

The witness Sgt. Crevier and Insp. Drapeau would have wanted to hear were: Mrs. Lorraine Rivard, wife of an accused narcotics conspirator awaiting extradition to the United States; Eddie Lechasseur, possessor of a criminal record and close friend of Rivard; and Gerard Turraine, Rivard's business partner.

BRIBE ALLEGED

Lamontagne's allegation is that Denis made the bribe offer on behalf of Rivard so Lamontagne, representing the U.S. in the extradition application, would drop opposition to bail.

Another witness Wednesday was Sgt. Joseph McLeod, 46, who assisted Insp. Drapeau in the first three interviews.

His testimony corroborated that of Insp. Drapeau, especially in conveying unfavorable impressions of Denis: "I didn't think Denis was being honest and telling us the truth."

Sgt. Crevier, who headed the RCMP narcotics squad that arrested Rivard for the American authorities, also added to testimony the commission has heard regarding terror inspired by Rivard and his friends.

He said that when Drapeau and he questioned Raymond Rouleau, the MP's brother, they were told of the fear of physical violence.

He said Raymond Rouleau told them he dreaded the possibility of himself or his children being beaten. He recalled having seen a man beaten "within an inch of death" at Rivard's Plage Idealle.

Sgt. Crevier said Guy Masson was "nervous and perspiring" and asked for police protection for similar reasons. Masson testified earlier he was "errand boy" between Rivard's friends and Denis.

leader in less than two days.

The 38-year-old Malcolm X, who broke with the Black Muslims 14 months ago and formed a rival muslim sect, was shot down as he started to speak at a Manhattan rally Sunday. Police believe five persons were involved. One man is in custody. He is Talmadge Hayer, 22, a Negro from Paterson, N.H., charged with homicide.

In Chicago, a heavy patrol of police and his own bodyguards protected the 19-room home of Elijah Muhammad, head of the Black Muslims, who open a three-day convention Friday.

Chicago police checked reports that followers of Malcolm X were in that city to avenge his death. Muhammad has denied that Black Muslims were involved in the slaying.

In New York, Assistant Chief Inspector Joseph F. Coyle, in command of 30 detectives working on the case, said Wednesday that police were on the "right track" toward solving the slaying.

He said this was because of "information detectives have dug up as to who may be responsible." He did not elaborate.

Bayard Rustin, one of the Negro civil rights leaders who organized the 1963 march on Washington, Wednesday visited Malcolm's funeral home where Malcolm's body is on public display. With tears in his eyes, he told reporters:

"He had a tremendous impact on the Negro community. He caused many young Negroes to take a new vision of themselves. He helped to give my people a sense of their Negro-ness."

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality who has urged President Johnson to launch a federal investigation of Malcolm's slaying, reiterated his belief the Black Muslims were not involved in the shooting.

Negroes Plan Bus Boycott

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Negro leaders, trying to pump new life into their civil rights drive here, have called for a boycott of city buses in the lengthy campaign for voting power.

Films for a bus boycott were announced Wednesday night after lawyers for the civil rights movement petitioned a federal judge in Mobile to strike down an anti-demonstration order issued by a state court judge in Selma.

Canceling street demonstrations for the weekend, Negro leaders concentrated on mobilizing voter registration efforts in surrounding counties and getting a larger number of applicants to turn out next Monday when the board of registrars meets here.

believes he has given sufficient consideration to the engineers' point of view.

The highly technical legislation is designed primarily to establish a new terminology for measuring boiler, compressor and refrigeration equipment capacity. There — hours would be used instead of horsepower.

The engineers had complained the legislation would make their jobs unsafe — not because of the change in terminology, but because existing safety legislation in the act was to be removed from the 1964 bill, and inserted in cabinet regulations.

In other business, Fred Young (NDP—Yorkview) complained that automobile insurance companies offer motorists nothing more than a loan fund just as the Ontario government does through its motor vehicle accident claims fund.

PREMIUMS RAISED

Mr. Young said insured drivers involved in accidents subsequently find their premiums raised, which helps insurance companies recoup their losses on claims.

In effect, he said, this means in most cases motorists are carrying their own insurance claims. "In most cases" where insurance companies make large payments for personal injury.

Mr. Young called for a publicly - operated insurance plan which would eliminate private insurance selling costs, profits and court costs.

Ontario is to have more Supreme Court justices. Attorney-General Dana Porter, Wishart announced the number will be increased to 24 from 22.

Role in Controlling Liquor, Birth Control Pills Raised

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The government role in controlling birth control pills arose in debate in one of Canada's 10 legislatures Wednesday.

In Alberta, Health Minister Ross said there is little the government can do to control the use of birth control pills by young unmarried persons. The pills are not health hazards in themselves, he said.

Developments in other legislatures:

British Columbia — Premier Bennett withdrew the estimates of a government purchasing commission as the opposition criticized the government for its handling of a case involving the commission's former chairman, who was acquitted last month of charges of accepting benefits while a government official.

Quebec — First reading was given a bill that would grant the province's teachers a qualified right to strike.

Ontario — The province announced it will pay $1,400 in grants for each student accommodated in future university residences.

Manitoba—Russ Paulley, New Democratic Party leader, urged the government to establish Crown corporations in promising industries.

Nova Scotia—The government won the traditional opposition non-confidence motion 30 to 4 in the 43-seat house. The motion said there is no program for low - income, high - unemployment areas of the province.

New Brunswick—Cooper E. Horton (PC—Kings) criticized the recent Byrne royal commission report on finance and municipal taxation. Among other things, he said, it "insults many dozens of county councillors."

Prince Edward Island—Premier Shaw said last year was one of great progress for the province and predicted this year would be as progressive.

Newfoundland — Premier Smallwood announced that the province will contribute $150,000 to a joint Atlantic provinces exhibition at Montreal's Expo '67.

Saskatchewan — Harry Link (CCF—Saskatoon) accused the government of taking advantage of compulsive drinkers to increase liquor revenues by extending the hours of liquor stores in two cities.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mrs. William Goyer, John Street, is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital pending surgery.

Miss Connie Donaldson recently entertained a number of her friends at a birthday party at her home on Henry Street. Those from out-of-town who attended were Mrs. Barry Morris of Toronto, Mr. George Frantz of Brockville, and Mr. and Mrs. Brona Young and Darlene of Marmora.

Mrs. Irene Gariepy, MacDonald Avenue, is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

A delightful Valentine dessert bridge was held on Tuesday at St. Joseph's Parish Hall.

The Valentine theme was appropriately reflected in the colorful decor. The tradition of the hall abounding in crimson cupids and lace hearts an elaborate table, decorated with Valentine candles and flowers held an array of delightfully fancy desserts.

The bridge was sponsored by St. Joseph's Catholic Women's League, and was capably convened by Mrs. George Bell and her committee, Mrs. Gordon Tugwell, Mrs. John Martz, Mrs. James Keeley, and Mrs. T. Carney.

Prizes were won by: Mrs. L. Bennett, Mrs. G. Clapp, Mrs. D. McCarthy, Mrs. A. Ross, Mrs. D. Schroder, Mrs. D. Calhane, Mrs. J. Pugh, Mrs. J. Desmond, Miss R. Dales, Mrs. R. McGee, Miss A. Doyle, and Mrs. R. Colden.

The attractive floral centerpiece was won by Mrs. K. Black.

It was a most enjoyable afternoon with credit due to all who in any way contributed to its success.

New Zest For Life After Getting Horse

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Richard Hessel was 50 and a despondent hospital patient when her husband, a druggist, devised his own prescription to treat the condition. He gave her a horse.

That was three years ago. Now Mrs. Hessel, in a wheelchair and with a new zest for life, occasionally gets out to the track to watch her filly Valeetta run.

"I've been to the track five times," she says. "I've seen Valeetta run twice. On one of those occasions she won and it really gave me a lift."

Last season Valeetta won twice, finished second five times and third three times on Western Ontario tracks.

Mrs. Hessel says she wasn't really interested in horses—or anything else—the day her husband saw her looking through the race results in hospital. She had been there a year with a blood clot in her leg and was suffering from the depression of a normally active person.

She has since added to her stable with a yearling bay colt by Uncinatus and her interest continues to mount. "I love it now and I even make an occasional bet."

Church Groups

CHRIST CHURCH EVENING BRANCH

The monthly business meeting of Christ Church Evening Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary was held in the Parish Hall on Monday evening.

The service of prayer was conducted by the president, Mrs. A. Bongard, assisted by Mrs. R. Sandford, with Mrs. L. Williams at the piano.

Reports of the various secretaries were read.

Mrs. J. Fletcher asked for help with the serving of Lenten luncheons on Wednesday mornings during Lent. Mrs. L. Mason and Mrs. H. Stevens will assist with the choir for the World's Day of Prayer service.

The group agreed to order Easil notes with the picture of Christ Church, the proceeds from the sale of these will be used for a project for the church.

Christ Church members will visit Hastings Manor the week of March 7-13.

St. Thomas' Women's Church Year Group invited the W.A. members to their March meeting when the speaker will be a Fellow of Wycliffe, from the St. John the Divine, Willowdale.

An auction sale will be held on March 1st when each member will bring an article to be sold. The W.A. will help with the serving of refreshments following the confirmation service.

Canon R. B. D. Wright gave an interesting talk on "The Comfortable Pew."

Tea hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. R. Smith and Mrs. C. Ling.

Miss Eva Langford, casting director for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, was prevented by illness from addressing the University Women's Club of Belleville and District at their February meeting, on the finding and development of talent in Canada. Mrs. Charles Wilson, chairman of the eastern division of the Dominion Drama Festival and president of the Belleville Theatre Guild, conveyed Miss Langford's regrets to the club.

Mrs. Wilson, speaking on one phase of talent development, the Dominion Drama Festival, explained its origin and growth. The Dominion Drama Festival was established in 1933 by the Earl of Bessborough (then Governor-in-Council) with the aid of 60 Canadians interested in the theatre whom he called together. With the exception of the war years it has been held annually and has played in most of the major centres in Canada. Entries are drawn from fourteen regions in eight zones across the country.

ENCOURAGE TALENT

Many well-known present-day Canadian actors got their start through the Dominion Drama Festival. Playwriting talent has been encouraged and developed. The technical aspects of play production have received active encouragement through workshops at the regional level where professional directors supply guidance. To quote Mrs. Wilson "there would not have been a Stratford in Canada without groundwork had not been laid by the DDF, for the theatre can function without technicians and actors." The dream of Stratford was brought to reality in no small measure by Sir Tyrone Guthrie.

Mrs. Wilson was introduced by Mrs. Harry Corby and thanked by Mrs. R. S. Burtt.

During the preceding business meeting a report was brought in by the Centennial committee. A project questionnaire was distributed to the members, the results of which will aid in determining the form of participation of the club in the Centennial year.

Tea conveners Mrs. R. D. Arnott and Mrs. L. Lennox pause for refreshments served by Wanda Ellis, lieutenant, and Vi Christopher, captain, both of Company 7, at the Belleville Division Girl Guide and Brownie tea held Wednesday afternoon. The Guide trefoil and Brownie toadstool topping the plate centrepiece were made by girls of Company 7.

Large Crowd Attends Annual Girl Guide, Brownie Tea

St. Thomas Parish Hall was a hive of activity yesterday afternoon for the annual Girl Guide and Brownie tea and bake sale which this year coincided with the observance of Guide and Brownie week.

The event, graciously convened by Mrs. R. G. Arnott and Mrs. L. G. Lennox was officially opened by the Ven. A. E. O'Connell who complimented the ladies for their splendid leadership and wished the organization every success, not only for this event but in every future endeavour.

Warmly greeting the large number of patrons at the entrance to the hall, were Mrs. D. Stewart, Belleville Division Commissioner; Mrs. McLean Haig, Quinte Area Commissioner and Mrs. R. Homewood, Salvation Army Commissioner, and inviting the guests into the tea room as hostesses were the four district commissioners, Mrs. H. W. Hunter, Mrs. T. R. Colden, Mrs. A. Bannon and Mrs. E. C. McCallum.

During the afternoon tea was poured by the executive members of the district associations and included: Meadowcroft, S. P. Reston, A. Hume, W. R. C. Monroe, R. R. Bradshaw, E. M. O'Connor, R. M. Pringle, A. A. Mathews, B. R. Waters, F. D. Ford, F. C. Bell, J. E. Kuntze and R. W. Pearson.

ATTRACTIVE TEA ROOM

The tea room located in the downstairs auditorium was most attractive with the Guide and Brownie color decor and motifs carried throughout. Along the three walls were the insignia and mottoes of each group represented, including the Brownies, "Lend a Hand," the Guides, "Be Prepared," and the Rangers, "Look Wide." Highlighting the effect were twin tea tables placed at diagonal angles with each centred by an artistic driftwood centrepiece and flanked with golden yellow candles in tri-branch silver candelabras. The quartet guest tables were most eye-catching with their Guide blue cloths and enlivened with a plate of dainty sandwiches and petite cakes and cookies, divided with a lace doilie and topped with a replica of a Guide trefoil or a Brownie toadstool.

Many Guiders and Girl Guides from the various districts in Belleville assisted with the serving and replenishing. Mrs. F. C. Betsey was treasurer for the afternoon.

DELECTABLE BAKE GOODS

The bake tables located upstairs were each decorated with Guide and Brownie colored streamers and were laden with a fine assortment of tarts, cakes, bread, buns, cookies and tarts with donations for these coming from all the Belleville districts. These included the Belleville North East district convened by Mrs. R. Pringle; North West district, Mrs. N. McMillan; West district, Mrs. B. Waters; and South East district, Mrs. O. Clarke. In keeping with the theme of the tea was a specially decorated cake with a Brownie in full uniform with owl on toadstool all set on white icing.

To one side of the hall was a display showing hand made Pakistan embroidery work. The sale of these items including handkerchiefs, pinafores, dresses, doilies and dresser scarves is sponsored in Canada on a non profit basis with all profits going to help the women in the villages of Pakistan. The display was in charge of Mrs. A. Okrafka of Trenton.

While the guests enjoyed their cup of tea background music was rendered by Mrs. A. Bird at the piano and children were taken care of in the nursery by Guiders, Mrs. A. Cassidy, Mrs. W. Burkett and Mrs. M. Bateman. Kitchen duties were convened by several ladies including Mrs. C. Batt, Mrs. K. Lewis, Mrs. W. Coombs and Mrs. R. Taylor.

Work of Leading Artists Shown Here

An art lecture and display attracted a crowd of about 150 people, which included many High School students to Corby Public Library on Tuesday evening, when Paul Bennett, director of the Art Institute of Ontario showed a collection of original Canadian paintings.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. W. G. Anderson of the library board and thanked by Miss Helen Keeler, a member of the Art Association.

In his introductory remarks, Mr. Bennett said that Belleville held a special interest for him, as his parents had lived here at one time, and he had attended school here.

To prepare the audience for his talk on the works of art he had on display, Mr. Bennett showed numerous slides of paintings done by the same artists showing the changes in their style and technique over the years.

Of the ten paintings on display some were realistic and easy to understand, whereas the more abstract required explanation.

VALUABLE COLLECTION

The paintings were valued at about $10,000 and Mr. Bennett who has taken them across Canada to show in remote places as well as cities, transports the pictures in a secondhand van with wide doors at the side to facilitate loading and unloading. The paintings were loaned from galleries and private collectors, and the project was sponsored with yeargrants made by the Province of Ontario Council for the Arts and from the Canada Council.

Most valuable of the collection was a Bordeaux abstract valued at $4,000, and among other artists represented by major works were J. E. H. MacDonald, Charles W. Jeffreys, Arthur Lismer, A. J. Casson, N. Jock Macdonald, Harold Town, R. York Wilson, Greg Curnoe and Kazuo Nakamura.

While coffee was being served local artists had the opportunity to show their paintings, and Mr. Bennett commented on these and offered some constructive ideas and critical assessment.

ROLL OUT THE BLACKBOARD

Dear Susanna: Give a window shade several coats of blackboard paint then fasten it to the wall in your child's room. It makes a good blackboard, takes no floor space and can be rolled up when not being used.

The blind you intend to paint should be made from good material such as linen or opaque cloth. If there are any holes or bad cracks, be sure to repair them first with tape.

Here is a simple and effective method for removing soil from the bottom of an electric iron. Sprinkle salt on a piece of waxed paper, and run the iron over it while it is hot.—Joyce Burton

PUT IT THERE!

Dear Susanna: Your column is really appreciated, and here is my suggestion: Anyone who hasn't already thought of it should put a polyethylene covering on their "undersink" shelves. A rather large transparent cleaner's bag (unattacked in place will do.

This prevents those unsightly rust marks and water spots that so readily form there. I placed some pretty wallpaper under the polyethylene just to add a bit of color to an otherwise dingy spot. Keep up the good work! — Sherry Scott

With practical, homey and artful ideas coming in every day from readers like you, it's certainly a pleasure to try! — SUSANNA

Many Styles Of Hats Are Chosen

By LYNNE EDMUNDS

LONDON (Reuters). — Mayfair milliner Gina Davies believer American, Canadian Australian and European women all have their own specific tastes in hats.

And she proves it in her spring collection shown here Wednesday with ranges of model hats labelled with the countries whose buyers have ordered them most enthusiastically.

The favorite with young Americans is a tiny trilby in softest felt, with a narrow upturned brim. The less formal Canadian buyers enthused over a head-hugging hat with tiny upturned brim, pepped up in a hand-crocheted mixture of navy and white straw.

But both nationalities agree that Miss Davis' winning big-occasion hat was a frothy twirl of shocking pink organza, mounted turban-style on silk tulle.

Australian buyers are scooping up tiny bretons in a new, featherweight Irish tweed that is cool and virtually uncrushable.

Rhodesians will be sporting a more sophisticated version of the school panama this spring, made of white straw and brightened by emerald green-striped streamers.

The sophisticated French and the practical Dutch have chosen styles as appropriate as a gigantic navy cartwheel worn over a cap of white feathers and buttoned Gisella, and a classic, head-hugging beret in navy and white straw.

CENTRES NO ANSWER

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Social workers must go out into the streets to reach the tough, alienated youths who do not ask for help, James Felstiner of the Toronto University Settlement said. Addressing a the United Community Services group here, he said this kind of help is more useful than offering recreational facilities.

Ann Landers

Ann Requests Aid For Petrified Pastry

DEAR ANN LANDERS — When I read the letter about Myrtle, who couldn't recognize the apple pie in the cafeteria, it stirred up memories that had been tucked in the back of my mind for 25 years.

In the orphanage where I grew up we used to say, "You can tell when it's apple pie because it tastes like glue. The peach pie tastes like soap."

To this day I can't stand either one. — J.G.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR J.G. — I love pie—any kind—and I have made it my business to learn where to get the best.

The finest cherry pies in the world are baked in Traverse City, Mich. Lexington, Ky., has the best pecan pies; Billings, Mont., specializes in banana cream. In Rochester, N.Y., I was served the most delicious lemon pie I ever ate. The yummiest chocolate pies are put together right here in Chicago. Ditto, coconut cream.

Yes, I love pie, but I can't make a decent pie to save my life. My crusts are positively bullet proof! If any of you gals have a surefire pie-crust recipe please send it on.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a girl who is worried sick about my 19-year-old brother.

Chuck started to date this girl who said she was 17. When he found out she was only 15 he was shocked, but he kept going with her. The girl's parents are divorced and her mother works nights so nobody is home to check on her. She can (and does) go out every night of the week, and she can entertain Chuck as late as she wants.

My brother has a good job and lives at home. He pays Mom and Dad $25 a week for room and board and feels they have no right to tell him what time to be in or who to take out.

I'm worried sick that this girl will hook Chuck, if you know what I mean.—He resents it when anyone tries to tell him anything, especially his kid sister, so I am hoping you will print my letter. Chuck reads your column every day and he says you are with it. — LITTLE SIS.

DEAR SIS — Nobody can hook your brother, but he could hook himself. I don't think Chuck is with it — or he would have stopped seeing the girl when he learned her age. When I was a teen-ager they called 15-year-olds "San Quentin quail."

Let's hope Chuck wakes up and smells the coffee before the pot boils over.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I have filed suit for divorce but it will be several months before I am legally free. My mother takes care of my four-year-old son while I work. We all live together and she is on my back constantly about my "morals." I don't know how much more I can take before I blow my stack.

Mother says I have no right to go with men until my divorce comes through. She keeps telling me my husband could make trouble and possibly take the boy away.

She forgets that a girl who has been married is second-hand merchandise. The only way I can make a new life is by going out when I have the chance. These same men may not be willing to wait until everything is legal. A girl who is damaged property can't be fussy. Besides I'm only 22 — too young to sit around the house and rot.

Please help me get my mother off my back. — RITA.

DEAR RITA — Your mother is right and I hope you will listen to her. I hope, too, that you will stop thinking of yourself as damaged property and second-hand merchandise. Divorce is a tragedy, not a crime. Unless you have a decent opinion of yourself — and behave as if you do — nobody else will.

EARTHQUAKE WAS WORST

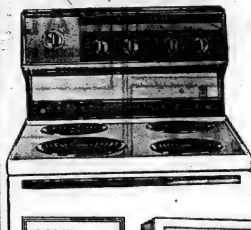
PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The Alaskan earthquake last March 27 was the worst ever recorded in both horizontal and vertical extent. An analysis of land measurements shows movement along the primary fault extended horizontally for 500 miles and went as deep as 120 miles. Some areas were lifted up as much as 50 feet and others dropped as much as seven feet.

U.C.W. Meeting

HOLLOWAY STREET UCW

Holloway Street UCW held their February meeting in the auditorium of the new Christian Building on Tuesday afternoon. President, Mrs. R. Taylor, handed the meeting over to Mrs. C. Holmes' group. Several visitors and new members were welcomed. Mrs. Curtis led the devotional, basing the meditation on the parable of the wise and foolish virgins. A solo was prayerfully rendered by Mrs. Lacon.

Mrs. Holmes introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. F. Smith of Newburgh, Presbyterial president, who based her message on the ten points given in the Purpose of the UCW. Challenging members to take a fresh look at and evaluate the personal meaning it holds for each one, she pointed out the necessity of total Christian commitment and active participation in reaching out to people and their problems, never neglecting vital contact with spiritual resources—to develop leadership and be faithful stewards of our time, talents and finances.



Mrs. C. Dobbs invited everyone to the "Get Acquainted Tea" their unit is holding on March 18. All were urged to bring their knitting and sewing, to spend the afternoon and get to know each other better.

Mrs. C. Holmes presented the slate of officers to the Rev. C. W. Coleman to be installed as follows: president — Mrs. R. Taylor; vice-president — Mrs. G. Carlisle and Mrs. D. What Women Are Doing

St. Michael's CWL

Mrs. J. R. Rashotte, President

The Catholic Women's League was organized nationally, June 17, 1920. Why was it formed? Because of the necessity of having a medium through which Catholic women might express themselves as one voice in all matters of interest to them as loyal citizens of Canada. Among other objects, the League seeks the betterment of social action, the stimulation of effort in all lines of women's work and gives unremitting support to the formation of enlightened public opinion. The C.W.L. is part of a world-wide movement of Catholic womanhood under the banner of the World Union of Catholic Women's Organizations, representing 65 countries. A representative attended the conference in Paris in 1963.

The National League has a membership of 155,000 including active and honorary members. In Belleville there are three separate Councils: St. Michael's, St. Joseph's and Holy Rosary, with a total membership of 828. Monthly meetings are held and an annual regional meeting in the fall and a diocesan convention in the spring. The Provincial and National Conventions are held each year in different locations.

Through contributions made by all Councils in Canada, three national scholarships for social graduate study in social work are awarded each year. The centennial project of the National organization is a donation of $100,000 to the Vanier Family Life Conference.

In Ontario the latest provincial endeavour has been the provision, on a loan basis, which is being extended through the current year. Homes for over 300 children have been found as a result of this appeal.

In cities where there is more than one C.W.L. Council, activities of a community nature are co-ordinated under one convenership known as "Civic Action." Voluntary welfare work is one of the main functions of this group, and the "Belleville Civic Action" is a member of the United Appeal. Approximately 100 members helped with the canvass last year. During 1964 77 families were given supplementary assistance — food, clothing, etc. A bursary was also awarded to a graduate of Nicholson College.

Every Council within the confines of its own parish pursues common and special projects. Girl Guides and Brownies are sponsored, Days of Recollection are held, Sunday morning nurseries are staffed, citizenship programs conducted, etc. As part of the ecumenical movements, many parish Councils have entered into dialogue with the women's groups of neighboring churches.

Consult Speech Therapist For Stuttering Problem

DEAR DORIS — I know from reading your column that I am by far not the only person with the problem of stuttering. However, since I started work in a printery it has become more apparent something has to be done.

During school, teachers never really helped me. They only stopped me reading from textbooks because of my problem.

Right from the first attempt to find work, I was refused a job, not because of appearance or character, but my speech defect. To me it was quite a blow. Then I found work in a printery. Though my employer knew of my problem, he gave me a chance. It is my present work which presents the difficulty.

DORIS CLARK

I am training to be a proof-reader. What I do is read copy to the proof-holder. With my stuttering, I greatly slow down the regular pace of work.

Do you know of any centres or institutions where I could get help without any great expense? — STUTTERER.

DEAR STUTTERER — Teachers and parents were at fault for ignoring your problem. Now the habit is more set. And the situation which probably started it may still exist. Your self-confidence has doubtless suffered.

Rehabilitation centres and therapy departments in hospitals sometimes have the resource, of a speech therapist which would be your best bet.

In case you are in one of many locations where a speech therapist cannot be found for love or money, I'm sending you a list of books which can help you work on the problem yourself. The fact that your employer believes in you is a wonderful reason for optimism.

BRIEFS BANNED

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Mayor Francisco Rabanal has banned topless bathing suits. They cannot even be displayed in shop windows and he warns that violations will be met with heavy fines.

Wile Preservers

Avoid a "creased flue" look after laundering tucked garments by lifting the edge of each tuck slightly with a table knife.

Not Allowed To Divorce 'Bush' Wives

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — President Kenneth Kaunda has warned members of Parliament and officials of his ruling party:

"Disciplinary action will be taken if you divorce your 'bush' wives to marry younger, better educated women."

Some men suddenly promoted and earning higher salaries in this new nation are discarding backward, illiterate wives in favor of more presentable girls.

President Kaunda, happily married for 17 years and the father of nine children, views this as a "serious flaw" in the moral standing of his young nation.

Some ministers have faced the problem of being shot from almost underground political fighting in backwoods huts on to the international scene of big houses and big cars with a wife not quite up with the social graces. They are sending their wives to courses on entertaining and etiquette.

Maybe you're not fussy about flavor in a ginger ale. But Wilson's are. That's why Wilson's Ginger Ale tastes so good. Skilful blending gives Wilson's the right balance of the Jamaica ginger flavor and sparkling carbonation. Don't let anyone tell you all ginger ales taste the same; Try Wilson's and discover the difference.

Toronto Women's Club Aids School Dropouts

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP)—Eric R. is 14, working, and going to night school to complete Grade 10. Yet when he was 14 he planned to quit school as soon as he could.

From a poor home in a poverty-blighted section of downtown Toronto, Eric could see no point in school. A job with fringe coming in made more sense to him. In spite of his intelligence, his school marks were down in the 50s because he didn't care.

In three years, Eric brought his marks up to the 70s and decided to stay in public school as long as he could because someone he respected helped him to respect himself and the value of all the schooling he could manage.

Eric's luck turned when a women's club and a social agency joined forces in a pioneer search for an answer to the school dropout problem. From 1961 to 1964 the three-phase program was run as an experimental project, watched, recorded and evaluated. The Junior League of Toronto supplied $33,000 and more than 100 volunteers to Central Neighborhood House in downtown Toronto.

The program underwent a tough test. Helen Sutcliffe, executive director at the settlement house, estimates there are 4,000 dropouts a year in the densely crowded area it serves. An estimate places the population upwards of 40,000 in little more than two square miles.

HALF REMAINED

"We wanted to see if we could reverse the trend, to work with potential dropouts and see if we could change their attitudes."

Of the 30 children a year who served as project guinea pigs, 15 are believed to have remained in school because of it. As the program continues, Miss Sutcliffe says she hopes the lessons learned will improve the score.

"It was a costly project, but if there was more money for prevention, we would not have to spend so much later. The younger children are getting eager to learn. If we can do more of that we can prevent the tragedy of waste."

The project, planned by members of the house staff and Mrs. J. D. Chaisson, its director for the first year, included work with children, with individual parents and with a parents' group. The house was a natural setting because it has served its area for 35 years as a place to go for social activity and for help.

The project was cleared initially with the board of education and explained to local principals and teachers. They were asked to help spot potential dropouts, something the planners considered useful under any circumstances.

AGE LIMIT LOWERED

The sample children were chosen with their help, and without the knowledge of the children. About 12 were in the sample through all three years.

At first the age range was 10 through 16, but it was lowered to eight in the second year because more could be done with the younger children. "With older ones the attitudes are so hard you can't change them," Miss Sutcliffe says.

Homework sessions were one part of the program. They were held at the house, in the afternoon for young children, in the evening for adolescents. A room was set up with small tables and comfortable chairs, to look as unlike a school room as possible.

"Any child could come for homework," Miss Sutcliffe says. "We even bribed them in any way we could. We had cocoa and cookies in the afternoon and dinner before the evening sessions."

Jane Hughes of the Junior League says volunteers were dismayed at first at the small numbers of children at a session. "We might expect masses of children and get four or five. It wasn't until then that we realized the value of what we were doing."

ARE DEFEATED

She says most of the children needed special tutoring, but the biggest problems were indifference and acceptance of defeat.

"They all needed pride in themselves and proof that someone was interested in them. You had to get friendly with them before they'd open up, and it was up to you to make the effort."

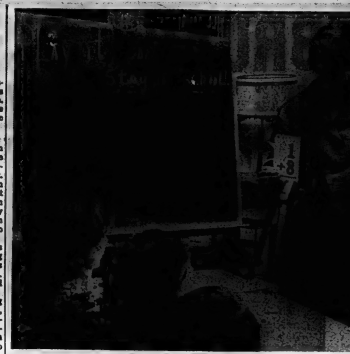
Attendance at the sessions nevertheless grew slowly during the three years and the sessions have been increased this year. Miss Hughes, a former school teacher, now is chairman.

While the children were being coaxed to homework sessions, their problems also were attacked on the home front. Volunteers visited parents once a week. Indifference was also their most serious problem.

Mrs. J. C. McVitty visited a family of four whose home was one room in an old house. "One of their children had sat in the same classroom for three years, but her mother had never taken it on herself to find out why, though she loved her children dearly."

MEETS PRINCIPAL

After months of trying, Mrs. McVitty got the woman to go with her to meet the school principal and teacher. "When we got home she was grateful. It helped her to understand that her child could and should be moved to a vocational school and not just quit when she was old enough."



A third phase of the project was the organization of parents' groups at the house, with the hope of arousing interest in school and provoking talk about common problems.

The staff managed to get some parents to come to meetings for films and speakers, but there was little active response until the second year.

Mrs. John Farina, project director for its final two years, says the project proved a latent interest in learning can be encouraged, that hard - to - reach families can be reached and that teachers can identify potential dropouts in time to help them.

SPINSTERS' DAY

A law was enacted in Scotland in 1288—on Leap Year Day —permitting spinsters to propose to bachelors in a Leap Year; a few days later a similar law was enacted in France.

HELPS SCHOOL DROPOUTS — The Junior League of Toronto, a social club, and the Central Neighborhood House, a social agency, have joined forces to combat the problem of school dropouts in lower-income parts of the city. Jane Hughes of the Junior League, a former school teacher, works with potential dropouts at afternoon and evening classes, helping with homework and providing special tutoring. Children are encouraged to "play it cool, stay in school." (CP Photo)

ROAST DUCK WITH ORANGE GLAZE

Any excuse for not being practical makes us do a jig.

A delightful letter came asking for magnificent meat dishes for guest dinners.

I think I'm going to give you soon a French method for stuffing a leg of lamb, but today you have to read about my Roast Duck with Orange Glaze. When I was eating it I whimsically decided to serve nothing but duck forever and a day. It was most satisfying. The duck was frozen and cost me $2.26.

ROAST DUCK WITH ORANGE GLAZE (serves 4 or 5):

One 5-lb. duck, 2 slices white bread, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons chopped mild onion, grated rind 1 large orange, 1 teaspoon rosemary (or other preferred mild herb — not sage), 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons orange juice, 1 orange thinly sliced — skin left on.

Loosen the closing on the plastic bag to allow some air in and defrost duck overnight.

To make the Stuffing: Cut crusts from bread, give them to the birds and cut bread into ¼" dice. In large frying pan gently melt butter and add onion, grated orange rind and rosemary and heat until they are soaked with the butter but not brown. Add bread dice and salt and toss until well mixed. Now dip your clean fingertips into the orange juice and rub it firmly all over the skin of the duck. Sprinkle sparingly with salt. Now fill the remaining orange juice into the stuffing, mix thoroughly and fill the duck cavity with it, but don't pack it. Close the opening with 2 or 3 small metal skewers. Tie the wings snugly to the body with string and place on trivet in open roasting pan and roast at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Do not baste. Then reduce heat to 300 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour and 25 minutes longer, making 2 hours and 25 minutes' roasting time in all. But during last 15 minutes cover entire breast of duck with thin orange slices, which you have dipped in the fat in bottom of pan before arranging on duck. Remove string before serving on preheated platter. When the duck was carved the host got a slice of orange on each serving. My guests claimed it was the best duck yet.

1) If you are very fond of the orange flavor in the stuffing, you could add 1 sectioned orange to the stuffing in addition to the grated rind and juice — but if you do, remove the membrane from the sections and cut each section in half. 2) The skin on the duck is delicious and crisp and all of our guests passed their plates back for bits of it to munch on.

Horrified Senate Rejected First Plunge to Establish An Income for the Elderly

OTTAWA (CP) — Overshadowed by the current debate on the contributory Canada Pension Plan is the country's old age security program, which persevered through political storms to pave the way for introduction of the new supplementary plan.

The need for provision of income for the elderly now is generally accepted. But this wasn't always so.

In 1926, when the Commons first took the plunge to establish old age pensions, a horrified Senate rejected the legislation. Some senators were appalled at the thought of making gifts to private citizens from the public purse.

In 1908, the Liberal government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier brought in legislation to establish government annuities, a method whereby Canadians could contribute to their own retirement income, with a finge of government assistance.

This contributory annuity scheme failed to existence —was the only form of government - sponsored pension until 1927, although there were some half - hearted campaigns for old age pensions in the meantime.

The trade union movement spearheaded a campaign during the First World War, aided by some members of Parliament, and a parliamentary committee was set up to study the possibilities. Nothing happened.

Then in 1926, with the Liberal government of Mackenzie King in a minority position, CCF Leader J. S. Woodsworth applied all the political pressure he could muster to have the government introduce an old age pension scheme.

When the Commons passed the legislation, calling for a $20-a-month pension at age 70 with a stiff means test, the Senate threw it out.

So Mr. King seized this as an election issue and successfully sought a majority.

The Old Age Security Act received Royal assent March 31, 1927.

Cost of the pension was shared equally by the federal and provincial governments. The means test restricted residents to an additional income of $125 a month.

This brought allowable yearly income, including the pension, to $365 a year, or $1 a day. And the government retained the right to recover payments from the estate of the pensioner.

In 1931, R. B. Bennett's Conservative government amended the act in 1931 so that Ottawa paid 75 per cent of the program, with the provinces contributing the other 25 per cent.

In 1937, Mackenzie King brought in pensions for blind persons at the age of 40, at the same rate as old age pensions but with a less severe means test.

The act was amended again in 1942 so provincial governments could provide supplementary allowances beyond the prescribed ceilings.

The first pension increase came in 1943, when they were raised to $25 a month. The next increase came in 1947, when the pension was raised to $30 a month. At the same time, the qualifying age for blind pensions was lowered to 21 from 40.

Two years later, the pension was raised to $40, in the midst of a campaign, again spearheaded by the trade union movement, for abolition of the means test.

The Liberal government of Louis St. Laurent appointed a joint Commons-Senate committee to investigate the whole question. Its co-chairmen were Jean Lesage, now premier of Quebec, and Senator James H. King, British Columbia Liberal.

In 1951 Parliament adopted its recommendations of providing a universal old age pension of $40 a month at age 70 without a means test.

At the same time the old age assistance program was brought in, providing $40 a month at age 65 with a means test. The cost of the assistance program was shared equally between federal and provincial governments.

In 1954, the Disabled Persons Act was passed, providing $40-a-month pensions to persons disabled. The blind pensions, in which they were made available to all blind persons over 18.

Just before the 1957 general election, the Liberal government raised the pensions by $6 to $46 a month.

Late that year, after the Conservatives assumed office, the pensions were raised to $55 from $46 a month, and the Canadian residence requirement was reduced to 10 years from 20.

In 1960, the pension became available to those who were outside Canada for up to six months in any year. And if the pensioner had lived in Canada for 25 years since the age of 21, he could draw the pension indefinitely outside the country.

In 1962, the Conservative government increased the pensions to $65 from $55 a month.

After the Liberal government returned to office in 1963, the pensions were raised to $75 a month.

Recently, Prime Minister Pearson announced that the qualifying age for the old age security pension will be reduced by one year annually over a five-year period so that by 1970 the $75 monthly pension will be available at age 65.

Ont., Quebec Oppose Higher Bell Profits

OTTAWA (CP)—Ontario and Quebec municipalities have dug in for a vigorous fight against Bell Telephone Company of Canada's contention that it should be allowed higher profits.

A brief filed with the board of transport commissioners by the municipalities says Bell's suggestion that it be allowed a profit equal to seven per cent of total capital investment is not reasonable.

The brief estimates that on the seven-per-cent basis, Bell earnings last year would have been $3.14 a share, up about 30 per cent from the actual profit estimate of $2.20 a share—highest in the company's history.

Last fall the board of transport commissioners announced it would hold public hearings this year to study Bell's financial structure and its permissive level of earnings.

In 1958, when Bell last won a rate increase, the board set its permissive profit level at $2.45 a share. In the six years since then, Bell has actually topped this mark.

No date has been for the new hearings pending the exchange on briefs between Bell and the groups opposing any increase in the company's profit level.

Last November Bell filed a brief in which it urged that the company must keep an attractive profit level to attract the $1,250,000,000 it will require in the next five years. It defended its rising profit picture as "just and reasonable" under the circumstances.

A submission filed this week by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities contended, in effect, that Bell is making enough money already. It stated:

"The board should not, without the most compelling reasons, now substitute a seven-per-cent-return on capital for the historical basis of permissive earnings per share unless which that is established, experienced a sound development, and has been able to finances a very substantial capital program since 1950."

The federation represents more than 74 Ontario and Quebec municipalities.

Briefs from the Communist Party of Canada and the United Electrical Workers Union (Ind.) said Bell is a public monopoly under private control and should be nationalized for the public good.

St. Jean Baptiste Society Executive Will Try to Make Peace With Quebec Diocese

QUEBEC (CP) — The powerful seven-man executive of the Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies will meet here this weekend in what may be an effort to make peace with its alienated 65,000-member Quebec diocesan section.

The Quebec diocese is among 17 which make up the 300,000-member federation, and it is the largest and most moderate It has refused to pay its annual $13,000 dues and has been openly critical of federation statements.

The St. Jean Baptiste Society is an organization whose declared purpose is to promote the interests of French-speaking Canadians. More than a century old, it exists in nearly all Canadian communities with large French-speaking populations. It takes its name from the patron saint of French Canada.

Federation President Georges Henri Fortin, 46, of Alma, brushed secretary of the Lake St. John region, said Monday he says the weekend meeting is to be a routine one.

But Gilles Desmarais, 49, president of the Quebec diocese, and others here indicate otherwise.

"If we can't reach a decision we'll have to separate,"—Mr. Desmarais said in an interview. "This is the only kind of separatism we'll consider."

Mr. Arsenault said recently the federation suffers from "an acute infiltration of separatists" and the government has suggested the society is anything but democratic.

Mr. Desmarais, who has been trying to "democratize" structures in the Quebec diocese, is regarded as a leader of the moderate, non-political wing of the society.

The federation irritated the Quebec diocese last October by urging citizens to ignore the visit of Queen Elizabeth as a royal section's opposition to the Fauvreau formula for amending the constitution that has caused anger.

The formula was agreed on by Justice Minister Guy Favreau and the attorneys-general of the provinces at a meeting in Ottawa last October.

It provides procedures for amendments of the British North America Act, Canada's constitution, without reference of proposed amendment to the British Parliament as now is essential.

Mr. Fortin recently said it would "only be a matter of time" to appease Quebecers and it would be honored only if it became the law, and equally for all citizens from one end of the country to the other. He also said the Quebec fleur-de-lis should have its place.

Mr. Desmarais has said the society has been fighting for years for a distinctive flag and shouldn't drop it now that it has been obtained.

There has been criticism that the federation has no real power and makes statements without consulting the whole membership.

A major dispute has arisen from a decision by some in the federation to draw up a brief of present to the Quebec legislature's committee on the constitution. The committee, composed of members of the legislature assembly, would be established to collect views on what changes in the constitution, or what type of constitution Quebec should seek for the future.

With the federation brief soon to be presented, it is believed, say they have not been consulted in the drawing up of its contents. Quebec diocese plans to present its own brief, possibly in March.

Another area of dissension is the Estates-General called last year by the federation. The Estates-General originally was a French institution through which kings gathered public opinion. The last one was held in France in 1789, before the revolution.

The Quebec diocese felt an Estates - General would be a good way of gathering popular Quebec opinion of political, social, economic, cultural and religious matters.

The idea was to summon labor, farm, industrial, professional, religious and other groups to offer their opinion on French Canada's future.

Jean Hubert, Quebec executive secretary, says the idea was turned over to the federation to bring into effect but nothing was heard of it until recently. Now, he says only the political committee is active and it is in the hands of "ultranationalists."

Premier Lesage severely criticized the Estates - General idea and said the elected legislature is Quebec's Estates-General and there can be no substitute.

Dr. Lucien Boulet, an agronomist and former Quebec diocese president, said there are two schools of thought in the society now. One wanted political action. The other national action.

Of the group seeking political action Dr. Boulet said:

"There is a little group with high posts who want independence. They are fanatics. Some of them are in government, in the council, and some in the permanent staff."

Mr. Fortin denies there are any fanatics, as does Paul - Emile Robert, 43, president of the 20,000 - member Montreal group, which last year presented a brief to the constitutional committee calling for a Canadian republic composed of two associate states.

The Montreal branch of the society was formed in 1834 and the Quebec branch in 1842. The Society has become well known for its colorful parades June 24, feast of St. Jean Baptiste.

"All the members did in the past was pay $2 and applaud the float at the annual parade," says Jean Duceppe, a free-lance newspaperman and broadcaster and society rebel who has tried to change its structures.

He says it is run by "old-timers" who are more anti-English than pro-French-Canadian, pointing to recent years that the society is being brought up to date.

Govt. Is Not Planning Study of Press

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is not planning a royal commission study of the press in Canada, the Commons was informed Wednesday.

Barry Mather (NDP — New Westminster), a newspaper columnist, asked this written question:

"In consideration being given to establishing a royal commission on the press, similar to the Royal Commission on the press in Great Britain in 1949 and 1962, with the object of ascertaining the free expression of opinion, the greatest degree of accuracy and also to make known the control management and ownership of the press, and news agencies, operating in Canada?"

Jack Davis, parliamentary secretary to the prime minister, said the matter is not under consideration.

Canada and United States Swap A-Research Data

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada and the United States Wednesday signed an agreement to swap use of special Canadian nuclear research facilities for information flowing from work.

The U.S. research is part of a program to develop a system for central power stations capable of exploiting the useful life of nuclear fuels.

The U.S. interest hinges on possibilities for large-scale combinations of power - producing plants and water desalting. Canadian interest is primarily in power production for such areas as Ontario, where demand is spurring expansion of thermal and nuclear energy.

It was understood that the participation by the U.S. probably would lead to a swifter pace of research than Canada herself could manage.

The agreement was signed by President J. L. Gray of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, the Crown nuclear agency, and Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The agreement permits the U.S. use of specialized research facilities to be completed at the Manitoba Whiteshell project this spring, plus those existing at Chalk River, Ont.

The process involved is the heavy water-moderated, organically-cooled reactor concept. Both countries would like to find a cheaper coolant than heavy water.

The use of Canadian research apparatus will supplement programs begun in the U.S. and avoid the necessity of building new plants here or modifying existing ones.

As part of its major participation, Canada will have access to the research findings subject to certain patent "understandings."

The U.S. has access to the Canadian program under existing bilateral agreements.

26 District Residents Made New Citizens of Canada

Canada gained the loyalty, affection and industry of 26 people from Europe and Asia in an impressive citizenship ceremony at the County Building yesterday

Judge J. C. Anderson presided at the special sitting of County court and in his opening remarks read the proclamation by Queen Elizabeth II declaring the red and white Maple Leaf design flag the national flag of Canada.

The setting in the main courtroom presented a profusion of color in a dignified atmosphere. A RCMP corporal and constable wearing traditional scarlett tunics and standing rigidly at attention throughout, added to the significance of the occasion. The new Canadian flag and the Union Jack were displayed against a backdrop adorned by an embossed plaque of the Canadian Coat of Arms.

Messages of welcome to the new citizens were brought in the court by Mayor Jack Ellis, Fred Beckett, Warden of Hastings County, Lt. Col. K. D. H. Willcocks, commanding officer of the Hastings Prince Edward Regiment, the Rev. Gordon B. Woodside, president of the Belleville Minister Association, Father Felix Debono of the Holy Rosary Parish of Belleville and the Argyle and St. Julien chapters of the I.O.D.E., who later convened at tea at the Armouries with the new citizens attending.

Judge Anderson called on the applicants for citizenship certificates to renounce allegiance and fidelity to the countries of their birth and pledge loyalty to the Sovereign Queen of Canada and her successors and obey the laws of their new homeland.

Eloquent replies on behalf of the new citizens came from Mrs. Ellen Soutra of Trenton and Pieter Holstra of Belleville.

Those receiving certificates with their former countries shown in brackets were: Mrs. Ellen Pauline Elise Sandra of Trenton (German); Klaus Bernhard Meier of Tweed (Germany); Simon Ionean of Batawa (Roumanian); Benjamin Guyer of Belleville (Switzerland); Mrs. Chui Chun Lee of Belleville (China); Mrs. Elizabeth Svendsen of Belleville (Denmark); Fernando Dos Anjos Garcia of Belleville (Portuguese); Imre Kiraly of Belleville (Roumanian); Armando Andrea Bastardetti of Belleville (Italian); Mrs. Giuseppina Bastardetti of Belleville (Italian); Steven Dimitroff Merchoff of Marmora (Bulgarian); Mrs. Nina Zegouras of Belleville (Greece); Mrs. Geertruida Fontyn of Frankford (Holland); Cornelis Gerhardus Fontyn of Frankford (Holland); Pieter Holstra of Belleville (Holland); Hendrik Johannes De Koker of Belleville (Holland); Francesco Carbone of Belleville (Italy); Mrs. Agata Cardoni of Belleville (Italy.)

Mrs. Kate Oliver of Frankford (Ireland); Mrs. Jozica Ozimek of Belleville (Yugoslavia); Mrs. Ana Zugaich of Trenton (Yugoslavia); Jean (John) Psoras of Belleville (Greece); Dionisios-Geralasios Psoras of Deonis-Fortis) of Trenton (Greece); Ioannis Koukouves of Belleville (Greece); Mrs. Antonia Ignatio De Gruyter of Trenton (Holland); and Mrs. Krishna Maini of Belleville (Pakistan).

See New Vote For Steel Union

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Informed labor sources predict that there is a good chance that the federal government will order a new election in the fight for the presidency of the United Steel Workers union.

The labor department is watching the official tabulation of votes in the contest between president David J. McDonald and the union's secretary-treasurer, I. W. Abel. Official vote-counting started Monday in Pittsburgh.

Highly placed labor sources, here for the AFL-CIO executive council meeting, said Wednesday that if the final outcome is within a few thousand votes federal labor laws are likely to be invoked to order a new election.

Conservatives Want Four New Benefits

OTTAWA (CP)—The Conservative opposition Wednesday moved the first of a series of amendments to the Canada Pension Plan designed to rewrite it drastically to their view of a national pension scheme.

Gordon Aiken (PC — Parry Sound-Muskoka) said the Conservatives intend to add four new benefits which will require the inclusion in the Canada Pension Plan bill of a clause spelling out resident qualifications.

The four new benefits are:

—Pensions of $25 a month for all those who cannot qualify under the Canada Pension Plan because their earned incomes are less than $600 a year while employed, or $800 a year if self-employed.

—These minimum pensions to be paid without contributions from those in the lowest income bracket.

MINIMUM SOUGHT

—A minimum pension of $25 a month, to be paid out of the funds by the Canada Pension Plan, for everyone 70 or over who will not benefit from the Canada Pension Plan. (They now receive $75 a month from the standard old age pension.)

—A minimum pension of $25 a month for those who are between 65 and 70 when the Canada Pension Plan comes into and will be unable to build up meaningful pension credits before age 65.

The residence qualifications Mr. Aiken suggested are the same as those now applying to recipients of old age pensions and old age assistance — the means-test pension available to those aged 65-69 who are in need.

Lloyd Francis (L—Carleton) said the residence qualifications would make a fundamental change in the contributory plan. It would apply only to provinces not opting out of the Canada plan.

Before Mr. Aiken moved his amendment near the end of the third day of debate on the Canada Pension Plan, Walter Dinsdale (PC—Brandon-Souris) said the government's bill covers a broad cross-section of the Canadian people but does not deal with the problem of chronic indigents.

Jack Horner (PC — Acadia) said a farmer who has contributed for some years may suffer a complete crop failure or total crop damage from hail in one year, and thus have no income. While he might be able to continue contributions from savings built up in earlier years, he would be relieved under the government bill have to count a year of such come.

TWEED—Trout fishing and the weather in "Canvasville" were as comfortable as Cassius Clay and a grand duchess ball.

Outside the winter breeze pleased a zero tune, but inside were officials, Lands and Forests officials told me a fishing story.

Messrs. M. Donaldson, Russ Whitfield and Bill Bittle told me that an estimated 2,000 trout-hungry humans will safari northward on Friday to ready for Saturday's opening date.

The speckles, browns, brooks and lakers are kicking up their fins, secure, they believe beneath from 18 to 20 inches of solid ice. That is the average thickness on Nature's northern trout ponds.

There is an average of eight inches of crusted snow on the forest floors and general levels. Some lakes are weeping a heavy snow-carpet. The ice-shackled windswept waters have a minimum of snow.

A word of warning. Department officials told me there is a treacherous crust topping the snow. Blame recent freezing rain for that.

The crust, they said, makes it hazardous for those trout-seekers who take to snow "skidoos" and other motor-driven snow-skimming craft for transportation.

A sudden crash through the crust and the vehicle is liable to turn turtle. Two conservation officers had this experience but fortunately escaped injury.

But it seems weather and whatnot hold no fears for that hardy breed, the February fishermen. They thronged the trout haunts on March 1st, 1963, in arctic below zero weather. Last year on the March 1st opening date, it was 10 below in the Bancroft district.

Hotels and motels in the northern districts are ready for the invasion. Some, departmental officials told me, are sold out.

Many anglers who own cottages and cabins will move in for the weekend fun. Some have been on location already, getting ready for "the gang."

Officials do not anticipate any record hauls. "Had the season opened on February 15, no angler would have gone home empty-handed. There was tremendous fish-feeding on and around that date," they said.

Water levels in the northern lakes and streams are normal, they said. This was due to early heavy rains which in turn helped the oxygen supply.

How does the early season opening affect the trout population?

"Most of the lakes are stocked with hatchery-bred fish," I was told. "It is a put-and-take affair. We put the trout in the water for the sole reason of having the anglers take them out. That is what we want.

Heavy fishing of brook, brown and speckles helps take some of the pressure off lake trout. This type of trout carry themselves as far as population is concerned.

Lands and Forests officials drew attention to the fact—and all trouters should mark, learn and digest—that anglers are permitted to use two lines only, and these must be attended.

By "attending" you don't have to crouch over the lines, just keep within a reasonable distance.

Conservation officers of the Department will check all lakes being fished.

This to get an idea of the general success, the number of fish caught and the separate numbers of individual species. They ask the co-operation of all anglers in this respect.

So the "tally-ho" of the trout hunters will ring in the northland Saturday morning. It will be tough going for an ordinary mortal but to this hardy breed the battle cry is "Yo-ho for the lakes—and the hell with the weather!"

Incidentally the bag limits are:—lake trout, five per day; speckled trout, 15 fish or ten pounds plus one fish; rainbow trout, five per day and brown trout five per day.

Department officials told me of a unique method to create your own heat without recourse to woodcutting and log-hauling. The story appears elsewhere on the sport pages.

Buffalo Trades 'Cookie'

BUFFALO (CP)—If a town already has Sonny Liston as its most prominent citizen, what does it do for an encore?

Bring in Cookie Gilchrist.

The well - travelled and temperamental American Football League fullback will join the moody former heavyweight boxing champion as twin pillars of the community when Cookie reports next fall to Denver Broncos, to whom he was traded by the somewhat relieved Buffalo Bills Wednesday for fullback Billy Joe.

The deal came as a surprise to no one with the possible exception of Denver's chief of police, who presumably launched inquiries of his opposite number in Buffalo to find out whether Gilchrist's record of traffic violations puts him in the same class with Liston.

"It had to come," said Buffalo coach Lou Saban. "The situation between Cookie and the Bills had become impossible. I felt a change was necessary."

DOESN'T COMMENT

Gilchrist could not be reached for comment. He had said previously that, on at least five occasions, Saban wanted to trade him.

Denver will be Gilchrist's seventh team in 11 years of professional football during which the regularity of his all-star nominations has been matched by the frequency of his difficulties with management.

Brains Bump Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks clung to a three - point National Hockey League lead over Montreal Canadiens as the two teams moved ahead of the field after a full slate of league games Wednesday night.

Chicago hung on in the final minutes to defeat the visiting Detroit Red Wings 3-2 while Montreal drubbed New York Rangers 6-1 in Montreal to remain within striking distance of the league lead. The Canadiens hold two games in hand over Chicago.

The last-place Boston Bruins spoiled Toronto Maple Leafs' bid to move out of a third-place tie with Detroit by upsetting the lacklustre Leafs 3-1 in Toronto before 13,955 fans thought to be the smallest Maple Leaf Gardens crowd since the 1950s.

Detroit and Toronto thus remained deadlocked with 62 points each. The Wings have played one less game.

Chicago centre Stan Mikita remained the league scoring leader adding his 34th goal to 64 assists for 98 points ahead of his injured teammate Bobby Hull.

HENRI RICHARD

HENRI GOT THREE

Montreal centre Henri Richard who said afterwards he "felt good all day" was the outstanding scorer of the night notching three goals and two assists to become the third Canadien to reach the elusive 30-goal plateau this season.

Linemate Claude Provost scored his 33rd and Claude Larose his 31st while Dave Balon added his 17th of the campaign to extend Montreal's current undefeated streak to five games.

After an even first period during which Jean Ratelle scored to give the Rangers a short-lived lead, Montreal took and held command despite being outshot 20-37 in the game.

The Hawks owed victory to Stan Mikita's power-play goal in the third period and clutch saves by netminder Glenn Hall as Detroit stormed back from a 3-0 deficit to provide an exciting finish.

Bill Hay and Ken Wharram put the Hawks ahead but Detroit fought back with a power-play goal by Floyd Smith and a deflection by captain Alex Delvecchio.

Detroit badman Ted Lindsay

ED WESTFALL

provided a sidelight when his first-period exchange with referee Frank Udvari drew a penalty for high-sticking Camille Henry earned the veteran winger a 10-minute penalty and a game misconduct.

Ed Westfall scored two goals including the winner to lead Boston to its first road win since December 26 in New York. Westfall's first goal after teammate Wayne Maxner gave Boston an early lead, came with his team shorthanded.

Frank Mahovlich the Leafs only effective player in the loosely-played contest scored his 17th goal in the second period.

Despite the win the Bruins remained mired in the league cellar seven points below New York which has been all but eliminated from playoff contention.

In the Montreal - New York match veteran Don Marshall received his first penalty of the season when he and Larose were banished in the first period. Marshall remains the least penalized player among league regulars with his season total of two penalty minutes.

Women's Curling Championship

Stage Set For Four-Way Tie For Title

By DON ANGUS

HALIFAX (CP) — Only four rinks remained in contention as the Canadian women's curling championship went into its final two rounds here today.

But the luck of the draw has created the possibility of a four-way tie for the title since the three top rinks—Alberta Manitoba and Nova Scotia — all meet today and Ontario could manage it by winning its final two games.

Alberta skipped by Dorothy Thompson of Edmonton; Manitoba led by Peggy Casselman of Winnipeg and Nova Scotia's Audrey Thorbourne of Liverpool had 6-1 records after sweeping to consecutive victories in Wednesday's three rounds.

Ontario, skipped by Fern Irwin of Toronto, had a 5-3 record in the 10-rink round-robin bonspiel.

The other six rinks all have more than three losses, eliminating them from the championship race.

WIN THREE EACH

The British Columbia rink skipped by Lesley Cmolik of Kelowna and Prince Edward Island's Sybil Richardson of Charlottetown had three wins each.

Solange Larouche of Dolbeau, Que., and Barbara MacNevin of Delisle, Sask., had two victories while New Brunswick's Joan Callaghan of Bathurst and Bobbie Fortune of Goose Bay, Labrador — representing a Newfoundland province — had one win each.

Alberta and Nova Scotia meet in a crucial eighth-game match at 9 a.m. (8 a.m. EST) today while Manitoba meets Newfoundland.

Should Nova Scotia and Manitoba win the stage would be set for the tie at the top. It would occur if Alberta defeated Manitoba and Prince Edward Island defeated Nova Scotia in the final round.

In other eighth - round matches today, P.E.I. meets Quebec, New Brunswick plays B.C. and Saskatchewan goes against Ontario.

RIFLES FAIL

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Rifles of the new Continental Football League were turned down again Tuesday night by the athletic directorate of the University of Toronto in a bid for lease Varsity Stadium for home games. The Rifles have indicated they will appeal to the university board of governors. They have until the week-end to find a park or be dropped by the league.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Players from league-leading Chicago Black Hawks continued to dominate the National Hockey League scoring race after three more high-point games involving all six NHL clubs.

Stan Mikita added his 34th goal to edge one more point ahead of Bobby Hull, six more than Hull who has 38 goals and 64 assists.

Montreal right-winger Claude Provost vaulted into third place by scoring twice and adding two assists in the Canadiens' 6-1 victory over New York Rangers. Provost's 33-point total placed him two points ahead of Detroit's centre Norm Ullman, who added one assist.

The race tightened among players immediately following the four leaders as Chicago defenceman Pierre Pilote and Detroit's Gordie Howe joined Chicago's Phil Esposito at the 30-point mark.

The leaders:

	G	A	PTS.
Mikita, Chicago	34	64	98
B. Hull, Chicago	38	60	98
Provost, Montreal	33	35	68
Ullman, Detroit	31	32	63

Howe, Detroit	31	29	60
Pilote, Chicago	11	39	50

Junior 'B's Ready For Playoffs

Still waiting on definite word concerning their playoff arrangements, the Belleville "B's" received some good news this week.

Team manager Jim "Sniper" Matthews said yesterday that "we expect to have high-scoring forward Bill Lang back with the club for the playoffs."

Lang left the club around Christmas to attend a school in California. Matthews said yesterday that Lang's mother said she expects him home this weekend.

Meanwhile the club is working out this week. There will be no game Friday night here.

The club expects to open semi-final playoffs in Peterborough on Sunday at 8:00 p.m. A second game, also away, will be played in Peterborough next Wednesday, not in Cobourg as was first announced.

And the possibility still exists that Peterborough can catch Kingston, thus drawing a bye into the group finals. At any rate, Belleville's next home game will be on Friday, March 5.

Matthews said that a slight increase will be made in admission prices, "but we will still be at least as low as the other two centres," he added.

Matthews said that as of now Wayne Brant is the club's regular goalie with juvenile Paul Smith his backup man. Smith's brother, John, a defenceman, will also be brought up from the juveniles who were eliminated from the playdowns last weekend.

"And we may call up a couple more juvenile recruits as well," he added.

Up to the eighth - round matches today, P.E.I. meets Quebec, New Brunswick plays B.C. and Saskatchewan goes against Ontario.

Crothers Seeks 600 World Record

'Three Rabbits And Me'

NEW YORK (CP) — "Three rabbits and me" said Bill Crothers as he looked over the field in the 600 yards at tonight's Knights of Columbus Games at Madison Square Garden. But the Markham Ont. pharmacist will be competing against a superior breed of rabbit.

Crothers hopes to be pushed to a world indoor record by three of the fastest quarter-milers in the business two of them Olympic medallists.

The Canadian runner who won his second - place silver medal at Tokyo in the 800 metres will face Andrzej Badenski of Poland who finished third in the Olympic 400 and Cilan Cassell who ran a 400 leg for the first-place United States 1600 - metre relay team and Theron Lewis another top U.S. quarter-miler.

Both Badenski and Cassell finished ahead of Crothers in the 600 preliminaries at Tokyo as the Canadian runner failed to survive the semi-final round. But they will start as underdogs against him over the 880 - yard course. Crothers hopes they will pace him to a faster time than the indoor mark of 1:08.3 held by Wendell Mottley of Trinidad which he missed by one-tenth of a second at Boston last January.

Crothers and Tom Farrell who defeated him in a record 1:48.8 half mile in their last New York appearance both return to action after skipping last week's AAU championships because of their arduous indoor schedules. Farrell will run in the 1000-yard event.

Crothers who has suffered three straight defeats since he won three races in as many days on a New York - Toronto-Boston outing last month won't be the triple this weekend. He'll pass up Friday's Golden Gate Invitational at San Francisco returning to action Saturday in the all-eastern championships at Baltimore.

Since his triple victory Crothers pulled out of a race at Philadelphia when he was affected by a virus, lost to Farrell and finished second to Peter Snell, the great New Zealander who holds most of the middle - distance records outdoors.

Outdoor Stove For Trouters

Toilet Roll, Oil, A Tin Pail

TWEED — Saturday morning the season opens for brown, speckled, brook and lake trout in the Tweed Forestry District.

Some 2,000 anglers from the district, Toronto and other larger centres are expected to make up the February 27 invasion.

By "caloloo," "snow-ski" and other mechanized transportation equipped they will raid the ice-shackled northern lakes.

Overnight they will thaw out in district hotels, and motels. Booking is said to be heavy.

The weekend will see the heaviest onslaught on the piscatorial populations. It will taper off after Tuesday.

The "second plateaus" will enter the lists the weekend following, its numbers depending partly on the "luck" of the opening day explorers.

Then there are the warm-day fishermen who wait until the spring breezes waft through the pines to do their trout-questing.

"There's enough to go around," a Lands and Forests official said. "The May boys do not suffer through the early opening days."

One of the problems that confront department officials is the annual winter kill as the cutting of wood on lake-bordering private property for making fuel.

Property owners object naturally,—and rightly—to the sometimes indiscriminate sabotage of trees by "lop-off" anglers.

Some distance away from hotel, motel, or cottage and cabin, anglers fight fires for warmth or, and, cooking purposes.

In an effort to halt this needless cutting and to aid the anglers, department officials have come up with a self-producing idea that eliminates the use of wood.

Here it is:

Take a roll of toilet paper and soak it for hours in fuel oil. It will take from twelve hours up to soak the roll thoroughly.

The roll is placed in a large size (five pounds), honey pail — or something similar—complete with lid.

Touch a match to it and you will get a slow low flame something like a gas burner.

This will supply heat for warmth and for cooking.

The roll will burn for at least eight hours.

When the flame starts to burn out take the roll out and soak it in oil again. One roll is good for at least eight "sookings."

For transportation place pail in plastic bag bound at top.

You will be surprised at the amount of heat the "can furnace" generates.

Department officials hope anglers will use this novel method instead of raiding shoreline timber for wood.

This is particularly important because of the greater range of flshable lakes this year.

"None of the lakes in the Tweed Forestry District is closed this year" officials said. "This means that anglers will wander farther away from the comfort of their quarters."

The February 27th "open date" includes Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac and Renfrew counties.

Lakes stocking of all trout species, small and large-mouth bass, muskellenge and some walleyes ran into the thousands last year, according to department officials.

These took place in all counties in the district except Prince Edward where the only stocking was 1,000 brook trout in Warring's Creek in Hillier township.

Wins COSSA Junior Title

Albert Downs Stirling

Led by high scoring captain Hank Fitzgerald, Albert College juniors swept to a 58-25 win over Stirling High School in their last regular game of the season. The win gave Albert a perfect record of six wins and no losses in regular season play to clinch the Quinte COSSA championship.

In Tuesday night's encounter the Albert boys opened up a quick margin of ten points in the first quarter. Centre Dean Ayoch picked off several key rebounds for Albert under the Stirling hoop and helped raise the Albert lead to 23-5 at the half.

Coming out strong again in the third quarter the A.C. boys continued to run up their total and only allowing the visitors poor penetration in the Albert area. The superior offence of Albert in the third quarter paced the team to a 19 point lead at the three quarters mark. In the final quarter Stirling showed the Albert attack but not before the Albert boys had picked up another six points and walked away with a 58-25 victory.

Albert will enter the COSSA finals as the Bay of Quinte representative on March 6, at Madoc.

Albert—Ayoob 15, Burchell 11, Woodbeck, Potter, Stapley 2, McDonnell, Casselman 6, Rose, Short 4, Irish.

Riteways Ousted By Trenton

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

A sparkling individual performance by Ronnie McKay led Trenton to a 4-1 victory over Belleville Riteways here at Memorial Arena last night.

Trenton used the victory to capture their OMHA Novice total-goals playdown series by a 5-4 score. Riteways had won the first game in Trenton 3-2. Trenton will now meet the winner between Napanee and Gananoque.

Rex Glover's hustling youngsters turned on the pressure all the way while the Belleville boys, although trying hard, were unable to get on the scoresheet until the game's dying minutes.

After a scoreless first period, Trenton moved ahead 2-0 in the second and made it 4-0 and 5-0 on the round, before Riteways scored.

Ronnie McKay scored the final three Trenton goals and assisted on the first one, netted by Steve McLean. Billy Glover also had an assist.

David Smith was the Riteway marksman, assisted by Peter Simrke and Kent Goegan. The goal came at 11:42 of the third 15-minute period.

Trenton picked up their only penalty of the game at 14:33 and Belleville pushed six attackers into the fray, needing two goals to tie the series, but to no avail.

McLean made it 1-0 at 1:40 of the second, scoring from a scramble for the puck in front of Riteway goalie David Rutherford. McKay's first goal, on a high shot which Rutherford was unable to secure a grip on, came at 5:35.

In the third, McKay scored on a screened shot, again from a scramble, after 56 seconds, and cut across the net to make it 4-0 at 9:07.

In an exhibition game which followed, Belleville bantam Oddfellows defeated the bantam city league All-Stars 3-1.

Ted Waite, Joe Lumsdon and Dennis MacCormack scored for the Oddfellows. Lumsdon and Waite also got assists.

Lightfoots Drop Game To Flyers

RCAF Flyers opened up a healthy six-point lead at the top of the Bay of Quinte men's basketball league ladder by thumping Belleville Lightfoots 69-41 at the air station last night.

In another league game, played at Trenton High School, the Wilsons moved ahead of Cobourg with a 96-47 victory. Wilsons are now in third place, two points up on the tail-end Cobourg five.

Arlen Burleigh sparked the Trenton attack with 21 points. Jeff Ravenscroft was high man for Cobourg with 17 points.

At the air station, the Flyers were never immediately in danger as they jumped into a 28-13 lead at half time and were never threatened while registering their 28th win.

Lightfoots ran into a stiff defence which held them to a mere three points in one 12-minute span during the second half. RCAF put the game out of reach at this point, leading 52-29.

Other top men for the Flyers were Bill Nelson with 16, Ernie Clarke with 14 and Irwin Widzyk with 10.

Don Smith hooped 14 of the Lightfoot points but 13 of them came in the game's first half. He "died" with his mates in the second half, held to a single point. Ian Hesselin got two points and Gary Duggan had eight.

Tonight, at 8:30, at the air station court, Trenton Wilsons play host to Cobourg in a tournament elimination game. The winner will advance into the big "Black Ball Tournament" with teams from all across the country this Saturday. But Some Whoppers Were Landed

The Record Tackle-Busters Got Away!

NEW YORK (CP) — It was slim pickings in 1964 for lurkers in search of records.

The annual fishing awards of Field and Stream magazine released in the March issue out today show only one mark equalled although some other anglers came close.

A five-pound arctic grayling landed in Great Bear Lake in the Northwest Territories by Dr. Lawrence J. Wilchins of Cincinnati matched the record-holder caught in Cold Slave Lake five years earlier. It fell for the popular Daredevil soon.

Other northern waters produced some tackle-busters.

A lake trout topping the scales at 58 lbs. 9 oz. came from the Chantrey Inlet area of the Northwest Territories. L. T. Verner of Dallas Tex. was the lucky angler.

The Tree River flowing into Coronation Gulf north of Great Bear continued to produce giant arctic char. Biggest weighed 22 lbs. 12 oz. and was caught by Walter E. Pierce of Lemoel Ill. also on a Daredevil. The record 24 pounder came from the Tree in 1962.

3 WHOPPERS HIT

Three whopping brook trout got into the rankings led by John Sharp's champ of 11 lbs. 3 oz. Sharp of Oshawa caught it from unnamed waters in Sudbury district on a minnow.

Two other brookies above 10 pounds came from Labrador's rivers. J. Gonthier of Montreal pulled one weighing 10 lbs. 5 oz. from the Pinnitis and F. S. Moore of Montreal caught one two ounces heavier in the Attikokan. The rivers are close together about 200 miles northeast of Sept-Iles Que.

Leonard Hartman of Ogdensburg N.Y. continued his muskie mastery with five fish over 40 pounds. Tops was a 61-pounder. All came from the St. Lawrence River and all struck on a musky bug lure.

In northern pike it was a tie for top honors at 46 lbs. Two pounds were caught by Alvin L. Nelson of Champaign Ill. in Hatchet Lake Saskatchewan and Roland Lafrancois of St. Paul l'Ermite Que. in Quebec's Placatosis Lake.

British Columbia's Duncan River produced a 39 - pound dolly varden trout for William A. Gallicano of Nelson who used a Seneca lure with his spinning rig.

VANCOUVER TOPS

Biggest silver (coho) salmon in the California and Washington rivers in the open division but for fly-casting it was Vancouver Island's Cowichan Bay hands down. Top three all from Victoria were Ernest Burrows 18 lbs. 10 oz.; Bernie Longpre 15 lbs. 6 oz; Ralph D. Jeavons 15 lbs.

Top steelhead or seagoing rainbow trout was a 30¼-pounder caught by Jim Conway of Portland, Ore., in the Babine River of northern B.C.

Two notable walleyes came from Canadian waters. J. O. Leduc of Napierville, Que., caught one of 15 lbs. 8 oz. from Quebec's McLennan Lake and George W. Heinrich of Alton, Iowa, netted a 14¼-pounder from Eagle Lake in the Dyersburg, Tenn., district. Only bigger one recorded was a 16¼-pounder from Dale Hollow Lake in Tennessee.

Northern New Brunswick and Quebec's Gaspe Peninsula shared honors for Atlantic salmon. Top three were Harry P. King, Manchester, Mass., 42 pounds, Quebec's Grand Causapedia; Edmund P. Rogers, Greenwich, Conn., 40 pounds, New Brunswick's Restigouche; John R. Hughes, Montreal, 38 pounds, Little Cascapedia.

No Canadian waters made any showing in the largemouth or smallmouth bass divisions.

Argentine Rated 8-5 Favorite

NEW YORK (AP)—The odds could change, but right now untried, undefeated Oscar Bonavena of Argentina is a surprising heavy 8-5 favorite over heavyweight contender Zora Folley.

They are to clash in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden Friday night. The match could lure more than 10,000 fans.

Boxing has been on the rise in New York since the bristling bout staged by heavyweights Floyd Patterson and George Chuvalo at the Garden Feb. 1. The Bonavena - Foley scrap figures to be a lively one between a young puncher and a veteran boxer.

Approve Proposal For Draft

BALTIMORE (AP) — The board of governors of the American Hockey League has tentatively approved a proposal for a draft agreement with the National Hockey League.

The board met here Tuesday and appointed Eddie Shore of Springfield Indians, Paul Bright of Cleveland Barons, Punch Imlach, representing Rochester Americans, and AHL president Jack Riley to complete negotiations with the NHL on the draft proposal made by NHL president Clarence Campbell.

The draft would allow AHL teams to draft from a pool of 80 players submitted by the NHL. In return, the NHL could draft one player from each AHL club. The American League would begin drafting this June, but the NHL would not commence its draft of AHL players until June, 1966.

Nearly All of Gary's Novels Have Been Bought for Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Romain Gary, the noted French author, was writing one summer afternoon in the Beverly Hilltop home he has rented with Jean Seberg while she is here to make a film, Moment to Moment.

He seemed to have been writing while oblivious to his surroundings, but he resented the interruption for a chat. As usual, his 11-hour-a-day output is voluminous. He is turning out a play which is due for an October opening in Paris.

"I am also writing a philosophical essay which started out to be 20 pages and is now 70," he sighed. "It is actually an introduction to three novels, and I am sticking my neck out because they aren't written yet.

"The books will be an effort in the direction of revitalizing the novel to pleasure. They will be anti-cosmetic novels, in other words. Not that I am not neurotic; but I believe mine is a positive neurosis."

Besides these efforts, Gary has a new novel, The Ski Bum, which has been interviewed and was snapped up for films by the omnipresent Joseph E. Levine.

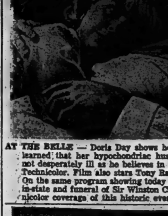
RESULTS DISMAL

Nearly all of Gary's novels have been purchased for movies, generally with dismal results. The Roots of Heaven remains a mystery to him; he wrote the screen play and it turned out "with only one line of misquoted dialogue written by me." Another book came out as a mishmash called The Man who Understood Women with Henry Fonda and Leslie Caron.

"I don't suffer as an author when I see such movies," he commented. "I suffer as a moviegoer. I am an inveterate fan."

Another Gary work, The Lady L, had an abortive start with Tony Curtis and Gina Lollobrigida. "It almost busted MGM," said Gary, "and project was scrapped after a reported cost of a couple of million, but now is being filmed in Europe with Paul Newman and Sophia Loren.

"Peter Ustinov is making it," Gary reported. "I visited him in Europe and he told me, 'You are the last person who will see the script.' That is fine with me."



For Gary, the return to Hollywood with his screen-star wife is something of a homecoming. For five years during the 1950s he was the French consul in Los Angeles.

Safety Is A Hazard!

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) Safety barriers dividing California highways are causing more accidents.

But they are cutting the traffic death toll by preventing worse head-on collisions, the state division of highways says. It plans to build five times as many barriers as now divide California freeways.

"We are trading property damage for lives," explains James E. Wilson, an engineer of the division.

In four years of experiment the state has built 250 miles of bean barriers or cable and chain-link fence in centre strips of its 65 m.p.h. freeways. The division plans to increase this up to 1,500 miles.

AT THE PARK — Lee Remick stars with Steve McQueen and Don Murray in the Pakula - Mulligan productions. "Baby The Rain Must Fall," opening tonight for a three day engagement, a Columbia Pictures release. She plays a young wife and mother trying to maintain a marriage wrecked by her wandering husband's outbursts of violence. Also on the program for your added enjoyment "Two Tickets to Paris". Over a period of four years each university will contribute $360,000 to the project and will also buy some publications on its own. Mr. Blackburn reports the project is functioning successfully.

Under his direction, arrangements were made to select, buy and catalogue five identical collections of about 30 titles and about 40,000 volumes. By the end of 1964 the central office had catalogued and shipped about 43,000 volumes. The project was ahead of schedule and unexpected savings permitted an increase in the number of books to be purchased, Mr. Blackburn says.

"But most important is that students in these institutions will have books from the first day classes begin, which would have been impossible without the co-operative project."

The central office is using computers to catalogue books and has received requests for copies of the catalogues from 30 universities around the world.

Many Summer Trips Open for Teen-agers

By JACK HUTTON

Ever thought about climbing in the Rocky Mountains this summer for experiences you'll never forget? Or surfboring Alaska and the Yukon in a combination of station wagon, train and boat?

Both these trips are included in the 1958 list of summer holidays for young Canadians just released by the Canadian Youth Hostels Association.

The trips, ranging from $75 up, can be just as simple or just as exotic as you like. Care to explore Japan by bicycle? Ravel? They're both available.

Once again, I'm writing in envy, whishing my boss would unchain me for a few weeks so I could either climb into a canoe or mount a bicycle to try the fresh air, scenery and spaces that only our country can offer.

The CYHA, formed 21 years ago, has expanded its offerings for 1958. The reason: It is now affiliated with the Council on Student Travel and the Overseas Student Travel Exchange Programme, Ltd., in the U.S. This means lower trans-Atlantic fares.

For the last few winters I've waited impatiently for the CYHA folder to appear. When it does, it doesn't matter that snow is swirling outside. I can look at the picture and plan my own hostel holiday — even though I've never taken one.

LISTEN TO THIS

Just listen to this: "The string of riders and packhorses tied a shallow green mountain pool. The water splashes from the hooves in a million sparkling diamonds to form a rainbow over our heads against a curtain of snowy peaks and lodgepole pines.

"The creak of saddle leather and the blowing of your horse can be heard. You're on the trail in the fabulous Canadian Rockies with the Youth Hostel trail ride."

If I had the money (and I don't) I think I'd join the "European vagabond trip," a 63-day trip that will give you more than a passing look at London, Brussels, Amsterdam, Copenhagen, Cologne, Heidlieb e r g, Koblenz, Salzburg, Venice, Rome, Paris Genoa, among other centres. Cost is $800.

If I had the time (and I don't) I know I'd join one of the groups that will follow the old voyageur canoe routes through the heart of central Ontario, two weeks of healthy fresh air and outdoor food. Cost is $75.

You probably know the hostel movement began decades ago in Europe as young travellers decided there must be a cheaper way of seeing the continent. The result has been an ever-spreading chain of hostels where you pitch in with the cooking and cleaning.

STEADILY GROWING

In Canada the number of hostels is steadily growing although you certainly can't find them in a chain across the country, in some areas they are farm homes, ski chalets or rented buildings.

Is it possible to plan a brief trip with a friend or two, avoiding an organized group but using CYHA hostels? Of course it is.

Membership is limited to trippers over the age of 14, and the CYHA requires anyone travelling outside the continent to be at least 17. Maximum membership is $15, but this varies for junior members.

There is no reason, CYHA spokesmen say, that you could not plan a five-day or week-long trip with friends. The CYHA will tell you where the hotels are, and you can plan from there.

One word of caution: the CYHA believes you should start practising now if you intend camping or bicycling this summer. The average cycle group travels about 35 miles each day so beware of stiff muscles if you are thinking of joining one.

If you are experienced in canoe counselling, social work and group leadership, this may be a summer employment idea for you. The CYHA is looking for trip leaders. Minimum age of 21 in Canada, 25 for overseas trips.

Anyone leading a group must go through a special CYHA leadership course before this spring. But full details will be forwarded to any interested applicants.

Other trips? Well, you can cycle through the Cape Cod area ($95), cycle from Jasper to Banff on a new special bicycle strip ($80), see the New York World's Fair on a station wagon tour of New York, Ontario and Quebec ($350), visit Mexico for six weeks ($385.)

There are more — many more — but you can find out details by writing to the head office. The address: Canadian Youth Hostels Association, 146 West Broadway, Vancouver, B.C.

Impassive Icebergs Absorb Bombings

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (CP) — Plotting the whereabouts of icebergs is one of the jobs of the International Ice Patrol.

It carries out scientific research on icebergs and the sea currents that affect their movements and has done considerable testing of methods of breaking them up.

Sinking of the liner Titanic in 1912, with the loss of 1,500 lives, drew world attention to the hazards of winter and spring navigation in northern latitudes and prompted formation of the patrol. The Titanic, the "unsinkable" liner which cost $7,500,000, went to the bottom off Newfoundland after striking an iceberg.

The ice patrol was formed in 1913. An internationally supported organization, it is operated by the United States Coast Guard.

Hundreds of ships on the North Atlantic sea routes in late winter and spring count on it for information. Knowing where icebergs are located can mean the difference between staying afloat and sinking.

This year, the patrol, which operates out of the U.S. naval base here, will carry out its observations and investigations in two big Hercules aircraft and a coast guard ship Evergreen. The patrol spots the dangerous icebergs, charts their courses by planes ice forecasts warning shipping of possible dangerous areas.

BOMBS INEFFECTIVE

The patrol is responsible for extensive sea lanes of the North Atlantic off Newfoundland, plus the coastal area of Eastern Canada.

The icebergs frequently tower 200 to 300 feet above the water and measure 1,500 feet in length and breadth. They may weigh as much as 1,500,000 tons — solid ice that not even powerful thermal bombs can break apart.

In 1955, the ice patrol carried out tests of iceberg breaking, dropping 1,000 pound bombs. The bombs had little or no effect. The patrol reported that even the intense heat generated by the bombs — up to 4,300 degrees Fahrenheit on impact — left only a scar on the side of the icebergs.

The bergs are huge chunks which break off the vast northern Greenland glaciers in summer and are carried south by ocean currents. They usually spend their first winter jammed in ice packs in the vicinity of Melville Bay, on Greenland's west coast about 1,000 miles north of the Arctic Circle. The second winter they are often found off Cape Dyer on Baffin Island near the Arctic Circle. They reach the Grand Banks the following spring and summer.

STUDY CURRENTS

Commander R. E. Lemcyk, executive officer of the ice patrol, says the oceanographic ship Evergreen this year will study the icebergs themselves. Scientists aboard the ship will conduct tests to determine why they survive or break up, the composition of the water they consist of and exactly where they originate.

Another by - product of this year's patrol will be a collection of data on the currents which affect the ice movements. The scientists will study the Labrador current which runs south from the Labrador coast past the eastern coast of Newfoundland, and the Gulf Stream which flows north from the West Indies past the Grand Banks and then swings eastward toward Europe.

"We have to be aware of all changes in the streams so that we can intelligently predict the action of the ice," says Cmdr. Lemcyk.

Madoc Junction

ORATORICAL CONTEST

MADOC JUNCTION — Several mothers and other interested friends attended the public speaking contest held last Monday afternoon at S.S. No. 24 Sidney school here. The winners were: seniors, Billy Stapley; juniors, Carol Stapley. They will be competing later at Wallbridge.

PRESENTATION

On Wednesday evening 40 to 50 friends in the neighborhood gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stapley to honor their daughter, Marilyn and husband, Mr. and Mrs. James Teertstra.

Mr. Maurice Clancy acted as chairman, and after a few remarks called on Mrs. Verle Stapley, who gave a humorous reading.

Brief speeches were given by Messrs. Bruce Stapley, Clarence Pritchett and Mr. Teertstra, Sr.

A second reading was given by Miss Helen Cleveland.

At this time an address was read by Miss Isabelle Prest, expressing best wishes.

Miss Dianne Prest and Mr. Floyd Clancy on behalf of the community made the presentation of a large walnut-grain coffee table and a matching stop-table. They also received several other individual gifts.

Marilyn and Jim each expressed thanks and extended an invitation to their friends to visit them in their home in Stirling.

ATTEND AT HOME

Several students and young people from this community attended the annual "At Home" held at the Stirling Rawdon District High School last Friday night.

SKATING PARTY

Wayne and Keith McMullen entertained a number of their school friends to a skating party on Saturday afternoon.

Yvon Dupuis Avoiding Newsmen

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—Yvon Dupuis arrived a s u m o n s Wednesday to appear in court and face charges connected with a racetrack project and the sum of $10,000.

His appearance has been scheduled for March 4. Mr. Dupuis resigned as a federal minister without portfolio Jan. 20.

Mr. Dupuis had left the jet in touch with him after the summons first was issued in magistrates court Tuesday but they were told he was out of town for a few days.

He was at hi, St. Johns home, however, when an officer of the provincial police arrived at 11 a.m. EST Wednesday with the summons.

The charges against the 38-year-old Liberal member for St. Jean - Iberville - Napierville allege that between Jan. 1 and Jan. 30, 1961, he conspired with Roch Deslauriers and others to commit a criminal act."

ALLEGE CONSPIRACY

He also is alleged to have conspired with Mr. Deslauriers at St. Johns chiropractor, to offer, agree to offer or give to a minister or civil servant of the Quebec government the sum of $10,-000, and to have demanded or accepted for himself or another between May 1 and June 30, 1961, of the sum of $10,000.

Mr. Deslauriers headed a group that tried unsuccessfully in 1961 to obtain from the Quebec government authorization for the building of a part-mutuel racetrack in St. Jean, west of St. Johns. He has since gone into bankruptcy.

Mr. Dupuis was not in court Tuesday when the charges were read.

In Quebec City, Premier Lesage said Wednesday night the role of Yvon Dupuis businessman Rene Hebert in plans to establish a racetrack with pari-mutuel betting in that city, Ste. Foy, Que., was that of a conciliator between two rival groups of promoters and did not involve the provincial Liberal party.

The premier told reporters he was read in a newspaper that Mr. Hebert to the RCMP that a group of men in Ste. Foy would obtain 10 per cent of the shares of an eventual racetrack and a private racetrack.

Mr. Dupuis, told the Commons Mr. Hebert, whom he described as a Liberal had collected, retained 10 per cent of the shares of the St. Luc racetrack in an agreement under which he would put up no capital.

No Hope Of Finding Miner Alive

COLEMAN, Alta. (CP)—Rescue workers abandoned hope Wednesday that Timothy Span, missing since Feb. 17 in Hay Creek coal line, would be found alive.

After toiling around the clock for seven days, rescue teams broke into open areas of the mine Wednesday but could find no trace of the missing carpenter.

"There is no chance for him now," said I. N. Potter, provincial mines inspector for Lethbridge region. He said thousands of feet of mine passage way would have to be cleared in the search for Span's body.

"It might take weeks to find him," Mr. Potter said.

Span, 26, disappeared when an underground stream burst and clogged 1,600 feet of the main tunnel with rock, coal and debris.

New Forty-Bed Addition To P. E. County Hospital Given Official Opening

PICTON (Staff) — The new 40-bed wing of the Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital opened Wednesday with official ceremonies. The addition of the $500,000 wing to the hospital brings the hospital's capacity up to 100 beds. Financed through capital reserves and Federal and Provincial grants the construction work on the new addition began last summer. The two storey wing also includes a new pharmacy and laboratory, providing extra space in the original building.

The ceremony included the laying of the cornerstone, in which was placed a metal capsule containing a copy of the Hospital By-laws, a list of the hospital staff, the last two issues of the Picton Gazette, a list of the board members as well as a list of the medical staff. The tube was placed in the cornerstone and the stone was well and truly laid by Dr. J. H. Walmsley, acting Chief of Medical Staff.

In opening the ceremony, chairman of the Board of Governors of the Prince Edward Community Memorial Hospital, Sam Gentile welcomed the distinguished guests and said that this important event marks another milestone in the history of hospital care to the citizens of Prince Edward County.

"On October 14, 1959, on the occasion such as this our present hospital of 55-bed capacity with 20 bassinettes was officially opened and I recall with great pride that as a board member at that time the great admission and utmost relief that we in Prince Edward County were favored to have a shining star of a brand new modern hospital second to none in our area."

"The original building," Mr. Gentile continued, "represents an investment of $1,000,000 in building and equipment, and now with this new wing an extra $500,000 of building and equipment is added to meet present hospital making $1,500,000 in building and equipment in Prince Edward County devoted exclusively to the health and welfare of Prince Edward County people."

EXPANDED LABORATORY

The new wing consists of an additional 40 beds, 20 of which are chronic. It includes a new and expanded laboratory and facilities, a new pediatric section, new out patient services and also much needed storage space.

Mr. Gentile in closing his remarks said that he would like to inform those present that as well as federal and provincial grants being a source of assistance in building the hospital that money from estates and bequests of former county residents and many contributions from local and other interested people also played a major role in providing the building and the addition. He thanked, on behalf of the board, the architects, Dreyer and Smith of Kingston for the fine functional type of hospital which they designed and supervised. Thanks were also extended to the assistance committee under the chairmanship of Len Allan for financially overseeing the entire program and making funds available for the project. The building and advisory committee and their chairman, Jack Hartwick, for their tireless efforts to finalize the plans and approval for the new addition. Thanks were also extended to administrator Bill Cook for his untiring efforts in planning and equiping the new wing while he was actively administrating the affairs of the present hospital.

A large crowd of county citizens and local residents were present and braved the chill winds to witness the laying of the corner stone by Dr. J. H. Walmsley. Following the laying of the corner stone the crowd moved into the foyer of the new wing to a ribbon cutting ceremony.

The ribbon was officially cut by Mr. J. M. Jamieson, Manager, Hospital Grants Division, Ontario Hospital Services Commission, following the dedication by Capt. Len Pearo, president of the Ministerial Association.

The brief address by Mr. Jamieson, a former superintendent of the Hamilton General Hospital, was presented just prior to his cutting the ribbon.

MANY PROJECTS

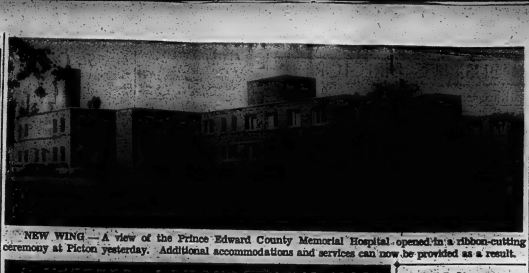
He said, Dr. J. B. Neilson, chairman of the Ontario Services Commission, regretted not being able to be present for he retained a lively interest in the design and facilities of new hospitals and their operation. Other pressing matters made it impossible for him to leave his office. Mr. Jamieson continued, saying that during the past six years a large number of hospital construction projects have been carried out in Ontario. In 1956 we had 31,330 beds in our public hospitals and today we have passed the 40,000 mark. Not only is this an increase of almost 10,000 beds, we have replaced quite a number of old hospital buildings in which a great deal of money was sunk.

Mr. Jamieson quoted from a letter from the Royal Bank of Canada "Canadians today desire the best health it is possible for them to enjoy. In this day and age of rapid growth and Yearning of mankind since time immemorial, but science has developed as an instrument in which it is possible for them to make their wishes come true."

"On behalf of the Hospital service still has rivers to cross and mountains to climb. We have accomplished a long way from the healing art of the primitive peoples, but who is to say what the end of progress may be? The challenge today is for individuals to make the most effective use of what we have and know, and for our institutions to provide the necessities of what may be". "On behalf of the Commission staff, Mr. Jamieson said, I congratulate the Board of the Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital, the architect the contractor and the hospital staff and all others who have had some part in the provision of these needed hospital facilities, on the successful completion of this addition.

Prominent members of the community also present expressed their congratulations. Also speaking were Mayor H. J. McFarland, who originally donated the land on which the hospital is located. A. Douglas Aikenbrack M.P. Prince Edward-Lennox; and Bruce Hyatt representing the County in the absence of Warden Ross Redick.

CHEQUES PRESENTED



A cheque was presented to the hospital by Rotary Club president for the amount of $2,500 and a cheque from the Women's Hospital Auxiliary for $9,000 was presented by Mrs. J. deB. Arnaud, president of the auxiliary. Proceeds of the fund used for providing all the linen in the new addition, providing a new extension to the call system for the new wing and furnishing the new solarium except for the television set which will be donated by the ladies of the Royal Canadian Legion.

Following the ceremonies the public was invited to inspect the new wing and were served coffee and lunch by members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

Following is a list of contributors: Federal and Provincial Government grants, Mr. George Morden, Mrs. Glen Mowbray, Mrs. Ezra Ward and family, Estate of Edith M. Rattan, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred E. Scott, Picton Rotary Club, Proctor-Silex Ltd., Greenbush Women's Institute, Mrs. Constance McKibbon, Women's Hospital Auxiliary, Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, Marching Debs Association, Picton Catholic Women's League, Mrs. Emily Moore, Capt. Bank of England Director Hits Labor Policies

LONDON (AP) — Another blast from the Bank of England hit the Labor government today, this time over its socialist doctrine and its policy toward South Africa.

Speaking at the annual South Africa Club dinner, bank Director Sir George Bolton charged that Britain is losing commercially by letting relations with South Africa slide.

He said South African Ambassador Dr. Carol de Wet, who presided at the dinner, was daily occupied with trying to maintain political relations between the two governments.

He added:

"I am afraid that our present government, for reasons that are well known if not universally understood, does nothing whatsoever to maintain existing relations.

"In consequence commercial relations do not prosper and the loser is Great Britain."

'MUST CURB SPENDING'

Sir George's attack followed last week's warning from the Bank of England's governor, Lord Cromer, that government spending both at home and abroad must be curbed or the nation would go bankrupt.

Sir George, a director of the Bank of London and South America as well as the Bank of England, went on to characterize the Labor party as a "political party whose mind was conditioned in the 1850s and remains brainwashed.

"On the one hand the socialists claim that all men are brothers, which demonstrably they are not.

"On the other hand there is conflict between the inherited wealth of the socialist that profits, interests and dividends are bad things whereas the City (London's financial centre), knows that there is no escape from the ultimate test of efficiency which underlies all industrial and financial organization. The test is: Do they make a profit or not?"

Bedouins Free of Heart Ills

TEL AVIV (AP)—Want to avoid a heart attack? Move to Israel's Negev Desert and live the life of a Bedouin.

A team from the Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Centre examined 810 Bedouin men, 30 years and older. They found only one case of coronary thrombosis.

Blood cholesterol is considerably below that considered normal in Western populations. The cholesterol count does not increase automatically with aging.

Most of the 18,000 Bedouins living in Israel's southern Negev rely on good rains to grow grain —mainly wheat and some barley — which they store for drought years.

Those semi - nomads graze sheep, goats, camels and some cows. Both rich and poor rely on an unleavened bread called zerif as their main food. The rest of their diet is bland.

They drink little alcohol but like an occasional beer.

Milk comes from sheep, goats, camels and occasionally donkeys. The Bedouin lets it go sour, which is approved by scientists since harmful germs shun sour milk.

The Bedouin scoops fat from the sour milk to form sammeh, a kind of butter. The sour milk is either drunk or boiled with salt to make hard cheese.

The Bedouin never eats fish His consumption of vegetables, fruits and eggs is low.

Meat is eaten on special occasions when a sheep or lan is slaughtered, an average of once a month. Chicken is eaten more often.

Que. Secession Is Real Danger Says Report

B and B Commission Gives Frank Appraisal

By RONALD LEVEL

OTTAWA (CP) — Going beyond the position of the federal government, the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism has found that the secession of Quebec is a real danger and not just a hollow threat by a few separatist hotheads.

In an unusually outspoken and controversial preliminary report tabled in the Commons Thursday, the commission of inquiry said at the theme that public institutions and attitudes will have to change across Canada if Confederation is to survive.

A deep gulf of ignorance and indifference has opened up between English- and French-speaking Canadians, the report said. Although many Canadians did not realize it, the country has entered its greatest crisis since 1867.

The ten commissioners expressed the hope that Canadians will get to know and understand each other better, reach a compromise and build a "richer and more dynamic Canada." But they were not sure this would happen.

Prime Minister Pearson and members of his Liberal government have often called for "an equal partnership between the two founding peoples," but they have maintained that the separation of Quebec will never take place.

The group in Quebec, numbering 4,300,000, was going through a quiet internal revolution, the report said, with many underlying trends:

—Increasing the autonomy of the provincial government within Confederation.

—Building for themselves "a distinct society of nationhood with full control of all their social and economic institutions."

CHANGE THINKING

Quebec French - Canadians "are thinking of themselves as an ethnic minority with a few privileges. "Today, the belief of opinion we met so often in the province regards Quebec practically as an autonomous state which expects her to be recognized as such."

The commission called for

Six-Foot Drifts Close Highways In Many Areas

Scores Hurt in Mishaps, Stuck Cars Clog Roads

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario's worst snowstorm in 21 years blew itself into Quebec late Thursday night after dropping between 15 and 30 inches of snow on most of the province.

Lower temperatures and strong winds, following closely behind the storm, took over from the snow, causing six-foot drifts that blocked many highways and most rural roads in the province. Scattered flurries were expected today.

At least 10 deaths, seven apparently caused by heart attacks and three as a result of traffic mishaps, were blamed on the storm.

Department of highways spokesmen said early today that all available units were on highways sanding, salting and plowing. One official said no thought had been given to clearing secondary roads — main highways were proving difficult enough.

At least two cities, Windsor and Toronto, declared states of emergency and banned both parking and stopping by vehicles in downtown areas.

HIGHWAYS CHOKED

Highways throughout the province, particularly in the southern sections, were choked with stalled and abandoned cars. Police were unable to tow away the automobiles fast enough to allow plows to clear the roads.

The Macdonald-Cartier Freeway was closed off from Toronto to Windsor for some time Thursday morning. It was reopened and remained so until early today when it was closed off again. Only emergency traffic was allowed through.

Highway 403 from Burlington to Hamilton was blocked for most of Thursday and traffic was prohibited for the entire length of Highway 6 from Hamilton to Owen Sound. County and township roads in the area were in worse shape. Rural dwellers managed to get home only by luck or by following snowplows.

Scores of people were injured in traffic and accidents. Accidents and hundreds of social activities and sporting events were called off.

Largest recorded snowfall in the province was 30 inches at Parry Sound. Most other communities were blanketed by between 15 and 24 inches.

Toronto was hit by 16 inches, Windsor by a record 17 inches. Chatham received 15 inches and Owen Sound got 16 inches. In all four centres winds gusted up to 50 miles an hour drifting the snow.

The storm, which originated in the Mississippi Valley, was a little late arriv-

Medicare Plan Tabled

TORONTO (CP)—The provincial government was advised Thursday to adopt—and subsidize where necessary—a private-you-medical care plan offering physicians' services to all Ontario residents on a voluntary basis.

The Hagey medical services insurance committee report, tabled Thursday in the legislature by Health Minister Matthew Dymond, called on the government to pay all or part of the premiums for pensioners, low-income groups and persons on welfare.

Premier John Robarts said legislation based on the committee report is being prepared for cabinet study. He said the bill could be expected in the current house session but may not take effect for some time.

Although the government would not operate the proposed scheme itself, it would control minimum benefit payments and set maximum premiums charged by private insurance companies and other carriers through government - approved contracts.

WOULD BE VOLUNTARY

Major recommendations included in the plan:

1. Voluntary enrolment in one of two standard contracts, the first having complete coverage on doctors' bills and the second with a deductible clause.

2. Subsidies for persons earning up to $1,000 in taxable income.

3. Maximum premiums assessed against poor risks.

4. Services limited to those by a physician at home, in hospital or in the physician's office.

"The plan, which could cost the government $53,700,000 in subsidies if all eligible residents enter, was met with mixed but

Changes In Plan Spurned

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—The legislative wheels began to grind out the Canada Pension Plan in the Commons Thursday, although slowly.

In a rare demonstration of government - opposition collaboration, the political parties exchanged advance word on which of the bill's 118 clauses each of them intends to propose amendments.

They kept the nature of the amendments to themselves but agreed that clauses on which no party wants to propose an amendment might be allowed to go through with little debate.

When the Commons rose at its 1 p.m. adjournment, it had adopted 14 clauses and let six others stand for further debate and possible amendment later.

Earlier the Commons debated, by a standing vote of 90 to 48, the first Conservative amendment which would have required recipients of contributory retirement pensions to live in Canada 10 years before qualifying.

This was proposed by Gordon Aiken (Parry Sound-Muskoka) as a prelude to introduction of the Conservative plan to guarantee minimum pensions of $25 a month to everyone. These would be in addition to the $75 a month now paid out of social security taxes for everyone 70 and older but would be paid out of the pension fund built up by the contributory plan.

Liberal and NDP speakers scorned the Conservative plan, saying it would divide the country by not being paid in provinces which opt out of the Canada Pension Plan and would mean stretching out the maturity of the plan to 20 years, instead of 10.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) said the Conservative plan would actually mean a cut in prospective retirement pensions for everyone now 45 and up to 65½ years of age.

Under the Canada Pension Plan, anyone who has contributed the maximum amount for 10 years will draw $104 a month on retirement at 65. An

Windfall Inquiry To Be Open

By GORDON GRANT

TORONTO CP — The Windfall royal commission will not be a trial of persons, corporations or other bodies, Mr. Justice Arthur Kelly said Thursday in formally opening the commission's hearings.

Rather, the justice of the Ontario Court of Appeal said, it will try to establish the facts behind last July's spectacular rise and fall in the price of shares of, Windfall Oils and Mines Limited on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

The shares soared to $5.60 from 26 cents on rumors that the company had made a rich base-metals find on its property in Prosser Township near Timmins. They plunged more than $3 overnight after the company announced no ore had been found.

The one - man royal commission was set up in August to investigate the activity in the shares. It will also examine the role of the Toronto Stock Exchange and the Ontario Securities Commission and recommend such legislation as it sees fit.

Mr. Justice Kelly said an anticipated sitting today will not be held and the hearings will resume in Timmins Monday.

First witness in Timmins is to be Ken Darke who discover-

Even Quinte 'Banana Belt' Weather Brought Lots of Snow, Slush, Trouble

Belleville and the Bay of Quinte district apparently was in the banana belt this time.

Yesterday when western parts of the province were buried under up to 30 inches of snow, Belleville got away with only about five inches—and 1.10 inch of rain.

All day yesterday it rained and snowed intermittently. Then last night the temperature dropped and this morning yesterday's slush and water had turned into frozen ruts.

Yesterday slippery hills and snow-filled curbsides were giving motorists trouble, with more than a few drivers coming to grief as they attempted to pull away from parking spaces.

And more than one pedestrian sank ankle deep in slush as he unwittingly stepped into deep snow as he attempted to cross the street.

Public works crews, however, kept up a continuing fight against the elements and this morning the downtown area was again free of snow.

But in the rural areas heavy drifting plugged driveways and it was "single track" traffic on secondary roads until the snowplows made their rounds.

And even on the main highway it was slow going because of the snow.

Last evening a Napanee man, working at Trenton, reported that it took him almost two hours to get home along 401.

As was the case yesterday morning a few high school busses were late in arriving at Belleville but there were no reports of trips having been cancelled.

Favreau Ordered Only Two Of Aides to Be Questioned

OTTAWA (CP)—RCMP Deputy Commissioner J. R. Lemieux testified today that Justice Minister Favreau ordered the questioning of only his two aides when he first heard about the Rivard affair.

Lemieux told the Dorion inquiry that no order was given by the minister at that time—Aug. 14—that Raymond Denis, then executive assistant to the immigration minister, should be questioned.

Denis was accused by Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne of offering Rivard a $50,000 bribe to arrange bail for suspected narcotics conspirator Lucien Rivard.

Lemieux said that neither did Mr. Favreau order the questioning of Liberal MP Guy Rouleau, named in Mr. Lamontagne's complaint the man behind the alleged bribe offer.

Lemieux testified that he believes it was Supt. W. O. Fraser, assistant director of the criminal investigation branch, who decided that Denis should be questioned.

Speaking of a meeting among Mr. Favreau, RCMP Commissioner G. B. McClellan and himself Aug. 14 Lemieux said "Rouleau and Denis were not mentioned at that time."

Mr. Favreau had asked that two of his aides, Guy Lord and Andre Letendre, be questioned as soon as possible because they were said to have used the minister's name in calling Mr. Lamontagne.

Commission counsel Andre Desjardins asked why Mr. Rouleau, then parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, was not questioned at the start of the investigation.

Lemieux said "we had a theory that the conspiracy lead to Rouleau and we wanted all the ammunition we could get to face him with."

This was the reason Mr. Rouleau had been questioned last Sept. 17.

Lemieux, 61, said Mr. Favreau was "extremely surprised and hurt" when he heard about Mr. Lamontagne's allegations.

The minister's immediate reaction was that he had never heard of the matter and didn't even know who Rivard was.

Mr. Favreau had told the commissioner that Lord and Letendre should be questioned as soon as possible.

Mr. Lamontagne had accused Lord and Letendre of applying political pressure to get Rivard released on bail.

Muslim 'Enforcer' Charged

NEW YORK (AP) — Police today charged a 26-year-old Negro they identified as a Black Muslim "enforcer" with homicide in the assassination of Malcolm X, black nationalist leader.

Norman 3X Butler, of the Bronx, was the second to be charged by police since the slaying Sunday of Malcolm X, who bolted from the Black Muslims more than a year ago and formed his own rival Muslim sect.

Malcolm, 39, was felled by 13 shots from three guns as he started to address a rally of 400 persons in a ballroom in the Washington Heights section of Manhattan.

Talmadge Hayer, 22, a Negro from Paterson, N.J., who was captured outside the ballroom after he had been shot in the leg by one of Malcolm's bodyguards, also has been charged

Search for Cure of Rheumatism Leads Scientists on Varied Paths

TORONTO (CP) — The quest for the cause and cure of rheumatism is leading medical men along research paths as various as attempts to indict invisible organisms in a test-tube and x-ray interviews among Pacific Coast Indian bands.

Reports today to a national conference on research in the rheumatic diseases stressed the variety of approaches by medical investigators seeking answers to a potentially crippling battery of diseases that afflict an estimated two per cent of the population, some 400,000 Canadians.

Two Vancouver doctors, J. P. Gofton and Harold Robinson of the University of British Columbia, are engaged in research attempting to determine how race or environment, diet or geography might influence the incidence of rheumatism.

Examining Haida Indians on the Queen Charlotte Islands off the B. C. coast in 1962 and again last November, the doctors found an exceptionally high incidence of a type of spinal rheumatoid arthritis.

Dr. Gofton said more than 20 per 1,000 of the Haida population were found to have spinal rheumatism, chiefly among the men.

If similar results were obtained from a second Indian group, they would tend to show that the spinal disease is an inherited racial problem. If not, the doctors would attempt to isolate other factors in the environment that produced different findings among similar groups of people.

Doctor Gofton said he did not believe climate is an important factor in arthritis and rheumatism.

"Some rheumatics feel more comfortable in a high, dry or warm climate just as healthy people feel better in dry, sunny weather than in damp and cold," he said.

North Viet Nam Likes Thant's Plan for Talks but Rusk Balks

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — North Viet Nam favors UN Secretary-General U Thant's proposal for negotiations to end the war in Viet Nam, but the United States wants indications first that Hanoi is ready to stop sending arms and reinforcements into South Viet Nam.

UN sources said Thant received word that the North Vietnamese regime was receptive to the idea of negotiations before he told a press conference Wednesday that he had made proposals looking toward a political solution to the war.

The sources said Thant submitted proposals two weeks ago to North Viet Nam, the United States, France, Britain and the Soviet Union for preliminary talks to set up another conference on Viet Nam like the 1954 Geneva conference which ended the French-Indochinese war.

State Secretary Dean Rusk told a press conference in Washington Thursday peace talks were out of the question until North Viet Nam shows it is ready to stop sending arms and reinforcements into South Viet Nam. He declined to say what kind of indication from the Communists would be accepted.

"No political gimmick" can stop Red aggression against South Viet Nam, Rusk said.

As long as the Communists are determined on "continuing aggression", he said, "that has to be met on the ground, factually, directly."

He reaffirmed the Johnson administration's determination to take whatever action it considers necessary to assist South Viet Nam.

Rusk's remarks were the first detailed exposition of U.S. policy on negotiations since the United States started bombing targets in North Viet Nam and since Britain, France, and the Soviet Union and other countries began an active diplomatic search for a peaceful settlement test the war be expanded rapidly.

He said the U.S. position on negotiations was given to China Wednesday at the meeting in Warsaw between U.S. Ambassador John Moors Cabot and Chinese Envoy Wang Kuo-chuan.

City Firemen Enjoy Quiet Time

City firemen have experienced a lull in activities in the last three days. The quiet period could not come at a better time although getting around in the city presents no problems for fire fighting vehicles a spokesman for the fire department said.

On Wednesday there was a call to attend to a space heater overheating out of control. Yesterday Mrs. C. Miller, who lives on the corner of North Park and Bridge Streets, called firemen to squelch a persistent chimney blaze.

practicable reaction from government, labor and medical circles.

THOMPSON IS CRITICAL

Andrew Thompson, leader of the Liberal opposition, said the plan reveals the government at its "least humane, least imaginative and least social". While Kenneth Brydon (NDP—Toronto Woodbine) termed it a "mixture of confusing compromises and organized medicine over the people of Ontario."

Douglas Bassett, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Labor Federation, echoed Mr. Brydon's statement, calling the scheme a complete capitulation to the insurance companies.

Mr. Hamilton pledged the full support of the federation's lobbying power to seek a medical - care plan based on the Hall royal commission on health services, if the federal government which recommended a universal, government - run plan with comprehensive benefits.

On the other side of the ledger, Dr. Glenn Sawyer, general secretary of the Ontario Medical Association, said that although he had not seen the report, the OMA generally agreed with Hall and so which the Hagey committee had based its recommendations.

The original bill entitled the Medical Services Insurance Act, established the general outline for the committee under President J. Gerald Hagey of the University of Waterloo to follow when it was introduced two years ago by the Conservative government.

AVOIDS COMPETITION

Dr. Sawyer said that by recommending that the doctors' services be included, the committee would eliminate the possibility that medical other services would be competing within a single plan. He suggested other schemes be created for additional services.

He said the OMA agreed with the committee's suggestion that welfare cases continue to get their medical care free.

However, he said the OMA believes there should be no subsidies in all for persons who pay for income tax.

"If people make enough for the government to take away, they should have enough to provide the basic necessities for themselves," he said.

Donald Sinclair, director of the Ontario Mental Health Association, welcomed the committee's recommendation that 25 hours of psychotherapy for an individual or 50 for a subscriber and his dependents be covered.

GOODBYE TO ERA

Judge E. Cross, Native of Madoc, Dies

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Judge Edward Cross, 64, former attorney-general and minister of municipal affairs in Ontario, died of a heart attack Thursday while walking from his snowbound car to his home north of here.

Judge Cross was elected as Liberal member of the legislature for Middlesex North in 1937 and was made minister of municipal affairs and public welfare shortly after in the cabinet of Mitchell Hepburn.

He resigned in November, 1940, because of business pressures although retaining his seat in the legislature. He was appointed by Premier Harry Nixon as attorney-general in 1943 and was defeated shortly before the government fell.

Judge Cross was born in Madoc, Ont., and graduated as a gold medalist in economics from Queen's University. He studied at Osgoode Hall in Toronto and began practicing law in 1926. He was defeated in his first bid for election to the legislature in 1931, was named a magistrate in Woodstock and until he became chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board in 1953 he was a judge.

He was appointed a judge of Oxford County court in 1944. He was also a member of the commissioner investigating Metropolitan Hospital in Windsor and was chairman of several federal conciliation boards inquiring into important industrial disputes.

He was also an amateur playwright and several of his plays were produced by Ontario drama groups.

White Cane Members Enjoy Music

The White Cane Club of Belleville and district held a regular business meeting at the Recreation Centre on Wednesday evening. President Helen Wardaugh welcomed the 24 members and 4 guests.

Mrs. Maude Rollins read the Collect and Creed of the Blind commentary. This current bulletin dealt with the Canada Pension Act and the matter studied by a joint committee at the present time. The CCB and the CNIB legislation committees have been in constant touch with the government, as well as keeping the blind up to all information in the newspapers and other printed material. The committees have presented to the government the point of view of the CCB and CNIB and will continue to do so.

Arlie Scott introduced Mrs. Irene Smith, pianist; Mr. D. Winstanley, violinist, and Mr. J. Hollyoake who played the harp. The trio delighted their listeners with many selections as well as playing for a sing-song of old favorites.

Ted Rowe expressed the sincere appreciation of the gathering for a most enjoyable evening of musical entertainment.

Mrs. Vi Waite thanked the ladies of St. Alfred's Club for delicious refreshments, and the Lions' Club for driving the members to and from the meeting.

Pickets Turn Back Engine Entering Plant

KINGSTON (CP) — Incidents at the strikebound Du Pont of Canada Limited plant continued during the last 24 hours while union and management remained deadlocked in a contract dispute.

One report said pickets of Local 13160, District 50 of United Mine Workers of America (Ind.), turned back an engineer when he attempted to leave the plant Thursday afternoon.

A locomotive was also turned back Thursday as it attempted to enter on a spurline into the plant and a carload carrying bedding for the 300 employees still working inside the plant refused to cross the picket line.

Police would still not confirm today whether a charge had been laid against a man who allegedly brushed three picketers with his car when leaving the plant Thursday.

Meanwhile, no steps have been taken by either side to resume negotiations, which broke off early Wednesday morning.

Provincial police from Kingston and Napanee detachments are stationed at the plant entrances today under the direction of Inspector D. E. Wellesley of Belleville.

IN MEMORIAM

FAIR, John Henry — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather who passed away Feb. 26th, 1964.

A loving father, true and kind.
No friend on earth like him we'll find.
So kind and true.
For all he ever tried to be.
And God gave him eternal rest.
Always remembered by your family.

KEANY — In loving memory of our dear son, Steven (Sonny) John, who passed away February 27, 1964.

Today brings back sad memories,
As I think of you and sigh,
There's many hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are ever near,
You left us all so sadly and few,
Whether he our lot,
To bring us sad memory last,
You shall never be forgot,
While the rest of the world he was only one,
But still he is sadly to us, "our son,"
Always missed by mom, dad and grandma.

TUTTLE — In loving memory of Charles Judson Tuttle who passed away February 26, 1954.
A silent thought, a secret tear,
Keeps his memory ever near;
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf.
Lovingly remembered by Thelma, Arnold and Michael.

wide-ranging negotiations between the federal and provincial governments and between the English- and French-speaking "societies" aimed at evolving a true and equal partnership. "Major changes" were needed but the report did not recommend any.

The commission said it will hold public hearings in the 10 provinces this year and dig up new, objective research, data before recommending concrete solutions in its final report. This report is not expected before 1967, although the possibility of an interim report in the meantime is being kept alive.

Reactions to the preliminary report seemed to cut across party lines.

"A disappointment and a compendium of generalities and platitudes," commented Opposition Leader Diefenbaker outside the House.

CAN'T ACCEPT VIEW

He said he cannot accept the contention in the report that a Confederation could not integrate if the present crisis was allowed to deepen.

Ontario's Premier John Robarts said his Conservative government will examine and analyse this "very provocative report" with great interest.

"We are determined to play to the full our part in finding solutions to those problems," he said in a brief statement issued in Toronto.

Pierre Bourgault, president of the largest separatist group — Le Rassemblement pour l'Independance Nationale — commented in Montreal that the "B-B" inquiry is a waste of money.

Canada would be in such a state of disarray in 1967 that the commission's final report would have no effect. He said French-Canadians have only received "crumbs" in Confederation and can never obtain equal status with English-speaking Canadians.

PRAISES REPORT

Liberal Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec praised the report and said the nine other provinces "have not made enough effort to understand Quebec." A crisis did exist.

Liberal Premier Louis Robichaud of neighboring New Brunswick took a different tack, saying he was surprised by the "pessimistic tone" of the report.

"I know of no problem of such magnitude that it cannot be amicably and equitably settled by the reasonable approach of men of good will," he added.

Daniel Johnson, opposition leader in the Quebec legislature, said it is evident that Canada is experiencing a French-English crisis. "If people finds nobody to support the view of a binational Canada, it will have to go it alone."

State Secretary Lamontagne, responsible for the federal government's bilingual program, told reporters in Ottawa the report carries a "message of confidence in our future, that could reassure even the most pessimistic in our country."

ing in Northern Ontario, but by early today Sudbury, Earlton and other northern points had received the same amount of snow and wind as communities in the south.

Snowflurries will continue to fall today and more points will still be getting occasional snowflurries Saturday.

DIE IN SNOW

First victim of the storm was an 85-year-old Chatham man, Herbert Goldrick, who died from a heart attack while shoveling snow. Shortly after that, James Spalding, 68, died of a heart attack while walking to the store in Chatham in heavy snow.

Two men also died in Windsor. Leo Drouillard, 40, of suburban St. Clair Beach, collapsed and died on the street. Alexander McSkimming, 63, of Windsor, died while shovelling snow.

Judge Eric Cross, 61, a former attorney-general and minister of municipal affairs of Ontario, died trying to walk from his car, stuck in the snow, to his home 10 miles north of Woodstock.

Charles Scrivens, 65, of Guelph, died near his home while attempting to push his car out of a snowbank.

Many school children across the province, especially in rural areas, got a holiday when school buses were unable to get through. In city schools that operated, most pupils were let out at noon.

Woman Suffers Broken Pelvis, Hit by Car

One person was seriously injured in a car accident during the storm.

Hospitalized with a broken pelvis was Jennie Bovay, 72, of 21 Jane Street. She was struck by a car driven by David Edwin Cummins, R.R. 1 Corbyville, as she stepped across the Coleman-West Bridge streets intersection.

Get Urban Renewal Report But Details Kept Secret

TRENTON — Trenton's urban renewal survey, now in draft form, is in the hands of an advisory committee which must, before March 16, return the draft to the firm which conducted the survey, Project Planning Associates of Toronto, with pertinent comment or suggestions for modification. The Toronto firm has been a year and a half completing the survey. Overall cost of the survey is $14,000, of which the town will pay approximately $3,800, the difference being made up from federal and provincial government grants.

Members of the advisory committee are Councillors Paul Tripp, Duncan McDonald and C. V. Graham, clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry, town engineer Eric Aldersey, and Richard Burnet from the Trenton Planning Board.

Following approval by the special committee, approval of town council must be gained.

URGE FACE-LIFT

While Project Planning has asked that the various items covered in the survey be kept under wraps until council has accepted the survey—or a modified form of such—it is known that suggestions to modernize the commercial section of the town form the most "spectacular" part of the findings, while suggestions for residential renewal form the bulk of the report. Feeling of the planners seems to be that the commercial areas of the town are deteriorating and in need of a face-lift.

Should the survey be accepted by the town fathers, and a decision reached to go forward with redevelopment of the residential and commercial areas, grants toward "eligible items," (such as acquiring lands and undesirable buildings, razing of the buildings, and providing services if necessary), will be received from the government agencies. Up to 75 per cent of the cost would be recoverable by the town.

The next move on the part of the town would be to sell the land gained through the redevelopment to sell the other town-owned land, to a developer, who would then supply dwellings which could be purchased by those deposed by the clearance of the undesirable housing.

It is understood that the planners have made a recommendation for "rehabilitation" in a number of cases, where they have thought necessary to raze the commercial or residential property.

ELECTRIC COVERAGE

Electrical service, carried by more than 40,000 miles of distribution lines, is available to over 99 per cent of farms in Ontario including remote northern areas.

Three Colborne Residents Hurt In Accident

TRENTON — Three Colborne residents required a doctor's treatment following an accident on Highway Two, half a mile west of Colborne around 5 p.m. yesterday.

Provincial police from the Brighton detachment report that the driver of a late model car involved in the two vehicle collision, 51-year-old George Maskell of Percy St., Colborne, suffered a broken left hand and a possible broken left shoulder. Passengers in his car, Kenneth Blake, 52, of R.R. 4, Colborne and Harold Wilson, 42, also of Colborne, suffered minor injuries.

Around 6 p.m., officers from the OPP Brighton detachment investigated another accident on Highway Two, one mile west of Colborne.

Gerald Gordon Blakely, 44, of R.R. No. 2, Castleton, lost control of his 1959 International stake truck on icy pavement and the vehicle slid over an embankment, after shearing off ten guide posts. Damage to the truck was a mere $50 and the driver escaped injury.

HITS HYDRO POLE

In spite of all-day treacherous driving conditions in and around Trenton, accidents didn't start to happen until 3.45 p.m. when they were of a comparatively minor nature.

Three minor accidents, rear-end collisions, were blamed on slippery roads.

At 5.20 p.m., Louis Foith, 63, of the staff home at Batawa, lost control of his car on Front Street at O'Malley's curve. The vehicle went out of control and struck a hydro pole just south of the O'Malley store lot. The pole's replacement value was set at $175.

NEW SNOW PLOW

The town of Trenton now has a new snow plow, and could as status seekers brag of "having two cars in the garage", the town can brag of having snow plows for each side of the street. The town also owns a grader for each side of the river. All equipment has been getting a good workout this winter. Cost of the new plow was a little more than $8,000.

Synchronized Traffic Lights Now Installed

TRENTON — Trenton's synchronized traffic lights have been installed at the corners of Dundas Street West and Dufferin Avenue, Davidon Street and Front Street, and, should soon be in operation, Mayor James MacDonald said today. Total cost to the town, (after government grants have been considered), should be something around $3,000. The Dufferin Avenue lights were installed under the Rayner contract for the reconstruction of this street.

Meanwhile, Ontario Department of Highways engineers have made a study of the intersection of King Street with Dundas Street West and Byron Street with Dundas Street East, with an eye to placing lights at these points, if traffic flow warrants the move. However, the mayor said he doubted the DHO would "go" for synchronized lights at the Byron Street intersection. Light heads left over from the initial installation might be used to install regulating lights here, the mayor said, but he was pessimistic about a possible tie-in with the synchronized downtown lights.

Object of synchronization is to get traffic "on the move" and keep it on the move, and provide regular times for pedestrian crossing.

Heart Fund Now $2,814

TRENTON — The 1965 heart fund campaign in the Trenton area this month has been the most successful drive to date, Rev. Douglas Wilson, chairman of the Trenton Chapter of the Ontario Heart Foundation, said today. The drive ends Feb. 28.

By Thursday, $2,814.84 had been collected by canvassers in this area . . . topping the 1965 objective of $2,000 . . . and exceeding the 1964 total by approximately $1,000. Many canvassers have still to make their final reports.

"The residents of the Trenton area may well be proud of the substantial contribution they have made to the crusade against heart disease," Rev. Wilson said, "The funds they have given in this campaign are the wisest investment they can make in the interests of their hearts. Medical research (into the causes of heart disease) is urgently needed if we are to make rapid progress."

The Cost of Loans

The Bank Act will come soon before Parliament for its decennial revision.

One of the recommendations of the royal commission on banking and finance is the removal of the six per cent ceiling on the rate of interest a chartered bank may charge for loans.

The chartered banks favor this change and are starting to campaign for it.

It is only natural that potential borrowers should be reluctant to forego any existing protection against the levy of a high rate of interest.

Yet it is probably true, as one chartered bank stated in a recent advertisement in this newspaper, that the proposed change will not hurt existing borrowers and will help "those now forced to borrow outside the chartered banking system," in other words from finance companies.

The chartered banks had succeeded in exceeding the six per cent ceiling, in any case, by adopting the finance companies' procedure of loan prepayments on monthly installments. The banks themselves have estimated this gave them a return equivalent to nine per cent interest; other methods of figuring the rate place it as high as eleven per cent.

The banks are not charitable institutions. They aim to make a profit, and profits are essential if our economic system is to work. Any profit-making organization tends to charge all the traffic will bear—having regard to the competition. By permitting the banks to charge higher rates of interest where the risks are higher, the proposed revision of the Bank Act would increase competition in this field and likely result, as the banks predict, in lower interest on such loans. As for the people who have been able to obtain personal loans at six per cent, they have, in the main, the ability to borrow elsewhere at this low rate. In many instances their security is life insurance policies. The insurance companies are ready to loan the insured money up to the surrender value of the policy at five or six per cent. Competition amongst life insurance companies will likely prevent this rate from rising. Corporate borrowers which in the past have had difficulty obtaining bank loans will also be protected, since they will also have open to them alternate sources of credit.

Competition is the key to low-cost loans, just as it is the key to keeping the costs of any other service or commodity as low as possible.

Building on the Past

Walter Bonatti, an Italian, on Monday became the first man to climb the north face of the famous Matterhorn in Switzerland in winter.

Modern medicine is continually setting new records in achievements, physical as well as mental.

What is the explanation? We may get a hint from Bonatti's experience. A guide at Zermatt, Switzerland, watched his ascent through binoculars. Before reaching the summit, Bonatti spent the night in a tiny hut, 1,300 feet below the top of the Matterhorn.

Somebody had gone before, had smoothed his way.

This is happening all the time. Every athlete who sets a new record is building on the experiences of past athletes, on the knowledge they have acquired regarding training and style, and the improvements made in equipment as the result of their work.

The same thing occurs in the field of mental achievements. Not only in games such as chess, where today even the novice discards as unsound some of the openings popular with masters less than a century ago, but in the everyday life of any scholar, yesterday's discoveries are today's axioms.

Some people appear to overlook this fact entirely. Others recognize it, but twist and warp it in amazing ways. There are those who say a primitive people cannot be expected to learn sophisticated techniques. This is true if the environment remains primitive. But, placed in a sophisticated environment, the offspring of parents who lived almost like cave men have no difficulty acquiring twentieth-century culture.

That this should amaze people is amusing, for if this were not so it would prove the contentions of the Russian biologist Lysenko, whose theories have been a laughing stock in the West for years and who now has been demoted in Russia. All Lysenko maintained was that acquired characteristics can be inherited, precisely what all the sophisticated people who believe in the impossibility of the offspring of primitives acquiring the trappings of civilization in a single generation are really maintaining.

Excessive Sun and Wind Make Blood Vessels Visible

By JOSEPH C. HOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: The blood vessels on the top of my nose are clearly visible and thin to a degree, disfiguring. I have heard that in time more of them will show, and the size and shape of the nose will be affected. Is this true?

I am a man of 42. The rest of my face is pink but without visible blood vessels. — J. O. N.

Excessive exposure to sun and wind can cause this. (Far more rarely, so can X-rays or other sources of radiation.)

A condition called rosacea (a tendency of the skin to flush easily) is another cause. Of these prominent blood vessels can occur in individuals with an unstable vasodilator nervous system — that is, the involuntary portion of the nervous system which controls the tone of the capillaries, or very small blood vessels close to the skin surface.

The appearance of these vessels is often associated with excessive use of alcohol. What is not so well known is that excessive tea or coffee can have the same consequence at times. I strongly doubt that your need fear any deformity of the nose, but I suggest that you see a skin specialist for specific treatment.

Without treatment, it is entirely probable that the condition will become more prominent.

Dear Dr. Molner: I enclose 15 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your leaflet, "Lost Secret of Reducing," and Calorie "Chart."

A friend recently told me that if I ate one quarter of an orange peel before breakfast, I could eat anything and never gain weight. Do you have any information on this? — E. S.

It's utter nonsense. Don't believe such bokum.

Dear Dr. Molner: When I was younger it was stylish to wear shoes without socks or stockings. As a result the shoes rubbed my heels and I now have large, protruding calluses. They are not painful, but unsightly. Can I get rid of them? Is it possible that the bone has become enlarged with calcium deposits? — Miss M. L.

A callus is a thickening of the skin. If you take a good look, you can quickly decide whether you have calluses or instead a thickening of the bones.

If your shoes still rub, or exert any pressure, at the same spots you can't expect the calluses to disappear. They won't.

Lotions to soften the skin may help. You can try gentle, repeated rubbing with pumice to wear away the thickened skin. Otherwise, if this is really important, see a podiatrist (foot specialist). Whether corns, calluses of the feet, or calluses of the hands, pressure and irritation cause them; they won't go away unless the pressure is eliminated.

Fragmented Electorate

Montreal Star

We may be in for a period of minority government. The Canadian electorate may have broken into varying segments of political opinion. Certainly neither of the two main parties have established themselves in the public mind. Doubts exist about both Liberals and Conservatives. But in the long run and, given some action by Mr. Pearson, the Liberals represent a better alternative than a fractured Conservative party led by Mr. Diefenbaker, and certainly a better alternative than the New Democrats or Social Credit.

Old Epicurus Discredited

Ottawa Journal

No one is so utterly discredited as old Epicurus who said, "Contented poverty is an honorable estate."

More and more people look askance at the contented poor. Here is Forestry Minister Sauve decisioning in a voice of horror:

"Less than half the rural dwellings in Canada have central heating and barely half have hot and cold running water and flush toilets. Almost a quarter have no mechanical refrigeration, and over a quarter no automobile.

This the minister cites as cause for concern and he calls on Canadians to "multiply our efforts until we have banished the degrading cancer from our land."

Poverty used to mean rags, hunger and cold. The world is a better place today and Mr. Sauve does not pretend that modern poverty means utter deprivation in rural Canada. He has come to regard as victims of a form of up-to-date poverty the 25 per cent of the rural people who have no car and no mechanical refrigeration.

No question about it, many of the people in these categories would have cars and mechanical refrigerators if they could. But what if some are a little old-fashioned or thrifty and tired for from the lake good enough for refrigeration and the bus good enough for transport to town? Can they be classified as 'poor simply because they have rejected mechanical refrigeration and cars?

Canadians have a growing passion for conformity, a positive suspicion of those who don't want conveniences. Mr. Sauve remarks on the conclusion that the absence from a household of hot and cold running water, central heating mechanical refrigeration, flush toilet and passenger automobile "suggests some degree of inconvenience and hardship to the occupants."

That's right, but let us not conclude that all people must have these things. Some may be happy without them. It is not easy to believe that the simple life may be voluntary and those who choose it of their own free will are richer than the rest of us.

The Negro's Struggle

Peterborough Examiner

But the Negro is destined to fight almost alone in the U.S.—partly because the rest of the population is busily turning away from the battle, and partly because of the deep and unspoken resistance to the Negro in American society.

Selma, in fact, is a copybook exercise. Whether it can set the pattern for the future is in some doubt. There is plenty of pent up violence to draw upon, should the Negro become exasperated.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Feb. 26th, 1945

Women of history who before and behind the curtains of public life helped shape the destinies of nations and empires formed the theme of an informative address here last night by the public relations official of the Canadian National Railways.

Speaking to the Women's Canadian Club in the Sunday School Rooms of Bridge Street United Church, Mr. McDowell drew upon an unlimited fund of knowledge and in a verbal expose of the "Distaff Side of History" pulled aside the curtain of historical "stories behind the headlines."

Selecting what he termed, seven outstanding women of history the speaker delved deeply into intimate backgrounds and environments, characters and lives and told how personal characteristics had in many cases shaped the lives of kings and nations, and had left an influence that carried far through the pages of history.

'Affluence' Traps Reds

Ogdensburg Journal

The New York Times covers foreign news in fascinating detail, recently reporting that there are millions of new, unwanted sewing machines clogging the warehouse of the Soviet Union.

This odd circumstance had its beginnings a few years ago when Russians were forced families outside the shops which were supposed to sell sewing machines, and the product was in short supply. Khrushchev & Co., which operated Russia at that time, inaugurated a plan to provide enough sewing machines. These plans were handed to factory managers, who tooled up and produced as if their jobs depended on it, as indeed they did.

Then somebody forgot to tell them to stop. The situation came to light, as so many situations do, when a subscriber wrote a letter to a newspaper, remarking that his factory had a stock of 150,000 unneeded sewing machines, to which it was adding every working day.

All this of course, constituted an enormous waste of the resources of a poor country. But under the state planning system, the market does not set its own pace and order its own production. It was inevitable. It has happened with other products, and it will happen in the future.

What is discouraging is that the same thing happens here, if by different means. Our agriculture program is intended to remove the market as a factor in production, and enormous surpluses are created. The Government "stimulates" apartment building, and now high vacancy rates and foreclosures are beginning to indicate a surplus there. Our strategic stockpile bulges with various over - bought items. The Defense Dept. is frantically trying to stop increases of inventories of items already in oversupply.

But the free market here at least, controls sewing machine production. You can buy one anytime you want one, and we don't have a surplus paid by taxes.

Wives Too Sensitive To 'The Look'

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In looking through last month's issue of the Bridge World magazine, I was amused to read an article by a man on the subject of teaching his wife to play bridge. His lengthy advice boils down to one word: don't.

What most amused me is his wryly humorous exposition was his reference to The Look. Wives are extraordinarily sensitive to their husband's looks, and never more so than at the bridge table.

"Why did you lead that club?" the husband will say after a hand is over; and the wife will reply, "You gave me a Look." The man may have been thinking about his income tax, or lighting a cigarette, or just staring absently into space — but the wife interprets his expression as a Look of criticism or disgust.

I quite agree with the author that a man should no more teach his wife to play bridge than to drive a car. In both situations, his mere presence disquiets her and puts her on the defensive. If he is obviously anxious for her to do well, his anxiety only makes her do more poorly. If he is sardonically superior, this quite undoes the trembling creature.

Women thrive on encouragement, affection, generosity, and liberal doses of flattery — and too many husbands thrive on putting their wives in the wrong at the slightest provocation.

In this matter, be it noted, I speak not as a scribe, but as one having authority; over the years, I have been variously consigned to conjugal bridge, but the Look has never entirely left my palsied countenance.)

For some reason, this reminds me of a story about Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, which illustrates how even the most loving and durably married couples — which they are — become enmeshed in personal vanity when engaged in some highly competitive public activity.

In the new biography of the Lunts, "Stagestruck," Maurice Zolotow retells the classic tale of the time they were making their first movie, "The Guardsman." After the second day's shooting, Miss Fontanne attended a screening of the rushes, while Lunt stayed home.

She burst into the house, Zolotow relates, exclaiming almost in tears: "I was awful — I don't see how I can go on with the picture!"

"How was I?" Alfred asked. She was quite calming to his ego, said, "You looked handsome and your voice was splendid. But I'm a mess. I've got to have makeup because you look so much better when you're not in close-up. My eyes are too small . . . and I'm so gawky!"

Alfred was silent, staring into space. "I tell you, I can't go on" she cried. "That shall I do, Alfred?"

"No lips, oh!" Alfred said.

Feb. 26, 1965 . . .

The second French Republic was proclaimed 117 years ago—in 1848—from the steps of the Paris city hall, after crowds stormed the capital protesting government inadequacy that began with the failure of potato and grain crops two years earlier. King Louis Philippe, then 74, had abdicated two days before in favor of his 10 - year - old grandson, but revolutionaries ignored the monarchy's claims and set up their own republic. But it had a life of only three years, before the Second Empire came into being.

1815 — Napoleon escaped from the island of Elba to which he had been exiled the year before.

1846 — Frederick William Cody—better known as Buffalo Bill—was born in Iowa.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915 — the Germans used liquid fire for the first time in warfare on the Western Front; strong attacks were made by the French near Besseaujour in the Champagne sector; South African forces advanced in German Southwest Africa.

Quinte Humane Society To Embrace 2 Counties Formed at City Meet

Soon, there may be a whispered slogan among those locals who have hardy breat animals:

"Beware of the dog-lovers!"

Or lovers of any and all pets and domestic animals.

For they have now formally banded themselves together into the Quinte Humane Society and as such intend striking against all those who inflict cruelty to animals in the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward.

A band of people dedicated to this end decided to activate their anti-cruelty philosophy on an organized basis one last night at Christ Church parish hall.

Upshot of the meeting was an adoption of rules and principles of the Ontario Humane Society, an on-the-spot decision to form a local branch to represent the society's ideals and petition it for a charter.

Elected president of the province's newest organized opposition to animal cruelty was Theo Rhenius, Belleville, with Mike Gosling, Trenton, as vice-president.

WANT INSPECTOR

Main objective of the organization will be to secure appointment of an inspector who may propagate provincial and municipal ordinances against practised cruelties and ill-feeling to animals.

If it succeeds, it will be the first humane society of Ontario has placed anti-cruelty to animals on a full-time basis.

However, to guarantee its success the organization noted last night membership of interested persons was imperative.

Municipalities must also participate in the project.

Ironically, the region has been granted some service in the assault against cruelty at the expense of the Ontario Humane Society, Mr. Rhenius told the meeting last night.

The parent organization, the Ontario Humane Society, has been acting up to this time on complaints received from the district. However, this has only been a lip-and-ear service, since the society did not have local representation.

Much of the work has been done gratuitously by the local Belleville hospital pharmacy. Ever, he also is lacking in sufficient authority to meet a situation which demands prompt action, Mr. Rhenius pointed out.

A society inspector is invested with similar powers and may act more promptly in crucial situations.

OTHER MEETINGS CALLED

The new organization intends meeting once again — in Trenton this time.

Meantime, apparently, any demands made upon the humane laws of the province must still be processed courtesy of the Ontario parent body.

However, last night's meeting placed the society on a firmer local basis for the time being.

Persons in the area having any complaints on mistreatment of animals may now contact Harold Crowe, of Belleville.

Mr. Crowe, after judging the merits of the complaint and the situation involved will pass along a report to the group's executive with any recommendations for action.

Smrke Seeks Payment of Hockey Salary

The lingering lawsuit of Lou Smrke is being litigated once again.

The former member of the Belleville McFarlands hockey team still is seeking satisfaction for money he claims he contracted for as a team member.

The current hearing, latest in a series of litigation stretching back two years, is being held in private.

It was called yesterday by Judge J. C. Anderson in his Hastings County courthouse chambers. Don Templeman and Edward Fothwell are representing the champion hockey player in his fight for what he considers his just dues.

The whole affair dates back to 1959 when the Belleville Mets were jubilantly hailed by their hometown as world beaters. They went to Prague that year as Canada's representatives and returned triumphant as national champions. Later that year Belleville's municipal affairs sparked a judicial inquiry which, among other suggestions, proposed a share of the debts incurred by the city — including the hockey team.

Smrke's 2 1/2 - year - old claim of a series by members of the team for money owed under contract.

Police said Hayer has been once-operative and has refused to disclose whether he is a Black Muslim.

IS FIRST LINK

Butler's identification as a Black Muslim was the first official link of the Chicago-based sect with the slaying.

Police believe five men were involved in the assassination.

Two charged against Butler was that he acted in concert with Hayer.

Butler and two other Black Muslims were charged with felonious assault last Jan. 7 in the shooting of Benjamin Brown, 31, a Negro corrections officer. Police said Brown had broken from the Black Muslims and was setting up a mosque of his own in the Bronx.

Butler had been free on $10,000 bail in the shooting of Brown, who was wounded in the chest outside a Bronx store.

Police were continuing to seek others involved in the slaying.

amendment being introduced by the government to a later section of the bill will lower the qualifying age for the $75 standard old age pension to 65 from 70 over a period of five years.

During the debate the mood of the House changed between one of honeyed sweetness between the parties and one of back-biting partisanship.

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh, piloting the measure for the government, was called arrogant by Conservative house leader Gordon Churchill (PC-Winnipeg South Centre). A moment later Mr. Churchill and Mr. Knowles were exchanging compliments on having read each other's earlier speeches.

George Chatterton (PC—Esquimalt-Saanich) said the Canada Pension Plan can't be called truly national because Quebec and any other province can either stay out or quit it after it starts.

Man Killed In Bus-Car Head-on Crash

OTTAWA (CP) — One man was killed and three passengers aboard a Toronto-bound Colonial Coach Lines bus injured when the bus slammed head-on into a small car just west of here Thursday night.

The Ottawa-Toronto express bus, driven by Fred Hamilton of Toronto, carried 20 passengers.

The injured passengers were treated at hospital and released.

A second Colonial Coach Lines bus en route from Ottawa to Sudbury Thursday struck a transport truck at Carp, about 20 miles west of here on Highway 17, but no injuries were reported.

Two Toronto Bakers Killed In Car Plunge

TORONTO (CP) — Thomas Ralkos, 37, and Louis Dimche, 35, two Toronto bakers, were killed today when their station car tore a 20-foot gap in the steel railing on a bridge and plunged into the Don River.

The car apparently went out of control and soared over a snowbank created by snow plows and landed on its roof in about three feet of water.

The two men were pinned in the crumpled interior and their bodies could not be removed by cutting off the roof after it had been hauled out of the water.

'Home and School' Needed But Program Should Stress New Educational Trends

Home and School Associations are still needed but should be changed to keep members abreast of changes in education and to interpret these changes to children.

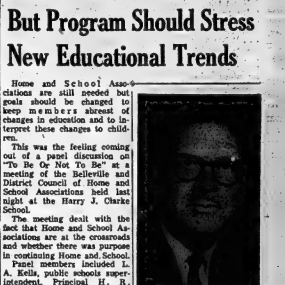
This was the feeling coming out of a panel discussion on "To Be Or Not To Be" at a meeting of the Belleville and District Council of Home and School Associations held last night at the Harry J. Clarke School.

The meeting dealt with the fact that Home and School Associations are at the crossroads and without a new purpose in continuing Home and School.

Panel members included L. A. Kells, public schools superintendent, Principal H. R. Prink, Mr. Don Middleton, Mrs. Jenette Thompson and Mrs. E. Hull of Pickering Area "C" vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations.

Mrs. E. Jourard, vice president of the Belleville and District Home and School Council, acted as moderator. Approximately 40 persons attended the meeting and the panel discussion.

The general consensus of the meeting was that Home and School Associations are still needed - providing they change their goal to one of education, rather than continue with their present primary aim of money raising, and building.



NEED STUDY GROUPS

Associations must keep up with the rapid changes of education and parents knowledge these changes to their children. Study groups on changes would be necessary for parents to do this.

Schools superintendent Mr. Kells said that interpretation of the rapid changes in education would be the principle role of home and school associations.

Principal H. R. Prink, was appreciative of the role of home and school associations, stating that he "would not like to run a school without one."

One of the main problems of successful operation of home and school associations was getting the right people to work as executive members, it was stated.

ANSWER:

We have run out of copies of this popular bar cookie, so will repeat it here.

FRIDAY

Codfish au Gratin (see Wednesday); Potato Logs (see Monday); Green Beans Julienne; Cucumber and Tomato Salad Vinaigrette; Apple Crisp with Whipped Topping; Coffee.

PINEAPPLE BARS (repeated from June 5/62):

Reminiscent of Matrimonial Squares but with new filling and a change in the crumb mixture.

Sift flour with salt and baking soda. Add quick-cooking rolled oats, brown sugar and walnuts and mix thoroughly. Add warm melted shortening (or shortening and butter) and stir in until well mixed. With palms press half of these crumbs into a 12 x 8 x 2" pan, pressing firmly to make top smooth. Cover with cooled Pineapple Filling: One and one-half cups canned crushed pineapple, 4½ teaspoons cornstarch, 6 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. In small saucepan mix together sugar and cornstarch. Stir in canned crushed pineapple and lemon juice and cook, stirring, over medium-high heat until thick and boiling. Reduce heat and stir 1 minute longer. Cool. Spread on bottom layer of crumbs, packed in pan. Spread remaining crumbs evenly over and pat down with palms to make firm without squeezing out the pineapple filling. Bake at 350 deg. F.for about 35 or 40 minutes or until firm to touch at centre. Do not brown this any more than absolutely necessary. Cool in pan. Cut into squares or bars with sharp knife when cold.

During that time she represented Ontario and Hastings County while on a team week tour of the British Isles where all young farmers of the commonwealth assembled.

Later, Kay became director of women's and girls' work sponsored by the Belleville YWCA. Following their marriage in 1960, Mr. and Mrs. Burk Summers left to spend four years in Australia. Then they moved 1,000 miles from Armadale to Mildura, also in New South Wales where their son Paul was born.

The new president, Mrs. Don Shorey was appointed to attend an officers' conference in Guelph on May 5-6 which is being held for presidents, secretaries, public relation officers and Tweedsmuir history curators.

Mrs. E. Phillips reported the Federation news and stressed buying Canadian-made goods.

Mrs. Seirys, convenor of resolutions reported on the proper drafting of resolutions, with the thought that a good resolution would be to lengthen women's skirts.

Mrs. T. Evans gave a reading on Valentine day stating that 23 million valentines were mailed this year including home made ones, each a token of love. Traditions have changed over the years.

Discussion of a centennial project concerned tree planting, individual or group planting.

A lucky draw was won by Mrs. H. Ketcheson. Lunch was served by the committee.

Ann Landers

Trouble Is a Very Real Part of Living

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I began to read your column nine years ago — for laughs. I stopped laughing after the first two months when I saw my wife, my children, my mother, my brothers, the boss, the family next door, then finally myself.

ANN LANDERS

Your column is a compendium of psychology, philosophy, English composition, sociology and social justice. And then there is the humor. It is incomparable. But this is not what I started out to say.

I am writing today about the letter signed "Just Normal Folks." They can't understand why there are so many screwballs in the world — nuts whose lives are all loused up. I have known people like that and they make me sick. They are so proud of themselves, so if they fashioned their good fortune with their own two hands. They congratulate each other daily on how well they are handling their lives.

By their standards I am not normal because I have had a great deal of trouble in my life. I did not arrange to have my father die under the wheels of a truck when I was 13. Nor was I responsible for my mother's heart attack two years later. I was not to blame for my brother's divorce or his suicide which followed. It was not my fault that my wife and I have lost two of our four children to polio and that a fifth child was still-born.

I don't know what luck is, and I don't know how much bad luck people bring on themselves, but I do know that some folks have a way of life than others. I hope nothing unfortunate ever strikes Just Normal Folks. They would go down without a trace. — BATTLE SCARRED.

DEAR BATTLE SCARRED — Trouble is an inevitable part of living. Voltaire wrote, "A man who says 'I have no troubles' is a liar or an idiot." And I'm with him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband insists the next time he hears our 15-year-old daughter say on the telephone, "What are you going to wear to school today?" he is going to hit her on the seat with a hairbrush.

It's annoying to hear her confer with girl friends every morning about clothes but I don't feel this is particularly bad.

Please pour a little oil on the troubled waters — BALANCE WHEEL.

DEAR WHEEL — And what's so terrible about this conferring on what to wear? Personally, I believe this is a great deal healthier than not giving a hoot. And incidentally, the sloppy look is out. It's "in" to be neat this season.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm going to disguise my letter by changing some of the details, because I don't want to embarrass anyone.

My uncle was the attorney general of this state 10 years ago. Every time my husband introduced me it went like this, "Meet my wife, Betty. She's the niece of the attorney general."

I never cared for this introduction, and I told my husband, but it didn't help.

He still introduces me as the niece of the attorney general, although my uncle has been out of office since 1950. My husband says senators, governors, and other politicians retain their titles forever. Right or wrong? — BETTY.

DEAR BETTY — Ex-governors, senators, and ex-colonels, do not hang on to the titles — their friends do.

But this is not the real issue in YOUR family. Why must your husband refer to your uncle into whose home he introduces you? Does he feel you need a build-up? Does he need it? Tell him, once and for all, it is embarrassing and to knock it off.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Families Living on $4,000 Income Having it Tough Social Workers are Told

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA CP — Social workers should start using more political pressure to better the lo. of Canada's low - income families, Ottawa welfare workers were told Thursday.

J. Ormond Stanton, supervisor of the Ottawa Family Service Centre, said during a panel discussion on "the family in a technological society" that the incomes some families have to live on are disgraceful.

"Our Canadian families who must live on incomes of $4,000 a year and under have really had it tough lately.

"It's time we social workers started thinking about political action to better conditions."

Mr. Stanton spoke at a meeting celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Ottawa Family Service Centre, a United Appeal agency which provides counseling services for families and individuals in need of social guidance. The agency was established in October, 1914.

Another member of the panel was Frank Cunningham of Ottawa, assistant professor at the School of Social Work, St. Patrick's College, suggested social workers should experiment with new ways to reach families with problems.

"It may be time our family service agencies became 24-hour services. Research has shown that families can be helped on a very short-term basis at a time of crisis, but these times don't always occur between the hours of nine and five."

MEET THEM EARLY

Dr. Turner said it might be a good idea for social workers to meet families early in the morning before fathers leave for work, "or even Sunday night after dinner, perhaps the only time in the week when the family is together and fully relaxed."

The keynote address was given by Rev. Gordon Irving, head of the department of sociology at St. Patrick's College.

He said the projections of trends by social researchers were creating a negative idea of the contemporary family.

"If these projections were to hold true . . . virginity at marriage would have disappeared, the stable permanent marriage would be non-existent, the large family a thing of the past, and male dominance would be obsolete."

These things had not occurred. Even over a short range, and this indicated family development did not follow a simple linear pattern, Father Irving said.

Husband Wanted Someone Different to Talk To

DEAR DORIS — The other night we were talking about trusting and other married guys that run around with other women. My husband asked me if I trusted him and I told him I had reason not to, and I brought out a notebook I had found (with girls' names and addresses)

DORIS CLARK

It all came out that he has been taking other females out. I asked him why, and he said he just wanted to take someone different out to talk to. "Maybe it was because he wanted to prove that he could do it." He said the girls knew he was married; he always kept his rings on. He said he loves me and only me, and that it won't happen again.

He said that about four out of six of the guys he knows take other girls out just to a show or for coffee. He also said maybe he got married too young and is doing things he missed out on.

I just can't forget it like that. I keep thinking of those late nights. There will be other nights, maybe there will be legitimate reasons. I feel that many other people know he's been doing this and I feel like I'm degraded. — HURT.

DEAR HURT — O.K., so he missed out on things before. Accept that. And accept that he loves you. What comes next?

All our lives we associate with both sexes and it is normal for women and men to converse. Within the married state we don't condone extra-marital affairs — but could you not both enjoy acquaintanceship with others? I'm talking about evenings in your own home, bridge foursomes, TV dinner dates with other couples.

With Hubby as genial host, your own companionship can grow and both of you achieve satisfying self-expression. Recognize the danger sign, both of you, and do something constructive about it.

DEAR DORIS — About nylons for little girls. I teach grade six. As Christmas arose about the girls in the concert wearing nylons on their immature, skinny legs. Some had already perfumed their mothers to buy them. Some scoffed at the idea. I suggested white ankle socks for all. Then I mentioned socks to match their dresses. My sanity seemed to be questioned.

Some parents are determined to catapult their babies into adulthood and consider the rest of us 'old fogies' if we protest. The transition period can be delightful if it is permitted, but some little girls are denied it altogether.

No wonder we have so many unhappy, dissatisfied women! They have never had a real childhood but they don't know what it is. I think that this very 'pushing' is also a cause of girls getting pregnant. If parents only could see what a teacher sees! — GRANNY TEACHER.

DEAR GRANNY — The "transition period" can be wonderful. I deeply regret the complaint which sometimes reaches me from a 15-year-old who feels she has seen everything, been everywhere and is just a disillusioned old woman.

• • •

Confidential to ENGAGED — Be big enough to apologize. If you are ever going to make a go of marriage it won't be by running home to mother every time you disagree. Learn to talk things out together; to forgive; and to admit it when you can see you've been wrong.

• • •

DEAR DORIS' — I plan to have a joint birthday celebration for my stepmother and father. Their birthdays are two days apart.

(1) Should they both be seated at head of table?

(2) Should they blow out the candles on the cake together or separately.

(3) Is O.K. to flank the birthday cake with tall candles on either side? — DAUGHTER MAISIE.

DEAR DAUGHTER —

(1) The lady guest of honor (your stepmother) is placed at the host's (your husband's) right. The gentleman guest of honor (your father) sits on your right. You are, of course, at one end of the table, your husband at the other.

(2) Together, preferably. Have him come around to her location, and give a hearty blow. They'll need plenty of combined wind, if the cake carries candles for every year.

(3) Tall candles make a nice table decoration. But the cake doesn't properly come in until dessert time. Then when it has been de-flamed, it could be placed between the candles, if you wish.

DEAR DORIS — I will be 18 in September, and have been earning my own living since September 1963.

My boy friend went to another province two weeks ago. He has a good job, and now wants me to join him. He is boarding with his brother and sister-in-law.

My mother says I am not to go. I am the youngest of the family and the only one left at home.

Can she stop me from joining my boy friend? — MISS MY MAN.

DEAR MISS — Perhaps not legally. But don't let her objections make you stubborn. Committing yourself now to the extent of moving into your boy friend's home is asking for trouble.

• • •

Women's Institutes

SIDNEY SOUTH W.I.

The February meeting of the Sidney South Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. D. Plumpton, with first vice-president, Mrs. Douglas Reid in charge of the meeting. It was decided to hold a bake-sale at Rickard's on April 15. Mrs. Douglas Plumpton, Mrs. R. Pearce, Mrs. Carman Dafoe, Mrs. Douglas Reid and the president were appointed to the nominating committee to select officers for the coming year. An invitation was read and accepted to attend the 25th anniversary of Pine Grove Women's Institute. Six members attended this event.

A family night planned to be held in Aikens' hall will be conversed by the Agriculture and Canadian Industries group.

Mrs. Reid thanked the hostess for her hospitality and refreshments were served by Mrs. Plumpton and assistant hostesses Mrs. W. Hitchon, Mrs. H. Holloway and Mrs. Douglas Holton.

The cemetery committee addressed the February meeting of Sidney Council on the restoration and care of the old Hogle's Cemetery.

FAMILY NIGHT

On Friday evening the Agriculture and Canadian Industries convener, Mrs. Delbert McComb and her group sponsored a Family Night in Aikens' hall. Mrs. Douglas Reid welcomed the families and introduced Mr. Becker, of the C.N.R. public relations who showed films of the scenic boat-trip up the British Colbia coast to Alaska and one on a Jasper Park holiday. These films were beautiful and showed many interesting geographical points. Accordion selections were given by Stephen McGinnis and Freddie Meens, and Paul Aikens gave a clarinet solo. Mrs. Muriel Bargenbury contributed the story of a little boy taking a trip by train. The Allcent Old-Timers played several selections on piano, violin, guitar and drums to complete a fine program. Refreshments were served by the members and a social hour enjoyed.

SEWING GROUP

Several members of the sewing group convened by Mrs. Ken Bush and Mrs. Dawson Douglas attended the Summary Day in Stirling. On Tuesday evening they gathered at the home of Mrs. Bush to consider the knowledge gained from the course "More About Finishes." After discussion Mrs. Bush and Mrs. Douglas were presented with gifts in appreciation of their leadership. A dessert luncheon was served and the members enjoyed a delightful half-hour over their tea-cups.

Susanna's Family Fare

REVIVAL

Dear Suzanna: To keep a corsage looking fresh — or to perk up a tired one, fill a plastic bag with water, then empty the contents and place your corsage inside.

The moisture will keep it fresh for quite a while . . . be sure to remove the bag before you wear it, ha! ha! — Peg Thomson

Why Peg, you're even cornier than I am! — SUSANNA

Dear Susanna: For outdoor drying of nylons, I snap a clothes peg onto the bottom of each stocking. This keeps them from blowing over the line — unless, of course, Hurricane Hazel is in the vicinity!

Often at night, however, or on weekends, I find it necessary to dry nylon lingerie. Rather than clutter up the bathroom, I pull the shower curtain in place, use my prettiest plastic clothes pins and fasten the stockings on the inside of the curtain between the hooks. The drip runs down into the tub and all one sees, if anything, is the top of the pegs. — A Faithful Reader — Edna

Might add, though, that it is almost necessary to stand right in the tub or shower stall to hang the clothes pins in place on the other side of the curtain. So who cares? It's shower time anyway! But do use a rubber mat so you won't slip, and always hang your stockings by the toes. — SUSANNA

POWER OF FORGIVENESS

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

When John Wesley was in Georgia in his early years in the colony, he interceded for a man who had incurred the enmity of the British governor. The governor brushed aside Wesley's intercession for the man by saying, "I never forgive." Wesley replied "Then let us hope, Sir, you never sin."

But the problem is that people do offend — and are offended. This is why forgiveness plays such an important role in life. What a tragic world this would be if no one ever forgave another. Personalities can become warped because people will not seek or grant forgiveness. Hatred who could run free in the sunlight of God's presence could instead in the shadows of a sense of guilt. Many carry a needless burden because they will not give up a grudge or an animosity they bear toward someone else.

Refusal to seek or grant forgiveness can lead to sickness of mind and body. The Psalmist said, "When I declared not my sin, my body wasted away" (Psalm 32:3 RSV) Not till he confessed his sins did he experience the love the Lord always surrounds him who trusts in the Lord." Jesus showed repeatedly that forgiveness and healing go hand in hand. When Peter asked how often one should forgive, Jesus replied, "Seventy times seven," meaning one should live a continuously forgiving spirit.

IMPORTANT TO HEALTH

There can be no doubt that to receive and offer forgiveness leads to better health. A hospital chaplain says that one of the biggest problems he finds in patients whom he talks to is a sense of self-censure. People hate themselves for the kind of life they have lived. People blame themselves. They think their sickness is a punishment, something they have done wrong. They are afraid to trust God for full forgiveness, or to open their lives to the inflow of God's love by surrendering malice and resentment they bear toward others. They must be forgiven and forgiving if they want to find fullness of health.

One of the clearest teachings of the Bible is that to receive God's forgiveness one must extend forgiveness to others. This is so important that Jesus stresses it twice in teaching the Lord's prayer. (Matt. 6:12-15) He states this truth emphatically when He tells us not to expect God's forgiveness "if you do not forgive your brother from your heart." (Matthew 18:35 RSV)

But what is forgiveness? It is not just letting bygones be bygones. It is not being morally neutral. Basically, it is a restored relationship brought about by penitence of the offender and a willingness of the offended to forgive. It is treating an offending friend as a friend even though he has been hurt by his actions. Forgiveness is not just an act but an attitude. It is love that refuses to cease loving in spite of what another has done to sin against it. It is love that keeps on hoping — and praying — and seeking for reconciliation.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for February 28th: "Christian Forgiveness" Matthew 17 and 18.

It does not mean one must close his eyes to another's wrong-doing. One may have to rebuke the offense, but, at the same time, offer reconciliation to him who has committed it. Such an attitude, says Jesus, must never cease. It is so important, the one who is offended must take the initiative to restore the broken relationship. (Matthew 5:23-24)

GOD, AUTHOR OF FORGIVENESS

Such an attitude, says Jesus, reflects the attitude and love of God. He said it by His teachings. He showed it by His deeds. In chapter 17, Matthew describes the experience of Jesus and 3 disciples on the Mount of Transfiguration. Luke adds that the conversation on that occasion dealt with Jesus' departure, or death, Jesus would "accomplish" at Jerusalem. (Luke 9:31) Such a statement has no connection with anyone's death. But by Jesus' death some things were accomplished that could not be accomplished by His life. One was the revelation of God's love. He never gives up trying to reach the offender, for even from the cross Jesus prayed for His executioners, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." (Luke 23:34)

The world today stands in need of the spirit of forgiveness. Nations need to be more understanding, and forgiving toward each other. Christians must seek for reconciliation, even between enemies, that the world may know a greater measure of peace. As we seek reconciliation Jesus says, we think and act more like children of God, for He gives His blessings to the just and unjust, hoping thereby to win the unjust to a relationship of faith and obedience to Himself.

The entertainment party of the afternoon centred around a humorous article by two ladies of River Valley and a song by several ladies of Harts-Rigg.

Lively Discussion Provoked By 'The Comfortable Pew'

The much discussed book "The Comfortable Pew" was the subject of a book report given at the Women's Study Guild on Monday night by Mrs. R. Ellis and Mrs. J. Cochrane.

Mrs. Ellis, in introducing the book, told why it had been written and stated that the author Pierre Berton is not an atheist (one who does not believe in God) nor an agnostic (one who believes that nothing is known of the existence of God), but that he is in the true sense of the word a Christian. Although asked to write the book by the Anglican Church, Mr. Berton wrote about all the major Protestant denominations for he feels that they are all united in the similiarity of the problems they face.

"Although there is much about the church today that I find personally discouraging," says Berton, "one of the several propitious signs is that books like this one can be written, not in the face of Church opposition but under its auspices and even its blessing."

Mrs. Cochrane and Mrs. Ellis outlined the chapters of the book essentially but the lively discussion did not allow the book to be reviewed in its entirety. The remaining chapters were left for the members' reading enjoyment.

The Anglican church is currently preparing a response to 'The Comfortable Pew' and, in the true spirit of dialogue, Mr. Berton is taking an active part.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. S. Elsa who presented a fitting devotional service with the theme 'Let us be transformed through the testimony of Jesus Christ.'

President Mrs. J. Reynolds conducted the business part of the meeting and the hostesses were Mrs. Wylie and Mrs. Fleming.

SPORTS SLICES

The bloodcurdling blade of the hockey guillotine fell with a sickening crash the other day — and another head rolled into the gaping basket.

Likeable Ike Hildebrand was the victim and the executioners who pulled the trigger were the brass of the London Nationals junior "B" club.

Ike coached the Nationals to their league championship a year ago and had piloted them close to the top this year when the front office nabobs decided on the axe treatment.

It seems the London stage coach architects believed they had provided the horse-power sufficient to lead the lop, but Driver Ike was allowing them to loaf in the harness, so to speak.

So true to the traditions of sport they placed the goat-horns of blame on the coach, loaded the tumbril with 156 pounds of Hildebrand and lumbered him off to the place of execution.

Knowing Ike as well as we do, it is difficult to believe that the guy who led one of the best teams ever gathered in Canada to an Allan Cup and world championship, has lost the touch.

As a matter of fact I don't believe it. Last year, if memory is correct, Ike was told if his Nationals won the junior "B" crown, efforts would be made to enter them in Junior "A" company with Ike as the coach.

He took them, as was noted, to their league title but this year as one writer notes, "the likable Ike becomes another burnt offering on the altar of puck fans."

It has been said that players make the coach which is true in most cases but as Peterborough's Cec Perdue notes, " a coach doesn't make the players."

Ike didn't make the 1958-59 McFarlands players. But on not a few occasions he inspired them to sometimes winning heights by drive, spirit and individual efforts. And not from behind the bench but in the midst of the fire and fury that belched when championships were at stake.

The McFarlands like any other gaggle of hockey players were human. They had their off moments. There were times, it seemed, when a top-flight juvenile squad could take their measure. And there were more times when, as by Hildebrand, they rose to heights that marked them as potential world champions.

I worked closely with Ike during the 1959 junket to Europe. He always spoke to me not as a hockey coach seeking headline and story glory for himself but rather as a friend giving breezy accounts of players, teams and situations. He never sough personal glory through the media of publicity.

I'll never forget the final ten minutes of the final game with Czechoslovakia in the 1959 world tournament at Prague. The Mats were down 4-3 with 14,000 victory hungry fans roaring for the win.

The clock ticked off the seconds and Ike pulled Gordie Bell. Then roughly 500 pounds of fighting Canada took the ice. They were Ike, Bart Bradley and Wetner Brown. Their average weight was 156 pounds.

They battled their hearts out to get the equalizer, Ike leading the way. But to no avail and the puck-happy Czechs fired the clincher.

As friend Perdue remarks. "Ike is in good company. He joins other victims of officials and fans opinion. Red Sullivan may go the same way when his Rangers miss NHL playoffs. Billy Reay was fired from the Leafs and it could happen within a year or two to Punch Imlach. Rudy Pilous got the axe in Chicago. Phil Watson and Doug Harvey were canned in New York. Years ago Conn Smythe was given walking papers in Manhatten and Jack Adams was eased out in Detroit."

He has been a credit to both pro and amateur hockey. He gave it all he had even as he did lacrosse in his younger days. To his ever lasting credit he had foresight enough during his top pro days to ready himself for the bigger game of life.

He may have lost his touch but it's going to take more than the London Nationals' brass to convince me.

Wings Tie Marlies 3-3

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Red Wings didn't look much like the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A tail-enders Thursday night.

The Wings, who have won only 12 games out of 51 this season, came from behind a two-goal deficit to hold the second-place Toronto Marlboros to a 3-3 tie.

The tie enabled the third-place Peterborough Petes to come within 10 points of second spot with 29 points after they defeated St. Catharines 4-1 in the other scheduled game.

Stuart Roberts was the St. Catharines marksmen.

Lindsay 'Amazing Athlete'-Campbell

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One old National Hockey League player got a pat on the back Thursday at around the same time that another bunch of old-timers were getting the ache.

League president Clarence Campbell, in an unusual press release, lauded Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings "an amazing athlete."

Campbell said this season's comeback by the 43-year-old Lindsay ranks as "one of the most amazing feats in professional sport."

There was no and to Campbell's praise for Lindsay in contrast to last month when the left-winger and the league president were at each other's throats.

While all this was going on the Toronto Maple Leafs were underground, two tough 70-minute workouts because of their lackluster showing in Wednesday night's 5-1 loss to the lowly Boston Bruins.

King Clancy, Leaf's general manager, said the team failed to register enough "bite."

EXPLAINS "BITE"

Clancy awards a "bit" when a player takes an opponent out of play, either by bodychecking or obstruction, and Leafs got only 90 Wednesday night, Clancy said.

"Any time our hits go below 50 we're in trouble," said Leafs manager Punch Imlach.

"If we're not hitting we're not winning—it's as simple as that."

Top hits registered by the Leafs went as high as 197, in a 3-1 victory over the league-leading Chicago Black Hawks, and 150 in a 6-2 win over Montreal Canadiens.

Campbell's clash with Lindsay in January involved $75 in fines imposed on Lindsay for some post-game comments on the officiating in a Detroit-Toronto game.

The fiery veteran turned Campbell's office a "dangerous court" and said the league would have to take him to court to collect.

WAS SUSPENDED

Campbell declared the comments a direct challenge to his authority and integrity and suspended Lindsay indefinitely.

Lindsay later apologized for his conduct and publicly acknowledged the NHL's president's authority and "complete integrity."

All teams are idle tonight in preparation for the weekend.

Saturday New York Rangers play in Montreal, Boston takes on the Leafs in Toronto and Chicago visits Detroit.

Trenton Blows Lead, Ousted

A six-goal Trenton Winchester blast at a 3-goal lead in the game's final three minutes and dropped a 12-10 decision to the Brockville Merchants in basketball action at the RCAF air station last night.

The game by way of an elimination nature and Brockville earned the right to enter the pro-rata-weekly "Flick-Dell" tournament at Orillia tomorrow.

Brockville, with a well-balanced attack, took an early lead and was in front 27-23 at half time. Wilsons charged back led 43-40 at one time in the second half and with three minutes left appeared to have the game in wraps, leading 70-61.

Then the roof caved in. Brockville scored 12 points without a reply for a 72-70 lead. Trenton gained a basket with three seconds left to leave one point separating the clubs at the end.

Cam Miller was top gun for Brockville with 19 points, followed by Rod Miller and Malone good with 12 apiece and Bob Kyle with 11.

The winners had players from the RCAF Flyers and Belleville Lightfoots in their lineup and they looked after most of the scoring points. Ian Hoobin paced the club with a big 21-point effort. Barry Curtis hooped 13 points, Joe Theriault 12 and Don Smith 10.

The Wilsons will open a total-points, home-and-home OBA Intermediate "C" playdown series against Peterborough in Trenton next Wednesday. Wilsons' Bay of Quinte League game, against Lafftstock, has been postponed that night.

BROCKVILLE MERCHANTS (72): R. Miller 12, D. Reale 5, D. McLellan 4, E. Easter 2, R. Kyle 11, C. Miller 19, Malone good 12, W. White 7.

Fires Four Under Par At Caracas

CARACAS (AP) — Fred Leffingwell of Hattiesburg, Miss., jumped off to a two-stroke lead in the Caracas Open Thursday, firing a four-under-par 66 in the opening round of the third leg of the Caribbean golf tour.

Two strokes behind Leffingwell were Wes Ellis Jr. of West Caldwell, N.J., the current point leader on the tour, and Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., last year's tour champion.

Defending Caracas titleholder George Knudson of Toronto, Henry Williams of Fleetwood, Pa., and Billy Casper of Beckley, W.Va., were third with 68s.

Henry McIlree of Toronto had a 70 after shooting 34 on the front nine and 36 coming home.

Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., had 36-36—72.

Other Canadian scores included: Bob Breen, Woodbridge, Ont., 35-37—72; Al Hignell, Toronto, 36-36—72; Ken Jacobs, Concord, Ont., 36-40—76; Phil Brownlee, Toronto, 42-34—77.

Manitoba Rink Wins 1st Title

By DON ANGUS

HALIFAX (CP) — When the ice is fast, the rink with the most accurate sharpshooters is always at its best.

That's why Peggy Casselman felt confident she would win the Canadian women's curling championship when she led her Winnipeg quartet on to the ice for the final and deciding game here Thursday night.

The Manitoba rink and Alberta, skipped by Dorothy Thompson of Edmonton, had met in the ninth-round of the 10-rink round-robin bonspiel with identical 7-1 records, but Mrs. Casselman took advantage of the keen ice to register a 7-5 win.

It was the first championship for a Manitoba rink since the original "D" Trophy was first donated six years ago.

ALBERTA IS SECOND

The Alberta-bound loss left Alberta in second place at 7-2.

Nova Scotia, skipped by Audrey Thompson and Jarvis, finished third with six wins, while Ontario's Fern Irvin of Toronto was fourth with five victories.

Rinks skipped by Lesley Cmolik of Kelowna, B.C., Sybil MacMillan of Charlottetown, P.E.I., Solange Larouche of Chesaea, Que., and Barbara MacNevin of Delisle, Sask., all tied for fifth place with 4-3 won-lost records.

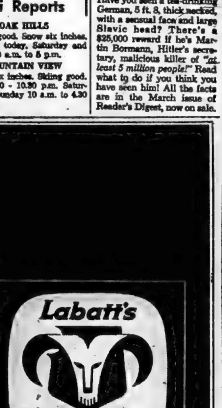
New Brunswick, skipped by Joan Callaghan of Bathurst, followed with two wins, and Newfoundland's Bobbie Fortune of Goose Bay, Labrador, finished last with one win.

The possibility of a tie at the top was eliminated in the eighth round Thursday morning when Alberta walloped Nova Scotia 11-3, and Manitoba posted an even more impressive 17-4 victory over Newfoundland.

The loss dropped Nova Scotia out of the championship race, leaving it with a 6-3 record, and turned the final round into a two-way race between Mrs. Casselman and Mrs. Thompson.

Mrs. Casselman said her strategy was to "make sure they (Alberta) didn't get a big end and try to kill as much as possible."

Mrs. Casselman collected one stone in the opening end and two each in the second and third ends before making it 9-0 after four. Mrs. Thompson came back with two in the fifth and stole another pair in the sixth when the Manitoba rink faltered temporarily, but Alberta could add only a single stone in the remainder of the match.



The Manitoba sharpshooters were accurate enough in the final end to force Alberta to concede without throwing its final rock.

Mrs. Casselman said they were "all really tough games." And she killed the old theory that the West is better than the East by stating that "the competition here was just as tough as back home."

She said the game against Ontario was the toughest of all.

Weather Beats Crothers-Meet Flops

Top Stars Absent

NEW YORK (AP)—The most serious blow to the success of a two-day indoor track and field meet was in Toronto. Or maybe San Francisco. Or perhaps at home in bed.

The outstanding athletic sword in Canada's Knights of Columbus Indoor Games—East York Track Club was not optimistic of Crothers' chances there.

"I have called all over the place trying to find out if this strange looking creature is something new or if catching them is an everyday occurrence, but no one seems to know," commented Mrs. Seamen by phone yesterday.

So says the mud puppy is about a foot long, dark brownish in color, has four legs and a bushy-looking gills growing out of its head which look something like overgrown ears. "That's the best description I can give you," she said, "but then I do not get too close to it."

Mrs. Seamen has four boys who are most interested in "Moses," but then so is the family cat. The cat, called "Willie" keeps a close eye on the baby bath containing "Moses", so someone has to keep a close watch on both.

"If it is enough of an oddity, I could get "Moses" entered in the Science Fair, but if not, I'm all for turning him into cat food so I can make better use of my baby bath," chides Mrs. Seamen.

FED SCRAMBLED EGGS

One of the Seamen boys looks after the feeding and cleaning of "Moses" about once a week, after making an aquarium mentions the use of scrambled eggs for the feeding of mud puppies.

So, "Moses" is thriving on a diet of minnows and scrambled eggs.

Mrs. Seamen did learn from the Department of Lands and Forests that mud puppies grow from about one inch to one foot. That "Moses" must be a full grown member of his species. "But the man at the department was unable to tell me if they are rare around here or not," said the puzzled Mrs. Seamen.

A Belleville fisherman, queried on the matter here yesterday afternoon, said that there are some mud puppies in a district waters, including local lakes and the Bay of Quinte.

"You won't see too many of them but they are caught," he said, "as a matter of fact the Bay of Quinte lakes north of here last summer and threw him back in," he added.

That doesn't sound too healthy for "Moses," but it could mean a good meal for "Willie."

CFL Players Missed Chance In 1960

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Sports-page readers for the last week or so have had their eyeballs strained with all sorts of opinions about the Canadian Football League's legislation restricting each of its nine teams to three naturalized U.S.-born Canadians.

Players and officials have had their say and there have been some interesting—and naive—comments about it.

For instance, Sam Berger of Ottawa, immediate past-president of the CFL, said he hated to think that some American-born players changed to Canadian citizenship "just to make money." No one is bidding anybody on that subject.

And while at it, Mr. Berger could have mentioned the great glee exhibited by club officials when established American pros decided to become Canadians. That opened up a spot for one more import and this was a bonanza to clubs.

An interesting item was that Dick Shatto, Toronto Argonaut halfback and one of the players who would be affected by the CFL rule, was spearheading a move to set up a players' association.

HERE'S 1960 CHANCE

Shatto said he had mailed letters to all Argonaut players and that players from two other clubs were getting in touch with their team - mates along the same lines.

But where were Shatto and the others in 1960 when Ottawa Rough Riders, with Bobby Simpson, Garry Schreiber and George Brancato spearheading the drive, called a halt to players association in Ottawa? They wanted the other eight CFL clubs to get in on it and make it a national association, but Argonauts and the others weren't interested.

That 1960 deal wasn't a spur-of - the - moment decision. The subject matter was brought up in Montreal in 1957 before the East-West all-star Shrine game. The Rough Riders laid the groundwork for their association then with a silly bit that two Cup finalists should receive only $500 a man, exclusive of when gross receipts were more than $400,000.

CUP PAY BOOSTED

They said at the time it didn't make sense for a $1,000-a-game man to receive only $300 a game if he was part of a good enough to make the playoffs in the East and West and $500 if his club advanced to the Cup final.

Simpson, most outspoken of the Ottawa players, had this to say:

"We are getting salary cuts because we're good enough to get into the playoffs. We are businessmen, and that to us isn't sound business."

Rough Riders' comments on players' payments eventually got to CFL officials and now players on the winning Cup team receive $1,250 each and players on the losing club get $750.

The Ottawa players' association simply was a bargaining group. Simpson and Schreiber were named to represent their team-mates in meeting with management on payment for exhibition games, travel, accommodation, public appearances and training camp conditions.

Now, a national players association could be a big thing. Maybe—if it ever got off the ground—it could get the CFL going on a sounder basis. They have it in the National Hockey League, major league baseball and in the National and American Football Leagues in the U.S.

It's a pity the other clubs didn't go along with the Rough Riders five years ago.

Nationals Reach Russia

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP) — Canada's touring hockey players arrived here Thursday for a three-game series against Russia that will help set the stage for next month's world tournament in Tampere, Finland.

The Canadian team, with three or more players who will take part in the Tampere championships, brought to Moscow a 3-3 won-lost record on exhibition games in Finland and Sweden.

They defeated the Finns two straight and the Swedes once in three games.

The team, built around last year's Allan Cup-winning Winnipeg Maroons, is a second platoon of the national team which will play for world honors in Finland March 4-14.

The first team leaves Canada for Finland this weekend.

The Canadians are expected to meet a combination of Russian national team and second-string team players in games here today and Sunday. Third game in the series is scheduled for Leningrad Monday.

Coach Gord Stanley said reporters that goalkeeper Don Collins, defenceman Bill Johnson and defenceman Garry Begg will join the Canadian world tournament team after they finish playing here. One or two others of the second-platoon team may also travel to Finland. The rest will return to Canada.

Simpson expressed confidence that Canada will make a good showing at Tampere. "We should be able to get second place at least," he said. "And I think that on a good day we should be able to beat the Russians."

Russia is the present world and Olympic title-holder.

Quinte Hockey League

SACO outlasted Herlock Electrics 8-7 and Tee-Hear Daubers nipped Rossmore 3-0 as the Quinte Hockey League semi-final playoffs got under way last night.

Rossmore and Tee-Hear played two scoreless periods before the winners netted the game's only goals in the final chapter.

Hubert Pointer was the Tee-Hear hero, triggering both goals. Al Ruttan assisted on the first one and Jack Donovan on the clincher.

The other game was just the opposite, with goals to spare. SACO led 7-2 after one beat and 7-6 after two.

Art Delisle fanned the winners four goals including both third-frame markers. Other goals went to Doug Forsythe, Doug Halsam, Don Forsythe and Stan Woodcock. Gary Genereaux drew three assists, Ken Forsythe two, Hallam, Larry Potter, Lucas, D. Forsythe and Graham Burris one each.

Don Stewart netted three goals and an assist for Herlocks, but Gary Little was top point man with one goal and five assists. Ron Burrows had a goal and assists, Jim Campbell and Bill Hill a goal each, Ray Lucas, Bob Wannamaker, Bill Nolan and LeRoy McBride an assist apiece.

NHL President Says

TV, Sponsor Expansion 'Must'

TORONTO (CP) — Clarence Campbell, insisting he was not speaking in his official capacity as president of the National Hockey League, said Thursday a hockey TV contract with a dedicated sponsor or a television network is a necessity before the league can expand.

"A short-term deal with a sponsor or network would be the answer," he told a luncheon meeting of the Variety Club.

"It would give the same interest willing to stake its money on hockey — in the service of hockey itself. That's the only way I can see the expansion of hockey.

"The NHL can be basically described as a successful operation there would have to be justification for expansion."

Pointing out the disadvantages of expansion, Campbell said teams now are playing to 95 - per - cent capacity crowds and would play no more games if the league were expanded.

In addition, teams would have to stretch their talent to cover the additional teams in the league.

"To summarize: You can't increase earnings and you don't improve the show."

Meet Mud-Puppy "Moses"

Science fair or cat food, which will be the fate of "Moses"?

"Moses" is a mud puppy currently resting in a baby bath tub owned by Mrs. Margaret Seamen, of Plainfield, and "Moses" was brought to her home while fishing on Lake Consecon last weekend.

"I have called all over the place trying to find out if this strange looking creature is something new or if catching them is an everyday occurrence, but no one seems to know," commented Mrs. Seamen by phone yesterday.

So says the mud puppy is about a foot long, dark brownish in color, has four legs and a bushy-looking gills growing out of its head which look something like overgrown ears. "That's the best description I can give you," she said, "but then I do not get too close to it."

Bettor, 70 Takes Home $108,242.40

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A 70-year-old retired uniform shop owner who has been playing the horses for decades won $108,242.40 Thursday on the twin double at Hialeah.

But he wouldn't say whether the winner put him ahead of the game or not.

The winner added that his names not be used because he said he was afraid of robbers. He said he handicaps and bets the horses scientifically.

"I have a record of every bet, every winner, every loser," he said. "Sometimes it's a very expensive hobby, and sometimes, like now, it's a very pleasurable one."

The retired businessman, who also won a $75,000 twin double at Tropical last year, said he is opposed to twin doubles. "I like to bet on horses in one race," he said. "That was real horse racing."

'Did Next To Impossible'

'Old Scarface' NHL Top Left Winger

By BILL NEVILLE

MONTREAL (CP) — NHL president Clarence Campbell, who threatened last month to fine Ted Lindsay out of the league, lauded the Detroit Red Wing veteran Thursday as "an amazing athlete."

In an unusual press release from National Hockey League headquarters, Campbell said this season's comeback by the 40-year-old Lindsay ranks as "one of the most amazing feats in professional sport."

He added: "I know I was among the many knowledgeable hockey people who expressed scepticism when it was first announced that Lindsay would try a comeback after being away from the game for four years. But now I know I was wrong.

"Lindsay has done what I thought was next to impossible."

The praise, contained in a review of Lindsay's NHL career compiled by NHL publicist Ron Andrews, had a far different sound to those exchanged between Campbell and the Red Wing left winger early in January.

Lindsay, at that time, set off a brief, but heated, controversy by refusing to pay $25 in fines assessed him following some post - game comments on the officiating in a Detroit-Toronto contest. The fiery veteran then termed Campbell's office a "kangaroo court" and said the league would have to take him to court to collect the money.

Campbell announced Jan. 6 that Lindsay had been suspended indefinitely. Within two hours, however, the suspension was lifted after the player signed a Campbell - drafted letter apologizing for his conduct and publicly acknowledging the NHL president's authority and complete integrity."

Thursday's press release made no reference to this incident, nor did it offer any comment on Lindsay's general attitude toward league authority.

But it was laden with praise for his on-the-ice performance.

Andrews, who issues regular statistical rundowns on individual NHL stars, said he used the comment of Campbell, for the first time in such a release because of the president's pre-season doubts over Lindsay's comeback bid. He said the release had "nothing whatsoever" to do with the January controversy.

Andrews' statistics showed that Lindsay's 13 goals thus far this season have raised his career total to 378, ranking him third in league history behind super-stars Gordie Howe and Maurice Richard. He is No. 1 among NHL left wingers.

Lindsay entered the league in 1944 — Detroit's current netminder Roger Crozier was two years old at the time — and scored his first goal Nov. 2 of that year. He has gone on to pump 377 more past 32 different goalies, including 37 winning goals and 20 tying ones.

The NHL release also notes that Lindsay retained his "fiery temper" throughout his 1,052 NHL games. He has 131 minutes in penalties this season — third highest in the league — and holds the all-time career record in this department with 1,706 minutes.

Curling Championship

Most Of 'Old Guard' Absent

By JOHN SHORT

SASKATOON (CP)—A group of precocious newcomers have combined to sweep almost all of the old guard out of the 1965 Canadian curling championships that open here Monday.

Most notable absentee is Ernie Richardson of Regina, who has skipped Saskatchewan representatives to a record four national crowns. Richardson and his family rink were eliminated in city competition and will be replaced on the firing line by Harold Worth and his rink from Delisle, Sask.

Canadian and world champion Lyall Dagg of British Columbia will not be back to defend his 1965 titles—but he has an excuse. Dagg received a lucrative promotion in his Vancouver public relations post and was forced to step out of high-level curling.

He will be replaced by Jack Arnett of Port Alberni, skip of a University of British Columbia rink. Arnett, 25, is the youngest skip and heads the youngest quartet, with an average age of 23.

Joining Dagg and Richardson on the sidelines are two other 1964 western representatives, Ron Northcott of Alberta and Brian Hudson of Manitoba. Northcott and his Calgary rink bowed to Nick Lashuk of Calgary in the southern Alberta playoffs and Hudson and his Winnipeg mates were frustrated by Terry Braunstein's Winnipeg crew.

Lashuk actually collected two of the province's prominent curlers. He replaced Hec Gervais of Edmonton, 1961 Dominion champion, in the Alberta final.

Carrying experience as a major weapon to attempt to combat youthful rivals are the Ray Grassie rink of Unionville, Ont., and the perennial Prince Edward Island representative Doug Cameron of Charlottetown.

Cameron will be making his sixth jaunt to the final. Grant, who replaces 1965 Ontario entrant Bob Mann of Toronto, has made two previous trips.

Braunstein, despite his youth, has a distinguished career in the national final. He represented Manitoba in 1953 and caused insertion of a new rule into Dominion Curling Association annals.

All members of his rink were high school students, and a rule was passed barring high school students from future Dominion finals. The Braunstein rink wound up with an 8-3 record as Matt Baldwin of Alberta won his third national crown, after nipping Braunstein in a playoff.

Lead Ray Turnbull and second Ron Braunstein were members of that 1953 Manitoba quartet and are back again this year.

The draw will be announced here Sunday afternoon.

NORTHERN BANKS

The number of commercial banks in Norway has been reduced through mergers to 32 in 1964 from 192 29 years ago and there have been 32 savings bank mergers during the last two years.

HOW YOUR BELLEVILLE BRANCH RED CROSS DOLLARS WERE SPENT IN 1964

The Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society Ontario Division is a partner with the Belleville United Appeal and receives one of the largest amounts of monies distributed each year to the Participating Agencies of the Belleville United Appeal.

At Campaign time many people are of the opinion that the largest portion of the money received by Red Cross is sent out of Belleville. This is not true.

It is true however, that because Red Cross is a National and International Organization, that Branches are expected to send to their Provincial Division a fair portion of the money they receive to support National and International Red Cross. In 1964 Belleville Red Cross sent away $2,000-00 for this purpose out of the $11,901.00 received from the United Appeal.

HOMEMAKERS SERVICES $19,970. This entire sum was paid in earnings to our Women Homemakers and Supervisor in Belleville. Against this expenditure we received $15,100. for services rendered to people in Belleville and in the County of Hastings.

BLOOD DONOR SERVICE $1521. This is all spent in Belleville primarily to Food Stores and Dairies for refreshments at the Clinics. To unemployed men working at the Clinics, and Radio and Newspaper Advertising.

DISASTER SERVICES $943. This was all spent in local stores for new clothing and bedding for victims of Fire Disasters. This money is all refunded to Belleville by Ontario Red Cross. We assisted some 34 families during 1964.

LOAN CUPBOARD $510. This is spent on the purchase of Hospital Beds, Wheel Chairs, Walkers, and Crutches which are loaned on request at no charge to any person needing them within the limits of our supply. In all 125 people were assisted during the year.

INDIVIDUAL EMERGENCY AID $719. This was all spent for Food, Drugs, Clothing, Temporary Shelter, medical and dental assistance and many things on an emergency basis only to assist 24 families and some individuals.

WOMEN'S WORK $708. This was all spent for wool and material for our women volunteer workers to knit 103 pairs of socks, 109 children's sweaters with socks, 20 pairs of mitts. Also to make 21 tropical dresses, boys' shirts, overalls, layettes, 12 quilts and many other articles of clothing. This clothing is sent to Toronto Red Cross for relief and disaster services anywhere in Canada or in the World where it is needed most.

HOME NURSING $87. This was for a twelve week Red Cross Home Nursing Class from which 10 members of the class were presented with certificates and badges.

WATER SAFETY $116. This was spent locally during the Belleville Water Safety Week, to encourage and assist Water Safety in this area.

Rent, Administration and Publicity expenses amounting to $1,011. all spent locally makes up the remainder of our total expenditures of $27,585. for the year 1964.

Far outweighing the $2,000. we sent to Ontario Red Cross was a gift from Toronto Red Cross to the Citizens of Belleville and District through the Belleville General Hospital of 3523 bottles of life saving whole blood during 1964 which cannot be assessed in terms of money.

Turley Tries Comeback

Ford Flipper On Mend

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Whitey Ford and Bob Turley pitched together with New York Yankees for eight years. During that time, each won the Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in the major leagues.

Now, playing in different leagues, they again find themselves in similar circumstances.

Ford is trying to prove his valuable left arm is sound while Turley attempts a comeback, after a year's absence, with Houston Astros.

The 36-year-old Ford developed a vascular problem that created arm trouble in the final month last season. He underwent surgery to correct the difficulty during the off-season and now faces a test in spring training.

THROWS A LITTLE

He threw lightly for six minutes in the Yankees' first drill Thursday, then said:

"My arm feels all right, but this was just loosening up. I'll be able to tell more after I pitch to hitters. I'll throw harder each day, but I might skip a day. I believe I'll be able to throw regular pitches hard after a week or so."

Turley, whose 21-7 record in 1958 earned him the Cy Young honor, indicated Thursday he is pleased with his comeback efforts to date. The 34-year-old right hander has no contract with Houston but has been working out with the Astros since Feb. 15.

"I'm really happy because I'd rather be with Paul Richards Houston general manager than anyone I know because he has done so much for veteran pitchers," said Turley, who coached with Boston Red Sox in 1964.

"The first time he saw me this spring, he came up after three pitches and told me I was stopping my motion when I reared back. That's something I have been doing wrong the last three years. Nobody else spotted it, and it's difficult to correct your own faults."

Another sore-armed pitcher, Ernie Broglio of Chicago Cubs, also tested his arm Thursday and said: "I threw every pitch I have, and my elbow didn't hurt a bit."

North Shore Hockey League

Proctor Silex dumped Melville Shorsliners 6-3 and Albury edged Cherry Valley 6-5 in a pair of Prince Edward North Shore Hockey League games played at Wellington last night.

A fight marred the Albury-Cherry Valley game when Brummell, of the losers, drew a major penalty while Pete Mitchell, of Albury, got a major and a game misconduct. A league meeting will be held to deal with the matter and at least one suspension is expected, according to league spokesman Norm Potts.

That game was tied 1-1 after one period and Albury held a slim 3-1 edge going into the third, when both sides scored four goals.

Reg Ell paced Albury with two goals and two assists while Billy Generaux and John Brereton each collected one goal and two helpers. Wally Island and George Daniels also scored.

Perry Haddock had two goals and an assist for Cherry Valley. Roger Brummell also scored twice and Les Pendleton got a goal and assist.

Proctor Silex led all the way against Melville. It was 1-0 and 4-1 by periods. There were seven penalties in this game, 12 in all in the other.

Bob Hefferman fired two goals and assisted on another for the winners. Morris Weeks also scored a pair, Jim Hicks had one and Bud Courtney added the other goal.

Defeat BCI 64-53

Moira Jrs. Win Opener

By DAVID TEMPLER

In the first of the two game, total points series for the COSSA Bay of Quinte Junior championship last night, Moira out-played their Collegian hosts 64-53. This gives them an eleven point edge in the final game next Thursday. The winners will go to the COSSA finals in Oshawa two weeks from Saturday.

The Moira Bantams tied BCI 25-25 in an even cage duel. The winner of next Thursday's game will be the Belleville bantam cage representatives to Oshawa.

In the junior game the very dextrous and agile Bob Watson hooped 21 points. Watson's aggressiveness made up for his lack of height as he consistently snatched rebounds from the hands of his opponents. Watson's compliment, Dave Beresford, contributed his skill in the passing and screening department as well as scoring 16 points himself. Dave McCrea, playing one of his best all around games this season hit for 17 points. Other Moira scorers were Clarke (5), Bantling (3), and Hayman (2).

For BCI Juniors, a Trojan nose defence held them to 3 points in the second quarter while Moira scored 12. BCI never regained this lead. The scorers for BCI were Chalmers (18), Bolduc (13), Lacuk (11), McCreary (10), and Sheridan (3).

In the bantam game evenly matched teams clashed to produce a 25 all tie. No team led by more than a margin of two points throughout the game.

For Moira Ted Beresford played a fine game and scored 12 points. The other scorers were Larue (8), Bishop (7), Loder (4), and Probert (4).

For BCI Drum and Cass were dominant offensively, while Shea played well under his own boards. Drum scored thirteen, Cass (10), Shea (8), Riddley (3) and Hisser (1).

Seattle Defeats Blades 3-1

The 29 - year - old Holmes, a hockey professional for the past 11 years, didn't share in the scoring, but teammates Gayle Fielder, Bob Barlow and Gerry Leonard each scored goals in the opening period.

Picton Star Racks Up Six Goals

Haddock scored six goals and assisted on two others as the Merchants whipped the Trenton Apple Kings 9-3.

The win evened their three-of-five, or apparently four-of-seven if time permits, series at one game each.

Next two games of the affair are scheduled for the Cobourg arena tonight and Monday.

In the other half of the semi-finals, Gananoque Islanders whipped Napanee Legion 9-2 in Gananoque. The Islanders lead that set two games to one. Next action will be in Napanee on Monday night.

Haddock scored three times in the first period, twice in the second and once in the third during his one-man scoring blitz. Adding a goal each for Picton were Ron Riley, Billy Hopkins and George Bullagershaw.

Tommy Oliver netted two Apple King goals with Terry Holeldon firing the other.

Trenton outshot Picton 42-32 but the losers were never in contention. The Merchants led 4-0 after one heat and 6-2 at the end of the second period.

Despite the very bad weather conditions, a good-sized crowd took in the game and gave the Merchants plenty of vocal support.

There were 18 penalties in the contest, all minors with the exception of one misconduct. There were no fights.

Stan Laurel Never Acted After Death of Partner

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The passing of Stan Laurel Tuesday underscored one of Hollywood's most notable failings: Neglect of its heroes.

The eulogies detailed the contribution made to the screen by Laurel and his rotund partner, Oliver Hardy. Theirs was a classic partnership.

They had what is now known in the trade as a one-joke act—the mousey little fellow who was always ensnaring the big blusterer in trouble. But that one joke was good for 27 feature movies and more than 100 shorts.

But for the last dozen years of their partnership, they were unable to find work in Hollywood.

When the movie jobs stopped coming, neither was a rich man. They had earned good money, but their wealth had been dissipated by lavish living and expensive marriages. They had to make personal appearances in Europe, where they were still remembered fondly. Then came television. Their old films were sold to TV—the two comics never realized a cent from the sales—and Laurel and Hardy were more popular than in their movie heyday.

But ill health intervened. Both suffered strokes; Hardy's was fatal in 1957.

Always a shy man, Laurel became timid after the stroke that partially paralyzed his left side. Following Hardy's death, he said he would never act again. He never did.

He lived out his years in a beach apartment at Malibu, Calif., and later in a hotel on The Palisades at Santa Monica, Calif. Honors came to him, notably an honorary Oscar followed by a photograph and greeting from president John F. Kennedy.

Stan didn't lack for company. Many of the recent comers—including Dick Van Dyke, Jerry Lewis and Peter Sellers—made pilgrimages to discuss comedy with him.

Hollywood's neglect in their final performing years had one ironical blessing. It gave Laurel and Hardy the chance to become real friends.

Stan once reflected after his partner's passing: "It's a strange thing, but we really got to know each other only in the last years of his life. When we were making pictures together, we never saw each other off the set. As soon as a picture was finished, he'd go his way and I'd go mine. . . .

"We both had our own circle of friends, our own interests. Babe liked golf and horses; I liked fish, but when we were out of pictures and touring Europe, we had to be together much of the time—in theatres, hotels, on trains. That's when we got to know each other intimately.

"We liked and respected each other, and I'm glad our partnership ended that way."

Municipalities Free to Plan Own Projects

PICTON (Staff) — The various municipalities in Prince Edward are now free to plan their own recreation projects and the idea of one county project has been abandoned.

It is pointed out that requests should be submitted by March 31st.

Popular suggestions for Picton have been on the park idea or as an addition to the Public Library.

Centennial officials frown upon ideas which are designed to provide necessary municipal services in this manner to keep the tax rate down. They stress the need of something which will remain as a memorial to Canada's 100th birthday.

TV WORLDWIDE

The U.S. TV network, NBC, has sold its Bonanza series to 58 different countries out of the 90 to which it has made sales of all types of TV programs.

Fine Comedy Play Given By Students

PICTON (Staff) — Hilarious comedy and good acting are featured in a three-act play presented at Picton Thursday night. The play put on by students of the Prince Edward Collegiate Institute drew a good crowd despite the very bad weather and a major hockey game being played at the same time.

The play, a well-known comedy, kept the audience on the edges of their chairs to see what might be coming next. The acting is under the direction of Mrs. Agnes Rose, who has done a wonderful job of whipping the actors into shape in a very short time. Mrs. Rose is a member of the teaching staff of P.E.C.I. The story concerns a large eccentric American family of which every member believes in behaving just as the spirit moves him. The "way out" grandfather (played by Bill Gallagher) who does not believe in paying income tax rules the roost in one of the maddest living rooms one could imagine. In this living room plays are written, meals are eaten, snakes collected, ballet practised, xylophone played, printing presses operated, portraits painted; in fact, if the room were large enough there would no doubt be a skating rink.

The students obviously have received a lot of enjoyment from putting on the play. It is very evident by the acting also that they have received good direction. Those who are fortunate enought to see this play on Friday night are in for a very amusing evening.

Chamber Plans Active Program In Coming Year

AT THE PARK — Steve McQueen stars with Lee Remick and Don Murray in the new Columbia Pictures drama, "Baby The Rain Must Fall," showing tonight and Saturday evening at the Park Theatre, produced by Alan J. Pakula and directed by Robert Mulligan, the makers of "To Kill a Mocking Bird". Horton Foote wrote the screenplay. On the same program for your added enjoyment "Two Tickets to Paris" Both hits tonight 7.00 - 9.00 p.m. Saturday Special Matinee show for children Saturday, starts at 1.00 p.m. Doors open 12.30 p.m.

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce plans an active program covering many fields of promotion of the interests of town and county.

The new directors met this week to name chairmen of the various committees and chairmen will call their own members. President Jay Hepburn presided.

One of the committees is devoted to preparation of a county leaflet and brochure, supplemental that issued by Quinte Isle Tourist Association. This brochure would advertise the attractions of the county in general, without advertising, and could thus be distributed on a wider scale. Those interested in the county as a vacation spot could write in for the Quinte Association folder with its list of accommodation.

Those named to this committee were Jack Evans, Howard Mallett, Phil Dodds, L. Thompson, Gordon Thorne, Jack Coldren, Geo. Cheeseman, Milton Fennell.

Other committee heads are: Businessmen, Jack Colden; Civic Affairs, Don Thompson; Industrial Planning and Development, Jay Hepburn; Roads, Bridge, Harbors, Barney Hepburn; Agriculture, Ian Bell; Historical, Phil Dodds; Membership, Geo. Shipman; Special Events, Garry Harris, Bill Smith; Budget, Al Pearce; Tourism, Bill Smith; Fishing derby, Jay Hepburn.

It was decided to make a strong appeal for memberships. George Shipman stressed that tourism benefited merchants generally to a much greater extent than it does those who provide accommodation. He felt tourists had given town business a real boost last year.

Bill Smith outlined proposals of Q.I.T.A., these yet to be finalized but indicating increased effort to attract more tourists to the county.

Windfall

ed the $2,00,00,00 orebody for Texas Gulf Sulphur near Timmins and Kidd Creek has since left Texas Gulf and in self-employed. He will be represented at the hearings by lawyer Frank Nasso of Timmins.

An estimated 60 witnesses will be called by the commission which will hold its hearings in four phases.

Phase one will focus on the Timmins area, the staking of Windfall and the drilling of Windfall and the drilling of the property.

Phase two, with the hearings in Toronto beginning around March 22, will detail the structure of the group of companies headed by Viola MacMillan, wife of Windfall President George MacMillan. It will also examine the conduct and duties of Windfall's directors and management.

Phase three will examine the stock market action of Windfall shares and attempt to discover how much trading was done by the public and professional traders.

Phase four will examine the sale and function of the OSC and TSE.

Mr. Kelly said the hearings will be open. However, the p may be held in camera if he is satisfied that a person's safety or reputation could be unjustifiably harmed by a public hearing.

TO FLY THE JACK
TORONTO (CP) — The Union Jack will continue to fly over Pioneer Village in Toronto. No political implications are meant, K. G. Higgs, director of the Toronto and Region Conservation Authority, said in an interview. The Union Jack flies merely to keep intact the atmosphere of the pre-Confederation era, reconstructed in Pioneer Village.

Kampus Kapers — The Oldest, Youngest Show is Here Again!

The oldest show with the youngest cast is back on the boards again.

It's "Kampus Kapers" — the annual stage revue that highlights the extra-curricular year at Belleville Collegiate.

The show opens tonight with the recipe of fun, frolic, music and dance that has now become traditional.

This is not to say the show is always the same. Each year sees a distinctive production—and this one's no different.

There's lots of music with the school band this year turning in a highly-polished performance. However, the individual also receives emphasis in a number of acts like Rose Marie Freeman (left) and Joan Wringe in the picture on the right.

Dance numbers, both solo and company, are also dispersed throughout the show. Added highlights of action and color are such acts as the Hawaiian number, with (above left), Judy Robinson, Janice Rooney and Carolyn Chisholm.

Or there's her freshman fun like the act (above right). Something of an in-joke against BCI staff, but, nonetheless, cleverly done, is this number before the curtains with Grant Sprague, Brian Burley, Jim Slavin and Andrew Binglet.

U.S. Will Do Business With 'Manageable Mess' in Viet Nam in Face of Coups

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON (AP)—Although they dislike the continuing political chaos, U.S. officials in Viet Nam appear to be prepared to continue business as usual even if there are many more coups. It is all part of what some U.S. policymakers have described as a "manageable mess."

In many ways, South Viet Nam is politically similar to a medieval feudal state. The ruler, whoever he may be, rules by the grace of his powerful barons, whom he must play off against each other.

Vietnamese barons are not necessarily military field commanders. They may be civilian politicians with certain forces at their disposal, they may be religious bloc leaders, or they may belong to a specialty of Viet Nam—the armed religious sect.

Two of these armed sects, the Hoa Hao and the Cao Dai, claim support of around 4,000,000 persons among the population of 14,000,000.

MOST STAY FRIENDS

Most of the military barons remain fairly good friends, even when they plot and make coups against one another. Most of them went through the same military schools and fought the same campaigns. Most are anti-Communist.

A really central direction of the Vietnamese armed forces is nearly impossible under these circumstances. For a year, the recently-ousted Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh was a cotter pin holding the barons more or less together by dint of diplomacy and insight into their relative strengths and weaknesses.

Strong groups within the army, the religions and the Vietnamese people as a whole have pushed for an openly anti-American policy. Khanh served as a sort of stopgap between these groups and the Americans. He ended up by being disliked and distrusted by many on both sides.

Some Vietnamese fear that with Khanh gone extremists will take over, ripping what little stability is left in the country.

NEW UPSETS LIKELY

More power plans within the general staff itself are likely, particularly among the clique of officers known as the "Young Turks."

Two in particular are rivals—Brig.-Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, the air force commander, and Brig.-Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, governor of central Viet Nam.

Bitterness among north, central and south Vietnamese is likely to fan the flames of conflict.

Estimate Red China's Army at 2,150,000 Men

TAIPEI (AP)—There is an old saying that if you want to find the truth about someone it is best to ask an enemy.

Here are the estimates of Communist China's military strength and of her troop dispositions by top military men of Nationalist China, Peking's bitterest foe:

Red China has a land army of 2,150,000 men, scaled down from 2,500,000 by a 1964 reorganization. It possesses a land militia of about 40,000,000 in various stages of training and morale, but, generally speaking, inadequately armed with inferior weapons.

Its air force of between 2,600 and 2,700 planes includes Ilyushin 28 bombers, MIG-15, MIG-17 and MIG-19 fighters. Reports that China has acquired Russian MIG-21s come from defectors who themselves have not seen them.

Its navy is small, about 1,000 small vessels, although there is an old British cruiser, the former Chungking, sunk once and refloated. The total tonnage is 200,000 and is no match for the U.S. fleet. Pride of the navy is a force of 30 submarines, donated by the Soviet Union.

China has exploded an atom bomb but its armed forces do not have atomic weapons. No clear delivery systems, even of the intermediate range which could menace Formosa, are at least five years away.

Though China's armed forces are probably the world's biggest, danger spots keep them scattered to remote areas of a vast country.

Only 170,000 regular troops are in the Southwest China region, close to Communist North Viet Nam. This figure has not changed appreciably in recent months. Seventy planes are based in Kunming, close to the border; 70 more are on Hainan Island, facing North Viet Nam.

The Soviet threat keeps seven to eight of the army's 30 corps, a total of 440,000 men, pinned down in Manchuria and 170,000 in Sinkiang, on the other side of China.

Formosa ties down 1,000,000 men on the southeast coastal sector, 400,000 of them facing Chiang Kai-shek's island redoubt.

In lofty Tibet, where Buddhist resistance still continues, 100,000 regulars and 50,000 local militia are trying to keep the roof from blowing off the top of the world.

All this adds up to an impressive array of men and military hardware, particularly for Asia. But the Nationalist assert their Red compatriots exercise prudence as far as becoming militarily committed.

BURNED-OUT STREET — Fire Friday wiped out the main business street of Aylmer, Ont., 10 miles east of St. Thomas. A truck containing propane gas was being pushed by a gas and fuel oil truck when the explosion ripped through about 15 buildings. (CP Wirephoto)

Explosion, Fire Destroy 18 Buildings In Aylmer

AYLMER, Ont. (CP) — The main street of this town of 4,600 was turned into a blazing fury Friday when a tanker truck carrying 6,500 gallons of liquid propane exploded, sending flames roaring through buildings on either side.

Eighteen buildings housing stores, business offices and apartments were wiped out as the Talbot Street blaze raged out of control for nearly three hours. A fireman knocked unconscious by the blast and a truck driver who suffered burned hands and face burns were the only casualties.

Early estimates placed the damage as high as $1,000,000.

Eyewitnesses said one of the series of explosions that rocked the area occurred seconds after the driver of the truck, Elmer Humphries, crawled under the tank to make certain the emergency valves were closed.

Humphries' wife, whose truck was carrying a load of fuel and stove oil, said all he saw was a sheet of flame erupting between his truck and the tanker.

Almost 500 persons watched the blaze eat its way through the business section of the street, main artery of this town 10 miles east of St. Thomas and part of Highway 3. At the peak of the blaze, witnesses said, flames leaped 500 feet into the air, obscuring the sun with dense black smoke.

At least three parked vehicles were destroyed. Another was crushed by falling bricks.

At least three families who lived above burned-out stores were left homeless. A Red Cross official was sent to the town from St. Thomas to aid them.

The blaze disrupted both telegraph and telephone service. The Canadian National Telegraphs office, housed in a travel agency office, was destroyed. No emergency telephone service was available in the town for several hours.

One of the bystanders, Robert Deryk, said he "could feel the heat searing my face a block away."

I was going into a store to call the fire department. The store proprietor started burning — I don't know what touched it off — while I was still phoning."

He said he directed firemen to wet down the truck to cool the propane but soon "the safety valves on the top blew and flames were shooting high into the air."

Parker, whose truck was carrying a load of fuel and stove oil, said all he saw was a sheet of flame erupting between his truck and the tanker.

Almost 500 persons watched the blaze eat its way through the business section of the street, main artery of this town 10 miles east of St. Thomas and part of Highway 3. At the peak of the blaze, witnesses said, flames leaped 500 feet into the air, obscuring the sun with dense black smoke.

Ontario Is Back to Normal After Round-clock Digging

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Most of Ontario was getting back to normal today after round-the-clock snow removal efforts which followed Thursday's record-breaking snowfall.

Lighter winds had reduced the drifting which Friday dumped more snow back on many freshly cleared roads, but many Ontario roads were covered with ice or packed snow.

Milder temperatures were expected today and Sunday. Light snow was predicted for northern areas and a few flurries in the southern part of the province.

The snow had one pleasant side effect for motorists.

Transport Minister Irwin Haskett extended to Wednesday from Sunday the last day for obtaining 1965 licence plates, so drivers could comply with an earlier government request to add clean-up crews by staying off the roads.

Parry Sound got 30 inches of snow and Windsor a record 17 inches Thursday. Most other communities were blanketed by between 15 and 20 inches, while gusts up to 80 miles per hour produced heavy drifting.

North Bay got 21 inches, which piled into drifts up to 10 feet deep.

The storm was blamed for 13 deaths in the province—nine apparently caused by heart attacks and four by traffic accidents. Four of the heart deaths were in Windsor.

In Pembroke, forestry department officials said the 22-inch snowfall could prove disasterous for deer herds in the upper Ottawa Valley.

Snow levels in the area's bush, which includes Algonquin Park and Renfrew County, are estimated at more than 30 inches. Depths of over 20 inches are considered "severe" for wintering deer.

Warns Community Colleges Must Not Ape Universities

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's proposed community colleges should not become "arrested universities," says Claude Bissell, president of the University of Toronto and chairman of the committee of presidents of provincially - assisted universities and colleges of Ontario.

In his annual report as president of the university, he reiterated the committee's stand in its report on community colleges submitted last week to Education Minister William Davis which recommended the establishment of a province-wide network of 30 such colleges.

"The presidents strongly believe," Mr. Bissell said, "that such colleges should be alternative to universities, not parallel to them; they should have a strong vocational and technological bias."

This, he said, "does not rule out the study in liberal arts subjects. Indeed, for professional training in such areas as journalism and dramatic arts, the humanities and social sciences would be central."

He said in the Ryerson Polytechnical Institute (in Toronto) a superb model of the kind of studies that an institution can quickly obtain if it formulates its goal clearly and does not get succumb by degrees to a passion for superior status."

Nor should community college become a back door into universities, he said.

"The normal route to universities must be through the liberal preparatory year (Grade 13) in high school."

Doctors May Shun Taking Risks if Probes Plentiful

HAMILTON (CP) — Ontario doctors may refuse to give first aid because of fear of risks in the future if their judgments are constantly subjected to courtroom analysis, the province's supervising coroner warned Friday.

Dr. H. B. Cotnam, speaking to a jury investigating the Oct. 1 death of a Hamilton woman in hospital, said the number of risks are always involved in serious cases.

The jury found Mrs. Edith Annie Somondoloa, 68, died from "heart failure due to unsatisfactory management after receiving blood transfusions while under treatment for burns suffered to 20 per cent of her body when she fell into a tub of hot water Aug. 26.

No recommendations were made and no blame was attached to Dr. H. V. Renshaw, a plastic surgeon who was treating Mrs. Sormodoloa.

Dr. Cotnam said risks are usually explained to the attending physician, the patient and family, particularly if cell-less.

Dumping Law May Be Eased

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—Trade circles here anticipate the Canadian government may yield to British pressure for modification of Canadian anti-dumping regulations.

While there has been no official comment, it is understood the concession may come in the form of a greater allowance for differences in British and Canadian selling practices, particularly as they apply to automobiles.

Under the Canada-U.S. agreement on free trade in automobiles, Britain has lost its preferential tariff position in the Canadian market and grumblings about the British position have increased.

A British informant disclosed Friday that specific proposals have been made to Canada to provide more sympathetic consideration of differences in Canadian and British selling practices.

Canadian dumping duties can be applied when customs appraisers conclude that the price of the imports is less than that prevailing in the home market.

British automobile manufacturers maintain that their selling price at home includes distribution and advertising costs and therefore must be higher than their selling price in Canada. Canadian advertising costs are reported to be borne by the Canadian distributors rather than the British manufacturers.

Canadian authorities accepted the principle of these selling differences and at one time allowed a 10-per-cent discount on the British home price before deciding whether dumping duties should be applied on the Canadian ports. But over the years that allowable discount was cut to 20 per cent.

That allowable discount now may be widened again, perhaps to 25 or 30 per cent. If Canada makes this move, it would be applicable not only to Britain but to other countries which may follow similar selling practices.

Hands Full Of Ice Stopped Clock

TORONTO (CP) — Time is standing still at city hall until the next thaw.

Ice piled up so thickly on the hands of the clock in the city hall tower during Thursday's storm that the clock stopped. Workmen weren't able to get it going again.

Friday they turned the hands to point downward and hope the thaw-free day will drop off in warmer weather.

Choice Of Peace Or Fiercer War Is Up To Hanoi

US Will Not Abandon Those Seeking Freedom

From AP-Reuters

SAIGON (CP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese planes struck heavily against a Communist-infested jungle area east of Saigon today and ground forces quickly followed in the largest helicopter airlift of the war.

The tangled area of jungle and undergrowth is in Phuoc Tuy province, east of the South Vietnamese capital. Vietnamese troops have been grappling there for several days with the elusive communist jungle fighters.

The helicopter airlift numbered 137 aircraft, mostly troop carriers. The largest previous helicopter airlift numbered 115 aircraft.

AIR STRIKES PROCEED

The airlift was preceded by a strike of 30 U.S. Air Force B-57 jets and 40 propeller - driven Skyraiders flown by Vietnamese pilots. Late in the afternoon another strike of B-52s swept down on the area.

The military operation was on of the simultaneous day after the Soviet Union warned that the Vietnamese conflict could "present the original danger."

The other strike was part of the accelerated drive in several parts of Binh Dinh province, 270 miles northeast of Saigon, where the Viet Cong has made strong inroads. Communist activity throughout the country was light during the last two days in the wake of U.S. air strikes against the guerrillas.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in a television broadcast Friday drew a stern rebuke that the United States stop retaliatory air strikes against North Viet Nam to create conditions for a negotiated settlement in Southeast Asia.

He said if "aggressive actions" continue, the conflict "will inevitably transcend its original boundaries."

DEMANDS WITHDRAWAL

Kosygin also repeated Soviet demands that the United States withdraw its troops and weapons from South Viet Nam.

U.S. strategists in Washington said they viewed the Kosygin speech as offering nothing new from previous Soviet statements.

Pushed Husband 16 Miles Daily, Power Cart Replaces Wheelchair

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A silver-haired cleaning woman no longer will have to push her invalid husband 16 miles a day in a wheelchair while she goes to and from work.

Friday, Mrs. Beulah Ward, 53, stood—her hands to her face, tears in her eyes—as representatives of a Phoenix businessman presented her with a gas-powered, twin - cylinder tricycle-wheeled cart, equipped with headlights, tail lights, automatic transmission and easy steering.

Mrs. Ward began cleaning offices in Phoenix three years ago when her husband, 61, was left partially paralyzed by a stroke.

Since then, afraid to leave him by himself, she has pushed him in a wheelchair the 16 miles from their home to her jobs and back. It took her six hours to make the round-trip on foot.

Now she estimates it will take her less than an hour to do the 10-miles-an-hour cart.

When her story became known, many people wrote her. Some sent money. With the more than $100 they have received, Mrs. Ward will pay taxes on the small house on which they still owe $400.

The cart, which has room to carry the wheelchair, was given anonymously.

O Canada Anthem Rejected

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative complaints in the Commons Friday slowed progress of the complex Canada Pension Plan legislation and killed a private bill that sought to declare O Canada the official national anthem.

Perry Ryan (L — Toronto Spadina) and Maurice Rinfret (L—Montreal St. Jacques) co-sponsored a private bill to enact the national anthem. It listed the most popular English and French versions of the first verse, those written decades ago by R. Stanley Weir and Sir Adolphe Routhier.

Nicholas Mandziuk (PC — Marquette) said a national anthem should express the same sentiments no matter what language is used. There was no similarity between the French and English versions given in the bill.

"Either we take the French version as it is and translate it into English and accept that as our national anthem for the sake of unity, or else we have O Canada as English-speaking people sing it translated into French.

"Then I will go along with this bill. Otherwise, it is over my dead body."

Lawrence E. Kindt (PC — Macleod) said:

"We don't want the French

New Compound Completely Eliminates Arthritic Pains

TORONTO (CP)—A team of Detroit doctors reported today that use of an experimental compound against rheumatoid arthritis has completely eliminated pain for all but one of 25 patients treated.

Other doctors at a conference on research in rheumatic diseases reacted cautiously to the report, stressing that the compound has been only partly successful in some other trials and saying more research is needed before it is proven safe and effective.

Medical doctors Lyla Leipzig and A. J. Boyle, who work with biochemists D. S. McKean and R. E. Mosher at Wayne State University, said patients with advanced forms of crippling rheumatoid arthritis were "symptom free" and required no other medication for long periods after treatment with the compound, named EDTA.

The patients treated were free of pain and deforming degeneration of their joints appeared to be arrested for periods from six months to eight years. During this remission, or suspension, of symptoms the patients required no other medication, not even the arthritic's standby, aspirin.

In cases were symptoms returned, "a short course of treatment proved effective."

Dr. Boyle said no injurious side-effect had been observed in 25 patients ranging in age from 4 to 55 treated experimentally since 1956. One patient failed to respond.

Acknowledging the need for caution in trying new treatments for the wide variety of incurable rheumatoid diseases, the Detroit doctors nevertheless urged wider experimentation with the compound, particularly in the early stages of the disease to see if it can be arrested before joint deformities begin.

Treatments for rheumatoid diseases range from exercise programs to drug therapy, depending on the type of disease. Drugs like cortisone have been effective in some cases and birth control pills have been useful in others. But side-effects as serious as the disease being treated sometimes develop.

EDTA (ethylenediaminetetraacetic acid) is a manufactured chemical compound which picks up and removes metals as it passes through the body. It is used in cases of lead poisoning to reduce the lead content of the blood and also in trials to combat vasulcar and heart disease, including hardening of the arteries.

In the rheumatism field, EDTA has been used with slight success against schleroderma, a disease in which the skin becomes tight and hard. It was tried in scleroderma because of its ability to remove excess calcium from the system.

'Clamp Case' Doctor Suspended For Conduct in Another Case

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Kenneth Alfred Brown of London, Ont., has been suspended from practising medicine in Ontario as a result of his conduct during an operation in 1963, it was revealed Friday.

The suspension, announced in the annual report of the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons, had nothing to do with Dr. Brown's part in the 1963 "clamp case" death of 13-year-old cancer patient Patricia Morgan.

The college's discipline committee found him not guilty of professional misconduct in the Morgan case, but suspended him for an operation at Toronto East General Hospital on a woman identified only as "Mrs. M."

The suspension, effective last Dec. 6, will continue "until such time . . . as he is in satisfactory general health so as to resume medical practice," the college ruled.

OFFER OPERATION

Dr. D. S. Wigle of Windsor, the discipline committee chairman, said Friday that Dr. Brown, formerly a surgeon in Toronto, was suspended for an operation in which Mrs. M. died in August, 1963.

The woman was fluorably ill and her condition was not made worse by treatment received from Dr. Brown, said Dr. Wigle. But he said Dr. Brown's suspension resulted from "his conduct during the whole surgical experience."

In the Morgan case, a coroner's jury found Dr. Brown at fault last year after Miss Morgan was discovered to have died of cerebral obstruction caused by a clamp left in her body during an operation Oct. 18, 1963.

The operation was the scene of an argument between Dr. Brown and Dr. Anthony Varra, whom East General chief surgeon Dr. Burns Plewes had assigned to assist Dr. Brown, the inquest had been told.

Later, Dr. Brown was found guilty of failing to notify a coroner of the circumstances of the death and fined $200 and costs.

A civil action was launched against Dr. Brown by Miss Morgan's estate but it is still unresolved.

The discipline committee found that a college charge of professional misconduct in Miss Morgan's operation was not proved.

Judge Reserves Decision About Hockey Salary

Judge J. C. Anderson has reserved decision on the hockey team salary claim of Lou Smrke against the city of Belleville.

The judge in the next week will scrutinize points of law argued yesterday in the case by counsel for both sides.

Smrke, a member of the 1956 world champion Belleville McFarlands, city-sponsored hockey team is seeking redress on about $2,100 he claims is owing under contract.

The team was disbanded after a judicial inquiry into city affairs the same year it brought the world championship to Canada.

Since both parties agreed to basic facts in the case only points of law were argued. Hence, the hearing was held in the judge's chambers to expedite the issue.

Smrke was represented by Don Templeman and the municipality by city solicitor E. Gus Porter.

IF CROUP ATTACKS YOUR CHILD'S BREATHING

Croup is one of the symptoms of a throat problem. Breathing is difficult and there may be a spasm of the larynx with a wheezing sound. It may occur in the night. Surgical operations were thrived or even diphtheria.

It is important to call a physician. While waiting, start a steam vaporizer near your child. Until the vaporizer begins to steam, turn on the hot water in the bathroom and expose your child to the steam there. For steam usually brings some quick relief.

Race Problem Taxes, Serious In England

TRENTON — Recently returned from a month long trip to England and Scotland, P. L. "Jim" Egerton of Sorting Street in Trenton commented to a reporter yesterday on the situation in his homeland. Mr. and Mrs. Egerton, natives of Surrey, England, visited their parents and relatives while overseas.

Mr. Egerton commented last in England, which, he said was "serious," and the high taxes faced by all in the country.

"For instance," he said, "gasoline is 80 cents a gallon, and 45 cents of this goes in tax. People can't afford to drive big cars . . . even if the congested highways could support them. While I'm not a smoker myself, I found that the price of cigarettes was exhorbitant and that goes for alcoholic beverages too."

Mr. Egerton went on to say that the English had learned to "queue-up" in line, with extremely crowded living conditions . . . 12 million in the city of London, and stated, he said, millions living on the island . . . with a serious crime problem. He said he was able to help secondary schools and universities fast enough to handle the ever-growing influx of new population, the English still retain the spirit of cheerfulness for which the Britons are known, he said.

"I read a criticism of the English school system by a local newspaper," he continued, "and they have the effect of 'sorting out' the students who are capable of going on to grammar schools and university. Well, when you consider the numbers of eleven-year students in the country and the lack of secondary school accommodation, you can realize that some system of sorting has to be employed. This is necessary at the moment."

Lions' Club Hears Talk by Dep. Governor

TRENTON — The Trenton Lions' Club played host Thursday night to Deputy Governor, Robert Gordon Smith.

Mr. Smith spoke to the members on "keeping faith in the Lions." He said that the aims and projects should be planned with the view of benefiting the community as a whole.

As the members of the club have faith in the club, they should have faith in their community, the speaker stated. Mr. Smith said that the new outlets in the community should make it a practice to report club meetings, and especially club projects.

Trenton Lion's president Earl Cruikshank reminded the members to get their dollars in for the District A 3 CARE project. The money collected in the district this year will go towards assisting in an eyesight conservation program in South America. Last year, the Lion's "one dollars" went towards providing milk for children in the underprivileged countries. Each member of the 200 district clubs has been asked to contribute $1.

An announcement regarding the Trenton club's next community project will be made within a few weeks, and possibly by the March 11th meeting. That evening, the club members will eat their dinners and adjourn to the high school where the Lions' public speaking contest for children from local schools will be held.

Injunction Sets Limit on Picket Line

KINGSTON (CP) — Picketing at the strike-bound Du Pont of Canada Limited nylon plant was limited to four persons at any entrance under a temporary injunction issued by the Ontario Supreme Court Friday.

The injunction, issued by Mr. Justice Maxwell W. Strange, is effective until 4 p.m. Tuesday when a Toronto hearing will determine whether it should be continued.

James Gorr, one of 2,200 employees charged with obstructing Sheriff Lorne Arkesworth who was serving the injunction on the picket line, Gorr, alleged to have blocked the sheriff's car at the plant entrance, was fined on $30 bail.

Harry Woodruff, president of the striking Local 13160, District 50 of United Mine Workers of America (Ind.), gave two reasons why a membership meeting Wednesday night turned down the latest company offer.

The offer did not provide for modified union shop, for time-and-a-half for Sunday work, for backdating of the contract to Oct. 21 or for the rate of pay being sought for tradesmen, he said.

Favreau Denies Pearson Informed of RCMP Plan To Question Aide, Rouleau

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The Dorion Inquiry is recessed until Tuesday to mull over a series of eye-popping assertions Friday by RCMP Deputy Commissioner J. R. Lemieux.

The No. 2 man in the Mounties told the inquiry:

1. Justice Minister Favreau directed that the RCMP investigation into allegations of attempted bribery and coercion by federal ministerial aides be "suspended" Sept. 18, though the minister had not then seen a report on a police interview with Liberal, MP Guy Rouleau who, Lemieux said, the RCMP thought was behind an alleged bribe offer.

2. It was his impression that Prime Minister Pearson had advised Mr. Rouleau, his then parliamentary secretary, that he would be interrogated by the RCMP. Mr. Rouleau was actually questioned Sept. 17. Mr. Pearson told the Commons Nov. 24 that he didn't know of Mr. Rouleau's involvement in the affair until that day (Nov. 24).

3. He thought Mr. Pearson had been advised by Mr. Favreau that Mr. Rouleau would be questioned.

ISSUES STATEMENT

(Mr. Favreau, in a statement issued Friday evening through his Mr. Pearson's office, said the prime minister was not informed beforehand of the RCMP's intention to question Mr. Rouleau. "His (Mr. Pearson) first spoke to Mr. Rouleau about the matter on Nov. 24, the day on which I also became aware of Mr. Rouleau's resignation as his parliamentary secretary," Mr. Favreau said.)

4. Commissioner G--B: McClellan told Mr. Favreau Sept. 18 that Raymond Denis, then executive assistant to then immigration minister Trembay, was guilty of wrongdoing but that there wasn't enough evidence to prosecute.

5. Mr. Favreau decided that the matter was one for "internal discipline" and that any action was left up to Mr. Trembley.

6. There had been no mention by Mr. Favreau of referring the case of Denis, accused of offering a $20,000 bribe, to officials of the justice department for a legal opinion.

7. The RCMP itself decided to question Denis after receiving instructions Aug. 16 from Mr. Favreau in interview with two of the minister's aides.

8. Mr. Favreau on Sept. 18 was "anxious that the matter be finalized" though he had not been given the results of the questioning of Mr. Rouleau.

Jules Deschenes, federal government counsel, asked about Lemieux's remarks concerning Mr. Pearson he stricken from the record because they caused "serious prejudice" to the persons mentioned.

Chief Justice Frederic Dorion said the remarks would remain on the record though they were not evidence.

(Explaining the reason for issuing his statement, Mr. Favreau said "it is to be noted that Chief Justice Dorion ruled today that certain allusions in the testimony of Deputy Commissioner Lemieux of the RCMP represented hearsay evidence and should not, therefore, be taken into account."

Notwithstanding this, he said, news reports had given "circulation" to that part of the testimony so he was issuing the statement.)

PEARSON TO APPEAR?

Outside the courtroom, Commission Counsel Andre Desbarats said the extension beyond the Feb. 28 deadline was prompted by Ontario's big snow Thursday.

Charles MacNaughton, Ontario highways minister, had asked motorists to keep off the roads during the weekend, as the department of transport felt it should co-operate by not asking drivers to go out Saturday to get their new licence plates.

Mr. Haskett was asked in the legislature by two Liberal members, Bernie Newman (Windsor - Walkerville) and Farquhar Oliver (Grey South) to provide the extension.

However, the announcement was made after the legislature had adjourned for the day.

During the sitting, Mr. MacNaughton issued a plea to all motorists to stay off the highways until maintenance crews have had a chance to clear them.

A spokesman for the department said the storm presented the biggest snow removal problem the department has been faced with in 20 years.

Mr. Haskett said the extension will not affect the 1966 licence plates.

Projector Needed By County Museum

The Hastings County Museum has a problem.

Recently the Museum received a collection of interesting glass slides from Mrs. G. B. Zimmele of Belleville. These slides are from the W. N. Ponton collection and show local scenes in the early 1900's.

To show these slides at the Museum needs a projector (of the type used by many churches and schools to project glass slides of hymns, etc.)

Anyone knowing where such a projector can be obtained (either as a gift or as a loan) is asked to contact Gerald Boyce at 968-5023.

Mr. Trembley's view.

The meeting had ended by Mr. Favreau saying that the RCMP had acquitted itself of responsibility and the matter was one for Mr. Trembley "to deal with from now on."

Mr. Favreau has told the Commons that Denis was "separated" from his position in October but it has never been made clear whether Denis was fired or allowed to resign.

Commission Counsel Desjardins asked why the RCMP took its final report to Mr. Favreau Sept. 18 before obtaining an account of the Rouleau interview the previous day.

Lemieux said Mr. Favreau was "anxious that the matter be finalized."

WAS IT INFERENCE?

He said at another point he was told this by Commissioner McClellan.

The commission will sit here Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week and then take a two-week recess.

Insp. G. W. Reed, the RCMP's legal adviser, and Deputy Commissioner Lemieux are scheduled to testify further Tuesday. Commissioner McClellan, Mr. Favreau and Mr. Trembley are among at least 16 other witnesses still to be heard.

Lemieux said the RCMP had "good reason" not to question Mr. Rouleau at the start of the investigation.

"We had a theory that the conspiracy to Rouleau and we wanted all the ammunition we could get to face him with," Lemieux said.

Lemieux said there was no further RCMP investigation after Sept. 18.

"My minister expressed an opinion and when he expresses an opinion I have to respect it," Lemieux said.

FILE 'SUSPENDED'

The file was "suspended," not closed, and if more information were turned up further action would be taken.

Chief Justice Dorion asked: "How could you get new evidence if there was no further investigation?"

Lemieux said "some information might come to the attention of the force which would have to be acted upon.

The 51-year-old deputy commissioner said his testimony concerned a Sept. 18 meeting of Mr. Favreau, Mr. Trembley, Commissioner McClellan and himself at which Mr. Favreau had said the case was one for "internal discipline."

Lemieux read into the record a Sept. 22 memo he had written at this meeting. It said Mr. Favreau was "quite receptive" to arguments presented by McClellan and Lemieux. What these arguments were was not explained by Lemieux.

WASN'T CONVINCED

The memo said Mr. Trembley, now postmaster - general, was "not entirely convinced of Denis' guilt though he admitted Denis had been most indiscreet to say the least."

Mr. Favreau had stated the case was one of "internal discipline" and this appeared to be

Alberta's Hutterites Fight Act

EDMONTON (CP) — Proceedings by the attorney-general against a Hutterite colony, six Hutterites and eight men who sold land to them have been adjourned to allow the courts to rule on the validity of the provincial act under which charges were laid.

The legal twists which developed during the last two days in Calgary will bring to a head a problem that has plagued 1,500 Hutterites in 67 colonies in Alberta.

The events in Calgary marked the first occasion since the sect arrived on the Prairies from Europe in the early 1900s that the pacifist Protestant group has moved to challenge legislative control on the size and establishment of their colonies.

In a statement of claim filed Thursday in Supreme Court in Calgary, the sect claims the Communal Property Act is ultra vires of the Alberta legislature, illegal and discriminatory.

The act, introduced in 1942 and amended several times, requires Hutterites to get cabinet approval for any expansion of colonies or for the establishment of new ones.

MAY GO TO SCOC

It is anticipated that any Alberta Supreme Court ruling on the act will be carried to the Supreme Court of Canada.

To get around legal obstacles blocking land purchases by Hutterite colonies, six members of the Rock Lake colony, 150 miles southeast of Calgary, purchased 4,900 acres of land near Brant, Alta., as individuals.

Farmers in the district complained to the government that the Hutterites planned to establish another colony and the government ordered an investigation.

This led to the charges against the colony, the Hutterites and men who sold the land. Maximum fine under the act is $500.

Rural opposition to Hutterite colonies stems from fears among non-Hutterites that adjacent land values and the business of merchants in nearby small towns will decline.

The Hutterites are a religious German - speaking people who live communally. They came to Canada after obtaining assurances they would be exempt from military service.

In addition to the Alberta Hutterites there are 1,000 in Saskatchewan and 1,900 in Manitoba, where the sect has agreed voluntarily to control land purchases.

The Need for Struggle

Charlotte Whitton, who is always interesting even when she is extremely aggravating, promises to be as worth the listening as a Miss as she was as a Mayor.

Speaking to the Women Teachers Associations of Ontario at Toronto last Saturday, she said an educator's greatest challenge is to stimulate young minds and to prevent them from slipping into an easy attitude of acceptance.

There is nothing new about that statement but, as we might have expected, Miss Whitton managed to give an old generality a new twist to apply it to a particular situation such as that created by the growth of labor-saving devices.

In an automated world, she said, there was a danger of considering freedom from labor and toil a blessing.

The suggestion that it is not may sound strangely in some ears, but we think Miss Whitton, here, is on firm ground and is voicing a creed which needs to be widely expounded.

"We must remember there must be a struggle and purpose in life," she said.

And so there must—if it is to be really worth living.

At the same time, there is a danger some people may fall into the trap of believing that any type of struggle or purpose can make life worth living.

In the past, since the dawn of history, there has been no lack of struggle for most. For the great majority, the purpose of the struggle has been to maintain life. That drudgery is now easing to quite an extent for that portion of the human race which is fortunate enough to live in the affluent countries. It would be wrong to conclude that their lot will be worse, just because they have lost the need to struggle in this way.

But it will still be a life much short of satisfying unless society can provide for them a new purpose, involving a struggle of a different kind, to test their mettle. In reminding educators of the need for a purpose in life, Miss Whitton is appealing to that sector of society on which much of the responsibility for presenting adequate challenges must rest, and on whose performance the manner in which the need for a purpose is filled will depend, in large measure.

In large measure, but not wholly. Other people besides educators, other influences besides the schools, must be aware of the need and attempt to present solutions if this problem, a new one in the history of mankind, is to be solved.

Tempest in a Teapot

The Canadian public owes the Canadian Football League a vote of thanks for providing it with a useful demonstration that many politicians are ever ready to go off half-cocked if they think they can bag a vote in the process.

The CFL, wisely or unwisely we do not venture to judge, decided that naturalized Canadians, which for the purpose of the league's operations means U.S. football players who have resided in Canada long enough to qualify for Canadian citizenship, would not in future be considered in the same category as native Canadians.

In order to keep salary costs at a level which will enable the smaller centres to compete on something approaching even terms with the more populous centres, the League has, in the past, divided players into two classifications, Canadians and imports, and has limited the number of imports a team may use.

Imports who stayed long enough to become Canadian citizens were treated in the past as Canadians and did not count as imports.

Now the league plans to divide players into three, instead of two, classifications, imports, imports who have become Canadians and Canadians.

This was resented by the imports who have become naturalized and they protested and won ready support from several politicians, on the ground that the rule is an infringement of civil rights, particularly of the Ontario bill guaranteeing equal rights, to all, regardless of citizenship (and of color, or creed). Hon. John Yaremko, Ontario Provincial Secretary and Minister of Citizenship, calls the rule repugnant.

We do not remember any politicians protesting the old ruling when those discriminated against were native Canadians or, to be more accurate, residents of Canada who had learned their football in this country and not in the United States. The effect of this division into imports and Canadians was that Canadians received less money than did imports. While, in many, and perhaps most cases, this was justified by differences in their ability, this was not always so.

A SUMMER IN SPA

"May the roads rise with you and the wind be always at your back." — from an old Gaelic Blessing.

* * *

We continue with Mrs. Beamish's account of her summer in Spa, Belgium, where her husband, the Archdeacon, a former Rector of St. Thomas' Church, held a Chaplaincy for six months.

"I have learned since our visit in Spa, that many visitors, who came often, presented gifts to the town during their life time. Perhaps a path, or a little waterfall or maybe a pavilion.

REV. G. V. GAUGHAN

Priest To Address C. A. S. Meet

In a return visit to Belleville in little more than a week, Father G. V. Gaughan, director of the family counselling service in Peterborough, will be guest speaker at the annual general meeting of the Children's Aid Society.

The meeting will be held Thursday evening, March 4th, at the Club Canara, starting at 6:30.

On February 21st, Father Gaughan spoke at a seminar on marriage in St. Michael's Auditorium, when more than 200 men and women from all walks of life listened to his philosophy on married life.

Father Gaughan received his master's degree in social work at the Catholic University of America and since 1958 has been executive director of the Peterborough Family Counselling Service.

In view of present discussions in Belleville concerning the possible formation of a family and marriage counselling service, Father Gaughan's talk to the CAS will be of interest to all.

MUSICAL EDIFICE

VANCOUVER (CP) — A $1,000,000 music department building will be built at the University of British Columbia for use by 1966.

"These were often made by the donor's own hand. For instance, the English philosopher Berkeley, I'm told, made paths with his spade, which are still used. And I believe that the Promenade was made by Philippe Egalite assisted by his Madame de Genlis.

Paths, and there were many of them, led to springs in the woods. In the old days, the ladies visited the springs by carriage as they held up their parasols to protect them from the scattered sunlight that filtered through the foliage. Various springs had special properties, it is said, and one was used as early as 1262. Times were, I understand when so much water was subscribed that the springs didn't produce enough for the visitors. Back in those early days life in Spa, they say, held its visitors to a strict schedule which began at four o'clock in the morning, when the springs were visited, and finished with an evening walk in the 'Seven O'Clock Meadow' which is now a main park in the town.

But not all visitors came to take "the cure".

Many came for the fetes, (the first on the continent was held at Spa) and the amusement halls, not to mention the beautiful casino, where Lady Luck may be sought the year round.

"Its spacious sidewalk cafe, gay with colored sun-umbrellas was a popular meeting place for eleven o'clock coffee, such as I shared with one of our church members who became a very dear friend. She was the Baroness Orczy and author of "The Scarlet Pimpernel" which you may have read. Nor was she the least bit like the author I'd imagined. Born of an aristocratic Hungarian family, she was petite, dark-haired and vivacious; oh, so warm, yet sophisticated.

"Although she spent most of her time writing, sometimes we would have afternoon tea together at her hotel, the well-known Britannique, where the Kaiser abdicated in 1918.

In private life she was Mrs. Montagu Barstow. She met her husband, the son of an English clergyman, while she was living in London. They had one son.

"The Barstows lived in Monte Carlo, where they wished my husband, whom they were fond of, to seek a Chaplaincy. As much as we would have liked to have done so, it was not possible. This post was much sought after and others had precedence."

Here is a letter Baroness Orczy wrote from her Villa Bijou in Monte Carlo dated January, 4th 1934 in answer to one from Archdeacon Beamish which Mrs. Beamish upon our request kindly shares with this column:

"My dear Archdeacon:

"If for no other reason my husband and I will certainly welcome Mr. and Mrs. Kuhler as they will bring us direct news from you all. It does seem such a long time since those lovely sunny days at Spa.

"Of course we hear about you both from the Bishop of Lincoln and others and we are so interested to hear what a success you have made of your work in that very difficult part of the diocese.

"Do remember us both very kindly to your dear wife and Hilda. I am tempted to say though I suppose I must not do it that it would be lovely if we had had you amongst us here in Monte Carlo.

Wishing you a very happy and prosperous 1934

Very sincerely yours

(Signed) Emmuska Orczy."

"I now look back and reflect" concludes Mrs. Beamish "what a perfect place Spa was for a holiday. Six weeks. Think of it! Where as a clergyman's wife there was little required of me. I still consider it the most charming place in the world to spend the summer where everything comes to life!"

(Next week: Mrs. Beamish concludes her memories abroad with an account of their life in Trieste Italy.)

Martin Backs Negotiated Settlement

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin said Canada supports a negotiated settlement of the Viet Nam dispute but believes fighting must be ended first.

He was replying in the Commons to NDP Leader Douglas, who said Canada should "get off the fence" and announce its forthright support of a negotiated settlement.

Mr. Martin said there were matters involved in the Viet Nam dispute which had not been made public, matters which were known to him and to other governments.

"There can be no successful negotiation as long as there are hostilities and as long as there is infiltration from third areas," Mr. Martin said.

He added that he, Prime Minister Pearson, Prime Minister Shastri of India, and UN Secretary - General U Thant had urged negotiations.

Are you unhappy because you didn't receive your income tax form? Are you unhappy because you lost it?

Cheer up.
You can get one at the Post Office.

If you've changed your address, or did not file a return last year, you likely won't receive an income tax form in the mail. It isn't that we forgot you. It's just that we don't know where you are—yet. So we've made sure that there are lots of extra forms at all local Post Offices (or if it's handier, your District Taxation Office). They aren't the new Personalized income tax forms. But you'll have that to look forward to next year.

Maybe you did receive an Income Tax Form in the mail and now you can't find it. Seems a pity to lose it. That was your Personalized form and it had your own identification code number on it. Why don't you have one last look before you go to get another plain old everyday tax form from the Post Office.

Counsellor Is Needed To Show Husband Facts

DEAR DORIS — Why does a man tell lies about trivial as well as more serious things? It is always lies and more lies. I realize that possibly this went on even before he met me. His mother lies like he does for almost childish reasons to her husband.

One incident awakened me to the fact that he had several flirtations with teen-agers, all quite well hidden by his lies. It seems he cannot keep his hands off teen-agers' blossoming bodies.

By the way, he has often told me that when I let my long blond hair down below my shoulders I look like a teen-ager. He says he loves me and I have never refused to express my love for him day or night.

DORIS CLARK

So where did I miss the right step? — NO LONGER TRUSTING.

DEAR NO LONGER — A dyed-in-the-wool prevaricator is not discriminating when it comes to the size of the lie. He lost his respect for truth, of any kind, away back. His inventions are used to cover up behavior of which he is secretly ashamed.

Doubtless he deceives himself into believing he gets away with it. The pity of it is that even his children have caught on by now that he can't be depended on. So they find no security in him.

Helping him to face facts will take the skill of a counsellor, or social worker, or minister. It can be done, but it's not likely to happen without help.

DEAR DORIS — Our boy, 17, failed school last year, and is now working. He pays board, though unwillingly, and I bank some for him.

I found out he was going with a 14-year-old girl and buys her expensive presents. I felt this was wrong and phoned the girl's parents. The father as much as told me to mind my own business and said if he got his daughter into trouble he would send him to reform school.

So you see our hands are tied. He was a good boy until he got into the bad crowd of which this girl is one. — HEART BROKEN.

DEAR HEART — Don't give up. Your boy is headstrong—like many another young fellow—but it's my guess he'll re-establish communications by the time he is 19. Stay in there pitching. The girl's father — who is encouraging this questionable situation — is hardly in a position to sentence him to reform school.

* * *

Confidential to BROKEN HEARTED — You are not too young to go steady, but not ready yet to make a decision about your life. If you are missing your friend terribly, write him a letter. Don't lose track of him.

TAMPA TUNA (Casserole)

two 6-oz. cans flaked tuna,
2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced,
1½ cups cooked carrots, diced,
½ cup cooked peas,
2 tablespoons chopped onion,
1 tablespoons butter,
2 tablespoons flour,
⅔ cup milk,
1 can cream of celery soup, undiluted,
shake of cayenne,
½ teaspoon curry powder,
½ cup mayonnaise,
½ teaspoon paprika.

Drain tuna and arrange with sliced hard-cooked eggs, carrots and peas in a shallow medium casserole. Saute the onion in butter for 2 or 3 minutes, then stir in the flour, then the milk, until thick and smooth. Add remaining ingredients and stir for seasoning. Pour sauce evenly over tuna, etc. Sprinkle with additional paprika and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. until bubbly, about 20 minutes.

TAPIOCA CUSTARD PUDDING

½ cup pearl tapioca,
2½ cups milk,
2 eggs,
½ cup sugar,
½ teaspoon salt,
½ teaspoon vanilla.

Wash tapioca; soak overnight in cold water to cover. Drain and add milk; cook over boiling water in double boiler until tapioca is clear (about 1 hour). Beat eggs, add sugar, salt and pour hot milk mixture over slowly. Return to double boiler; cook until egg thickens, about 5 minutes, stirring. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Serve with pouring cream or brown sugar hard sauce. Note; Yolks and whites of eggs may be separated and yolks stirred into pudding mixture, whites beaten stiff and folded in last but while pudding is hot. Instead of returning to double boiler, pudding may be turned into baking dish and baked at 325 deg. Fahr. for 25 or 30 minutes.

U.C.W. Meeting

TABERNACLE CHURCH UCW

The regular meeting of Tabernacle United Church UCW was held in the Sunday School auditorium recently with a good attendance. The devotional was in charge of Unit 6 and was a candlelight service ensemblitying The Lord's Prayer. Several of the members took part led by Mrs. A. Charlton and Mrs. L. E. Grey. Miss Gaye McFarlane effectively concluded the service by singing the same prayer, accompanied by her mother.

A film was shown, followed by a discussion. In keeping with the study book on Trinidad, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. J. Aitchison and Mrs. J. Babiak sang the Trinidad national anthem.

Mrs. Roy Brickman and Mrs. H. C. Barlow reported on the third annual meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial of the UCW which was held in Trenton recently.

After a short business session, the meeting was closed with prayer by the president, Mrs. B. Salisbury.

Unit 3 served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Mother's Helper

NO DOUBT you'll have to re-do the job later, but it's a good idea to include Pick-up Time as part of the fun whenever your toddler has friends in to play. A small treat to follow will counteract the realization that the party's over.

MELROSE MODEL MISSES

The third meeting of the Melrose Model Misses was held recently in the basement of the United Church with nine girls present. Miss Janet Munroe, the home economist was a guest for the meeting. She helped each girl decide the best style of clothes to wear for her figure. Afterwards members joined with Club 1 and Miss Munroe showed the way to use the costume and wardrobe charts for Achievement Day, and answered any questions.

The notes were on the suitability of clothes to the occasion; and harmony of colors, design and texture.

The next meeting will be held on Feb. 27 at the home of Mrs. Mac Lazier. The home assignment is to fill out the wardrobe inventory and plan the general style and color of the blouse he wish to make.

Thanks were expressed to Miss Munroe by the leaderr

THE WINNERS — The exquisite long evening gown, on the left, of rich cotton in a three-dimensional print by Myer Dress, Toronto, was selected by a panel of Canadian Retail Fashion buyers as the most outstanding garment in the cocktail and evening dress category at the Canadian Cotton Council's second annual cotton fashion award presentation. The gown is softly-textured floral print styled with a graceful double floating panel in the back with velveteen used as a trim in the shoulder straps and bow. The three-piece white cotton knit ensemble by Suitmaker of Montreal (centre) consists of a sleeveless overblouse, slim skirt, and Chanel-type jacket with brass button trim, and was selected as the most outstanding garment in the medium priced dresses category. On the right, the designer has incorporated the cords of the fabric to shape this very young good-looking coat to emphasize the figure, chosen as the outstanding fashion of all 79 entries by a panel of Canadian fashion editors. It was presented by Aukie-Sanft Boutique as "John Warden's velvet finished corduroy coat."

Going Places

Malaysia's Swinging Capital Is Modern Asian Boom Town

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia — Monsieur Jean Barriere, who has a Maurice Chevalier accent and doesn't understand why his chef won't argue with him, is manager of the Federal Hotel here, as displaced a person as a kosher butcher in Cairo.

At a dinner or Iran kurau a la Russe and roast pheasant in plumage, he leaned the French chin of his bald French head in his hand and gazed absently at the surroundings in his Mandarin Palace dining room. Chinese lords stared back at him from a thousand baroque ceiling panels, and carved red dragons glowered from the corbels of pillars.

We sat opposite, at the even more wondrous scene on the dance floor before us. To melodies ranging from an up-tempoed Malayan aloha song to "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean," a hundred or more couples twisted and frugged and monkeyed. The girls were exquisite Malays and Eurasians in sarong kebayas, and China dolls in slit-to-here cheongsongs.

Presently the m.c. announced, in the unvarying manner of m.c.'s all over the world, that it was show time, ladies and gentlemen. A quartet known as the Korean Kittens scampered out and deafeningly peewed such plaintive Oriental melodies as "Kansas City" "Bill Bailey," and "When the Saints Go Marching In." We knew not how to comfort Mr. Barriere, so far from Paris, Kansas City, and even Singapore.

Kuala Lumpur sounds as if it should be a rubber and tin trading post, in whose lone barroom a gunrunning bar Clark Gable and Wallace Beery sweatily fight it out over Jean Harlow. The fact is it is one of the swingingest towns in southeast Asia, the capital of the Malaysian Federation, a booming city of half a million that is just about anything you wouldn't expect it to be.

At the Royal Selangor Golf Club, an ninth political business is transacted as at Washington's National. On the broad parklined boulevards of the residential sections surrounding it, lush private homes sit on deep layers behind high English hedges. One of the most imposing is the gold-domed palace of the Sultan of Brunei, who doesn't even live there because Brunei is not a member of the Malaysian Federation.

This is the boom town that tin rubber and politics built, and are still building.

Dust from never-ending construction fills the streets downtown. The Moorished facade of the American International Assurance Building towers incongruously above wood-fronted Chinese shops.

The British, of course, left their mark here, but in equally incongruous ways. When an English architect of the East India Company was commissioned to design the government buildings he gave them all a Moorish flare. The first impression on arriving downtown is an Arabian night of painted domes and minarets.

Colonnades surmounted by pointed arches line administration buildings, the post office and the railway station, which may be the only railway station in the world that is a major sightseeing attraction. It looks like a palace or mosque. The new National Mosque is being completed, on the other hand looks more like a railway station.

In the centre of town, across from several of the Arabian nights buildings, a half-timbered Tudor grandstand marks the Selangor Club, where cricket and soccer are played. Only the tropical green mountains surrounding the city remind that this is neither England nor Araby.

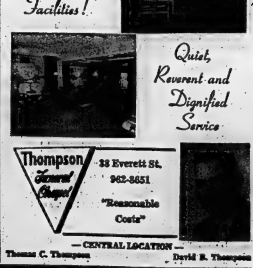
APTLY NICKNAMED

In the suburbs all doubt is removed; it looks like America. The stunning rolling campus of the University of Malaya is studded with tasteful contemporary buildings in black and white. The imposing new Brasilia-style Parliament Building is surrounded by the Kenny Hills residential section where prosperous Europeans live and play. It is aptly nicknamed the Beverly Hills of Kuala Lumpur for the striking California-style architecture of its $50,000-plus homes.

Nearby is the pride of Malaysia, the satellite town of Petaling Jaya. Its 8,000 homes and 40,000 population make it the largest such town in Asia. Only its red-and-gold Buddhist temple instead of a community church set it apart from a thousand such towns on the other side of the world. Come to think of it, so does the occasional bullock cart seen in the streets.

Outside of the city, it is still all Malaya. There are isolated Chinese villages, and rural Malay communities of stilt houses clinging to rivers where women pound clothes or haul huge baskets of prickly durian melons.

The Batu Caves — perhaps the only ones in the world to which you climb up, via 272 steps — are still an annual pilgrimage goal of thousands of Hindus. In the years after World War II, they were used as a hideout for Communist guerillas. What with their population of snakes and bats plus the 272 steps, it is little wonder the guerrillas held out so long.



Kuala Lumpur was founded by rubber, which, according to our guide, "was first discovered by Columbus on the Amazon in the early 18th Century." More recently, it has been tin, the white gold of Malaya, which has been parlayed into the booming pewter industry. Tourists usually find their way to the Selangor Pewter Factory, where artistic cups, bowls and jars are turned out on lathes and by hand by pretty sandaled girls.

This combination of endlessly pretty girls and still-untapped natural resources make this part of Malaya a paradise for bachelors. The Malayan dollar buys about as much as the U.S. dollar, but you get three of them for one greenback. And for little more than $2,000 U.S., you can buy a dredge to prospect for tin.

Kenny Hills, the Royal Selangor Golf Club, a three-for-a-dollar loaf of bread and jug of wine, a aloe-eyed Eurasian maid singing beside you in the wilderness of the Mandarin Room . . .

Ann Landers

'No' Is Most Effective Word For Sorely Tempted Girls

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am 25 and need help in a hurry. The man I've been going with is 30. He was engaged to a girl two years ago. She was killed in an accident and he is still getting over it.

ANN LANDERS

This man is a manufacturer's representative and he travels on the road about half the time. I see him weekends. The last time he was home he asked me to take a week's vacation from my job and travel with him. It sounded like heaven.

I've always wanted to stay at first class hotels, dine in fine restaurants, see movies in the afternoon, shop in the country's most elegant stores and just loaf a little. It took a lot of will power to turn down his offer.

I'd like to marry this man and I think he'd like to marry me. I'm afraid if I play too hard to get he'll find someone who is more agreeable.

Please remember we're not teen-agers, Ann. I need some smart advice. — MARIA.

DEAR MARIA — Someone ought to start an organization called "Temptation Anonymous" for gals who are on the verge of doing something foolish. It would be wonderful if you could call up a friend who would come over and sit with you until your brains become unbaked.

No is one of the most effective words in the language, and I urge you to keep saying it until he asks you to marry him. The woman who is interested in the long haul should beware of short trips.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Last week my wife's mother and three other relatives (Cara), plus our family of four, went out to dinner. When the waitress brought the check my mother-in-law took it right out of my hands.

My mother-in-law is a good-hearted person but she is extremely domineering and has grabbed checks out of my hands before. When she does this I feel like a cross between a 7-year-old child and an out-of-work nebbish.

If you have a solution to this problem I'd like to hear it. — WILLING TO PAY.

DEAR WILLING — Tell your mother-in-law that if she joins you for dinner at your invitation she is your guest and you want no debate over the check.

If you and your family are her guests, suggest that she arrange in advance so that the check is not brought to the table. She can slip away quietly while the coffee is being served and pay it unobserved.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I could kiss you for telling the world that more wives handle the pocketbook than husbands and that they usually do a better job.

We've had the problem in our family for years and I've been begging for a chance to handle the family finances. After my husband read that column he agreed to hand over his cheque beginning with the next one, and see what I can do. I can tell you now I couldn't do much worse than he has done. We've gotten so low at times that we've had to borrow milk money from the baby's piggy bank.

I've been fighting for this chance for 14 years and couldn't get to first base. And now you come along and do the trick with three sentences.

You've got a pretty smart head on those 45-year-old shoulders, Ann. Thank you for what you've done for me. — HEADING FOR THE BLACK.

DEAR HEADING — I'm glad I helped. And now, just to keep the record straight, the head is resting on 46-year-old shoulders. I added one — while you weren't looking.

* * *

"The Bride's Guide," ANN LANDERS' booklet, gives authoritative and complete information on how to plan a wedding. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35c in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

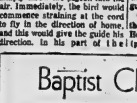
Lighting The Way

By Walter S. Crone



"THE ARABIAN DOVE MAN"

The story is told of an Arabian guide, who holds the reputation of having never lost his way. For many, many years, he has guided tourists, archaeologists, writers, naturalists, and others across the desert wastes of Arabia, and has never been lost. The real secret of his success to this regard is, he carries with him at all times, a homing pigeon. A very fine cord is attached to one foot of this bird. When the guide may be in doubt as to which direction to take, he would simply throw the pigeon into the air. Immediately, the bird would commence straining at the cord to fly in the direction of home, and this would give the guide his direction. In his part of the country, this guide is known as "the dove man."

Life today, can be most complex. Man frequently loses their way, not because of the absence of signs, but on account of their frequency, inconsistencies, and directional utterances. The one safe and dependable Guide is our Lord Himself. If we will study His word, we shall have a greater understanding of what life is all about. As we commit ourselves, and all of life's affairs to Him, day by day, allowing Him to give us our direction, we will have His unerring guidance.

TEXT: "Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in Him, and He shall bring it to pass." (Psalm 37:5) mortars and anti-tank mines.

A new family of Chinese Communist - manufactured weapons appeared recently in Viet Cong hands. In one recent action the Viet Cong used a 75-m.m. pack howitzer with a range of 8,200 yards. Ammunition for this howitzer will permit long-range attacks against any stationary targets.

The report cited the discovery Feb. 16 of a Chinese Communist 250-ton cargo ship camouflaged and sailing along the coast of Phu Yen province in South Viet Nam. Captured after a bitter fight with the Viet Cong, the ship was found to contain 1,000 tons of weapons and more than 1,000,000 rounds of small-arms ammunition.

"Almost all of these of Communist origin, largely from Communist China and Czechoslovakia, as well as North Viet Nam," the report said. "At least 100 tons of military supplies were discovered near the ship."

A preliminary survey showed the arms cache included more than 1,000 stick grenades, 300 pounds of TNT, 2,000 rounds of mortar ammunition, 500 rifle grenade grenades, rifles, heavy machine-guns, carbines, submachine-guns, light machine-guns and 500 pounds of medical supplies with labels from East Germany, the Soviet Union, North Viet Nam, Communist China, Czechoslovakia and other sources.

Documents found on the ship and on the bodies of several Viet Cong aboard identified the vessel as having come from North Viet Nam.

"The incident itself underlined in the most dramatic form that Hanoi is behind the continuing campaign of aggression aimed at conquering South Viet Nam," the report said.

In terrorist action in 1964, 436 South Viet Nam hamlet chiefs and other government officials were killed by the Viet Cong and 7,132 kidnapped. More than 2,250 civilians were killed in bombings and other acts of sabotage and at least 8,400 civilians were kidnapped by the Viet Cong.

A detailed examination was given of the political direction and control of the Viet Cong by the Communist party of North Viet Nam headed by Ho Chi Minh.

The report said the broad strategy of the movement to conquer South Viet Nam is the responsibility of a special reunification department within the central committee of the party. The central office for South Viet Nam is in Tay Ninh province and it has six regional units as well as the special zone of Saigon under its control.

Military affairs of the Viet Cong are the responsibility of the high command of the North Vietnamese army and defence ministry under close supervision from the Communist party headquarters.

Each military headquarters in six regions has a political commissar which assures political control over the military.

A Lift for Living

Learn Lesson From Children, 'Be Open to God's World'

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

Why are children likely to be more mentally alive than are their elders? Could it be because they have not yet allowed their minds to become overlaid with filmy insulation? Their awareness of the world around them has not been deadened by familiarity. Their curiosity has not yet been stifled by too much adult scoffing at childish questioning, and their capacity for wide-eyed wonder is not yet lessened by the busyness with little things that all too soon robs life of its hurry.

Watch a boy and his dog walk through the wintry woods. They take time to dawdle and to investigate the sights, sounds and smells that greet their senses on every hand. They trace a rabbit's tracks across the white alluvia. They snap to attention at the first sighting of a chestnut twig, for who knows what a rare delicacy it may be? And the instinctive scenting of their contents. They listen for clues that dinner is ready. They respond with delight to every word or gesture of affection.

Their inner joy gets expressed in the boy's excited talk and the dog's glad wagging of his "happy ending."

A little lad and his dog are open to the world. They keenly sense their surroundings, and something of the abundance of life within them makes it possible for a two-way current to flow from the world to them and from them to the world.

Children and their dogs teach us something of what we should be — uninsulated. If it is easy to disappoint them and make them sad, it is just as easy to make them happy. If they are quickly impressed by our harsh scoldings and punishments, they are as instantly responsive to our praise and kindness. This appreciation of the surrounding world, this aptness to experience, and this free-flow of good between the outside and the inner world are greatly needed by all of us. This kind of childlikeness is not childish. We become emotionally and spiritually insulated at our own peril.

FREELY AND MORE

The spiritually healthy person does not feel less grief, pain and discouragement than does his fellow man. He feels more, much more. He feels his own pain that of others around him, because he is not insulated against their feelings by his own self-centredness. He is open to their anguish. But within the vital person sense more of the world's trouble, he also feels more of the world's joy. His lack of selfish insulation leaves him open to the excitement and glory of another's achievement. His partaking of a neighbor's quiet pride in his home and of a friend's delight in his family and relishes with a fellow worker who received a raise in pay or an important promotion. Another's petite amusement becomes his own and he shares a smile or a laugh. He joins in another's prayer.

He takes time refusing to be "too busy" to read the great books and the Good Book to listen to the finest music to absorb the glories of nature to become slowly saturated with enriching friendships to converse with the Great Companion.

The childlike sense and spirit is like an alert youngster walking in the woods; the boy is in the woods but the woods is also in the boy. So with the fully alive soul; he is in God's world but the world of joys and sorrows, the world of man's need and God's power is in him too.

We need to strip ourselves of insulation that we may feel the electric surge of God's world moving in upon us and that the world might sense the response of our souls to its need.

singing something different from what we're singing."

Speeches along the same line by Reg Cafik (PC — Kindersley) and Douglas Allanbrook (PC — Prince Edward-Lennox) used up the hour set aside for private members' bills and thus prevented the matter from reaching a vote.

Mr. Macdonald had another complaint. There should be recognition, even if only secondary, for God Save the Queen. "A lot of us feel very deeply about that national anthem," he said.

There were two flags and two languages, so why not two anthems?

The pension plan debate was bogged down for 40 minutes on one clause that sets out the enforcement powers of the revenue minister. It allows inspectors to inspect or seize employers' records where evasion of payment is suspected.

After a string of Conservatives protested against the strength of the powers, the government agreed to have another look at them.

Revenue Minister Benson, piloting the bill through the House with Health Minister Judy LaMarsh, said the section actually is less powerful than similar provisions in the Income Tax Act. Honest businessmen had no objections to letting revenue department officials look at their books.

LIGHTNING IS FATAL

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—At least 12 persons were killed Friday night when a lightning bolt exploded a dynamite deposit near the mouth of a tunnel being built to connect Rio's north and south zones. More than 30 other persons were injured. Another lightning bolt struck nearby during the same thunderstorm, killing a 17-year-old girl and injuring four more people.

On man-made islands in the middle of the St. Lawrence River at Montreal, Canada will present Expo 67 from April 28th, 1967, to October 27th, 1967. The Fair will coincide with the celebration of the 100th anniversary of Confederation. The theme of the Fair will be "Man and his World." Many nations of the world will proclaim their faith in man — his achievements, his aspirations and his future — in a grand array of exhibits.

Three groups of Theme Builders will provide the setting with a presentation of the achievements of man to date and what man is likely to achieve in the future.

Habitat 67, a model community that supplies the answer to the problems of growing populations and dwindling land resources, will dominate Expo 67. It will serve as a memorial to Expo 67 in the years to come.

Place Des Nations will feature the flags of the world and the Pavilions of the Provinces of Canada will present intriguing exhibits of industries, science and arts.

The amusement area will be appropriately called the "Isle de Vivre". Special attractions will be added to the usual display of rides and exhibits. Nearby will be a modern marina with replicas of ancient ships at anchor.

The Special Events Areas will feature entertainment from all over the world. Outstanding theatrical companies of Canada, the United Kingdom, the United States, France and other nations will display their talents. Operas and ballets will be performed, concerts will be given. Star personalities will perform in an island theatre 60 feet from Expo's shore.

A 25,000 - seat stadium will be built for Expo 67 for international sports meets, ice shows, rodeos, and other events to be featured here.

All through the Expo site will be lakes, lagoons and canals swarming with water taxis, Venetian gondolas, sampans, Mexican flower barges and other forms of "aqua-tation".

The two main parking areas set aside at Expo 67 will accommodate over 24,000 cars. These parking lots will be carefully supervised at all times.

The Alaska Highway is reported to be in fair condition, although slippery in some spots. Motorists are advised that this time of year, moose are crossing the highway in search of grasses. Major league baseball may have missed a Canadian Mickey Mantle. Otherwise Canadian football gained itself a top-ranking star.

Tommy Grant, star halfback of the Hamilton Tiger Cats, voted best Canadian player of 1964, prefers baseball to football.

TOMMY GRANT

The personable 29-year-old Jungle Cat played minor professional baseball for a year before joining the monied ranks of the pigskin brigade.

I talked with Tommy at a Hotel Quinte luncheon, hosted by George "Mickey" MacDonald, manager of the H. Corby Distillery.

Tommy is the newest addition to the Corby's sales staff, taking over the Hamilton territory. He was here with representatives from Charlottetown, Fredericton, Moncton, St. Catharines and Hamilton who took a course in "product knowledge."

The curly-haired Tiger-Cat speedster is "small" for his size. There is nothing of the heavily muscled Brobdingnagian usually associated with pro footballers about him. Size-wise he would not merit a second glance on the street.

Windsor-born Tommy learned his football and baseball in the border city. He starred in both sports and he caught the eye of major baseball league scouts. He was an outfielder of the Manila type.

"I played a year with a minor pro team," Tommy said, "but it seemed to me to be a long way before one got into the big money.

"Reluctantly I tossed away the fielder's mitt and signed with a pro football team. I'm not sorry—that is, until I would rather play baseball."

Tommy predicted the Tiger-Cats will go all the way.

"What, without Faloney?"

"Faloney is a great quarterback," he said, "but the Tigers won't miss him as much as a lot of people think they will. Frank Cosentino and Joe Zagar are highly capable quarters and will fill Bernie's shoes with no loss to the club."

"With respect to Faloney," Tommy said, "it's about time Canadian football clubs started to get rid of some of the deadwood. There are a number of young Canadian players who will fill the bill if they are given a chance."

In 1960 Gary Schrieder, Bobby Simpson and Dave Brancato of the Ottawa Rough Riders attempted to form a players' association with its aim and object, more pay for semi-finals, finals, Grey Cup and exhibitions. It was turned down flat with the Toronto Argonauts leading the way.

Dick Shatto of the Argos is reportedly trying to form a similar organization.

How about that? Tommy was asked.

"It doesn't mean a thing," he said. "In fact the idea is crazy—and it won't get anywhere."

"American imports," he said, "couldn't care less. They come here with top-bracket salaries, make what they can and go back to the United States clubs. What do they care?"

Tommy was voted the Best Canadian Player in the CFL last year. The ten-year gridiron veteran said he liked the trophy, "but the $1,250 cheque that went with it looked a lot better."

Tommy agrees with the move to bring players more money in playoffs, semi-finals and finals, but don't think any movement on the part of the players will accomplish anything.

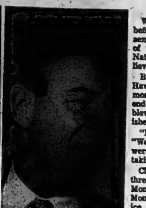
And he is strong in his belief that more Canadians should be given the opportunity to play professional football.

Canadian teams do not have a farm system like baseball and hockey clubs. The Tiger-Cats, however, "sponsor" one or two high school teams but this is more of the grand gesture rather than promoting a "feed-box" for the club.

In his new "civilian" capacity Tommy will likely replace the Tiger-Cats famous "Oskewawa" with another greeting.

"Say Corby's."

Pressure On Hawks



Top Four Share Belief-Finish Tops

Tight Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

TOE BLAKE

PUNCH IMLACH

With more than a month to go before the start of Stanley Cup semi-final playoffs, the coaches of the first four teams in the National Hockey League all believe they can finish first.

Billy Reay, Chicago Black Hawk coach, probably feels the most front-office pressure to end up on top because his team blew a lead last season and finished second.

"It's a rough go," Reay says. "We're right back where we were last year. Everybody's taking a run at us."

Chicago, leading the league by three points, plays second-place Montreal Canadiens tonight in Montreal and Boston on home ice Sunday.

Montreal coach Toe Blake says he needs a better performance from the line of Jean Beliveau, Dick Duff and Bobby Rousseau if Canadiens are to finish first.

"With all three centres going, we can make it awful tough for the other first-place contender," he says. Beliveau has 22 points in the 44 games he has played and the big centre appears headed for his worst season since joining the NHL 12 years ago.

SCORING LESS

Rousseau has nine goals and 26 assists in 52 games although he averaged 22 goals a season over the last three years.

Canadiens move to Detroit Sunday where they have yet to win a home game against the Red Wings.

Detroit coach Sid Abel believes the Wings have to win both weekend home games against Boston and Montreal if the team is to move up in the league.

After the weekend, Wings go on the road and play only one game in the following seven at home where they have been so successful. Despite relative slowing-down by top Detroit scorer Norm Ullman, Wings have kept in the running because of improved second halves by Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio.

Coach Punch Imlach of Toronto Maple Leafs believes the battle for first place will be a tight race to the end "but we'll finish in first place." Leafs play New York Rangers in Toronto tonight in the first of home-and-home games.

THE FOR THIRD

Toronto and Detroit are tied for third place with 62 points. One bright development for last season's Stanley Cup winners is improved play by Frank Mahovlich.

Toronto's top scorer last year seems headed for another 30-goal year after pulling out of a slump which began after he returned to play following the month's absence before Christmas when he was in hospital for a mysterious ailment.

Montreal, with two games in hand on Chicago, has a 2-4-2 record against the league leaders, breaking even 2-2-1 at home and ahead 3-2-1 in Chicago.

Coach Reay says Bobby Hull, stalled at 38 goals in his drive to set a record, is unlikely starter. Hull has not skated all week and has missed seven of the last nine. Hawk games because of knee injuries.

Two-Goalie System

Toe Blake Not Convinced

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Toe Blake of Montreal Canadiens now is using the two-goalie system as much as anyone in the National Hockey League, but he still isn't convinced it's the right answer in every case.

"If I had a young and hungry netminder, I wouldn't worry about alternating him," he said Friday. "In fact, I'd be afraid it would hurt him."

Canadiens' current netminders may or may not be hungry, but Charlie Hodge, 31, and Gump Worsley, 36, certainly—aren't young. As a result, Blake has been alternating them for the last six weeks on a "play-as-long-as-you-win" basis.

Blake had not previously been impressed with the two-goalie idea but switched to it after Hodge, who played 34 of Montreal's first 35 games and led all NHL netminders at the halfway mark, suffered a bad letdown.

LITTLE DIFFERENCE

Since then Worsley has played in 14 contests and Hodge in nine. There's little difference in their goals - against averages with both near the 2.50 mark.

Since Boston Bruins were forced to bring up Jack Norris when Ed Johnston was injured, Detroit Red Wings now is the only team still using a single netminder, rookie Roger Crozier.

In Toronto, veterans Johnny Bower and Terry Sawchuk, the current Vezina Trophy leaders, each have played 28 of the Leafs' 56 games. Glenn Hall and Denis DeJordy are almost as close in Chicago, while Jacques Plante has played only eight games more than Marcel Paille for New York.

Bower says, except Boston where Norris has not fared too well, there is less than a half goal's difference between the performance of the two goalies.

Warren Spahn is half a holdout.

The 43-year-old pitcher, who has gone from his worst year in the major leagues to the worst team in the major leagues, arrived at New York Mets' spring training camp in St. Petersburg, Fla., Friday and promptly took part in two meetings.

The first he was Spahn, the pitcher, and in the second he was Spahn, the coach. The Mets purchased the veteran southpaw from Milwaukee Braves last November, planning to use him in both capacities.

However, Spahn has not agreed to terms for the 1965 season.

"I'm not a holdout as a coach, just as a pitcher," Spahnie said smiling.

Spahn conferred with Mets' vice-president Johnny Murphy but said afterward the discussion was not his contract.

Following that meeting, Spahn went into a one-hour session with manager Casey Stengel and the rest of the coaching staff.

DIFFERENCES MINOR

Spahn said his contractual differences with the Mets are minor and he expects to reach an agreement soon after Mets' president George Weiss arrives in camp.

Meanwhile, Stengel is looking forward to an improved pitching staff, at least from the left side, with Spahn as a coach.

At the Detroit camp Friday, outfielders Al Kaline, Gates Brown and Willie Horton, catcher Bill Freehan and a number of rookies took early batting practice.

Ken McMullen joined Washington Senators for some work at third base under coach Eddie Yost while New York Yankees Tony Kubek and Tom Tresh decided to work out for two weeks even though they supposedly were only visiting the camp.

Coach, Okay-Pitcher, How Much?

Mets' Spahn Said Half Holdout

Playoffs Start April 1

MONTREAL (CP) — Stanley Cup semi - final playoffs will open Thursday, April 1, on the home ice of the first- and second-place finishers in the final National Hockey League standings, an NHL spokesman said today.

The two semi-finals and the final, all best-of-seven series, then will proceed according to last year's format with games on Saturday or Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday until winners are decided.

The latest-possible playing date, should both a semi-final and the final go the full seven games, would be Sunday, May 2.

Under the playoff system, the first-place finisher meets the third-place team in one semi-final, while the runnerup in the final standings takes on the fourth-place team in the other. Winners of these series advance to the final.

Normal procedure is to play the first two games on the home ice of the top-ranked finisher, then switch to the other city for the next two. The fifth, sixth and seventh games, if necessary, switch back and forth with the first- or second-place team getting the odd game.

Current NHL standings show Chicago Black Hawks in first place, followed by Montreal Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs in that order. Those four teams have the playoff spots all but clinched, but their order of finish is anything but settled.

Olympics Schedule Announced

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A full schedule of events for the 1968 Olympics, with most of the sites selected, has been announced by the Mexican Olympic committee.

The first step of planning is completed, Gen. J. J. Clark Flores, head of the committee, said Friday.

Clark Flores said that not new major sports events will be built, as present centres are generally adequate. Some would be expanded and improved.

He said a sports palace and an Olympic village must be built, and these already are under study.

Clark Flores also announced that proposals to include baseball and bowling on the games program have been rejected as they are not Olympic sports. He said only 20 nations play baseball, and bowling is considered recreation—not a sport.

Two Share Downhill Ski Title

THETFORD MINES, Que. (CP)—Scott Henderson of Sault, Alta., and Gerry Rinaldi of Kimberley, B.C., tied for the men's downhill title Friday while Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., breezed to victory by nearly eight seconds in the women's division as the Canadian senior ski championships got under way on tricky Mount Adstock.

Both Henderson and Rinaldi finished two downhill runs on the short but treacherous course with a combined time of two minutes, 18.1 seconds. Miss Greene's combined time was 2:25.2, second behind runner-up Vicki Rutledge of Ottawa.

Danny Irwin of Fort William placed eighth with 2:31.3. Rik Gougeon of Sudbury was 16th in 2:35.2 and Ken Crompton of Port Arthur 17th in 2:36.8.

Crothers Shoots For Mark

BALTIMORE (AP) — An international field headed by Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont., will lead an assault on the record books tonight in the 19th Sunsperes All - Eastern indoor games.

Crothers had hoped to take aim on the world indoor mark for 600 yards at the Knights of Columbus meet in New York Thursday, but a snowstorm grounded him in Toronto.

The banked track in Baltimore's civic centre is not as fast as the boards in New York's Madison Square Garden, so the prospect of Crothers bettering the mark of 1:08.2 is dim.

But the Ontario pharmacist, who has won seven races this season and now is fully recovered from a chest infection, is a definite threat to crack the meet record of 1:11.4 set by George Rhoden in 1951 and equalled in 1952. It's the oldest all-eastern mark on the books.

The chief opposition for Crothers in the 600 will be Poland's Andrzej Badenski, who won in New York Thursday in 1:12.4.

Golfer, 54, Shoots Four Under Par

He was two strokes in front of a field of around 400 entries and three strokes ahead of Sam Snead, defending champion and strong favorite.

Win 5-3; Petes Beaten

Habs Crimp Marlie Plans

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Time is running out for Toronto Marlboros as playoff time in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series approaches.

Marlboros, who lost 5-3 to Montreal Junior Canadiens Friday night, saw their chances to pass league - leading Niagara Falls Flyers dwindle to four games. The Marlboros have to close a gap that widened to six points a week ago when third-place Peterborough Petes 3-1 The Flyers also have four games remaining.

Canadiens' win moves them within four points of fourth-place Oshawa Generals. Oshawa has four games left and Montreal six. Peterborough remains in third place, 10 points behind Toronto.

Christian Bordelean scored twice for the Junior Canadiens and assisted on two other goals. Don Liesmer, Lucien Grenier and Rene Droiet added the others. Toronto scorers were Al Dawson, Paul Laurent and Mike Byers.

The Flyers, who need only a win or a tie combined with a Toronto loss to clinch the league title, scored one in each period on goals by Gilles Marotte, Rosaire Paiement and Brian Bradley. Garry Monahan got the Petes' goals when a stray Niagara Falls pass landed on his stick in the Flyers' zone.

Russian 'Seconds' Beat Canada 'Bs'

Score Was 5-1

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP) — Russia trounced Canada 5-1 in a fast, hard - hitting hockey game played before a sellout crowd of about 13,000 at Lenin Stadium Friday night.

Both teams are second-string to the teams that will represent the respective countries at the world championships at Tampere, Finland, March 4-14.

Russia scored two goals in the first and third periods and one in the second. The Canadians, now completing a European tour that previously took them to Sweden and Finland, scored their goal in the first period.

The Russian team, superbly conditioned and containing mostly young players with sights trained on the, national team, outskated the Canadians, who appeared to have trouble getting their plays organized.

Goalie Don Collins, a native of Winnipeg, was brilliant for Canada. Collins, who has played with Winnipeg Maroons since 1959, kicked out or caught numerous Russian drives that might have counted as goals. Collins, 31, is scheduled to play in the Tampere tournament.

Defenceman Tom Marshall, 22-year-old Manitou, Man., native, who isn't scheduled to go to Tampere, scored Canada's goal, driving in a low shot from the blueline after taking a pass-back from forward Tom Rendall.

The Canadians play the Russians again here Sunday, and then play in Leningrad Monday.

Apple Kings Bow to Picton 5-3

TRENTON (Special) — Picton Merchants scored the team's two final goals and that was the margin of victory as they nipped the Trenton Apple Kings 5-3 in Cobourg last night.

The win gave Picton a 3-1 lead in their OHA Eastern Junior "C" group semi-finals. The fourth game will also be played in Cobourg, at 8:30 Monday night.

Last night's tilt was a tight one. Picton led 1-0 after one period. Trenton tied it early in the third but the Merchants potted two more for a 3-1 lead going into the final period.

The Apple Kings answered the challenge with goals at 2:16 and 7:46 to deadlock matters at 3-3.

The tie was shortlived. At 9:33, Ernie Sharpe scored on Ron Riley's pass, accounting for the winning marker. Harold Haddock, who fired six goals in the previous night, added the clincher at 18:42, assisted by Paul Jones.

Bart Frederick, Gary Hasnel and Haddock had netted Picton's first three goals.

Les Genereaux, Rick O'Donnell and Gord Stevenson were the Trenton marksmen, in that order.

For the second night in a row the Apple Kings outshot Picton but found Larry Holmes playing his usual great game in the winners' nets. Ken Fanhs was also busy in the Trenton cage. The total shots were 45-39.

Picton drew 19 penalties in the rugged game but all were minors.

Syracuse Suspensions

Eastern Prexy Blasts CAHA

WELCOME TO THE CLUB — Corby's Distillery manager George MacDonald welcomes Tommy Grant, named "Best Canadian Football Player of 1964," to his sales staff. Tommy is a star half-back of the Hamilton Tiger Cats.

OTTAWA (CP)—Al Taylor, president of the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Senior A hockey league, said Friday the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has apparently failed to enforce its regulation to suspend players or teams who play for or against Syracuse Stars.

Only the Ottawa - St. Lawrence League has abided by the rule, which was unanimously passed at a meeting of the CAHA in Winnipeg in late January and since cost three of the league's clubs two players, each.

The clubs are Ottawa Senior Montagnards, Kingston and Morrisburg. Syracuse in recent years has been a sore spot for both the CAHA and its United States counterpart.

Since the ruling was put into effect, all Ontario Provincial League teams have played the Stars without punishment.

Caracas Golf

Ellis Takes Over Lead

CARACAS (AP) — Wes Ellis of West Caldwell, N.J., fired a four - under - par 68 Friday, storming into a two-stroke lead at the halfway point of the Caracas Open golf tournament, the third stop on the Caribbean tour.

Ellis, currently leading in the point standings with a second-place finish at Panama and a fourth at Nassau, finished strong in the second round with three birdies on the back nine holes. His 36, coupled with Thursday's 68, gave him an over-all total of 134.

That put Ellis two strokes up on Al Besselink of Grossinger, N.Y., who also shot a 66 for a 136 total. The third 66 of the day went to Jim Ferree of Corona, Calif., who had 137 for two rounds.

George Knudson of Toronto, defending Caracas titlist, and Art Wall of Pocona Manor, Pa., defending tour champion, were lodged in a tie for seventh with par 140s. Knudson shot a 71 and Wall a 72.

Harry McIlree of Hamilton added a 71 to Thursday's 70 for 141.

Wilf Homeniuk of Winnipeg had 73-68—142.

Juniors Meet Peterborough In Playoffs

Now it is definite.

Belleville "B"'s meet Peterborough Doc Byes in the OHA Eastern Junior "B" group semi-finals, while Kingston Frontenacs draw a bye into the finals.

Peterborough's last hopes of a first-place finish were erased last night when Weston defeated Gary Darling's boys 6-1, in Weston.

The semi-final is a best-of-five affair with the Belleville - Peterborough tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon at 5:00 o'clock.

Belleville also plays the second game in Peterborough at eight o'clock Wednesday night.

The third game is scheduled for Memorial Arena here next Friday night, at nine o'clock. If a fourth game is necessary, it too will be played in Belleville on the following Monday. A fifth game would be either in Peterborough or Cobourg.

A ten-minute overtime period will be played if the clubs are tied at the end of regulation play. If still tied after that, each club will take a point. No overtime was used during schedule play this winter.

Belleville coach Gordie Bell hopes to have a full lineup out for tomorrow's opener. Wayne Brant will be his goalie and included on the front line will be Bill Lang, home after a few months stay in the United States.

Playoff games were played in the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's novice and tyke divisions here last night.

TYKE

Canadiens nipped the Hawks in a 3-1 affair. Bruce Sutherland scored both Canadiens' goals. Roger Capman was the lone Hawk marksman.

Wings defeated the Bruins 5-2. John Ross opened and closed the Wing scoring, sandwiching his pair of goals around slingshots by Hugh Bennett, Tom Manley and Claude Langlois. John Ashley scored both Bruin counters.

Rangers shaded the Leafs in another close game, 3-2. Mike Taylor, John Gibson and Larry Walls had the Ranger goals. Both goal counters came from the stick of Peter Crawford.

NOVICE

Both novice games ended in shutouts. Hawks blanked the Canadiens 2-0 and Generals whitewashed the Wings 4-0.

John Sprackett scored both goals in the Hawks' triumph.

Kevin Joudrey starred for De Generals with three markers. Mark Rollins fired the other tally.

Gomer Pyle-Carter Feud Best Since Quirt-Flagg

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A principal reason for this season's success of the Gomer Pyle—USMC television series is the hot and cold war between Gomer and Sgt. Carter, possibly the best military feud since Quirt and Flagg of What Price Glory.

They make a prize pair—the ingenuous trouble-magnet Gomer as played by Jim Nabors and the harassed sarge, etched in stone-born by Frank Sutton.

Like Jim, the pride of Sylacauga, Ala., Frank is a south erner, from Clarksville, Tenn. Unlike Jim, who has been in show business barely two years, Frank is an acting veteran.

"It started as far back as junior high school, when I appeared in a YMCA play entitled, Romance in the Boarding House," he recalls. "I got my first line switched, and it was a big laugh. Everything I did drew laughs, and I was hooked. After that, my friends knew me as 'The Actor.'"

Frank did some radio announcing before entering military service in the second World War — not, ironically enough, in the Marines but in the army.

After the war, he studied drama at Columbia University and tried the theatre and television. His luck was sometimes good, sometimes ill.

"I don't know how I would have survived except for my wife, who was willing to work and help support us," said Frank. Survive he did, plodding through dreary afternoon television dramas while waiting for stage roles to come along. He generally was cast several decades older than his real age—"I lost an inch of hairline from getting that white stuff on my hair."

Eventually his roles caught up with his age, and he was able to make a respectable living as a character actor. Sgt. Carter was largely an accident. Gomer mentor Aaron Rubin liked his reading of the role. "I had never done comedy before," said Frank. "If he had seen what I had done, I probably never would have been given the role."

VETERAN STAR

Sidney Blackmun, a leading man in films in the late '40s and most recently in the movie, How to Murder Your Wife, has been a film actor for 35 years.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For February 28

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Friends are co-operative, offer suggestions. But those proposals are not apt to be practical. Utilize your own talents, ideas. Stress innate independence, originality.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Be willing to do a "little extra." Ordinarily this is a day of rest. But not so for you! One in authority due to ask for help. Show you are responsible and sincere.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): Be sure of facts. Read, study — be aware of future indications and trends. Far out ideas could backfire. Important to finish what you start. Then relax with one you love.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22): Open your mind to new horizons. Peek into areas previously dark. Heed words of spiritual advisor. Money question will be settled. Avoid travel that is not necessary.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22): Be aware of possible upsets . . . including marriage. Don't act in manner to offend one close to you. Your desire for the spotlight could create controversy. Slow down!

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Key is tact. Be especially considerate of colleague. You are asked special favor. Comply within reason. Obtain valid hint from today's Gemini messages.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Concentrate upon loved ones. Emphasis on recreation, creative activities. Member of opposite sex figures prominently. Be aware of health, diet, needed rest period.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Be aware of problems at home. Don't go too far afield. Some changes are necessary. They involve duties, procedures, procedures. Put facts on line. Then air is clear!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Spotlight on relations with family members. Obtain hint from today's Gemini and Virgo messages. Special communication affects domestic activity. Be ready!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Be generous but not extravagant. Display interest in money arrangement offered by mate or partner. But do not commit yourself. Be gracious but firm. Attend church of choice.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Cycle continues high. Be a pace-setter. Speak from the heart. Obtain valuable hint from today's Capricorn message. Heed suggestions concerning wardrobe.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Abrupt changes due in connection with assignments, organizations. Be willing to drop past — in favor of future opportunity. Good for long-range plans too! Mental energy high.

If today is your birthday . . . you are dynamic, creative individual with highly original ideas. Strive for mature approach.

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Aquarius, Pisces, Aries. Special word to Pisces: Don't be upset by sudden events. Take them in stride!

For March 1

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Promise others no friend very important. You may have forgotten. But today you receive reminder. Much on your side. Give in order to gain. Strive for understanding.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Career aspects emphasized. Avoid being a clock watcher. Give your all in personal life, help one in need. Make Golden Rule a vital factor. Be strong, dignified.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): Time for discoveries. You learn, break ground for adventure. Finally you shake off emotional lethargy. Vital day. You are active, responsive, intellectual level high!

Cancer (June 21 to July 23): Study investment possibilities. Mate or partner offers suggestion. But be hard-nosed counsel. Your intuitive intellect spells true story. Know this — act accordingly.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22): Fine for improving public image. You recently made challenging statements. Do your best to verify beliefs. Make amends. Be considerate, reasonable.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Be aware of minor points. Key is observing — be very perceptive. Be there "in person." Do not delegate basic duties. Make a pest of yourself, if necessary!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Work week starts with plenty of action! There is change, possible travel. Your ideas are sought. Your suggestions put to use. Have facts at hand.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Decision necessary regarding future plans, security. Realize grass not necessarily greener for others. Best to stick with the familiar. Remember past favors — be loyal.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Evaluate messages, statements. There appears to be activity which is "secret." Do some quiet investigating. Avoid superficial judgments. Be objective.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Gain indicated. Your statements, ideas ring bell of truth. You are better able to cash in on judgment. Fine for investing in future. Be aware of potential!

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Prestige increases. But best not to depend upon praise of others. Keep both feet on ground. You succeed — but not alone. You do need co-operation, love.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Recent lesson has matured you. Now, toss trouble to winds. Strive for greater understanding. Be independent. Refuse to whine — or accept defeat. Then you win!

If today is your birthday . . . you are combination of poet and fighter. You are basically loyal — and will fight for principles.

General Tendencies: There are shake-ups in high places. Controversy revives connected with written word.

Unusual Opportunity

High commission earnings with a growing 51 year old company selling Kimberly Goodyear rubber shoe products. Real Towne earned over $10,000 last year. Not indicative of potential! In last year A.M.F. has established 1,000 new dealers. Many more needed in this brand line. No investment required. We take care of all financing, billing, shipping — and collections. Start on part time basis if you like.
